A SOCIETY TRAGEDY.

Married Belle at Omaha Shoots Her Lover on the Street.

Says She Tried to Get Him to Confess to Her Husband.

Attributes His Influence Over Her to Mesmeric Power.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Ella Rudiger, a prominent and handsome society leader, walked up to Henry J. Reiser on a busy thoroughfare of South Omaha last night, fired a bullet through his brain, and followed the murder with an effort at self-destruction.

Reiser was a well-known young single man and a member of a number of popular Omaha social clubs. He was connected with the management of John Cudahy's packing interests in Omaha.

Mrs. Ella Rudiger is the wife of a well-known Omaha resident, who is also connected with the Cudahy interests in this city.

It was 8 o'clock when three shots from a heavy calibre revolver startled the hundreds of people passing the corner of Twenty-fourth and J streets. Immediately following the reports the bodies of a man and a woman, handsomely dressed, fell to the pavement. She was within a foot of her victim.

The first shot, she claims, was fired to cause the young man to turn around, but he did not turn. She then sent a bullet into his body.

The excited woman gazed at her awful work and then pinned the revolver at her head and pulled the trigger. The ball grazed her hair and dazed her. She talked freely of what she had done and continually asked: "Is he dead yet? Yes, I shot to kill. It was for my husband to do, but he would not, and so I did it myself. The wretch has given me enough cause and I hope I have accomplished what I undertook.

"I have known Mr. Reiser for about two years, but intimately for only about one year," she continued. "I loved the man at first, and do not deny it. My conduct has worked on my mind until I concluded to make a clean breast of it to my husband. I did so.

"I then wanted Mr. Reiser to admit our relations to my husband in order that he might get a divorce. This Mr. Reiser refused to do. He denied everything to my husband. Reiser used to talk to me about running away with him but of late he had not.

"I watched for him when he passed up the street this evening. We met on Twenty-fourth street and talked for about thirty minutes. I urged him to go to my husband and make a confession, but he refused to do so. As we were about to separate I drew my pistol, which I had in my pocket, and fired one shot in the air, in the hope of making him stop. When he did not stop or turn around, I fired to strike him.

"When he fell, I placed the weapon at my own head with the intention of ending my life, and pulled the trigger. I am sorry I did not succeed—no, I am not, either. I am too good a woman to die for such a fiend as he was."

Mrs. Rudiger wrote a long letter a few hours before the tragedy, in which she explained that Reiser's influence was the result of mesmeric power, and she could only break the spell by killing him. She is now in jail.

NO ONE TO CLAIM HER BODY.

The Drowned Woman Still in the Morgue Unidentified.

Keeper White Says that in Life She Was Beautiful.

The body of the young woman taken from the East River at the foot of East Fourteenth street is still at the Morgue unidentified. Morgue-Keeper White says the woman was once beautiful, although four days in the water have destroyed all evidences of beauty.

The clothes worn by the woman indicate that she had been in good circumstances. She had small hands and feet.

Albert Thompson, who is in command of one of the city scows, discovered the body floating in the water a short distance off the Fourteenth street dump. A gust of wind caught a long tress of dark-brown hair, and Thompson then knew it was a woman's head. An eddy made by the strong tide brought the body to the surface, and it floated with its entire length visible. A mass of brown hair floated about the woman's head. Thompson got into a boat and towed the body to the dock.

Policeman Lawlor, of the Union Market station, made an examination of the clothing, but found nothing that might lead to an identification except a pocketbook with the letter D in steel on the flap. The pocketbook contained $2.55 and a small key.

The body was taken to the Morgue, where the following description was entered:

About twenty-three years old, five feet six inches in height, very long dark brown hair. Several teeth on the left side of the lower jaw missing. Weight about 135 pounds.

The young woman wore a black cloth sacque trimmed with astrakhan fur. Her waist and skirt were of blue serge. The trimming on each was black satin. One petticoat had a gray and white stripe running through it. On the chemise there was some fancy needlework. The stockings were a very light brown. The corsets were white and blue. The shoes were buttoned and of good quality. In the pocket of the dress was found a pair of tan kid gloves.

Morgue-Keeper White says that the body had been in the water four or five days. Notwithstanding this it is comparatively well preserved. No marks of violence were noticeable on the body. It is believed that the body of a woman so well dressed is missing so long without some inquiry being made, but the police say that no report has been turned in of the disappearance of a woman answering her description.

