DID SHE DIE OF A BEATING?

Patrick McGee Held to Answer for His Wife's Death.

She Was Taken to the Hospital in a Badly Bruised Condition.

Justice Watson, in the Ewen Street Court, Williamsburg, to-day held Patrick McGee, of 371 Knickerbocker avenue, to answer a charge of homicide.

McGee is a truckman, twenty-eight years old, and lived with his wife and three small children at the above address. From all accounts he has brutally ill-treated his wife on numerous occasions, and she had frequently complained of his conduct.

On Friday Mrs. McGee went to the house of her sister, Mrs. John Gallagher, 215 North Eighth street, and told her she had been beaten and kicked by her husband.

She then became seriously ill, and an ambulance was summoned, in which she was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital. There it was found her body was a mass of bruises, and it is understood that several of her ribs were broken, although the hospital authorities would not talk about the case to-day.

Everything possible was done for Mrs. McGee, but without avail, and she died early yesterday morning after suffering terrible agony. Coroner Creamer was notified, and he at once issued instructions for the arrest of McGee.

That night the fellow was met on the street by Policeman McCormick. There is reason to believe that the man meant to leave town, for he had $100, which he and his wife had hoarded up, in his pocket. He declined to make any statement, however, beyond simply asserting that he was not responsible for his wife's death.

Dr. Frank A. Freel has been ordered by Coroner Creamer to make a post-mortem examination to ascertain the cause of the woman's death.

GASHED WITH AN AXE.

Mrs. Afia Badly Wounded by Another Italian Woman.

Frak Guzzia and his wife Eliza, Italians, living at 110 Mott street, were held in the Tombs Court to-day to await the result of injuries inflicted upon Camia Afia, another Italian woman, who keeps a grocery at 171 Hester street.

The injured woman was unable to appear in court. Her physician, Dr. Bryant, of 107 Broome street, says she is in a serious condition.

According to her complaint, Mrs. Afia says she was sitting on the stoop of her grocery yesterday afternoon when Guzzia told her he would not trade with her any more.

Some words followed over the matter of a bill owed by Guzzia, and she says he struck her in the breast and dragged her off the stoop. He then ran away.

She followed him to his house, where Mrs. Guzzia met her at the door axe in hand. Mrs. Guzzia, she says, tried to strike her on the head, and eventually succeeded in bringing the blade down with force upon her stomach, inflicting a gash from which the blood spurted in all directions.

Mrs. Afia managed to drag herself downstairs, and fainted on the sidewalk. The police were notified, and arrests followed. Mrs. Afia is in a delicate condition, which renders her recovery doubtful.

RAISED A COLLECTION FOR HIM.

James Tracey Arrested for Swindling a Temperance Meeting.

James Tracey, who says he is a salesman, thirty-eight years old, and that he lives at 715 North Tenth street, Philadelphia, was sent to the penitentiary for six months by Justice Walsh in the Butler Street Police Court, Brooklyn, this morning.

Tracey was arrested last night and locked up in the Fifth avenue station. He entered a hall at the corner of Fifth avenue and Eighth street during a meeting of the Reserve Temperance Association.

He told the leader of the meeting that he had left a family sick and destitute at home in Eighteenth street, and no money to buy food and medicine. He told his story in a straightforward manner. The hat was passed around and the proceeds—$1.30—was given to him.

Two of the ushers suspected that the fellow was a swindler and followed him out on the street, where they saw him meet another man and divide the spoils. Both men then started for the nearest saloon. Tracey was arrested when he came out, but his confederate escaped.

CHURCH PEOPLE INDIGNANT.

Talk of a Meeting to Denounce the Arrest of the Salvationists.

The fourteen Salvation Army officers and privates arrested in Jersey City last night on the charge of obstructing a public thoroughfare by holding a meeting on the sidewalk were arraigned before Justice Kimmersley this morning.

Matthew Foster, a New York merchant, went bail for the prisoners. The hearing was postponed until Friday.

There is talk of an indignation meeting in one of the Jersey City Heights churches to protest against what the church people call a police outrage.

FOUR POLICEMEN TO ARREST HER

Mamie Johnson, a Mulatto, Tried to Stick Pins Into Men She Passed.

A plump young mulatto, who gave the name of Mamie Johnson, was fined $10 by Justice Walsh in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, to-day, for getting drunk and creating a disturbance on Myrtle avenue, shortly after midnight.

