ers and Bed Rubbers' Union, L. A. 7,164; Brick Haulers' Union, L. A. 9,268; Cement and Asphalt Layers' Union, L. A. 442; Cornice and Skylight Makers' Union, L. A. 8,401, and Progressive Pavers' Union 1, L. A. 10,558.

All along the line of march the sidewalks were thronged with people who applauded the men.

This afternoon the members of the assemblies are holding a celebration in Purry's Central Hall on East Forty-seventh street. Dancing and merry-making will continue until a late hour.

AFTER THE PARADE.

Where the Various Organizations Are Enjoying the Day.

The toilers who took part in the big parades had individual plans for the continuation of the celebration of the holiday.

The Central Labor Union's picnic at Greenwald's pavilion, New Dorp, S. I., is the scene of the gathering of an immense throng of the paraders and their families, but there are a myriad of other Labor Day festivals, as well as special sports in all directions.

Local Union No. 161, Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators, accepted an invitation from Local 119 of Brooklyn, and is celebrating the day with that organization in the City of Churches in a parade and a picnic.

The New York Central Labor Federation, instead of its usual parade, is observing the day in a great picnic at Fort Wendell, at One Hundred and Ninty-fourth street and Amsterdam avenue. Forty-five labor organizations, Socialist sections and singing societies are in attendance. There is jollity of all kinds on the programme at Fort Wendell, including dancing from 2 o'clock this afternoon till everybody is tired out to-night.

Among the Unions most numerously represented at this celebration are the Amalgamated Brass Workers, Ale and Porter Union, No. 1; Journeymen Bakers and Confectioners; United Machinists' Union, No. 2; Cigar-makers' Union, No. 10; Firemen's Union, No. 1; United Upholsterers; United Engineers; Tailors' Progressive Union, No. 11; United Coat Operators; Independent Bakers' Union; New York Framers' Union, Bookbinders' Advance Association, Carpenters' Union, No. 515; Machine Wood-Workers' Union, No. 38; Laborers' Union, No. 9, and the International Cloak-Makers' Union.

The Committee of Arrangements is composed of George H. McVey, Ernest Bohm, A. Waldinger, George Herzberg, C. Opperman, M. O'Brien and J. Rosenbohn. Reception Committee, A. Daniel, J. Leehr, E. Kimmelen, Fisher, S. Weiss, R. Henkler, G. Davidson, S. Greenfield, S. Swendsen, C. Arnadi and C. Winter.

Prof. Daniel De Leon was down for an address, in which he was expected to relate some of the things experienced during the trip to Zurich, Switzerland, where he attended the International Labor Congress as a delegate of the Socialists in the United States.

District Assembly 49, K. of L., has a grand seaside festival at Feltman's Ocean Pavilion, Coney Island, where the thousands composing its local assemblies went at an early hour.

The members of the Operative Painters' Society are assembled at their Labor Day celebration in Washington Park, Sixty-ninth street and Eastern Boulevard.

The Furriers' Union went to Urbach's Morrisania Park, One Hundred and Seventieth street and Third avenue, where its members are enjoying themselves with target shooting, prize bowling and all kinds of popular games for ladies and children.

The Brooklyn Machinists' Unions have their Labor Day picnic at Homeyer's Park, in Ridgewood, L. I.

The Yorkville Branch of the Workmen's General Benefit Union took a largely attended excursion to Freigang's Park, in College Point, L. I.

The Winfield Branch of the Workmen's General Benefit Union is celebrating Labor Day at Arnold's Scheutzen Park, in Winfield, L. I., where target shooting and amusements are being indulged in.

Building Constructors' Assembly, No. 253, picnicked at Brommer's Union Park.

Brewers' Union No. 2, Newark, N. J., holds its Labor Day picnic and summer-night's festival with the Socialist Section of Newark, at Oertel's Phoenix Park.