The body is in one of the new ice-boxes recently built at the Morgue. It will be kept as long as possible before being buried in Potter's Field.

To Prevent

The Grip, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Pneumonia and the numerous ills made epidemic by cold, damp weather of autumn, your blood must be pure, active, and your body in healthy condition. STOLE $5,000 IN GOODS.

Porter Schopke and His Wife Confess to the Robbery.

Vantine & Co. Systematically Plundered for Months.

Detectives Reap and Holland, of Inspector McLaughlin's staff, arraigned in the Tombs Police Court this morning Ernst Schopke, thirty years old, and his wife, Amelia, thirty-eight, of 378 Willis avenue, on the charge of grand larceny. They pleaded guilty and will be arraigned to-morrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Schopke were jointly accused of robbing the firm of Vantine & Company, of 879 Broadway, in which firm the man has been employed as a porter, of $5,000 worth of bric-a-brac and costly silk goods.

The pilfering has been going on for more than twelve months, the guilty pair confessed. Two weeks ago a representative of the firm reported to the Central Office that goods were disappearing mysteriously from the store.

Detectives Reap and Holland were given the case. Last evening they followed Porter Schopke when he left the store carrying a bundle, to a Bowery pawnshop, and there saw him dispose of some rare bric-a-brac.

Schopke was arrested. He first denied the crime when charged, but when brought before the Inspector confessed all.

The husband implicated his wife. The detectives made a search of the Schopke house later, and found a wagon load of costly goods, all of which were taken to Police Headquarters.

This morning three employees of Vantine & Company went there and identified the property.

A number of pawn tickets, calling for goods disposed of, were produced by the guilty couple. A large part of all the stolen goods will be recovered.

PEDESTRIANS HAVE RIGHTS.

Court of Appeals Defines Their Privileges on Sidewalks.

The Court of Appeals has just handed down a very important decision affecting the rights of pedestrians to the exclusive use of the sidewalks.

Frank Gaff, a boy thirteen years of age, while walking through Jay street on Nov. 17, 1890, was struck by a wagon belonging to Frederick Akers.

He brought suit through his counsel, Alfred and Charles Steckler, and recovered a verdict against Akers in the Superior Court for $1,000.

Mr. Steckler claimed that the boy having tripped on the sidewalk by the boy being caught between the platform and the rear end of the wagon, it was negligence on the part of the driver to come on the sidewalk in disregard of the rights of pedestrians.

The defendant appealed to the Supreme Court General Term, and that Court affirmed the judgment. The defendant then took the case to the Court of Appeals, and that court to-day handed down a decision upholding the right of the public to the use of the street and that the sidewalks belonged to the pedestrians.

POLICEMAN A PRISONER.

Arraigned While in Uniform Charged with Abandonment.

Policeman John J. Churchill, of the West Twentieth street station, in full uniform, was brought up in the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning on complaint of his wife Mary, who charged him with abandonment and non-support. The pair have not lived happily together for years. Mrs. Churchill said her husband gave her $5 a week recently to buy coal. When she asked him for money to purchase food he told her to eat the coal.

Churchill denied his wife's story, and said that he had a flat at 214 West Eighty-eighth street, and that she was welcome there.

The examination in the case was adjourned until Monday. The policeman was paroled.

GOSSIP OF THE TURF.

Linden's Meeting a Very Successful One in Every Respect.

Mike Dwyer Heads the List of Winning Owners.

Jockeys Morrisey and Yetter Buy Joe Carter.

The Linden meeting just closed, was successful in every way. True there were decisions on the part of the management that did not suit the public in many respects, but nothing can be said against the racing, which was first class in every way. The management issued but very little paper, and an average of 4,000 persons paid their way every race day. The financial end of the game suited the management. The average number of bookmakers was fifty per day. The Association gave away $3,300 a day in purses, so it will readily be seen that the profits were handsome.

The outlook for future racing at Linden is dark. Public sentiment is against the racetrack, and the Township Committeemen who licensed the course, have succeeded in getting into very hot water. Every one was sorry to leave Linden, for it is the best appointed and finest mile course in the country.