It required four policemen to take her to the station-house.

"She was b'iled," said one of the policemen in court to-day, "and she was trying to stick pins into every man she passed."

Tried to Drown Himself.

James Kelly, thirty-one years old, of 203 Hudson avenue, Brooklyn, attempted suicide by throwing himself from the Washington avenue bridge into Wallabout creek at 2 o'clock this morning.

He was rescued by Policemen McKenna and Rogers, of the Police boat Judge Moore, and removed to the Homeopathic Hospital. The physicians say that he is insane.

Died on the Sidewalk.

Martin O'Brien, twenty-seven years old, of 73 Truxton street, Brooklyn, was found dead this morning on the sidewalk, under the Chauncey street station of the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad. The police learned that he had been drinking heavily and fell off the platform of the station. The body was removed to the Quincy street station and Coroner Creamer was notified.

Here's Your Yellow Trunk.

The Brooklyn police are looking for the owner of a small trunk, painted yellow and black, which was found on the Prospect Park Plaza yesterday. A passport issued to William Weinberg, of Hatburg, Hanover, and a quantity of papers were all that the trunk contained.

Struck by an "L" Train.

Otto Scheuck, forty-six years old, of 146 Harrison street, Brooklyn, was struck by a train on the Union Elevated Railroad at Broadway and Dahlia place early this morning, and was badly injured about the alps.

NOLAN'S BODY COMING HOME.

Brooklyn Charities Commissioner Killed in Northeast, Pa.

Probably Walked Off the Train in a Somnambulistic Fit.

The news of the death of Charities Commissioner Francis Nolan, of Brooklyn, by falling from a train near Northeast, Pa., early yesterday morning was a great shock to-day to the people of Williamsburg, where he had lived for almost a lifetime. Assessor Thomas J. Patterson, who was Mr. Nolan's travelling companion on the trip to Chicago, has telegraphed that he will return with the body on a train which arrives at the Grand Central Depot at 2.10 this afternoon.

Francis Nolan was long prominent in the field of Brooklyn politics. He was a stanch Democrat always, and for twenty-four years the recognized leader in his ward. Mr. Nolan was born May 28, 1835, in Lewis street, this city, but removed to Brooklyn when ten years old, where he attended school, and eight years later went to Williamsburg, where he secured work in Heath's cooperage on North Sixth street.

In 1869 he was elected Alderman from the Fourteenth Ward, re-elected in 1871 and again in 1873. While still serving in the council he was elected Coroner and held that office for two terms, from 1874 to 1880, but was defeated for a third term.

In 1890 Supervisor-at-Large Quintard appointed him as Charities Commissioner and his term would have expired next month. It was understood that Supervisor-at-Large Kinkel had determined to reappoint him. Mr. Nolan leaves a widow, two children and four step-children.

BELLMORE'S SENSATION.

Mrs. Van Cott's Hearing Will Draw a Big Crowd.

BELLMORE, L. I., Sept. 4.—This locality is all worked up over the arrest of Mrs. Alice Touris and Mrs. Eugenia Van Cott. The arrest was caused by Mrs. Touris's husband, David, to whom she was secretly married a year ago.

The sensation comes up Friday before Justice James Seaman, in Wantagh.

Touris met his wife and Mrs. Van Cott, both of whom are young and pretty, with three young men and ordered her to go home.

Mrs. Van Cott, who is the daughter of Pastor Stephen C. Smith, of the Bellmore Presbyterian Church, refused to allow her to go. Then both went to Mrs. Touris's home. Mrs. Touris's father is Deacon J. H. Davis, of Parson Smith's church.

Touris charges Mrs. Van Cott with enticing his wife away from him. She and Mrs. Touris's parents charge him with vagrancy, and Parson Smith alleges that he and his daughter have been slandered.

Startling developments are expected at the hearing.

GARDENER MARTIN HELD.

Accused of Assaulting a Little Girl in Prospect Park.

Frank Martin, fifty years old, at one time a patient in the Flatbush Insane Asylum, Brooklyn, and now a gardener at that institution, was to-day held in $2,000 bail by Justice Sweeney, of Flatbush, charged with criminal assault on eleven-year-old Katie Morch, daughter of Barber Adam Morch, of Flatbush avenue and Civil line.

The evidence this morning tended to show that Martin met Katie last night on the street and by giving her candy and pennies persuaded her to go with him into Prospect Park.

