

A SURGICAL OPERATION

If there is any one thing that a woman dreads more than another it is a surgical operation.

We can state without fear of a contradiction that there are hundreds, yes, thousands, of operations performed upon women in our hospitals which are entirely unnecessary and many have been avoided by

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

For proof of this statement read the following letters:

Mrs. Barbara Bace, of Kingman, Kansas, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "For eight years I suffered from the most severe form of female troubles and was told that an operation was my only hope of recovery. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has saved my life and made me a well woman."

Mrs. Arthur R. House, of Church Road, Moorestown, N. J., writes: "I feel it is my duty to let people know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female troubles, and last March my physician decided that an operation was necessary. My husband objected, and urged me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to-day I am well and strong."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, and backache.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

WESTERN CANADA THE PENNANT WINNER

"The Last Best West."
The Government of Canada now gives to every Actual Settler 160 acres of wheat-growing land free and an additional 160 acres at $100 an acre.

The 30,000 contented American Settlers making their homes in Western Canada is the best evidence of the superiority of that country. They are becoming rich, and their farms are producing 45 to 60 bushels barley, 60 to 110 bushels wheat and 45 to 60 bushels barley, besides having splendid herds of cattle and horses, and fine grass. Dairying is an important industry.

The crop of 1908 still keeps Western Canada in the lead. The world was looking to it as its food-producer.

HAY BROUGHT BY TROLLEY.

Farmer Near Philadelphia Ship Their Produce in This Manner.

For the second time within a week fifteen tons of hay have been transported into Philadelphia over the line of the Philadelphia & West Chester Traction Company, illustrating clearly the advantage of freight transportation by trolley and demonstrating the possibilities of the Homsher trolley freight law, says the Philadelphia North American.

A little more than a week ago a farmer of Williamstown sent to this city 31,000 pounds of baled hay, which were deferred to waiting wagons at the 63d street terminal of the West Chester line. Tuesday morning there came to the station at 69th and Market streets, 30,000 pounds of hay, which were shipped to Philadelphia by William Green, a farmer of Edgemont township.

The distances which the hay traveled was more than thirteen miles. It reached the city hours before it would have got in had it been loaded on steam cars, and served to emphasize the assertions of traction interests familiar with the workings of the trolley freight scheme, that if the trolleys were used more generally for the carriage of farm products from the neighboring productive counties consumers here could get supplies much quicker and in better condition and possibly much cheaper than they get them now.

The West Chester Company, as well as other interurban traction systems, is prepared to go into the trolley freight business under the provisions of the Homsher trolley freight law, on a general scale if the Rapid Transit company sees fit to permit its cars to come into this city over the latter's tracks. Distribution of freight of all sorts could, under this arrangement, be made almost at the door of the consumers.

The Rapid Transit company is considering the adoption of such a scheme and is expected to announce its decision at the annual meeting of its shareholders next month.

A Unique Endowment.

If any man of wealth is in search of something besides libraries and colleges to endow, a humble suggestion is held in the article taken from a magazine published by the American Association for the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf. The object under consideration, the only endowed flagstaff in the world, is that belonging to the Royal Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb, at Margate, England.

This staff was erected the first year of the reign of King Edward VII, in commemoration of his accession to the throne. The cost was defrayed by the pupils and friends. The collection taken was so large that it enabled the purchase of twenty flags.

Even after the staff and the flags were paid for, forty pounds remained in the treasury. This sum was invested for an endowment fund, and the interest is used every year in painting and repairing the pole and tackle. Some of the various flags bought are as follows: The Royal Standard, which is flown on the King's accession day, his birthday and his coronation day; the Stars and Stripes, run up on Roosevelt's birthday and election day; the German and French flags, used on the Kaiser's and President's birthdays; appropriate banners for St. David's, St. Patrick's and St. George's days; the Union Jack for the anniversaries of famous battles, and flags for the church high festivals.

SEVERE HEMORRHOIDS.

Sores, and Itching Eczema—Doctor Thought an Operation Necessary—Cuticura's Efficacy Proven.

"I am now 80 years old, and three years ago I was taken with an attack of piles (hemorrhoids), bleeding and protruding. The doctor said the only help for me was to go to a hospital and be operated on. I tried several remedies for months, but did not get much help. During this time sores appeared which changed to a terrible itching eczema. Then I began to use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills, injecting a quantity of Cuticura Ointment with a Cuticura Suppository Syringe. It took a month of this treatment to get me in a fairly healthy state and then I treated myself once a day for three months and, after that, once or twice a week. The treatments I tried took a lot of money, and it is fortunate that I used Cuticura. J. H. Henderson, Hopkinton, N. Y., Apr. 28, 1907."

No Legislation Needed. Foreign Visitor—Mrs. Vidders, can a woman marry her deceased husband's brother in this country?

