FRIDAY EVENING, DEC. 9.

AN OUTLAW'S SWEETHEART.—The robbers used frequently to shoot at targets in company with their sweethearts, in the shooting the girls making sometimes almost as good a score as the men, and the yells that would rend the air as one's favorite lady would split the ballet on the half dollar as it fell toward the ground would have done justice to a border scene. Nor were the young ladies behind them in constrictiveness, Miss Ryan, in particular, often boasting that she could drop the nickle as often in the race as any of the boys. It may be proper here to explain the modus operandi of "nickle race." A nickle or other small coin is placed in the forks of a tree, about the distance from the ground that a man's shoulder would be while on horseback. Each party has one shot at it as he flies by on his horse at full speed. The ladies take their regular turns, and Miss Ryan has been known to drop the nickle three times out of five races, and that she is indeed at home in the saddle is demonstrated by the fact that when alighting from her favorite horse, a powerful black charger, she simply raises in the saddle and leaps to the ground, while her horse walks to the nearest hitching-post to await his rider. When she is ready to remount, her intelligent horse comes at her call, and taking the saddle by the pommel she bounds into it and is off at a fast gallop, the only gait she ever rides.—St. Louis Chronicle.

WHEN STONEWALL JACKSON WAS FRIGHTENED.—I recollect asking "Stonewall" who was my cousin, if he had ever been frightened in war. He said yes, once he had been considerably under a sense of fear. It was in the City of Mexico. A chest containing a large sum of money had been put in Lieut. Jackson's charge, and to be perfectly secure of it he ordered it carried to his headquarters, in an old abbey or convent, and laid down there alone in a room with it to sleep, a sentinel walking the corridor outside. He had been there in bed only a few minutes, and was getting drowsy, when he distinctly heard something under his bed, which lifted up as if a man was secreted there. Jackson said he leaped out of bed and drew his sword and examined the bed and the room in vain. Jackson then supposed he had been possibly dreaming and resumed his bed. Just as he was thinking it was all a mistake his bed lifted again, plainly and with some force. He started forth a second time, sword in hand, and behold! nothing was there. "This time," said he; "I was scared indeed, till my attention was called to a shouting outside in the street, and then I found that it was an earthquake passing under the City of Mexico that had lifted my bed up and given me such apprehension."—An Anecdote by Gov. Jackson of West Virginia

AUCTION SALES.

PUBLIC SALE
OF THE
WASHINGTON & OHIO R. R.

Under authority of a decree of the Circuit Court of Richmond city, rendered April 23, 1880, in the suit of Henry Lewis et als. vs. the W. & O. R. R. Company et als., and affirmed by the Court of Appeals of Virginia at its September term, 1881, the undersigned, special Commissioners, will, at 12 o'clock m., on the 31st day of January, 1882,

at the railroad depot of the Washington and Ohio Railroad Company, in the city of Alexandria, Va., offer at public auction the
including that partly and that wholly constructed, and also all and singular all the works and property, real, personal and mixed, rolling stock, locomotives, cars, &c., and all rights, contracts and franchises of said Washington and Ohio Railroad Company.

The said property consists of a constructed line of railway in active operation from the city of Alexandria, Va., westward through the counties of Alexandria, Fairfax and Loudoun to Round Hill station, in Loudoun county, a distance of 51½ miles, including a line connecting with the Washington and Alexandria Railroad. The road is also graded beyond Round Hill for a distance of three miles.

The other real property of the company consists of a large brick depot building and freight house, in the city of Alexandria, a round house, machine shop, car shop, car shed, store house &c., and about fifteen acres of land adjacent thereto; also eleven depot houses and lots at the eleven principal stations between Alexandria and Round Hill.

According to the route surveyed the distance from Washington city to Point Pleasant, on the Ohio river, is three hundred and twenty-five miles, and passes through a country heavily timbered and of great mineral resources.

Terms. The entire property, real, personal and mixed, franchises, &c., is sold together, and for the same the purchaser must pay fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) of the purchase money in cash, and the residue in four equal annual payments, with interest from the day of sale, which said payments are to be evidenced by bonds which are to be secured by a deed of trust upon the property sold, to be executed upon the confirmation of the sale and conveyance to the purchaser.

This sale is subject to the lien of the deed of trust executed August 6th, 1858 to indemnify the county of Clarke State of Virginia, against liability for the annual interest on the bonds of the said county for the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) "up to and until the time when said road shall be commenced, and under construction in said county of Clarke;" and against liability for the payments of the principal of said bonds in case they shall become due and payable before the road shall be commenced and under construction in said county, the said bonds falling due in the year 1892.

The purchaser will be entitled to the net profits of the road from the day of sale.