There, it is said, he assaulted the child, and was discovered in the act by several men. Martin fled, pursued by a crowd of indignant citizens. He was caught as he was about to board a trolley car at the Willink entrance to the Park.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty, and was remanded in default of bail for examination on Wednesday.

PREFERS THE PENITENTIARY.

Kerrigan Wanted to Go Where He Could Get Nourishment.

William Kerrigan, of 934 Pacific street, Brooklyn, was arraigned before Justice Walsh, in the Adams Street Court, today charged with being drunk.

"You'd better go down to jail and visit the Warden for ninety days," said his Honor.

"Can't you make it the Penitentiary?" said the prisoner. "I don't want to go to jail. I want to go to some place where I can get some nourishment. I'm sick, Judge."

He was accommodated.

LOST TWO WATCHES IN A HUG.

Mrs. Annie McIntyre Accused of Robbing James Higgins.

Mrs. Annie McIntyre, who said she had no home, was held in the Ewen Street Court, Williamsburg, to-day on a charge of highway robbery.

James Higgins, of 38 Third street, this city, met Annie near Pottery Beach, Greenpoint, early yesterday morning, and complains that the woman after embracing him took two silver watches and a gold chain out of his pockets. Annie entered a vigorous denial, but was locked up.

WHERE IS EMMA DAVIS?

A Pretty Brooklyn Girl Missing from Her Home.

A general alarm was sent out by the Brooklyn police to-day for pretty Emma Iren Davis, seventeen years old, who left home, 1109 Pacific street, on Saturday at noon.

The description furnished the police is as follows: Light complexion, short light hair, blue eyes, tall and slim; wore a blue silk dress trimmed with black lace, light flanned cape, light straw hat trimmed with heliotrope and daisies.

Found Dead in Bed.

BATES DENIES THE MARRIAGE.

The Clubman Says Miss McGrath Is Not His Wife.

She Printed the Notice, He Claims, Out of Revenge.

Notwithstanding that his marriage notice was printed in the morning papers to-day, Mr. Charles F. Bates, this popular horseman and man about town, says he is still a bachelor.

He also claims that the woman who says she is his wife is still Annetta F. McGrath.

The marriage notice that is causing either amazement or amusement in the horsey set in which young Bates moves is as follows:

BATES—MCGRATH.—Charles F. Bates to Annetta F. McGrath, July 17, 1889.

The notice was inserted by the self-claimed Mrs. Bates, who is quoted as saying that she and Bates were married by a minister, whose name she would not give, in the Newport home of the father of Mr. Bates. He is C. Francis Bates, a dealer in furs at 17 Washington place.

The elder Mr. Bates, Miss McGrath says, is wealthy, and had picked out a wife for his son. For this reason, she claimed, the marriage was kept secret. The young man lived with his father and sister in the Dakota Flats, Seventy-second street and Central Park West, according to her story, while also keeping up an establishment at 31 West Sixty-third street, in which she lived as Mrs. C. Bates. The name appears on the door plate.

The announcement of the marriage, she said, was made because her character had been attacked, and she considered a good name better than her father-in-law's riches.

The story told by Mr. Bates this morning at the stables of the New York Coach and Cab Company, of which he is President, was altogether different.

He admitted that he had been living with Miss McGrath, and that he rented the flat at 31 West Sixty-third street, but he denied ever having married her.

"It all came about over a quarrel we had at the Fleetwood races on Saturday," he said.

"She came there, and as there was a possibility of a scene, I sent her home. She said then she would have revenge, and now you see the way she is getting it.

"The marriage certificate, if she has got one, is a forgery. She followed me to Newport once, but I sent her back.

"Besides, our house at Newport hasn't been open for eight years, so you see her story wasn't well put together.

"As for my father having a wife picked out for me, that's—

Mr. Bates couldn't finish the sentence for laughing. He assured the reporter, however, that he was at liberty to marry who ever he pleased.

He said Miss McGrath had made a scene before his father in the Dakota flats last Winter, but further that she knew nothing about the man she claims is her father-in-law.

Miss McGrath, or Mrs. Bates, claims to be the daughter of Hugh McGrath, who keeps a men's furnishing store at 35 Sixth avenue. She has a brother who is a physician at 235 Lexington avenue.

The flat in which she lives is furnished elegantly. A servant said this morning that Bates frequently entertained his friends there, and called her mistress Mrs. Bates. The latter went out of town to-day.

