WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

An Insidious Attack Upon the Civil Service Law.

All Medical Appointments to Be Removed from Its Restrictions.

A Bill Passes the Assembly Which Excites Much Adverse Criticism.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 16.—The bill introduced in the Assembly by Mr. Hennessey (Dem.), of Kings County, removing the civil service restrictions from medical appointments in this State, passed the House last Tuesday and is now pending action in the Senate. The bill is called "An act to regulate and improve the civil service of the State of New York." It reads:

"Doctors of medicine legally admitted to practise their profession in this State who are employed as physicians in, or seek to enter as physicians, the public service under any municipal department of a city, village, town or county, shall not be subject to the regulations prescribed in the laws regulating civil service examinations and appointments."

It is not here thought likely that the bill will be signed by the Governor even if it should pass the Senate.

Every State official is opposed to it, and the Governor said to-day to "The Evening World" correspondent:

"I do not approve of any such measure. In my opinion all physicians appointed to a medical place under the State Government should be obliged to pass a rigid examination."

Mr. Hennessey maintains silence as to his object in introducing such a measure. It is said here that the measure came direct from Mr. McLaughlin, whose son-in-law is a physician.

The bill has excited a great deal of adverse comment among physicians and surgeons in New York. The number of medical appointments in the police, health, fire and charities departments of this city is very large, and the opinion is freely expressed that the real design of the bill is to throw all such appointments directly into the control of political leaders, regardless of the needs of the service.

In point of this is cited the course adopted by the authorities in December, 1891, relative to the appointment of police surgeons in this city. Vacancies by death and otherwise had occurred in the force, until fifteen surgeons were required to do the work of nineteen, the number prescribed by law. The Police Commissioners made requisition on the Civil-service Board for an eligible list, and an order was issued for a competitive examination of applicants for appointment.

Suddenly the order was withdrawn, and despite the urgent demand of the surgeons on the force and the importunity of the Police Board, the order was never renewed.

The matter was fully ventilated in "The Evening World," and the statement was freely made by several physicians outstanding that the withdrawal of the Civil-service Board's order for an examination and the refusal in previous years of Mayor Grant to appoint from previous eligible lists was due to the desire of high city officials to name favorites to the places, which they were debarred by the restrictions of the civil-service law.

A prominent physician said to an "Evening World" reporter to-day:

"The importance of competitive examinations before any physician is appointed to any position the functions of which affect the public health cannot be doubted, and will be upheld by all intelligent advocates of efficient public service. I know that the Board of Police Surgeons has been seriously crippled and its members overworked, simply because the Civil Service law has prevented the city officials from appointing men whose qualifications could not stand the test of the examination. Any physician who claims competency is incapable of demonstration by an examination should be appointed to care for the health of the police.

"The same reasoning applies to every branch of the public service. If politicians can control the appointment of all medical attaches of the Charities Department, who will doubt that the standard of skill and efficiency would be lowered, and that the lives and health of the city's wards would be endangered by being placed in the care of ignorant and incompetent physicians who have a pull?

"It is the belief of several physicians with whom I have talked that Mr. Hennessey's bill has no other design than to take down the bars which now prevent the hustling of incompetent and unskilled men upon the public service in the interest solely of political politics. I think the County Medical Society should make an emphatic protest against the project, and that the scheme should be exposed to the press, should this be done, I have no doubt the measure would die a deserved death even before it reaches the hands of the Governor."

A "WORLD" EDITORIAL DID IT.

Capt. Slevin Must Explain Why He Let Pappas's Den Exist.

In an editorial published this morning "The World" insisted that if Capt. Slevin, in command of the Fourth Police Precinct, knew, as he must have known, of the existence of Pappas's gambling den and thieves' rendezvous for toys on Park Row, he ought not to remain longer on the police force, and, certainly, he should not longer wear a captain's uniform. The editorial wound up in this way:

"What does Supt. Byrnes propose to do about this matter? Has he called upon Slevin for an explanation? The public is entitled to know what answer he has received."

Supt. Byrnes read this editorial and it impressed him, for he has ordered Capt. Slevin to appear and explain why he allowed Pappas's place to exist.