District Assembly No. 19, Knights of Labor, is holding a picnic and games at Caledonian Park, Baldwin avenue, Jersey City.

At Sulzer's Harlem River Park the Swiss colony is continuing its Swiss National festival, which began yesterday. There were games, a Volk's festival, and bowling and shooting contests for prizes for the afternoon. For the forenoon National sports by Swiss Turners and games of all sorts for the afternoon, and dancing and the awards of prizes for this evening.

The Swiss singing societies gave fine vocal selections during the day, and Concerno's Fourteenth Regiment Band furnished the music for the revellers.

Alfred de Claparede, Swiss Minister to the United States, gave prizes for target shooting.

An interesting competition will occur from 6.30 to 7.30 this evening, when prizes will be awarded in the ballroom for Swiss National costumes, worn by men, women, boys or girls. A resplendent parade is anticipated when the competitors promenade at 6.30 o'clock.

QUIET AMONG THE REDS.

No Disposition to Make Trouble on the East Side To-Day.

Everything was quiet on the east side to-day. There seemed to be no disposition on the part of those who were most conspicuous during the recent trouble there to make any demonstration. The only crowds to be seen were around the places where free food was distributed.

At the Arbeiter-Zeitung building, 91 Delancey street, the Hebrew Trades Union began giving out food at an early hour.

The capmakers will have a big lunch at Golden Rule Hall this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Pike street Anarchistic headquarters was closed up tight all day.

BROOKLYN'S CELEBRATION.

Parade of 15,000 Men Under Grand Marshal John J. Cannon.

Fifteen thousand workingmen turned out in Brooklyn this morning to celebrate labor's great holiday. It was not a parade of the unemployed, but a procession of prosperous union workmen, of brawn and brain.

Led by a mounted police escort, under Sergt. Cole, the column assembled at Lafayette avenue and Cumberland street, and the word to march was given by Grand Marshal John J. Cannon shortly after 10.30 o'clock.

The column marched in the following order:

Laborers' Protective Union of Long Island. Aide-in-chief, William C. Rosencrans; Typographical Union No. 98, Assistant Marshal, Edward Gallagher. Horse-Shoers' Union No. 7; Anthony Duffy. Boiler-Makers and Iron Ship Builders' Branch No. 20; Edward Fielding, Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators No. 119.

First Division—Charles Reichers, Marshal. Horseshoers' Union No. 7, Boiler-Makers and Iron Ship Builders' Branch 36.

Second Division—Stephen J. Connolly, Marshal. Typographical Union No. 98. Laborers' Protective Unions, Division No. 1. Division No. 2. Division No. 3.

Third Division—John Crawford, Marshal. Laborers' Protective Unions, Division No. 4, Division No. 5, Division No. 6 and Division No. 8.

Fourth Division—F. D. Monahan, Marshal. Plumbers' Laborers, Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators No. 119.

Fifth Division—J. Opitz, Marshal. Cigar-Makers' No. 152, Clothing Cutters' Union.

The route of the parade was as follows: From Lafayette avenue to Bushwick, to Harmon street, to Myrtle avenue, to Ridgewood. At Ridgewood the Western District labor men are holding a picnic this afternoon.

Of the 15,000 working men to take part in the demonstration the Central Labor Federation contributed 6,000, composed of unions in the Eastern District.

The societies forming in the Federation parade assembled at the Labor Lyceum, at Myrtle avenue and Myrtle street, under the leadership of Grand Marshal Max Forker.

At 10 o'clock they were prepared to start and the word was given.

The line of march was Humboldt street to Stagg street, to Ewen street, to Johnson street, to Broadway, to Throop avenue, to Floyd street, to Broadway, to Melrose street, to Central avenue, to De Kalb avenue, to Knickerbocker avenue, to Sand Lots, to Willoughby avenue, and back to the Labor Lyceum, where they dispersed.

NEWARK READY FOR TROUBLE.

