TARIFF BILL PASSES

ADMINISTRATION MEASURE WINS IN SENATE BY VOTE OF 44 TO 37.

ACT NOW GOES TO THE HOUSE

Two Democrats of Louisiana Cast Ballot Against Act—La Follette and Poindexter for It — Conferees Named by Vice-President Marshall.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill passed the senate on Tuesday by 44 to 37.

Senators Thornton and Ransdell of Louisiana were the only Democrats to vote against the bill, while Senator Poindexter, Progressive, and Senator La Follette, Republican, voted for the measure. Senator Lewis was paired with Senator Gronna, but announced that he intended to vote for the bill anyway, and did so.

Vive-President Marshall announced as conferees in the bill Senators Simmons, Shively, Johnson and Williams, Democrats; Penrose, Lodge and La Follette, Republicans.

The conference work should be completed within two weeks and the measure passed and signed by President Wilson before October 1.

Among the articles placed on the free list were raw wool and sugar at the end of three years; cattle, sheep, meats, wheat, flour, print paper valued at less than 2½ cents a pound, wood pulp, pig iron, steel ingots, blooms and slabs, cast iron pipe, photographs and moving picture films, exposed, steel rails, cement, milk and cream, ferro-manganese, lard, flax, hemp, jute, eggs, corn, cornmeal, cash registers, sewing machines, type setting machines, lumber and hair of the angora goat.

The senate placed in the bill a tax on cotton futures, aimed to prevent gambling.

In the chemical schedule the senate has made a great number of amendments, the reductions and increases being about equally divided. In the glass and earthen ware schedule, cement, upon which the house placed a duty of five per cent. ad valorem, was placed on the free list.

The house had a duty of eight per cent. on pig iron, and the senate put it on the free list. The house also had a duty of eight per cent. on iron slabs, blooms, etc., and the senate added them to the free list. The senate reduced the duties of automobiles valued at less than $1,500. It also reduced the duty on motorcycles from 40 per cent. ad valorem to 25 per cent.

In the agricultural schedule, the senate free listed cattle and sheep, which the house taxed ten per cent. ad valorem. It reduced the duties on oats from ten cents a bushel, the house rate, to six cents. It reduced the duty on beets from ten per cent. to five per cent. ad valorem, it reduced the duty on peas from fifteen cents to ten cents a bushel, and it placed wheat, which the house had taxed at ten cents a bushel, on the free list. The senate placed a duty of one-tenth of one cent a pound on bananas. The senate placed a tax of $1.10 per gallon on brandies used in the manufacture of wines.

The senate made slight increases in yarns and tops. It reduced the rates somewhat on cotton stockings. Many large reductions were made in the flax, hemp and jute schedule, including the free listing of flax, hemp and jute. In the wool schedule the senate reduced tops from fifteen per cent. ad valorem to five per cent., and on yarns from 20 per cent. to 15. Woolen blankets valued at less than 40 cents per pound were put on the free list.

The income tax section of the bill provides for an exemption of $3,000 with an additional $1,000 if a man or woman be married, and $500 additional for each minor child up to two. The rates then are to be one per cent. on all income from $3,000 to $20,000, two per cent. on all income from $20,000 to $100,000, five per cent. on all income from $50,000 to $75,000, four per cent. on all income from $75,000 to $100,000, five per cent. on all income from $100,000 to $250,000, six per cent. on all income from $250,000 to $500,000, and on all income in excess of $500,000, seven per cent.

JAPS ASK FOR WAR

PEOPLE ASK THAT TROOPS BE SENT AGAINST CHINA.

U. S. Is Also Assailed—Uprising Is Directed Against Diplomatic Position of Empire.

Tokio, Sept. 9.—On Sunday a dramatic chapter was written in the history of Japan. The assassination of Mortiaro Abe, director of the political bureau of the Japanese foreign office, has inflamed the masses.

Fifteen thousand persons gathered in massmeeting in Hibiya park, calling for military action against China. A majority of these marched to the foreign office and clamored for admission. They demanded the dispatch of troops to China to take such measures as were necessary to obtain satisfaction for the killing of Japanese at Nanking, or, failing this, the resignation of the minister of foreign affairs, Baron Nobuaki Makino.

The speakers denounced the emptiness of Japanese diplomacy in connection with California and China, and insisted the insult to the Japanese flag at Nanking should be wiped out. The manifestation was clearly an explosion of popular resentment against the ministry in its treatment of the California and Chinese questions.

A score of agitators, including a girl, decried Japanese diplomacy and declared it had never contributed to the upbuilding of the empire and had always ended in failure. The incidents in China were unbearable.

Jerome was surrounded by a heavy guard of policemen.

THAW IS DEPORTED

AFTER THREE HOURS OF FREEDOM FUGITIVE IS RE-ARRESTED IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

JEROME ARRIVES ON SCENE

Governor Felker Declares That He Will Honor Extradition Papers If They Are Sent to Him—Slayer Has Exciting Day.

