CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

WEDNESDAY.....AUGUST 12, 1874.

Our Water Supply.

Our citizens are apt to complain of the quality of water furnished them, and some find fault with both the quality and quantity. By-and-by we shall confine ourselves almost exclusively to the latter half of the complaint. Where the future city of Los Angeles is to obtain her supply of water, is one of the unsolved problems. The present water company is, if we are correctly informed, entitled to but ten inches of water from the river. That, even with the reservoir accumulation, scarcely meets the present demands of the company. What will they do when the city numbers twenty thousand people? The company's present facilities are inadequate, and thoughtful citizens are asking themselves where Los Angeles is to obtain her supply of water. It cannot be had from the springs and the ten-inch river stream. It is doubtful, more than doubtful, if artesian wells may be sunk. The experiments of Mr. BEAUDRY in that direction have not been encouraging. When the field has been carefully surveyed, the conclusion is almost inevitable that at no distant day Los Angeles will be supplied with water pumped from the river near the crossing of the San Fernando railroad or from wells sunk in the low lands in front of the city. The extensive and expensive operations of Mr. BEAUDRY are, it seems to us, steps in the right direction. He has an exhaustless supply of water, and as the demand on the hill lands increases, he has but to increase his power for throwing water into the reservoir on the highest point. All, or nearly all, of the water used in this city must in a short time come from the vicinity of Mr. BEAUDRY'S well. The localities where water may be obtained near the surface will soon be held among the most valuable in the suburbs of the city.

Industrial Condition of the Slope.

Under this head, the Alta California of the 3d inst. treats us to an editorial of considerable length, from which we extract the following, which is of special interest to the citizens of Los Angeles county: "There are now Alden fruit-drying houses at San Lorenzo, Centreville, Sonoma, San Jose and Vacaville. The first has five chimneys or dryers, the second and third three each, and the fourth and fifth two each. The daily product of each dryer is estimated to be worth one hundred dollars; equivalent for all of $1,500 per day, or $270,000 for a working season of one hundred and eighty days. Last year the San Lorenzo establishment was the only one. Machinery has been ordered for three dryers, to be erected at Los Angeles, and Sacramento and Sonora will probably be provided soon. The Sonoma drying house will go into raisins extensively; that at Vacaville into raisins and figs. At Los Angeles, experiments will be made with citron, orange peel and oranges. Apples and pears sliced and pitted plums require from two to four hours and grapes and prunes, because (on account of the obstacles offered by their skin to evaporation) from six to eight hours. An idea prevails among persons who have had some experience in these drying houses, that they will give a great stimulus to the cultivation of the apricot, prune and plum, which in the dried form are either scarce or command high prices. Dried apples, peaches and pears are produced in large quantities in the Eastern State, and it is not to the interest of California to undertake to compete with them. Enough white Muscat grapes will be converted into raisins this year to show what California can do in that line. We expect them to command a price fully equal to the best imported. Our vineyardists have shown much enterprise by importing all the most noted varieties of European grapes; but they have until lately overlooked the Peruvian Huasco, cuttings of which have been ordered by several gentlemen. We have tasted some Huasco raisins dried in the shade. They have a strong, peculiar and pleasant flavor and aroma, are large in size, have small seeds, and deserve to rank among the best. They will in a few years be numerous in California. Since the drawbacks to the profit of wine-making, from the high costly casks and the internal revenue oppressions on distillation have been felt, the attention of grape growers has been turned to raisins, and several of the largest vineyards in the Sierra Nevada have been or are to be grafted into the white Muscat, which is much preferred for raisins to any other grape in the State. The Huasco will be its rival.

Railroad Extension.

The railroad magnates from headquarters have arrived, and yesterday they went down in a body to Anaheim. They will view the ground, look over the maps, select the route and set the graders at work, and in a little time the good people of Anaheim will hear the scream of the locomotive. It is understood the track will be completed as soon as possible, which means in a few weeks at the outside. This will give us thirty miles of railroad extending out from the city through a very rich and already well populated portion of the valley. No railroad in the world runs over a more productive section than the Los Angeles and Anaheim branch. Every acre for miles on each side of the track will produce anything grown in the ground, and every ten acres of this land will support a family of five or six persons. It is rumored and the rumor is probably well founded, that we are to have railroad extension in another direction. It is expected that the Southern Pacific will be extended from its present terminus at Spadra on to San Bernardino, a distance of some thirty miles. If the company have decided to do this, it will give us a piece of road which will prove of great advantage to the people of Los Angeles and San Bernardino, besides, opening up rapid communication through a fine agricultural section of the valley.

A LATE dispatch from Salt Lake says a large party of Mormons are preparing to leave that section for San Bernardino, where they propose to settle. We do no not understand that these people propose calling themselves a Mormon colony. They are most likely those who have wearied of the faith and have decided to abjure the doctrine. If so they will receive a hearty welcome from the people of California.

THE first number of the Garden City Times, San Jose's new daily, is received. Its columns are wide and twenty-eight in number. It is published by a corporative association, composed of eight persons, all of whom are engaged on the paper in some capacity. From the introductory remarks we learn that the Times aspires to the position of a "fearless, outspoken, independent journal."

KATIE KING the little girl who died one hundred years ago and whose spirit recently visited and talked with the English scientists, has promised to attend a series of seances in San Francisco. She will show herself and speak with the audience.

LETTER FROM COMPTON.

Local Option—A Pronounced Temperance Community—The Harvest Feast—A Good Time Generally.

EDITOR HERALD:—We have been having fine times in our neighborhood of late, and we want other folks to know about it. In the first place our election on Local Option came off on Thursday, August 6th, which resulted in a glorious victory for the cause of temperance. There were fifty-six votes polled, fifty-four for "no license" two for license. We ask men who have families and are looking for homes where they can raise up their boys with habits of sobriety, and without the fear of the baneful influence of the liquor traffic, to make a note of this and come where they can find homes in a sober, moral and religious community.

THE GRANGERS

Of Compton celebrated their first anniversary in a grove about one mile from the depot, on Saturday last by giving a grand picnic or harvest feast, to which everybody in the community had been invited. At an early hour the grove was thronged with people all dressed in their "Sunday rig," and showing by their smiles that they had come to have a good time.

There were seats prepared for several hundred persons all of which were well filled, and a great many who could not get seats were left the alternative of leaning against willows. We had a well-selected choir composed of Prof. Lewis and wife of Los Nietos, and Mr. and Mrs. Rowell, and Mrs. Willey of Florence. Miss Annie Brown of Compton, presided at the organ, and performed her part most gracefully; the music both vocal and instrumental was all that could be desired.

HON. A. HIGBIE

Delivered the oration, which was pronounced excellent by all present. It was short, sharp and to the point, the speaker was frequently interrupted by cheering from the enthusiastic audience, and we think it will be the means of causing many to join the Grange who otherwise would not have done so. Short addresses were also delivered by Rev. C. W. Tarr, Rev. J. K. Morris, Messrs. Bullis, Hathorne, Russell and others. E. R. Wiley of Silver Grange recited an original poem, entitled "The Grangers" with excellent effect. Bro. W. would do well to cultivate his poetic talent. And last but not least the dinner or harvest feast was all that could be desired, the hundreds who were present were all well fed, and I can assure you that there were more than "twelve baskets full" of fragments left upon the table; the afternoon we spent in having a good time generally. Thus closed the day, and all went away feeling happier for having spent a day at a Granger picnic. More anon,

GRANGER.
