Resolutions Adopted by the Democratic State Convention, at Columbus, Ohio, on the 11th of June, 1863--Platform of the Democracy.

PREAMBLE.

The Democratic party has ever been, and yet is, a law-abiding party. It asks nothing but its rights under the Constitution and the laws. It resorts to no violation of either, it countenances no violation of either. It has a right to all the guarantees of public and private liberty and of property, contained in our fundamental laws; and it will surrender not one of them. It has the right to discuss public measures, and will discuss them. It has the right to propose and advocate that policy which it deems best for the nation, and it will exercise that right. It has a right to have its policy passed upon by the people at peaceable and untrammeled elections, and it will maintain that right. If found in a minority, it yields obedience to all lawful rule of the majority; if it be the majority itself, it claims that its lawful will be respected. Whether in a majority or minority, it obeys all laws that are in force. Those that it deems it seeks to overthrow, not by violence, but by a legitimate repeal. Those that it proposes, it seeks to carry, not by force, but by legitimate enactment. And what it does in all these respects, it demands, and has a right to demand, that all others shall do. They owe the same obedience to the Constitution and the laws that Democrats owe. They have the same interests to maintain free Government, to protect liberty, to be secure in their houses, person and property, that Democrats have. It is neither their interest nor ours that despotism or anarchy should prevail; and if they wish to avert both, I trust we see to it in time that they give no occasion for either. We will do our duty; let them remember to do theirs.

In view of the circumstances that have brought us together, we hereby resolve:

RESOLUTIONS.

1. That the will of the people is the foundation of all free Government. That to give effect to this will, free thought, free speech and a free press are absolutely indispensable. Without free discussion there is no certainty of sound judgment, without sound judgment there can be no wise Government.

2. That it is an inherent and constitutional right of the people to discuss all measures of their Government, and to approve or disapprove, as to their judgment seems right. That they have a right to propose and advocate that policy which in their judgment is best, and to argue and vote against whatever policy seems to them to violate the Constitution, to impair their liberties, or be detrimental to their welfare.

3. That the so and all other rights, guaranteed to them by their Constitutions, are their rights in time of war as well as in time of peace; and of far more value and necessity in war than in peace. For in peace, liberty, security and property are seldom endangered; in war they are ever in peril.

4. That we now say to all whom it may concern, not by way of threat, but calmly and firmly, that we will not surrender these rights nor submit to their forcible violation. We will obey the laws, ourselves, and others must obey them.

5. That there is a manifest difference between the Administration of the Government and the Government itself. The Government consists of the civil and political institutions created by the Constitution, and to it the people owe allegiance. The Administration are but the agents of the people, subject to their approval or condemnation, according to the merit or demerit of their acts.

6. That in the exercise of the right to differ with the Federal Executive, we enter our solemn protest against the proclamation of the President of the United States, dated the 1st of January, 1863, by which he assumes to emancipate slaves in certain States, holding the same to be unwise, unconstitutional and void.

7. That we declare our determined opposition to a system of emancipation by the states, upon compensation to be made out of the Treasury of the United States, as burdensome upon the people, unjust in its very nature, and wholly without warrant of the Constitution.

8. That we declare that the power which has recently been assumed by the President of the United States, whereby, under guise of military necessity, he has proclaimed and attempted—or asserts the right to proclaim or attempt—martial law over States where war does not exist, and has suspended the writ of habeas corpus, is unwarranted by the Constitution, and its tendency is to subordinate civil to military authority, and to subvert the system of free government.

9. That we deem it proper further to declare that we, together with the truly loyal people of the State, would hail with pleasure and delight any manifestation of a desire on the part of the seceded States to return to their allegiance to the Government of the Union, and in such event we would cordially and earnestly co-operate with them in the restoration of peace and the procurement of such proper guarantees as would give security to all their interests and rights.

10. That the soldiers composing our armies merit the warmest thanks of the nation. Their country called and nobly did they respond. Living they shall know a nation's gratitude; wounded a nation's care; and dying they shall live in our memories, and monuments shall be raised to teach posterity to honor patriots at their country's altar. Their widows and orphans shall be adopted by the nation to be watched and cared for, as objects truly worthy of a nation's guardianship.

11. That Ohio will adhere to the Constitution and the Union as the best, it may be the last, hope of popular freedom, and for all wrongs which may have been committed or evils which may exist, will seek redress under the Constitution and within the Union, by the peaceful but powerful agency of the suffrages of the people.

12. That we hail with pleasure and hope the manifestations of conservative sentiment among the people in the Northern states in their elections, and regard the same as the earnest of a good purpose upon their part to co-operate with all other loyal citizens in giving security to the rights of every section, and maintaining the Union and the Constitution as they were attained by the founders of the Republic.

13. That whenever it becomes practicable to obtain a Convention of all or three-fourths of the states, such body should be convened for the purpose of proposing such amendments to the Federal Constitution as experience has proved to be necessary to maintain that instrument in the spirit and meaning intended by its founders, and to provide against future convulsions and wars.

14. That we will earnestly support every constitutional measure tending to preserve the union of the states. No men have a greater interest in the preservation than we have; none desire it more; there are none who will make greater sacrifices or endure more than we will to accomplish that end. We are, as we ever have been, the devoted friends of the Constitution and the Union, and we have no sympathy with the enemies of either.

