EMMA GOLDMAN ARRAIGNED.

She Pleaded Not Guilty and Said She Would Defend Herself.

Justus Schwab May Offer Himself as Bondsman for Her.

Emma Goldman, who has been indicted for "inciting to riot," pleaded not guilty before Judge Fitzgerald in Part 1, of the General Sessions this morning.

She was brought to this city Saturday night from Philadelphia, where she was arrested on Aug. 31, at the request of Supt. Byrnes, on three charges of inciting people to riot.

The prisoner did not attempt to evade the crowd which had congregated about the building to catch a glimpse of her, but appeared to court the notoriety she has gained for herself.

Many reels of red tape had to be undergone before she could be arraigned in court. She was first placed in the Detective Bureau connected with the District-Attorney's office. Then she was escorted upstairs, down again to the District-Attorney's office and finally into Part 1, of the General Sessions.

She was dressed in a blue Eton suit, which was somewhat awry, wore a small straw hat and had on a pair of gold-rimmed eyeglasses. She walked back and forth with a swinging gait and acted as though the matter was of little consequence.

Several Anarchists were in the corridor of the building as early as 9.30 o'clock. Among them were Justus Schwab and Otto Poukert. The former, it is said, will offer himself as her bondsman later in the day.

From the time she was brought into the building until her arraignment in court she was in a small private room with Jacobs and Kranich. Jacobs carried a bundle of legal documents. The three carried on an animated conversation and Miss Goldman often could be heard talking in a loud tone.

At 11.25 she was taken into Part 1, of the General Sessions. A seat was given her in the centre of the room. In a careless manner she kept tipping her chair backward and forward and gazed about the court in a brazen manner.

Five minutes later Clerk Hall called out "Emma Goldman to the bar." She arose and stepped quickly forward. To the three indictments against her she entered a plea of not guilty.

Assistant District-Attorney Davis asked her if she had a lawyer or desired counsel assigned. She said she would not accept counsel.

This was communicated to Judge Fitzgerald. He repeated Mr. Davis's question in regard to counsel, to which she replied:

"I will not accept counsel assigned by the Court as I will defend myself."

She was then committed to the Tombs without bail. She walked back to the prisoners' pen, holding her head up proudly and nodded to Schwab and Peukert as she passed them. No day was set for the trial.

Praise Is Good

For any medicine you hear about, but to be made well by its use is still better. I have for many years suffered with an irritable itching all over my body, and my left leg swelled and became so sore I had to give up work. Physicians prescribed for me for scrofula, but did not cure me. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me immediate relief, drove all disease out of my blood and gave me perfect rest.—W. O. ## ALLEGED MRS. BATES IN COURT.

She Makes Her Debut as Defendant in a Judgment Suit.

The young woman of whom the public is unable to judge whether she is Mrs. Bates, the wife of Charles F. Bates, or Miss McGrath, made her debut in court this morning. She appeared in proceedings brought before Justice Fitzsimmons, of the City Court, on a judgment in default of $95.55, obtained in 1891. The complainant is John Odell, who claims that amount for keeping the fancy horse and cart Mr. Bates claims he gave her.

On account of this being a Hebrew holiday and the attorneys being of that faith the young woman addressed the Court herself and while the plaintiff looked on with speechless wonder, modestly requested that the case be continued. "Just as long as you can, Your Honor," she said. Relyea Lockwood could not have pleaded more earnestly for a lengthy adjournment but Justice Fitzsimmons would only grant until Friday.

The lady defendant was dressed in a charming Autumn suit, and while, of course, her charming manner could have no effect on such justice, every one in the courtroom concluded that when the three cents suit against young Charley Bates is called the bright appearance and modest manner of the complainant will have more effect with a jury than lawyers' pleas.

After the adjournment was secured Mrs. Bates, if that is her name, said Mr. Bates had told her the Odell bill had been paid. She will endeavor to prove that is Mr. Bates's wife and then suit will have to be brought against him.

MRS. BOONE IS BETTER.

Refused a Doctor, as Her Stepdaughter's Thought Her Shamming.

Mrs. Elizabeth Boone, who was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, Williamsburg, Saturday night, suffering from typhoid fever, is reported as being much improved today.

With her husband and stepdaughters she occupied apartments at 585 Broadway. For the past three weeks she has been ill, but the members of her family refused to send for a doctor, claiming she was shamming.

Saturday night she managed to drag herself out of the house and fell fainting on the sidewalk. An ambulance was summoned, and she was taken to the hospital, although her stepdaughters objected on the ground that she was only pretending to be ill.

MME. WRIGHT'S MURDERERS.

One of Them Confesses on Being Arrested in Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 11.—John Clark and Henry Jones have been arrested for the murder of Mme. Jane Wright, an employment agent at 8 West Ninth street, who was found dead, bound hand and foot, in her office at 7 o'clock Saturday night. Clark has just been released from the Kansas Penitentiary, and Jones is a cook.

Clark's arrest was brought about by his giving a bookkeeper a watch marked with the initials of the murdered woman. Clark confessed and implicated Jones.

FOUGHT IN SHINBONE ALLEY.

Crump Knocked O'Neill Out with a Truck Stake.

Daniel Crump, a colored man, of 16 1-2 Downing street, was held in Jefferson Market to-day to await the result of George O'Neill's injuries.

While passing through Shinbone alley last night Crump pulled against O'Neill, who was accompanied by four friends. A fight ensued. Crump declares the five then attacked him. He seized a truck stake and knocked O'Neill senseless.

O'Neill was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain. He may die.

Shinbone alley is a narrow thoroughfare between Bleecker and West Houston streets, just east of Broadway.

CIGAR THIEVES CAUGHT.

Mack and King Said to Be Concerned in Big Thefts.

John Mack, driver for Thomas Laughlin, of Sixty-ninth street and First avenue, and Frank King, of 101 East Seventy-fourth street, were remanded in Jefferson Market this morning.

Freight, generally cigars in cases, has been stolen systematically for some time past from the freight depot of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad at Thirtieth street and Eleventh avenue.

Complaint was made to Inspector McLaughlin and on Saturday last his detectives arrested the two men.

The detectives saw Mack drive a truckload of cases in cases to the freight depot. King was with him.

After getting a receipt the detectives saw a big three, one of the cases took on the truck and then Mack drove off with it.

The case of cigars they thus seen to steal were valued at $500.

BEAT WATCHMAN AND OFFICER.

Young Cables Landed in a Cell After a Hard Tussle.

Thomas Cables, aged nineteen, of 25 East Ninety-first street, was held for examination in the Harlem Police Court this morning on a charge of assault.

Yesterday afternoon Cables and other young men were playing ball in Ninety-first street in front of Alfred Hoppe, a watchman, at Ninety-fourth street and Fifth avenue.

Hoppe told them to desist, when he was jumped on by Cables and badly beaten.

Policeman Burns, of the East Eighty-eighth street station, attempted to arrest Cables, but he ran up into his house.

Burns followed, but when he reached Cables's room he was set upon by the gang and badly roughed up. He succeeded, however, in landing Cables in the station house.
