WAS BOUND TO HAVE A DRINK.

Ex-Policeman McPartland Fights Iceman and Bartender.

Fined for Disorderly Conduct In Bull's Head Hotel.

Ex-Policeman Hugh McPartland, formerly attached to the Tenderloin Precinct, was a prisoner in Yorkville Court to-day, charged with disorderly conduct, by Charles Brown, bartender of the Bull's Head Hotel, at Twenty-fourth street and Third avenue.

McPartland was dismissed from the Department for drunkenness about two months ago. He is the officer who while on duty on Broadway a short time previous to his dismissal, entered the Continental Hotel in uniform and in a drunken condition. He was perfectly wild at the time from drink, and caused considerable excitement by his conduct.

For this he was "broke," and since then he has been drinking heavily. About a month ago he was arrested and fined $5 for intoxication. This morning Justice Voorhis again imposed the same penalty. He was unable to pay the fine and was locked up.

Brown told Justice Voorhis that McPartland had made himself a general nuisance at the hotel for the past seven weeks, and that he never would miss an opportunity to pass some insulting remark. At 6 o'clock this morning McPartland went into the barroom of the hotel in an intoxicated condition and demanded a drink. The bartender, knowing the quarrelsome disposition of McPartland when in his cups, refused to sell him anything.

At this the ex-officer became furious, threw the wooden cover off the freshly oiled bar, and threatened Brown. While they were arguing, an iceman, who furnished the ice for the hotel, entered the barroom. As Brown handed over a bottle of whiskey and a glass, McPartland seized hold of them, and swore that no one should have a drink unless he was allowed to have one also.

In the struggle for the possession of the bottle and glass McPartland fought the bartender and iceman. The row attracted the attention of Policeman James Keating, of the East Twenty-second street station, and he then arrested the ex-officer.

All Spoke in the Irish Language.

(By Associated Press.)

BOSTON, May 14.—The first meeting of the Irish citizens of Boston at which all of the business was transacted in the Irish language was held in Alpha Hall last evening. The object was to form an association to preserve by transcription songs and poems in the Irish language and any literature in that tongue of value. A committee was appointed to arrange for permanent organization, and all present enrolled themselves for membership.

ALL PAID BUT GOT NO JOBS.

Big Crowd Gathers at the National Employment Agency.

Its Door Locked and All the Furniture Is Gone.

Nearly one hundred people gathered in front of the National Employment Agency's door at 849 Broadway this morning. The door was fastened from the outside with a heavy padlock and a glimpse through the keyhole showed that the space beyond had been stripped of all its furniture.

In the crowd was the typewriter of the Agency, who said Mr. George Townsend, the proprietor, owed her a week's wages. Another visitor was a detective from a private agency in Wall street, who said he desired to see Mr. Townsend for a variety of reasons.

Then there was also an army of young and old people of both sexes who said they had paid Mr. Townsend or his clerks money for jobs which they were to be procured with lightning-like speed, but which had never materialized, though many months had passed.

The first one to arrive at the agency this morning was T. Trieper, of 556 West Thirty-fifth street. He had paid $3 for the promise of a position as driver. This was some moons ago, and Trieper began to grow uneasy, and just dropped around this morning in order to demand his money.

Trieper was joined by Henry Vogt, of 357 Hudson street, who had paid $3 under almost identical circumstances. There were also William Gordon, of 131 Eight avenue, John Duigan, of the same address, Alex Mohnowski, of 539 Eleventh avenue, and a great many others, who each paid $3 for the privilege of waiting for a job.

A somewhat more stylish clique was that composed of five dollar depositors, who had sought more lucrative positions than the three-dollar crowd. Among these were Paul Stein, of 22 Monroe street, Frank Lewis, of 242 West One hundred and Thirty-third street, and a lot of others, who would not give their names.

A colored man, who gave only his initials, J. E., and said that he lived at 23 Waverly avenue, Brooklyn, had parted with $3 in order to get a position as "useful man."

The jolled detective told an "Evening World" reporter that the license under which the employment agency was run had expired last November.

"I am really here," he added, "on behalf of the Mayor's Marshal, to whom so many complaints have been made about the manner in which this agency was being conducted; that he concluded it best to have it investigated."

M. Gallagy, janitor of the building, says he saw the effects of the employment agency carted away at 6 o'clock this morning. Neither Townsend nor any of his assistants was present, and the janitor says he neglected to take notice of the number of the truck on which the furniture was carried away.