Colebrook, N. H., Sept. 12.—Harry K. Thaw has shifted his "show" to this quiet little village following his unexpected deportation by the Canadian immigration authorities on Wednesday. Thaw made an aimless flight in an automobile when he left Norton Mills, Vt., and was rearrested in this town by Sheriff Drew of Coos county.

Sheriff Drew received a telegram from Attorney General Carmody of New York, asking that Thaw be held until the arrival of officers with extradition papers.

Thaw has already outlined plans for another prolonged legal battle to avoid extradition by the New York authorities. His first move after his arrest was to engage counsel and to take steps for obtaining a writ of habeas corpus. The writ will be applied before Judge Robert M. Chamberlain of the superior court at Lancaster, the county seat.

William Travers Jerome, Thaw's ancient foe, who was taken by surprise by the action of the Canadian authorities, is here from Manchester, this state, to take charge of the fight to enforce extradition.

Meanwhile Thaw, who is only technically under arrest and not confined in the jail, has communicated with his mother and his lawyers in Montreal and Sherbrooke.

Gov. Samuel D. Felker was at New Castle when he received news of the arrest of Thaw. He said:

"If the New York state authorities send officers here and the latter bear properly executed documents calling upon us to deliver Thaw to their custody, I shall probably sign the extradition warrant."

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 12.—Harry K. Thaw was taken from the immigration station to the Vermont border on Wednesday by Superintendent of Immigration Robertson.

As Thaw left the station he yelled that it was kidnaping. Robertson's only answer was that it was entirely "regular."

Robertson produced a warrant signed by Minister of Justice Doherty, who is also acting minister of the interior, ordering the ejection of Thaw.

When word was received here from Coaticook that Thaw had been deported it created consternation among Thaw's lawyers. They had expected to hold up deportation for six months at least, possibly a year and perhaps, if an appeal was taken to the privy council, for two years.

When the news got about in Coaticook that Thaw had been taken to the line public feeling broke out. A crowd surrounded the immigration building and there were demonstrations against the government and in favor of Thaw.

"The body was taken in charge by the ship's officers. It was embalmed and placed in a sealed casket.

"During the voyage his health had steadily improved.

"On behalf of my mother, my family and myself, I wish to express publicly my deep gratitude to Captain Ransom and his officers for kindness, courtesy and unfailing thoughtfulness.

"I wish to acknowledge my debt to the passengers for their courteousness and consideration at all times in respecting the mayor's desire for privacy.

"RUFUS W. GAYNOR."

By the death of Mayor Gaynor, a Republican becomes chief executive of New York city. President Adolph L. Kline of the board of aldermen succeeds to the office.

When Tammany leader Charles F. Murphy, whom Mayor Gaynor two weeks ago denounced as a "political crook," heard of the city executive's death, he said:

"I am very much shocked. I know he went away from here very much run down in health. All I can say is I regret Mayor Gaynor's death."

Mrs. Gaynor was notified immediately of her husband's death. She was deeply grieved, but bore up bravely.

Mayor Gaynor left New York at a time when the city was seething in one of the strangest municipal political campaigns in its history. The day before his departure he was notified on the city hall steps by representatives of independent political organizations that they had chosen him as their standard bearer in the mayoralty campaign.

The recent attack of the old throat trouble, due to the wound inflicted on August 19, 1910, by James J. Gallagher, who died about three months ago in an insane asylum, just as he was about to leave this city for a brief vacation in Europe, had entirely disappeared, according to Mr. Adamson, and the mayor expected to return and enter the campaign with his old-time vigor.

Mayor Gaynor's sudden death completely overturns the municipal political situation. It removes from the field a candidate for mayor who was expected to cut heavily into the vote of the fusion nominee, John Purroy Mitchell, and leaves only the tickets nominated by the Democrats and the fusionists. The former is headed by Edward E. McCall, former chairman of the public service commission.

Mayor Gaynor was placed at the head of the independent ticket after Tammany hall had refused him a renomination.

William J. Gaynor was born at Whitestown, Oneida county, New York, in 1873.

Washington, Sept. 13.—"I am shocked to learn of Mayor Gaynor's death," said Secretary of State Bryan. "The news is so sudden that I cannot even believe it to be true. He was a strong man in many respects, and I know that New York will feel his loss."

Nothing Hard About Task.

It was not without just cause that Mr. Gladstone's name was given to the handy "Gladstone bag." The grand old man was master of every detail of the art of packing. At a country house they were discussing at breakfast the right way to pack a sponge bag when the sponge had been used and was constantly waterlogged. Mr. Gladstone, who apparently had been wholly absorbed in his morning's correspondence, suddenly closed the discussion by informing the party that they were all wrong. "The only proper method," said he, "is to wrap it in your bath towel and stamp upon it. Then put it in your sponge bag. You will find it perfectly dry."