• • •

The list of winning owners at Linden is headed by M. F. Dwyer. His stable won him $2,615. "Father Bill" Daly is next on the list, with $2,475. The Morris Stable won $1,880; McCafferty & Willard captured $1,790; Keansey won $1,550 for John Evans, and Walcott & Campbell won $1,495. Others won smaller amounts. Mike Daly is at the bottom of the list, with $15 to his credit. In all, $25,000 was given away. There were sixty-two races run, and 205 horses participated.

• • •

Nancy Hanks did not go against her record of 2:04 at Terre Haute, Ind., yesterday. A cold, disagreeable rain was falling, making the track very heavy. The trial will take place on the first favorable day.

• • •

William P. Whitney, son of former Secretary of the Navy W. C. Whitney, has come into possession of Demuth. Mr. Croker found that it was useless to try and train the horse for flat races, so he presented him to young Mr. Whitney, who will try and persuade Demuth to go over the jumps. It is said that the old sport of steeplechasing may be revived. If the sport could be made honest, then it would be popular. It is doubtful, however, if the public can ever again bet on steeplechases with anything like confidence.

• • •

T. W. Coulter has sold to Jockeys Morrisey and Yetter, the colt Joe Carter for $1,200. Jimmy McCormick's horses are winning races right along, and he has no difficulty in getting his own price for them. He has sold Westchester to Castle & Son for $1,300, and the Kanawha gelding to another Gloucester horseman.

• • •

The Fleischman Stable, including sixteen yearlings, will be shipped West to-morrow. The Salvator—Lou Lanier colt, purchased at the Haggin sale last Spring, has proven himself a crackajack. He will be left behind in the hands of that careful trainer, Matt Allen.

• • •

Judge Burke has received several flattering offers from Western associations asking him to officiate at their tracks next season.

• • •

The last race of the day at Linden was the best. The horses were sent away in straggling fashion, but before a quarter had been run they were well together. Major Daly then shot out, and at head of the stretch had all the others guessing. Vestibule and Pessara were done, and Picknieker went after the Major. Under Sims's desperate riding Picknieker gained inch by inch, until in the last jump he poked his nose in front and barely won by a few inches.

• • •

Dr. Garnett was heavily plunged on yesterday. He had been running well in his races, and yesterday got considerable weight off. Sol Lichtenstein took the first price offered (20 to 1) and played the colt all around the ring. Dr. Garnett was beaten a head. Had he won, Sol would have scorched his brother bookies badly.

• • •

Rice was in a soft spot yesterday, and yet his winning seemed to occasion severe remarks. He has been up against hot company since Linden's meeting began. In Kildeer and The Ironmaster he met his own class. The latter considering his weight was at a decidedly false price. At the same weights Rice can beat him every time the pair meet.

• • •

It has been reported that the judges at the Pimlico pony meet disqualified Capt. Manning in a hurdle race for galloping over the last hurdle instead of jumping. This was an error. The judges explain that the hurdles did not extend clear across the track, and Capt. Manning's rider took advantage of the space between the rail and the hurdle to go through it. Of course, he was very properly disqualified.

• • •

Fred Taral will use a new saddle on Lamplighter in to-morrow's great race at Hawthorne Park. It is of English make and weighs only one pound.

• • •

The handicappers played Major Daly heavily, and they came very near getting the money.

• • •

Vestibule, with Griffin up, and Vestibule with Sims in the saddle are two different animals. Griffin is not strong enough to ride the horse. This fact was apparent yesterday.

• • •

Nate Hill rode a great race on that remarkable animal Flatlands. He spurred and flogged the horse all the way and landed him in second place. A less persistent boy would have been in the rear ranks with Flatlands.

Some $20 Over-coats $10

As black as ever.

If you don't know all about the true black flag by his time you ought to.

Here's the remarkable incident again:

Wm. Sykes, of Cluff-House Mills, Huddersfield, England, invented a new fabric for men's clothes. It was made from Llama wool, which is naturally black. To prove that its color would never change, he fastened a piece of it to the masthead of a ship and kept it there during an entire round-trip from London to Australia and back.

And he did prove it.

It was just as brilliant and black the day it came back as ever.

We make Overcoats and Suits of it, and we can make clothes just as well as Sykes can make cloths.

Our price is $10—incidentally they are $20 Overcoats.

If you like higher priced clothes you can find them as readily here as anywhere—and made better, more stylish.