15. That the arrest, imprisonment, pretended trial, and actual banishment of Clement L. Vallandigham, a citizen of the State of Ohio, not belonging to the land or naval forces of the United States, nor to the militia in active service, by alleged military authorities, for no other presended crime than that of uttering words of legitimate criticism upon the conduct of the Administration in power, and of appealing to the ballot-box for a change of policy—(said arrest and military trial taking place where the courts of law are open and unobstructed, and for no act done within the sphere of active military operations in carrying on the war,)—we regard as a palpable violation of the following provisions of the United States:

"1. Congress shall make no law * * * * abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

"2. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures; shall not be violated, and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized.

"3. No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless in a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia when in actual service in time of war or public danger.

"4. In all criminal prosecution, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law."

And we further more denounce said arrest, trial and banishment as a direct insult offered to the sovereignty of the people of Ohio, by whose organic law it is declared that "no person shall be transported out of the state for any offense committed within the same."

16. That Clement L. Vallandigham was at the time of arrest a prominent candidate for nomination by the Democratic party of Ohio for the office of Governor of the State; that the Democratic party was fully competent to decide whether he was a fit man for that nomination, and that the attempt to deprive them of that right by his arrest and banishment, was an unmerited imputation upon their intelligence and loyalty, as well as a violation of the Constitution.

17. That we respectfully, but most earnestly call upon the President of the United States to restore Clement L. Vallandigham to his home in Ohio; and that a committee of one from each Congressional District of the State, to be selected by the presiding officer of this Convention, is hereby appointed to present the application to the President.

18. That the thanks of this Convention are hereby tendered to Horatio Seymour, Governor of the State of New York, for his noble letter in relation to the arrest of Mr. Vallandigham; and the President of this Convention is hereby directed to communicate a copy of this resolution to Governor Seymour.

19. That the establishment of a military government over the loyal States, where war does not exist, to supercede the civil authorities and suppress the freedom of speech and of the press, and to interfere with the elective franchise, is not only subversive of the Constitution and the sovereignty of the States, but the actual inauguration of revolution.

20. That it is the sworn duty of the Governor of the State to protect her citizens in the enjoyment and exercise of all their Constitutional rights; and we have beheld with deep humiliation and regret, not only the failure of David Tod, Governor of Ohio, to perform that duty, but what is still worse, his active participations in the violation of those rights.

21. That we denounce as traitors to the country the Abolition Jacobins who are seeking to bring about civil war in the loyal States, with the view of turning, if possible, the bayonets of the army against the breasts of the fathers, brothers and friends of the soldiers, and subjecting those States to a military surveillance and dominion.

22. That we denounce, as libelers of the Democratic party and enemies of their country, the men who are engaged in representing the Democratic party as wanting in sympathy with our soldiers in the field. It is a base slander upon human nature to assert that the Democrats, who have hundreds of thousands of brothers and sons in the army, do not sympathize with them—and it is an outrage upon the Democratic party, that has always stood by the country, to assert that it is not the friend of its gallant defenders.

23. That the conduct of Brigadier General Mason the military commandant at Columbus, and of the officer commanding the provost guard, in preventing all appearance of military restraint upon the proceedings of this Convention, show that they have a just appreciation of the Constitution of their country and the rights of the people, and that they are wise and patriotic officers; and that their conduct on this occasion is in striking contrast with the contrary conduct of the military authorities upon the occasion of the late Democratic meeting at Indianapolis. And we take pleasure in expressing our confidence in General Mason and the officers and soldiers under his command.

The Convention then adjourned with three cheers for the nominee, three for the Constitution and three for the Union.

WILLIAM MEDILL, President.
AMOS LAYMAN, Secretary.

EVERY MAN SHOULD INSURE HIS LIFE.

THE Ætna grants policies FOR LIFE, for a term of years, Endowment policies and children's Endowment. Also, Non Forfeiting Policies, on which no payment is required after ten years.

Five thousand dollars paid on two losses in this city within the last six months.

Among all the contrivances of men to protect the family circle from want, none can be found more simple in its character, noble in its features, or certain in its results, than Life Insurance. It is the prop which the dying husband leaves to

SUPPORT THE WIFE OF HIS BOSOM.

It is the unseen hand of the provident father, reaching forth from the grave, and still nourishing his offspring, and keeping together the family. By it, the aged son

PROTECTS HIS AGED PARENTS,

Even where he has preceded them into eternity; by it the honest debtor satisfies his confiding creditor, when fate seemed least propitious. In a moral and worldly sense, it is one great weapon by which to rob death of his sting.

Let any husband, father, son, ask himself, "If I was to die to-night, would those who are dear to me

BE SAFE FROM THE PANGS OF WANT?"

Would these children have a comfortable home, and the means of education? Would this wife be independent of the cold charities of the world? Would this aged and feeble parent be provided for? Would my estate pay my debts? Would there be no sacrifice of property by forced sales or an administrator to meet the demands of creditors—sales made when the market tends downward, and fair prices cannot be realized? How few can answer these question to their satisfaction! They fear to look them, and cherish the belief that they have a long lease on life. This is faith foolish and cowardly. The brave man

LOOKS THE DANGER IN THE FACE,

That he may grapple with it; the wise man, that he may study its nature and palliate its threatening. The means of palliation are at hand, or easy access to all—it is

LIFE INSURANCE!

Young men just starting in business, whose chief capital is their energy and integrity, should insure their lives to the amount of half their liabilities. Such an act of disinterested honesty, when known to their creditors, would justly increase their confidence in them. It would show that they did not wish to leave their best friends exposed to any avoidable contingency; and the

Might fairly be regarded as the tribute which an upright heart pays at the shrine of justice.
