"THE BEST ENGLISH DICTIONARY EXTANT."
every Man Everywhere.
"Here are upwards of a Hundred Thousand Words, whose multifarious meanings and derivations, together with their correct spelling, and pronunciation are clearly set before the eye."
Cincinnati Commercial.
Read the Decisions of the Members of the Ohio State Teacher's Association.
The undersigned, members of the Ohio State Teachers' Association, adopt and aim to use in teaching, writing and speaking, the orthography and pronunciation of Worcester's Royal Quarto Dictionary, and we most cordially recommend it as the most reliable standard authority of the English language, as it is now written and spoken.
LORIN ANDREWS, President Kenyon College.

S. C. CRUMBAUGH, Prof. Language, High School Dayton.
S. M. BARBER, Sup't Union Schools, Ashland.
More than Six Hundred other Presidents of Colleges, Professors, Authors and Distinguished Educators, have endorsed the above sentiment.

PRESIDENTS OF COLLEGES IN OHIO.
MARIETTA COLLEGE—"It is truly a magnificent work an honor to the author, the publishers, and the whole country."—President Andrews.
OHIO WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY—"It exceeds my expectations. It will be my guide in orthography and pronunciation, and will often be consulted to me for its neat and accurate definitions."—President Thompson.
W. R. ECLECTIC COLLEGE—"Heretofore we have used Webster's orthography. At a recent meeting of our Faculty, it was decided to change it to conform to that of Worcester's Royal Quarto Dictionary."—President Garfield.
WESTERN RESERVE COLLEGE.—"I find it worthy of cordial appreciation."—President Hitchcock.
OBERLIN COLLEGE—"It more than meets my expectations. I recommend it as the standard authority in orthoepy to my children and my pupils."—President Morgan.
ANTIOCH COLLEGE.—"I adopt and aim to use in teaching, writing and speaking, the orthography and pronunciation of Worcester's Royal Quarto Dictionary."—President Hill.
"In all my writing, speaking, and teaching, I have endeavored to conform to the rules for orthography and pronunciation as contained in Worcester's Dictionary."—Horace Mann, late President.
KENYON COLLEGE, GAMBIER.—"I most cordially recommend it as the most reliable standard authority of the English language as it is now written and spoken."—President Andrews.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS OF OHIO.
From Rev. Anson Smyth, Commissioner of Common Schools in Ohio.
"The Dictionary is an imperishable monument to the learning and industry of its author, and an honor to the world of letters. The mechanical execution is far superior to that of any other Lexicon with which I am acquainted."
From Hon. H. H. Barney, Ex-Commissioner of Schools in Ohio.
"The most reliable standard authority of the language."
WHAT THE Leading Newspapers of Ohio Say.
From the Cleveland Herald of March 28.
The orthography of the Worcester Dictionary is that used by most, if not all authors of distinction in this country and England, and conforms to the general usage of ordinary writers and speakers.
Whatever prejudices may have existed previously, a careful study of this volume will invariably be followed by a warm appreciation of its great merits, and a desire to add it to the well selected library, be it large or small. It is a library in itself, and will remain an imperishable record of the learning of its compiler.
From the Cincinnati Commercial of April 20.
Here are upwards of a hundred thousand words—good, bad and indifferent—whose multifarious meanings and derivations, together with their correct spelling and pronunciation, are set clearly before the eye. The work is unquestionably the greatest Thesaurus of English Words ever published.
From the Cleveland Plaindealer of Sept. 20, 1860.
Evidently WORCESTER'S ROYAL QUARTO DICTIONARY is not only the last, but the best work of the kind ever issued, and can by no possibility suffer by comparison or controversy.
From the Toledo Blade of May 29.
AS TO PRONUNCIATION, WORCESTER IS THE STANDARD followed by our best authors; in definitions he leaves nothing to be desired, and in ORTHOGRAPHY it is sufficient to say that WORCESTER can be safely followed.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation; indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."
Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which renders the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.
One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in
AYER'S
Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla,
the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this everywhere prevailing and fatal malady. It is compounded from the most active remedials that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only Scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as ERUPTIVE and SKIN DISEASES, ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, ROSE, or ERYSIPELAS, PIMPLES, PUSTULES, BLOTCHES, BLAINS and BOILS, TUMORS, TETTER and SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, RINGWORM, INDIGESTION, SYPHILITIC and MERCURIAL DISEASES, DROPSY, DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, and, indeed, ALL COMPLAINTS ARISING FROM VITIATED OR IMPURE BLOOD. The popular belief in "purifying the blood" is founded in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.
AYER'S
Ague Cure,
FOR THE SPEEDY CURE OF
Intermittent Fever, or Fever and Ague, Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilious Headache, and Bilious Fevers, indeed the whole class of diseases originating in Biliary Derangement, common by the Miasma of Miasmatic Countries.
We are enabled here to offer the community a remedy which, while it cures the above complaints with certainty, is still perfectly harmless in any quantity. Such a remedy is invaluable in districts where these afflicting disorders prevail. This "Cure" expels the miasmatic poison of FEVER AND AGUE from the system, and prevents the development of the disease, if taken on the first approach of its premonitory symptoms. It is not only the best remedy ever yet discovered for this class of complaints, but also the cheapest. The large quantity we supply for a dollar brings it within the reach of all purses, and in bilious districts, where CHILLS AND AGUE prevails, every body should have it at hand ready both for cure and protection. A great superiority of this remedy over any other ever discovered for the speedy and certain cure of Intermittents is that it contains no Quinine or mineral, consequently produces no quinism or other injurious effects whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are left as healthy as if they had never had the disease.
Fever and Ague is not alone the consequence of the miasmatic poison. A great variety of disorders arise from its irritation, among which are Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Toothache, Blindness, Tic-Doloreux, Colic, Asthma, Palpitation of the Heart, Affection of the Spleen, Hysterics, Pain in the Bones, Color, Paralysis and Dropsy, and many others, all of which, when induced by the miasmatic poison, put on the intermittent type, and are periodical. This "Cure" expels the poison from the blood, and consequently cures them all alike. It is an invaluable protection to immigrants and persons travelling or temporarily residing in the malarious districts. If taken occasionally or daily while exposed to the infection, it will be expelled from the system, and cannot accumulate in sufficient quantity to ripen into disease. Hence it is even more valuable for protection than cure, so that those who will ever suffer from Intermittents may assure themselves of the protection this remedy affords.