Young Mr. Bates attained some fame recently by defeating Barclay Warburton of Philadelphia, in a tooling match from the Hotel Waldorf to Manhattan Field.

MRS. DRESSLER'S FRIEND.

Maggie Washington Tried to Raise Money to Bury the Poor Woman.

Maggie Washington, a comely mulatto girl of 138 Chrystie street, called at "The Evening World" office to-day in reference to the death of Mrs. Dressler. This poor woman, as told in Saturday's "Evening World," died a few days ago at St. Joseph's Home from fatty degeneration of the heart. She had undergone an operation at Bellevue Hospital, where both legs were amputated. She was supplied with artificial members by readers of "The Evening World," who responded nobly to the appeal made in her behalf.

Through her long illness Mrs. Dressler was faithfully nursed by Maggie, whose mother formerly did washing for the afflicted woman. After leaving the hospital Mrs. Dressler found a home with the Washington family until her removal to St. Joseph's Home.

After Mrs. Dressler's death Maggie went around among her neighbors and tried to raise enough money to save her from burial in Potter's field. Owing to the hard times, she was unable to get more than $12.50 of the necessary $35. Hearing that she could dispose of Mrs. Dressler's artificial limbs for $40, Maggie procured them from the sisters at the Home, but this resource was unavailing, and the limbs are now at the Washington house awaiting disposition.

"The Evening World," as told Saturday, learned of Mrs. Dressler's death and buried the poor cripple. Maggie then returned the money collected to the parties who contributed. She was evidently very much attached to Mrs. Dressler, and spoke feelingly of her sad death and base desertion by her husband.

SIX SMALL-POX CASES.

All Taken from the Tenement at 186 Madison Street.

Five people suffering from small-pox were sent to North Brother Island this morning from Reception Hospital. They were discovered yesterday by the Health Inspectors in a tenement at 186 Madison street.

They were Isaac Garden, six months old; Mamie Murphy, four years old; John Murphy, thirty-four years old; Jacob Steir, seven years old, and Pauline Bernstein, nine months old.

The usual precaution in disinfecting the premises and vaccinating the tenants of the neighborhood was observed. The source of contagion, it is supposed, was through John Murphy mingling with a family at 37 Cherry street, where small-pox had broken out.

Mollie Goldberg, ten years old, was also found at 186 Madison street this morning suffering from small-pox, and was sent to North Brother Island.

ROBB REFUSES TO PLEAD.

Brooklyn City Railroad's Timekeeper Arraigned To-Day.

Timekeeper Thomas Robb, of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, who is accused of robbing the Company of several thousand dollars while receiving a salary of $18 a week, was brought before Justice Walsh, in the Adams Street Court, this morning and asked to plead to a charge of grand larceny in the second degree.

He refused to plead and at his own request his examination was set for Wednesday morning. A representative of the Company told Justice Walsh that an inspection of the books for the last thirteen weeks indicated that Robb had stolen upward of $5,000.

WHO MURDERED THIS MAN?

Body with Four Bullet Wounds Found Near Woodbury, N. J.

Eight Colored People Under Arrest on Suspicion.

WOODBURY, N. J., Sept. 4.—The authorities here are trying to solve what is undoubtedly a case of murder. The victim is an unknown man, apparently a German, whose body, containing four bullet wounds, was found yesterday in Ladd's woods by two colored men.

There are locked up in the County Jail at this place eight colored persons, four men and four women, who were arrested by Sheriff Packer and Detective Garrison on suspicion of being concerned in the man's death. They were all more or less drunk when they were brought to the jail.

This morning they had sobered up, but Prosecutor Percy refused to allow them to converse with each other, and order was kept in separate cells pending the investigation, which is now being made.

The prisoners told Sheriff Packer that they were out attending a picnic about two miles from Woodbury on Saturday night and started to return home early Sunday morning in a wagon, when they were arrested. They all claim that they had no knowledge of how the man, whose body is now in the morgue, met his death.

County Physician Abbott this morning held an autopsy and found a bullet hole in the right breast, one in the right arm and two in the back, one of the latter being under the right shoulder, while the other bullet hole was in the middle of the back.

There were marks of powder about one or two of the wounds, which showed that the pistol was held close to the body when the shots were fired.

The place where the body was found is a lonesome spot about a mile north of the city and a hundred yards from the Westville turnpike. The spot is surrounded by thick shrubbery. There were tracks from a wagon leading from the main road almost to the spot where the body lay. There were also indications that the body had been dragged from the wagon to the spot where it was found.