About 10 o'clock a cool-looking, portly young man pushed his way through the crowd and tried to open the door. He was in evident great haste, and when confronted by the padlock mopped his brow for a moment or two and then, after saying to the bystanders, "I'm not here for the same reason as you," dashed away as rapidly as he had come.

Shot and Killed His Father.

(By Associated Press.)

WHEELING, W. Va., May 14.—Frank Blakemore accused his wife of kissing her brother-in-law, and in his jealous rage swore he would kill her. Their sixteen-year-old son, George, interfered and Blakemore seized a hatchet and started for the boy. George drew a revolver, fired two shots and killed his father. The boy is in jail, but public sympathy is generally on his side.

Suicide of a Republican.

(By Associated Press.)

ASHLAND, Pa., May 14.—Joseph M. Glick, a leading Schuylkill County politician, and Republican candidate for Sheriff, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself through the head with a 42-calibre revolver. The deed was prompted by financial troubles, and was committed in the carriage shed adjoining his residence.

MRS. MEEKINS'S QUEER TALE.

Separated from Her Husband, but Living in the Same House.

Tires of His Club Friends and Is Suing for Support.

Mrs. Katherine J. Meekins, who lives in a handsomely furnished house at One Hundred and Fifth street and Amsterdam avenue, obtained from Justice Simms, in the Harlem Police Court, during the past week, two summonses requiring her husband, Thomas Meekins, to appear in court and show cause why he does not provide for her properly. Mr. Meekins has ignored both summonses, and if he does not put in an answer to-day a warrant will be issued for his arrest.

Mr. Meekins is a member of the Harlem Republican Club, and of several social clubs in Harlem. He said he would pay no attention to any orders issued by a court under the control of Tammany Hall.

Mrs. Meekins is a daughter of the late Dr. Homer Bostwick, who died in 1882, leaving an estate valued at more than $200,000. His widow and elder son became administrators of the will.

In 1884, one year after her father's death, Katherine Bostwick married Meekins. They at once removed to the house on Amsterdam avenue, and to all appearances lived happily together.

Four months after their marriage they made a verbal agreement to separate, but they continued to live in the same house.

Mr. Meekins became responsible for the lease of the house, while Mrs. Meekins paid the living expenses.

A year ago Dr. Bostwick's administrators sold the property belonging to the minor children at a figure below its value, so it is claimed by the rest of the heirs. A referee was appointed and, pending his decision, Mrs. Meekins is cut off from any income.

Mrs. Meekins told Justice Simms that her husband compels her to entertain his club friends at her home until late hours in the morning.

A few weeks ago, Mrs. Meekins said, she found a letter on the floor written in a feminine hand, thanking her husband for his kindness and flowers, of which the writer was the recipient.

Meekins has a $2,600 position in the banking house of Minzesheimer & Co., Wall street. The couple have one child, a pretty girl, six years old.

Saloon-Keepers Worked Up.

PORTCHESTER, N. Y., May 14.—The saloon-keepers of this village discussed to-day the work of the Parkhurst agents who were brought here yesterday by the newly organized Law and Order League, of Portchester. The saloon-keepers say it was unfair to compel them to keep their side doors closed, while beer and liquor were sold at the bars of the hotels. The Law and Order men say the hotel-keepers who violated the law will be prosecuted. The village hackmen reaped a harvest yesterday in conveying the thirsty to the adjacent villages, where the Sunday law was not so strictly enforced.

Half a million dollars' worth,
All new goods, selling at

FORTY-FIVE CENTS ON THE DOLLAR.

Three times on Saturday we were obliged to close our doors that the throngs of purchasers might be properly served. When customers can supply their wants for half the cost they expect to expend it is not surprising that our store is literally jammed with people all the time.

It is an unheard-of occurrence that a brand-new stock of Dry Goods, all bought within four months, should be sold at an average price of Forty-five Cents on the Dollar, in the month of May, right in the height of the season, when all the stores expect to make their regular profit.

The stock cannot last long the way the goods are selling. To-morrow will be a good time to visit us.

AWOKE AND WAS CLUBBED.

Then McCarthy Was Taken to Court and Fined $5.

Policeman Hawkins, of the East Twenty-second street station, brought Charles McCarthy, aged twenty-nine years, of 335 East Twenty-fourth street, to the Yorkville Police Court this morning. McCarthy's head was tied up in bandages. He was suffering from severe scalp wounds, as the result of the officer's club.

Hawkins said that he found McCarthy asleep in a hallway at Twenty-fourth street and First avenue this morning, and when he woke him up McCarthy assaulted him. The officer added that he was obliged to use his club. Justice Burke fined McCarthy $5.