[From Vanity Fair.]
Artemus Ward Sees the Prince Napoleon.
Notwitstandin I hain't writ much for the papers of late, nobody needn't flatter themselves that the undersigned is ded. On the contrary, "I still live," which words was spoken by Danyil Webster, who was a able man. Even the old-line whigs of Boston will admit that. Webster is ded now, howsever, and his mantle has probly fallen into the hands of some dealer in 2nd hand close, who can't sell it. Leastways nobody pears to be goin round wearin it to any particler extent, now days. The regiment of whom I was kurnal finerly concinded they was better adapted as Home Guards, which accounts for you not bearin of me, ear this, where the balls are thickest and where the cannon doth roar. But as a American citizen I shall never cease to admire the master by advance our troops made on Washinton from Bull Run, a short time ago. It was well dun. I spoke to my wife 'bout it at the time. My wife sed it was well done.
It havin thered bin detarmined to pertect Baldinsville at all hazuds, and as there was no apprehensions of immejit danger, I thought I would go off onto a pleasure tower. Accordinly I put on a clean Biled Shirt and started for Washinton. I went there to see the Prints Napoleon, and not to see the place, which I will here take occasion to observe is about as uninterest in locality as there is this side of J. Davis's futer home, if he ever does die, and where I reckon they'll make it so warm for him that he will si for his summer close. It is easy enuff to see why a man goes to the poor house or the penitentiary. Its becaws he can't help it. But why he should voluntarily go and live in Washinton, is entirely beyond my comprehension, and I can't say no falrer nor that.
I put up to a leadin hotel. I saw the landlord and sed, "How d'ye do, Squire?"
"Fifty cents, sir," was his reply.
"Sir?"
"Half a-dollar. We charge twenty-five cents for lookin at the landlord and fifty cents for speakin to him. If you want supper, a boy will show you to the dinin room for twenty-five cents. Your room bein in the tenth story, it will cost you a dollar to be shown up there."
"How much do you ax a man for breathing in this equinomikal tavun?" sed I.
"Ten cents a breth," was his reply.
Washinton hotels is very reasonable in their charges. [N B—This is Sarkasum.]
I sent up my keard to the Prints, and was immejitly ushered before him. He received me kindly and axed me to sit down.
"I have cum to pay my respecks to you Mister Napoleon, hopin to see you hale and harty."
"I am quite well," he sed. "Ain you well, sir?"
"Sound as a cuss!" I answered.
He seemed to be pleased with my ways, and we entered into conversation to onci.
"How's Lewis?" I axed, and he sed the Emperor was well. Eugeny was likewise well, he sed. Then I asked him was Lewis a good provider? did he cum home airly nites? did he perfoom her bed room at a onseasonable hour with gin and tanzy? Did he go to "the Lodge" on nites when there wasn't any Lodge? did he often hav to go down town to meet a friend? did he hav a extensiv acquaintance among poor young widders whose husbans was in Californy? to all of which questions the Prints perlitely replide, giving me to understan that the Emperor was behavin well.
"I ax these questions, my royal duke and most noble highness and imperials, becaws I'm anxious to know how he stands as a man. I know he's smart. He is cunnin, he is long-headed, he is deep—he is grate. But onless he is good he'll come down with a crash one of these days, and the Bonypart will be Bustid up agin. Bet yer life!"