A Party of Disturbers from New York Was Expected.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 4.—The police of this city took extra precautions to prevent trouble at to-day's labor parade, as it was reported that a party of Russians from New York had decided to come to Newark to make trouble.

A large force of policemen were on duty along the line of march, while a large number of reserves were kept at the station-houses for an emergency. Their services, however, were not required, as the parade was orderly.

It was after noon before the members of the labor organizations to the number of 2,000 formed in line and began the march through the principal streets to Caledonian Park.

George J. Byron, Secretary of Essex Trades Council, acted as Grand Marshal. Typographical Union 103 paraded for the first time in a number of years. At Caledonian Park there were sports, dancing and other festivities.

CONEY ISLAND'S BIG CROWD.

It Is the Last Day of the Regular Season.

CONEY ISLAND, Sept. 4.—Labor Day is looked upon as the last day of the regular season. The island is decorated profusely in honor of the day, and a large number of visitors are here. There was no parade.

At Brighton Beach the managers are already beginning to pack up. The hotel will be closed to-morrow.

At the Manhattan Beach and Oriental hotels many prominent people were seen this afternoon. There were quite a few largest crowds of the season there.

Altogether there are about 100,000 visitors on the island to-day.

Tarrytown's Big Parade.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 4.—A big labor parade took place in this village to-day. Labor organizations from nearly every town in Westchester County participated and about 1,000 men were in line. Charles McMichael acted as Grand Marshal.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS CHAIR.

Watchman Chase Dies of Heart Disease While on Duty.

Edward P. Chase, a watchman and timekeeper employed by the Brush Electric-Light Company at 219 Elizabeth street, was found dead at his post of duty early this morning.

The police of the Elizabeth street station were notified, and about 2 o'clock Deputy Coroner Conway viewed the body and decided that Chase's death was due to heart disease. The body was removed by an undertaker at 82 Stanton street.

Chase was married, and his wife, who is sickly, is in Maine. He boarded at 225 Fifth street, with J. S. Powers, and had been there for several years. An effort will be made to locate his relatives.

DRUNK AND ARMED.

A Jerseyman Creates a Reign of Terror on Sixth Avenue.

Richard Burke, a tall, young Irishman, reached town from Westfall, N. J., this morning very drunk. He had two loaded pistols in his possession, with which he menaced people along Sixth avenue in the vicinity of Fourteenth street.

He chased several women, and when Policeman Barnes, of the Nineteenth precinct, arrested him Burke said he had only been joking, and threw his pistols on the sidewalk.

He was handcuffed and taken to Jefferson Market, where Justice Koch committed him to the island for a month for intoxication and held him in $500 bail for trial for carrying concealed weapons.

THE LUCANIA IS A FLYER.

Making an Average of Twenty-one Knots on the Way from Queenstown.

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 4.—Capt. Watt, of the Cunard steamship Pavonia, which sailed from Boston on Aug. 28 and arrived here to-day, reports that he met the steamship Lucania, the new sister ship of the big Cunarder Campania, at 10 o'clock last evening.

The Lucania was then 119 miles west of Fastnet Light, and therefore had made an average speed of twenty-one knots an hour since leaving Queenstown.

21 Years of Pain

"I suffered with eczema or salt rheum, in such terrible agony at times that I could not walk about the house. I finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla. The hope of for several years, now gladdens at the outset, and I have taken twelve bottles. I am completely well and feel like a new woman. I can't thank or praise Hood's Sarsaparilla enough." LABOR DAY BREAD.

The Holiday Observed by a Larger Crowd of Applicants.

It Flooded "The World's" Bureau at an Early Hour.

Sad Story of an Aged Woman's Fight for Existence.

Charity never takes a holiday.

"The World's" Free Bread Fund kept Labor Day with wide open doors, and misery was almost made merry.

In honor of the day a few changes were made in the regular programme of exercise.