EXPLOSION IN A SUBWAY.

Manhole Cover Blew Off and Caused a Runaway.

The iron cover of the manhole leading into the electric light subway at Madison avenue and Fifty-seventh street was blown off by an explosion last night, nearly causing the death of three persons.

Mrs. and Miss Robert C. Seid, of 13 East Fifty-first street, were in a hack driven by Patrick Gadney when the explosion occurred. It so frightened the horses that they bolted and did not injure him, but the hack was upset, but were captured by a policeman at Fifth street.

STORIES ABOUT THE NARONIC.

One that She Was Sighted, Another that She Was Sunk.

The First Proved to Be False and the Second Discredited.

It was reported in this city this morning that the White Star line freight carrier Naronic, now thirty-three days out, had at last been sighted.

It was said that the Fire Island observer had seen the Naronic coming in in tow of a Ward line steamer.

The report caused considerable of a sensation at first, but it proved to be false.

No other news of the missing vessel was received this morning.

The steamship Rhyniand, from Antwerp and Hippolyte Dumois, from Gibraltar, that arrived this morning, had no news of the Naronic.

Another story later got about in shipping circles in regard to the whereabouts of the Naronic which was not so pleasant as the first and perhaps just about as reliable.

The North German Lloyd steamship Lahn, from Bremen, March 7, arrived and an abstract of the log stated that on March 14, in latitude 41.45, longitude 58.20, a piece of a lower mast about fifteen feet in length and standing upright in the water had been passed.

This was seized upon with alacrity and accepted without question as being a portion of the ill-fated freight carrier. No other reason was given than that a captain of a great ocean steamship would hardly think it worth his while to report the presence of such a piece of timber in his path.

No other wreckage was passed and no bodies were either lashed to the spar, nor seen floating in the vicinity. It is not therefore believed that it is any portion of the missing vessel.

Capt. Parsell, who commands the White Star liner Majestic, which arrived from Liverpool yesterday, emphatically stated his belief that the missing Naronic was still afloat, and that she would turn up in due course.

Capt. Parsell is one of the most experienced of the commanders in the transatlantic passenger service, and he said that there has been no storm on the Atlantic this year furious enough to send the Naronic to the bottom.

He thinks the Naronic has struck a derelict and has had her propellers whipped out.

SIX LITTLE OUTCASTS CAUGHT.

Boys Found in the Press-Rooms and in the Post-Office Corridors.

Agents Schultes and Pringle, of the Children's Society, searched the press-rooms of the newspapers on Park Row between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, and found four truant boys. Crossing over to the Post-office Building they discovered two more lying on top of a radiator.

The lads gave the following names:

Michael Salisbury, aged twelve, 151 Centre street, Brooklyn, away from home three weeks. Henry Ransom, colored, aged twelve, of 274½ Sullivan street; David Jones, aged thirteen, home same place; Friedman, aged fourteen, same street; Louis Davodwitz, aged fourteen, 48 Norfolk street; away from home three days.

A one-armed boy, named Thomas Clark, who is fifteen, said that he had no home. He said that he was run over by a Broadway car, and had his arm amputated at the New York Hospital.

All that he knew about his father, he said, was that he was at one time janitor of 9 East Seventy-sixth street. The boys were all held for investigation by the Society's officers at the Tombs Court this morning.

"BILLY" THOMPSON FINED.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 16.—Assemblyman "Billy" Thompson, accompanied by his counsel, appeared before Judge Vroom in this city to-day and withdrew his plea of not guilty as to the indictment found against him over a year ago, charging him with maintaining a nuisance in operating the Gloucester race track.

He entered the plea of non vult, which was accepted by the court on the consent of the County Prosecutor.

Judge Vroom then sentenced Thompson to pay a fine of $100 and costs.

This he promptly did and left the court-room with his counsel, Judge Reed and Selfridge.

It was Judge Vroom's first day on the bench.

FOR KEEPING A BABY FARM.

Four Children Found with Mrs. Ostrander at 440 Ninth Avenue.

Mrs. Maria Ostrander was held in $500 bail for trial by Justice Voorhis in Jefferson Market Court this morning charged with keeping a baby farm without a license.

