DAILY EMPIRE.

THE STARS.

BY R. H. BACON.

Ye stars that on Night's mystic turban glow,
Mild and eternal, looking calmly down
On the quiet vale where hoary mountains throw
Their shadows, and soft streamlets gently flow,
Making low music by the sleeping town,
Or the gushing with a wilder melody below
The arching pile of yon old ruin gray—
Ye shone the same when fair-haired children played
Beneath these arches ere they knew decay;
Ye saw those children men; and your mild ray
Beheld their graves. When after ages laid
That city's walls, undimmed was your sweet light;
And ye will shine when its thronged bounds are made
A solitude—as calmly and as bright.

A LITTLE GEM.

There's not a heart, however rude,
But hath some little flower
To brighten up its solitude,
And scent the evening hour.

There's not a heart, however cast
By grief and sorrow down,
But hath some memory of the past,
To love and call its own.

☞Composition and Cement for sale.

HEAD THE FOLLOWING:

CINCINNATI, O., February 18, 1857.

This is to certify that I have examined the samples of J. Beckley and Co.'s Cement and Composition Roof, and can say that I think them equal, if not superior to any cement or composition Roof now in use. I have one on my house, adjoining to where I was lately burned out, and must say that it stood the test admirably. D. A. POWELL.

CINCINNATI, June 29, 1858.

This is to certify that we have employed Messrs. J. Beckley and Co. to put their cement Roof on our foundry at the west end of Eighth street, and thus far it has given entire satisfaction, having been fully tested by severe rains, etc. The burning of a large frame ware-house adjoining, scorching our wood work and destroying our glass, produced no effect on our roof.