"Air you a preacher, sir?" he inquired, slitaly sarkasticul.
"No, sir. But I believe in morality. I likewise believe in Meetin Houses. Show me a place where there isn't any Meetin Houses and where preachers is never seen, and I'll show you a place where old hats air stuffed into broken winders, where the children air dirty and ragged, whose gates hav no hinges, where the slimin air slip-shod, and where maps of the devil's 'wild land' air painted upon men's shirt-bosums with tobacco jooce! That's what I'll show you. Let us consider what the preachers do for us before we aboose 'em."
He sed he didn't mean to aboose the clergy. Not at all, and he was happy to see that I was interested in the Bonypart family.
"It's a grate family," sed I. "But they scooped the old man in."
"How, sir?"
"Napoleon the Grand. The Britishers scooped him at Waterloo. He wanted to do too much, and he did it! They scooped him in at Waterloo, and he subsekently died at St. Heleny! There's where the gratest military man this world ever projuced pegged out. It was rather hard to consine such a man as him to St. Heleny, to spend his larst days in catchin mackeral, and walkin up and down the dreary beach in a military cloak drawn titely round him (see picter-books), but so it was. 'Hed of the Army!' Them was his larst words. So he had bin. He was grate! Don't I wish we had a pair of his old boots to command sum of our Brigades!"
This pleased Jerome, and he took me warmly by the hand.
"Alixander the Grate was punkins," I continued, "but Napoleon was punkinser! Alic wept becaws there was no more worlds to scoop, and then took to drinkin. He drowndid his sorrers in the flowin bole, and the flowin bole was too much for him. Is gingrally is. He undertook to give a snake exhibishun in his boots, but it killed him. That was a bad joke for Alic!"
"Since you air so solicitous about France and the Emperor, may I ask you how your own country is getting along?" sed Jerome, in a pleasant voice.
"It's mixed," I sed. "But I think we shall cum out all right."
"Columbus, when he diskivord this magnificent continent, could have had no idee of the grandeur it would one day assoom," sed the Prints.
"It cost Columbus twenty thousand dollars to fit out his exploring expedition," sed I. "If he had bin a sensible man, he'd hav put the money in a hoss railroad or a gas company, and left this magnificent continent to the intelligent savages, who, when they got hold of a good thing, knew enuff to keep it, and who wouldn't hav seceded, nor rebelled, nor knockt Liberty in the hed with a slungshot. Columbus wasn't much of a feller, after all. It would hav bin money in my pocket if he'd staid to hum.—Chris went well, but he put his foot in it when he sailed for America."
We talked sum more about matters and things, and at larst I rose to go. "I will now say good bye to you, noble sir, and good luck to you. Likewise the same to Clotilde. Also to the gorgeous persons which compose your suite. If the Emperor's boy don't like living in the Tooleries, when he gits older, and would like to embark in the show business, let him com with me and I'll make a man of him.—You find us sumwhat mixed, as I before observed, but cum agin next year and you'll find us clearer nor ever. Then advise him to keep away from the Peter Funks auctions of the East, and the proprietors of corner-lots in the West. I bid him farewell, and went away.
Yours muchly,
WARD,
(Artemus.)