Her husband, Charles, was notified by some of the friends of the woman that a discovery of her work was in the capacity of a conductor for apartments at 440 Ninth avenue.

Agent Mulligan found the boy and three girls in charge.

Every room was furnished to the necessities of a nursery, and in which were found two of New York's best.

The woman with whom were found the boy and girl, Mary Smith, aged [illegible] years, of 20 Clinton street, Brooklyn, was released on her promise to give the names of the other child.

Found Dead in the Street.

An unknown woman, about forty-five years old, was found lying dead in front of 264 Division street. She was taken to the Delancey street station-house in the patrol wagon.

Claims Against the City.

The State Takes Fire Island.

ALICE COZZENS'S FUNERAL.

It Takes Place To-Day from Her Father's House.

A Hearse and Three Carriages Comprise the Cortege.

All the arrangements were completed this morning for the funeral of Alice Cozzens, the beautiful young girl who committed suicide last Sunday in room 201 at the Coleman House.

The body was last night placed in an oak casket, covered with white plush, with silver bar handles. The plate was inscribed:

ALICE COZZENS,
Died March 12, 1893,
aged eighteen.

There was the same crowd of morbidly curious people in the neighborhood of the Cozzens home, 240 West One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street, this morning that has frequented it since the identity of the suicide became known.

When at 10.15 a hearse and three carriages drove up, these watchers were sure the funeral was about to take place, and the news spreading, the crowd increased in numbers.

The hearse, with its nodding black and white plumes, and the carriages took up a position in one Hundred and Thirty-sixth street, west of Eighth avenue.

It was after 11 o'clock when they moved to the front of the house of mourning.

A man who looked like Maurice Mendham, accompanied by a woman in mourning, who was supposed to be his mother, got off an up-train on the Eighth avenue "L" road at One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, about 10.30 o'clock, and walking up Eighth avenue to One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street, turned east and entered the Cozzens house.

Mrs. Cozzens was much excited all the morning, and both she and Mr. Cozzens declined to have anything to say about their dead daughter and the stories which have grown out of her tragic end.

Rev. Mr. Carpenter, of Calvary Methodist Church, one hundred and Twenty-ninth street and Second avenue, read the funeral service in the house at 10.45 o'clock.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Undertaker Hulberg came out of the Cozzens house and beckoned to the drivers.

A few minutes later three men appeared in the doorway bearing the casket, upon which three floral pieces, one a wreath of white and the others bunches of lilies, rested.

When the casket had been placed in the hearse half a dozen other pieces, one a harp of white roses and another a pillow of white roses, upon which was a white dove, were carried out and placed in the hearse.

There was quite a crowd in the street when Mr. and Mrs. Cozzens, the latter in deep mourning, came out and entered the first carriage.

The boy, Maurice, said to be Mrs. Cozzens's nephew, accompanied by Dr. McClellan, the family physician, was in the second carriage.

In the third carriage were Mr. and Mrs. Smith and the Cozzens's two servants.

The cortege then moved into Seventh avenue and turned up in the direction of Woodlawn.

The funeral reached Woodlawn Cemetery at 12.30 o'clock. The casket was there sealed in a box and carried into the receiving vault fronting on Central avenue. The flowers were also placed in the vault.

Mrs. Cozzens did not leave her carriage in the cemetery. The others of the party alighted and went into the vault, remaining there until the body was placed in the catacomb.

There was no service at the vault and no distressing scene in the cemetery.

The party returned to the Cozzens residence, which was reached at 2.30 o'clock.

Coroner Messemer said this morning that he had been informed that Miss Cozzens was secretly married.

A respectable elderly woman was sold to be the mother of a child she would not make a positive statement of her name or address until she had made sure of the identity of the suicide.

SIX HORSES BURNED TO DEATH.

Tramps Cause a Loss of $10,000 on a Jersey Farm.

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 16.—A disastrous fire occurred this morning at Lyons Farms, two miles from this city.

The flames first destroyed a large barn belonging to Thomas Fitzpatrick, with its contents. Six horses perished in the flames.

