LUNATICS AT FLATBUSH.

Kings County Buildings Are Badly Overcrowded.

Patients Sleeping Three in a Bed and on the Floor.

Many complaints have been made of the overcrowded condition of the county buildings at Flatbush. In every annual report of the superintendents of the various institutions attention has been called to this fact.

A visit to the asylum and hospital shows that the trouble has not been exaggerated. The four new buildings at the County Farm at St. Johnland are nearly completed, and are expected to be ready for occupancy by Nov. 1. These buildings will partly relieve the buildings at Flatbush, but it is apparent that more buildings are needed.

Between the hospital and insane asylum at Flatbush is a building known as the nursery. At present this building is filled with lunatics. When the St. Johnland buildings are ready, the inmates of the nursery will be transferred. This building will then be devoted to hospital uses, and the asylum will be in as bad a condition as at present.

Supt. Sylvester, of the Insane Asylum, frequently refuses to receive more patients, but they are sent to him, and he is compelled to squeeze them in. The rooms at the asylum, which should be devoted to work and amusements, are now used as dormitories. In several rooms patients are compelled to sleep on mattresses on the floor, other rooms intended for two patients are occupied by eight.

The same conditions prevail at the hospital. Dr. Duryea says that in some rooms two cots are moved up together to accommodate three patients.

The receiving wards, built to house ten or a dozen persons now shelter between thirty and thirty-five.

It is said that as soon as the St. Johnland buildings are completed the Commissioners will formulate plans for erecting a couple of new structures. The new buildings will be constructed on the same general plan as the present buildings, except that improvements will be made in the interior.

Threw a Plate at Her.

James Collins, living at 688 Greenwich street, quarreled with his wife last night and threw a plate at her. It missed her, but struck his little daughter Kate on the knee, causing a lacerated wound, which was dressed by an ambulance surgeon at the Charles street police station. Collins escaped.

Scrofula

Permeates humanity. It is thoroughly infused into the blood. Scarcely a man is wholly free from it, in one form or another. It clings tenaciously and will not be cured until the last vestige of its poison is driven from the blood by the power of a good blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Many of the cures of Scrofula accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla have been nothing less than wonderful. Cases which were considered absolutely hopeless have been cured by it, and the people to-day live and enjoy good health.

If you suffer from any form of Scrofula or any other affection caused by impure blood, you should certainly take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Remember

HORSEWHIPPED BY HIS WIFE.

Emerich Ran and the Crowd Thought He Was a Thief.

A black derby hat, almost new, is in possession of Baker Andrew Zise, of 122 Siegel street, Williamsburg, today. It is the property of William Emerich, who was horsewhipped by his wife while talking to a handsome young woman in Siegel street last night.

Mrs. Emerich and her mother found Emerich talking to the young woman, and pulled out a cowhide whip and lashed him over the head and [illegible]. The young woman screamed and tried to run, but the elder woman held her while Mrs. Emerich continued to belabor impartially.

The assault ran down Siegel street followed by a crowd. He ran for a number of blocks, and was being hooted off by the crowds, who thought he was a thief trying to escape, and handled him roughly. [illegible] a policeman rescued Emerich, who by this time was completely used up.

"I've been married to this man for five years," said Mrs. Emerich, "and of late he has been very attentive to other women. I have reasoned with him time and time again, but without effect. To-night we followed him, caught him with this woman and then gave him his."

No arrests were made, and the wife went home with her husband.

SENOR MARENO A SUICIDE.

He Was in a Strange Land and Out of Employment.

The body of Senor Mateo Mareno, whose passport showed him to be a native of San Domingo and an engineer by profession, was taken to the Morgue from his room, 5 Willoughby street, Brooklyn, this morning.

Mareno had been out of employment for some time. He was in delicate health. He was thirty-five years of age.

Pawn tickets for jewelry indicated his poverty, and despondency prompted him to commit suicide. He severed the veins on his left forearm and left thigh with a razor. His door was broken in at 11 o'clock last night, as his landlady, Mrs. Hamilton, had become suspicious. His body was rigid, as if he had died seven or eight hours previous.

His naturalization papers were issued in New York County, on Aug. 27, 1878. He had two addresses in his book, Salvador Ross, 51 West Twenty-first street, and Gregori D. Herrera, 225 Bleecker street, N. Y.

SCHNEIDER'S STRANGE DEATH.

He Was Found with His Head Crushed.

FLUSHING, Oct. 6. The Flushing police, with the aid of the Coroner, this morning began the hunt for the assailant or assailants of Henry Schneider, who died yesterday in the Flushing Hospital from a fractured skull.

Schneider was found several days ago in a doubtful condition and bleeding from a terrible wound in the head. A stone covered with blood, with which his skull had been crushed in, was found near him. At the hospital he recovered sufficiently to tell his name and about his being robbed.

The murdered man was not known in Flushing, and is supposed to have worked as a laborer in a neighboring farm.

WAR ON THE COFFIN TRUST.

Undertakers Claim It Has Violated an Agreement.

The organized undertakers of New York and Brooklyn are up in arms against the coffin and casket trust.

The undertakers claim that caskets are being sold by the Trust to people who are not in the Undertakers' Association. This, they say, is a violation of the agreement of last Spring.

The 250 union undertakers in Brooklyn threaten to call a meeting of their association early next week. At this meeting it is said that matters will be definitely settled or the members will refuse to support the Trust.

ADAM STUTTS ON TRIAL.

Indicted with Arthur Randolph for Abducting a Little Girl.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 6.—Adam Stutts, jointly indicted with Arthur Randolph, of South Plainfield, for abducting Annie, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Jacob Kilmer, of Washington Valley, was placed on trial to-day in the Somerset County Court.

Randolph, who is married, about forty years of age, was tried Wednesday and convicted. He will be sentenced Oct. 12. He has a daughter seventeen years of age.

Annie Kilmer is a well-developed girl. She has not yet recovered from the treatment she received. The story she told in court was that in August she was induced to leave her father's home by Randolph and Stutts. It was understood that Stutts was to take another girl from Plainfield. Randolph and the girl were traced to Glen Gardner and then to Phillipsburg, Pa.

Shortly after his arrest, aided the authorities to find Randolph and the girl.

CLERGYMEN IN POLITICS.

They Mean to Make Trouble for Jersey Race Tracks.

Many Protestant clergymen of Jersey City have determined to take an active part in this Fall's political campaign. They held a meeting in the Second Presbyterian Church, in Third street, Jersey City, last night, and adopted resolutions requesting all churches in the city to appoint committees on moral reform, which, union, will form a central committee to fight illegal liquor selling and race track gambling. They also demand the nominating of a candidate for Sheriff opposed to race track gambling and illegal liquor selling, and that candidates for the Assembly be pledged to the repeal of the vicious legislation of last Winter.

Pastor Roudder said the committee would send communications to the churches before Sunday and would report on the answers at a mass-meeting in the Second Presbyterian Church next Tuesday evening.