The dead man, who had the features of a German about forty years of age, was five feet nine inches in height and weighed about 165 pounds. He had a dark mustache and goatee. The third and index fingers of his right hand were crippled and he had a ship tattooed on the right forearm below the elbow.

The pockets of the clothing were turned inside out, and this clearly showed that the man had been robbed after being murdered.

WAS ROSENBURG MURDERED?

One of Three Men in a Boat Strangely Disappears.

The Jersey City police are at work to-day on the case of Lawrence Rosenburg, a saloon-keeper, of Clay and Ogden streets, Newark, who was reported to have been drowned in Newark Bay, near Richard Ulrich's pleasure resort, in Greenville, last night. It is suspected that two men, who were with him threw him into the bay.

The three men rowed from Newark yesterday to Ulrich's place. Rosenburg became quarrelsome. He showed considerable money and paid all the bills.

The three got into the boat at 7 o'clock and started for Newark. When a little way from the shore Rosenburg fell out of the oars, knocking him overboard. Rosenburg helped his companion pull the man out of the water, and the three disappeared in the direction of Newark.

Nearly an hour afterwards the two men who had accompanied Rosenburg rowed back to Ulrich's place and reported that Rosenburg had fallen overboard and was drowned. They then got into the boat and rowed away.

It is suspected they robbed Rosenburg and threw him overboard.

BRIDE AND GROOM DYING.

A Wedding Trip Begun in Italy Ended by Gas.

A wedding tour begun in Italy, and which was to have included the World's Fair, has ended sadly in this city.

Ten days ago, in the province of Torino, Italy, the marriage of Quinzo Ferona, forty-eight years old, and his bride, Augustina, twenty-three years of age, was celebrated. The happy couple at once started for this country on their wedding trip, intending to visit the World's Fair.

They arrived here yesterday on the French steamship La Champagne, and occupied a room at the Hotel Del Compodaglio, 154 Bleecker street.

Ferona and his wife were to have started for Chicago to-day. When the servant knocked at their room this morning it was discovered that gas was escaping.

The couple were found unconscious in their room. They were sent to St. Vincent's hospital in a dying condition.

TERRORIZED A TRAIN.

Two Men from Rye Fined in the Yorkville Court.

Charles Slaney and Albert McDonald, two citizens of Rye, N. Y., were fined $10 each for disorderly conduct in the Yorkville Police Court this forenoon.

The pair boarded a New York, New Haven and Hartford train last evening to come to New York. They at once began to raise a rumpus, and so frightened some of the more timid passengers that they left the car.

Between Woodlawn and Williamsbridge Slaney and McDonald thought it would be fun to clear the car. They did it in short order, and after gaining possession of the coach proceeded to smash things up generally.

Their fun was stopped by Railroad Detective Cosgrove, who caused their arrest when the train arrived at the Grand Central Depot.

Both culprits were very penitent this morning and paid their fines with great alacrity.

Labor Day Elsewhere.

BUFFALO, Sept. 4.—For the Labor Day parade this morning there were ten divisions in line, representing about fifty organizations, and aggregating over 5,000 men. This afternoon a grand picnic and athletic games will be held at Riverside Park.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Labor Day was observed in Washington by an excursion of the Bricklayers' Association to Bay Ridge, where the excursionists were joined by the Knights of Labor, Assembly and the Horseshoers' Association.

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—The wage-earners had beautiful weather for their celebration to-day, and Labor Day was more extensively observed in this section before. The chief feature of the meeting was the big procession, in which marched nearly 15,000 men.

ROME, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Labor Day is being celebrated here under the auspices of Fort Stanwix Council, O. U. A. M. This forenoon there was a big parade of civic and military companies, including organizations from Syracuse, Oneida, Little Falls and other places.

HOUSE-TO-HOUSE INSPECTION.

Jersey City Authorities Believe There Is No More Contagion.

It was very quiet at Health Inspector Benjamin's office this morning. The Inspector said he had no new case of cholera to report, and if none was found to-day he would believe that the contagion had been stamped out.

Health inspectors are going from house to house in West Bergen, and the quarantine on State street and the Jersey City Hospital is continued.

Bitten by Her Pet Dog.

Eight-year-old Grace Breslin, of 124 Adams street, Brooklyn, was bitten on the hand by her pet dog, with which she was playing in front of her home this morning. The animal was shot.