The fire communicated to adjoining barns, carriage-houses and small frame buildings, all of which were consumed.

The loss is about $10,000. No insurance.

This was one of the best farms in the county of New Jersey. It is believed that the fire was started by tramps who had taken shelter in the barn.

Unloading the Stranded Wells City.

STARRUCCA, N. J., March 16.—The stranded steamer Wells City still lies in about the same position as when she first went ashore. There is a chopper on to-day which indicates considerable with the work of the loading, but it is doing no damage to the steamer. If a storm does not intervene it is thought there will be no difficulty in floating her. The hole in her bottom is repaired.

To Head Off Yellow Jacks.

Everybody in the Sleeper Hurt—One Woman Will Die.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., March 16.—An accident occurred on the Erie at Lackawaxen, twenty-five miles from here, at 5 o'clock this morning, resulting in the injury of ten passengers, who have just been brought to the hospital in this village.

Fast express train No. 10 ran into train No. 12, which was standing at the depot waiting for a new engine to replace a broken one.

The rear Pullman was split in twain and converted into kindling-wood, throwing the passengers about in every direction.

Not a person in the car escaped unhurt.

The Pullman caught fire, but the blaze was quickly put out.

John Canfield, engineer, and Frank Boyd, of train 10, jumped and escaped injury.

His principal business relations have been with Germany, and he has been in the business for a number of years.

DONAHUE'S DASH FOR LIBERTY.

His Friends Attack Two Officers at the Ewen Street Court.

The Runaway Captured and Subdued After a Fierce Fight.

Thomas Donahue, a prisoner charged with grand larceny, made a desperate attempt to escape while being taken into the Ewen Street Court, Williamsburg, to-day.

Donahue, who is said to be an ex-convict, was arrested a week ago for entering a saloon on Oakland street and stealing $400 while the proprietor's back was turned.

At 10.30 o'clock this morning he was brought to court in the van, with one other prisoner. As usual, the vehicle drove up to the door, and the court officers stood lazily about while the prisoners were taken out.

It had been noticed that a number of Donahue's friends were about the court, and they followed the officers out on the sidewalk when the wagon drove up.

As Donahue alighted, his friends, Edward Fogarty, John Reilly and James Wilson, who was recognized as an ex-convict, made a combined attack on Court Officers Carroll and McGrath. During the excitement Donahue made a break for liberty.

Jim Cassidy, the van driver, was about the only person who retained his wits. He jumped into a light wagon with Officer Lockwood and caught the runaway at Union avenue and North Second street.

Donahue made a desperate fight, and Cassidy was compelled to blacken both his eyes before he could subdue him.

In the mean time two of Donahue's friends had been arrested. They gave their names as John Brown and Henry Jones, and were held for examination.

Justice Watson is highly incensed over the affair, as it is only a few weeks since another prisoner escaped.

SMALL PANIC ON THE ERIE.

Ferry Passengers Wanted the Boat Stopped to Save a Man.

The ferry-boat Erie, of the Pavonia line, carried an angry crowd of passengers on her 10.30 o'clock trip from the foot of Chambers street, this city, to Jersey City, this morning.

A small-sized panic, lasting several minutes, occurred, which was succeeded by deep-muttered threats against the stony-hearted pilot, who refused to stop the boat.

All the trouble was owing to a mishap that befell Robert Scully, a ferry tender.

Robert was prying out the "toggle," a piece of timber which holds the boat steadily to the pier, just after the departure of the Erie.

He missed his footing and toppled over into the icy water in the slip.

The rush of water from the paddle-wheels slipped him up against the timbers and tossed him about like a cork. Then he got a firm hold on the chains and held on like grim death.

All this time the excited passengers on the Erie were yelling at the tops of their voices to stop the boat.

The tide was ebbing with the speed of a mill race and the Delaware, a sister boat to the Erie, was making for the slip.

If the Erie had altered her course a serious accident might have happened to her and the pilot wisely determined not to change it.

Meantime Scully was in the water, yelling for all he was worth.

After about five minutes, he was dragged upon the bridge and carried into the boiler-house. He did not seem to be much the worse for his impromptu bath.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us, ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
