The organ will be played by Horace A. Miller of Mt. Vernon. The public is cordially invited to be present at these dedicatory services.

Time was when everybody walked and thonght it no disgrace. For then walking was only a degree slower than the quickest means of locomotion, and by that token respectable. But who thinks of walking now? If you go into a shoeshop where fifty styles of fine footgear are offered you won't find a shoe you could walk a mile in without being crippled, and though you call for the best grade of stockings they are worn through the first time you put them on if you go afoot. Nobody who is anybody is expected to walk any more. The trolleys and the devil wagons have made walking intolerably slow, and the airships, when they come will doubtless abolish it for good and all. And that is progress. The voice which clamors for stockings that will wear or shoes that are easy is a voice out of the past, the echo of dead traditions.—Life

Obituary.

Lewis Wells was born in Green county Ohio, Sept. 29, 1827, and was married to Sarah Vanderhoof at Cassapolis, Michigan, Oct. 25, 1854, and moved to Greeley, Iowa, in the fall of 1866, where he has resided ever since.

Eight children were born to them, six are living: Frank, Judd, Hattie Wandell, Will, Rob and Fannie Miller.

He joined the Masonic Lodge at Buchanan, Mich., when he was 21 years of age and when the lodge at Greeley was chartered he went in as a charter member.

Last fall Mr. Wells suffered a stroke of paralysis from which he never recovered. He was taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. O. Miller, at Delaware, where he passed to his reward on Monday, April 20, 1906, the burial taking place in Greely cemetery, under charge of the Masonic Lodge of which he was so long an honored member.

Besides children, he leaves behind a loving wife, a companion of 52 years, upon whom the parting rested so heavily, and who has the sincere sympathy of us all.

The writer was the nearest neighbor to Mr. and Mrs. Wells for several years, in sickness, death and sorrow they did more than we can ever repay, and will always stay in our memory, cherished for their loving kindness in sunshine and in darkness.

"He has passed out of the shadow
Into a purer light,
Stepping behind the curtain
Getting a clearer sight,
Laying aside a burden
This weary mortal coil,
Done with the world's vexation
Done with its tears and toil."
