The Industrial Council of Kansas City, Mo., has addressed a circular to organized labor throughout the country proposing that a general National Executive Committee be formed to be composed of two members each from the Knights of Labor, American Federation of Labor, Farmers' Alliance and all other National labor and reform organizations to conduct the general labor movement.

Craig and Thomas Casey, representing the Executive Board of the New York Painters' Conference, appeared before the Executive Committee of the Central Labor Union yesterday, and preferred charges against Delegate Lawrence J. Brown, of Progressive Painters' Union No. 1, stating that he had flagrantly violated the decision that the Conference was instructed, during the discharge of the members of unions not connected with the Conference. The Committee produced an agreement made with several bosses, who pledged themselves to employ none but union men. This document, the committee claimed, was the only action taken by the Conference regarding the employment or discharge of painters. Delegate Brown said that the conference was a "combination to force up the wages of Knights of Labor painters' unions." Several delegates asserted that the Painters' Conference had, in several instances, attempted to secure the discharge of K. of L. painters. It was unanimously resolved to sustain Delegate Brown in his attitude towards the Painters' Conference.