The arsenal in Indianapolis will commence operations for General Fremont, on Monday next, and will turn out one hundred thousand cartridges a day from that time forward.

Papa, What is a Newspaper!
Organs that gentlemen play, my boy,
To answer the taste of the day, my boy,
Whatever it be,
They hit on the key,
And pipe in full concert away, my boy.
News from all countries and climes, my boy,
Advertisements, essays and rhymes, my boy,
Mixed up with all sorts
Of (lying) reports,
And published at regular times, my boy.
Articles able and wise, my boy,
At least in the editor's eyes, my boy,
And logic so grand
That few understand
To what in the world it applies, my boy.
Statistics, reflections, reviews, my boy,
Little scraps to instruct and amuse, my boy,
And lengthy debate
Upon matters of state,
For wise-headed folk to peruse, my boy.
The funds as they were and they are, my boy,
The quibbles and quirks of the bar, my boy,
And every week
A clever critique
On some rising theatrical star, my boy.
The age of Jupiter's moons, my boy,
The stealing of somebody's spoons, my boy,
The state of the crops,
The style of the fops,
And the wit of the public buffoons, my boy.

Who were cut off in their bloom, my boy,
Who has had a birth
On this sorrow-stained earth,
And who totters fast to the tomb, my boy.
The price of cattle and grain, my boy,
Directions to dig and to drain, my boy,
But 'twould take me too long
To tell you in song
A quarter of all they contain, my boy.

Visit to a Turkish Harem.
The Jerusalem corresponded to the Boston Traveler thus describes a visit recently made to a Turkish harem, in company with Miss Frederika Bremer, the popular Swedish authoress:
Miss Bremer having expressed a wish to visit a Turkish harem, I gladly accompanied her to the house of some of my old acquaintances, who were rejoiced to see me after my long absence, and immediately ordered the slaves to prepare a feast of the most elaborate kind in honor, no doubt, of their distinguished visitor; for, on our entrance, I had told them of the wide spread fame of the lady to whom I had just introduced them. The napkins accompanying the delicious sherbert, which was handed to us by slaves as soon as we had taken our seats, were fringed and embroidered in gold, and the little tables on which the refreshments were spread were inlaid with pearl. Many European articles of furniture had been introduced into this house, among which were bedsteads, mirrors, and arm chairs. Miss Bremer asked them many questions, and their replies betokened more enlightenment than I have anywhere else found among the tabooed occupants of the harem. On asking what would become of them after death, they replied, that "they could not read, and therefore had never seen what the Koran said about the matter; but their husband had always taught them that the good would go to Paradise, while the wicked would be doomed to punishment." So much for having associated with Europeans; for in their immediate neighborhood are several English and Prussian families with whom they are quite intimate. Indeed, to such an extent were they following the example of the ladies of these families, whose liberty they no doubt greatly envy, that on conducting us to the top of their house, they ventured to peep over the parapet into the street below, but on seeing their dreaded lord and master approach, their old fears returned—the greatest consternation was exhibited, and darting with light