The first bread wagon arrived at 134 Allen street an hour ahead of schedule time, but it was a whole hour behind want. At 7 o'clock men, women and children were waiting for their daily bread. They stood in little knots and groups; they sat along the curbstone opposite the station or wearily leaned against "L" road pillars, fences or building walls and patiently, silently waited.

At 8 o'clock, when the first load of fresh bread drew up to the station, the cobblestones disappeared, the pavement went out of sight and the street swarmed with humanity in all stages of distress and wretchedness.

There were 1,750 fresh, hot loaves in the wagon. It took ten men about ten minutes to unload them. A police officer and a "World" guard had as much as they could do to keep a passage open across the sidewalk wide enough for them to work in.

It was 8.15 when the line for distribution was formed. The entire force manned the crowd. It was literally rushed through the station.

There was no time to waste. The street was alive with people and rattling with baskets. Neither wagon nor pedestrian could pass the throng in the way. Another load of bread was due any moment, and things had to be railroaded.

Poor, old grannies, who were overcome and wanted to take time to cry and talk a little, had to be hustled off with "Move along, please, Mother; don't block the way, please; be as quick as you can. Hop along, Sister Mary."

By keeping the line moving the staff was able to distribute the whole lot in about 40 minutes. The same sudden wagon with 1,750 loaves, and the crowd had to be chopped off and the crowd forced back until it was unloaded.

And so it went, first a load and then a line, until 10 o'clock, when the big wagon began to empty and the way had to be cleared to empty them.

At noon there was a pile of bread on the counter that ran up the wall to the tin lid that covered the stove-pipe hole.

There were 8,000 loaves in the Labor Day supply altogether, but the crowd looked 20,000 strong. As usual, the station was kept open until 1 o'clock, and every applicant got some, if not, all of the bread asked for.

A better way to celebrate a holiday could not be suggested. One had only to spend five minutes in Allen street to realize this.

The first Labor Day loaf of bread was given to an old woman just seventy-five. She wore a quilted bonnet which her cap could not hold, and she was so feeble that she could scarcely walk.

All her life she had been a laboring woman, she said. She had outlived brothers and sisters, husband and children, and now she is alone, friendless, homeless, penniless and too sick to earn enough to live on.

She sleeps in a garret hallway in an old house in Eldridge street, for which lodgings she pays 25 cents a week, and in addition scrubs the stairs. Her face had all the color and character of Spanish leather, such as artists design for fine upholstery work.

She was allowed to help herself. She took three loaves of white bread, enough to last her for a week, and went away blinking her poor old eyes with needless tears.

Behind her came ten younger women, between sixty and seventy years of age.

Then came a little sniff-of-a-breeze-of-a-woman, possibly thirty years old, who had in her a whole generation of misery crowded into her life. She carried a skeleton baby in her arms that she said was "no good."

After the aged women a host of little children rushed into the station. The men who followed were a sad assembly. Some of them went away with Grecian bendlike extensions to their threadbare coattails.

It was too bad to have to hurry those poor, self-respecting people. Nearly every one carried a covering, but in trying to envelope the loaves they blocked the hallway, and a very little neglect on the part of the attendants would have precipitated a stampede.

Labor Day is not for old age or helpless childhood, and "it is sweet and just that they be fed and comforted."

In honor of the day Mr. Cheney disbursed about sixty pounds of meat to make broth or soup for the poor bowl. All that meat was the Under good management a little goes a long way.

"The World's" Poor Bread Fund invites the contribution of the well-to-do and wealthy.

NELL NELSON.

WORK FOR CHICAGO'S IDLE MEN.

Eight Hundred to Be Given Employment on a Canal.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Before the week is over at least 800 of Chicago's unemployed will be earning a living on the drainage canal. Yesterday afternoon, at the booths on the lake front, 1,025 applications for work on the canal were received.

After the first 100 are sent down on Wednesday a selection will be made of 100 more to go the following day, so 100 men will be added each succeeding day of the week, until 800 or more are at work.

WAS SMITH ONE OF THE GANG?

Saloon-Keeper Walsh, Who Accuses Him, Is Also a Prisoner.

James Smith, eighteen years old, of 239 East One Hundred and First street, was held in the Harlem Police Court to-day. He is accused by Patrick Walsh, a saloon-keeper, of 1877 Second avenue, of being one of a gang which attempted to rob his saloon Saturday night.

Walsh created a furore of excitement Saturday night by discharging the contents of two revolvers. Then he explained to a policeman that he came home tired to take money from his till, and that he had fired to frighten the thieves.

One of the bullets struck a heap of stones and, glancing, hit John Carney, of 195 Second avenue, fatally in now in the Presbyterian Hospital. Walsh was held for trial when arranged in court yesterday morning.

Local News in Brief.

Hugh Lennard, of 121 Gouverneur street, fell down in the hold of Essex Market Court to-day. He beat his wife and mother-in-law.

Meyer Pojalsky, who sold $50 worth of jewelry in the morning and lost $20 in money at 75 Monroe street, was held for trial at Essex Market Court today.

Bernard Kolmanovitz, of 176 Monroe street, and Heinz Kamenky, of 221 Monroe street, were held for trial at Essex Market Court today for selling impure milk.

John Brown, a carpenter, of 142 Bowery, was held for trial at Essex Market Court today. Brown is accused of robbing Louis Mason's cigar stand, at 196 Bowery, of $21 worth of stock.

Charles Weaver, of 310 East Ninth street, was held for trial in Jefferson Market Court today. Weaver asked Detective Benjamin Mapelson, of Hoboken, to indulge street car yesterday. He then snatched Mapelson's watch.

LETTERS FROM THE POPE.

One Coming to Satolli and One to Cardinal Gibbons.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The Rome correspondent of the United Press telegraphs that the Pope has written to Mgr. Satolli, Papal Delegate to the United States, and Cardinal Gibbons important confidential letters, with which Father Frederick Rooker, vice-rector of the American College in Rome, started on Friday for America.

Father Rooker will deliver these letters personally to the Cardinal and Apostolic Delegate.

It is understood, says the correspondent, that these letters are the outcome of reports which have reached the Pope concerning alleged opposition in New York to Mgr. Satolli.

THE FRENCH ELECTIONS.

513 Republicans to 68 Conservatives in the Next Chamber.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The Pall Mall Gazette prints this despatch from Paris concerning the total results of the first and second ballots:

"The final results in 574 constituencies are known; the remaining constituencies (seven in number) are colonial, and the ballotages are between opposing Republicans.

"The Chamber virtually consists of 68 Conservatives and 513 Republicans of all shades, embracing 60 Socialists and 25 Conservatives 'Ralliés.'"

Oscar Hopes to Strengthen the Bonds Between Norway and Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 4.—In opening the State telephone between this city and Christiana on Saturday King Oscar said he hoped to counteract the separatist movement in Norway, and to strengthen the union between Norway and Sweden. The existence of this movement, he added, was the greatest affliction of his reign.

BOY DYING IN AN OUTHOUSE.

Little Robert Kane Taken from His Dissipated Mother.

The janitor of the flat, 146 East One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, heard moans in an outhouse in the rear yard early this morning. He tried to enter the place and failed.

Then he called Policeman Becknell, of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street station, who rapped on the door and succeeded in gaining admittance.

Inside he found Margaret Kane and her four-year-old son Robert Emerson Kane. The boy was dying, the result of exposure and neglect.

The woman and the boy were taken to the station and locked up. This morning Justice Feitner in the Harlem Police Court sent the woman to the island for three months. The child was taken to the Harlem Hospital, and it is not thought he will live.

Two years ago Mrs. Kane was committed to the island and the boy Robert sent to an institution. Later she reformed, and was earning good wages as a cook and the boy was returned to her. She soon went back to her old ways.