A Common Delinquent. The dean of a normal college, in a talk before the student body, was deploring the practice common among children of getting help in their lessons, and the tendency among parents to give it too generously. As an illustration he told the following incident:

The mother of a small pupil in a Chicago school had struggled through the problems assigned for the child's next lesson, and had finally obtained what appeared to be satisfactory results. The next day, when the little girl returned from school, the mother inquired, with some curiosity:

"Were your problems correct, dear?"
"No, mamma," replied the child. "They were all wrong."

"All wrong?" repeated the amazed parent. "Oh, I'm so sorry!"
"Well, mamma, you don't need to be sorry," was the reply. "All the other mamas had theirs wrong, too."

SOME DYING SPEECHES.

Remarks Made by Great Men Who Met the End Approaching.

Addison's dying speech to his son-in-law was characteristic enough of the man, who was accustomed to inveigh against the follies of mankind, though not altogether free from some of the frailties he denounced. "Behold," said he to the dissolute young nobleman, "with what tranquility a Christian can die!"

Halter died feeling his pulse, and when he found it almost gone, turning to his brother physician, said, "My friend, the artery ceases to beat," and died.

Petrarch was found dead in his library, leaning on a book.

Metastasio, who would never suffer the word death to be uttered in his presence, at last so far triumphed over his fears that, after receiving the last rites of religion, in his enthusiasm he burst forth into a stanza of religious poetry.

Alfieri, the day before he died, was persuaded to see a priest, and when he came he said to him with great affability, "Have the kindness to look in tomorrow—I trust death will wait four and twenty hours."

Napoleon, when dying and in the act of speaking to the clergyman, reproved his skeptical physician for smiling, in these words: "You are above those weaknesses, but what can I do? I am neither a philosopher nor a physician; I believe in God, and am of the religion of my father. It is not every one who can be an atheist." The last words he uttered—Head—Army—evinced clearly enough what sort of visions were passing over his mind at the moment of dissolution.

Leibnitz was found dead in his chamber, with a book in his hand.

Kent, a little time before he died, when his friend asked him how he did, replied in a low voice, "Better, my friend. I feel the daisies growing over me."

Legal Information

The use, by a boy who has found a dynamite cap, of a dry electric battery which he also finds, to explode the cap, is held not to be such an intervening cause as to relieve one guilty of negligence with respect to the care of the cap from liability for injury to the boy from its explosion.

The right of a mother to recover damages for mental anguish caused by failure to deliver to her husband a telegram announcing that their child had been sent to the pesthouse with a contagious disease, by reason of which she was deprived of his advice and counsel in her distress, is sustained.

Promissory notes belonging to a resident of Kansas, given by residents of Missouri, and secured by trust deeds of real estate in the latter State, which have never been brought into Kansas, but are left for safe keeping only in the vault of a bank in Missouri, are held to constitute personal property in Kansas, which has its location in the county, township, and school district of the residence of its owner, with the meaning of the act relating to the assessment and collection of taxes.

A 13-year-old boy, after leaving a position twenty feet from a railroad track, where he looks for an approaching train, proceeds on his bicycle towards and onto the track, and, the bicycle being stopped by the rails, attempts to propel it over them without again looking for a train, is held to be guilty of such negligence that he cannot hold the railroad company liable for injuries caused by being struck by the train, which approaches without giving any signals, although the stoppage of the wheel is due to the removal of the plank so that a trench is left in the highway, which makes the use of the crossing difficult.

French Warships the Prettiest.

The American navy, in times of peace, presents a most agreeable appearance to the eye. In time of war it takes on, however, a drab exterior, which in point of aesthetic coloring is by no means a delight. During the Spanish-American war the American vessels were painted a dull ashen gray. Russia did not learn this lesson from America, for during her war with Japan her warships remained as in times of peace, a bright green and white picture on the blue waves. The Japs had learned the better lesson, which originated naturally enough in England, whose vessels are so painted—and permanently—as to be wholly indistinguishable from the coast line and the color is composed of a mixture of white lead and soot.

Germany paints her vessels a light-bluish color; Italy's warships are colored a dark gray, and those of France, which have not seen active service for so many years, are certainly the prettiest to be seen in Europe, in point of coloring. Undoubtedly they would change in war time.

A Physician's Prescription.

A story is told by the Chicago News of a Chinese mandarin who went to his doctor for advice. He could not sleep, had no appetite, suffered greatly from depression, and nevertheless was taking on fat at an alarming rate.

"Well, son, put you in condition again," said the physician. "What you need is exercise, good, hard exercise. Four times a week you may come here and put in the morning polishing my floors."

"But why not my own floors?" the mandarin inquired.

"Mine are larger," responded the doctor, smiling.

The Flour Was Tough.

"I want to complain of the flour you sent me the other day," said Mrs. New-liver severely.

"What was the matter with it, ma'am?" asked the grocer.

"It was tough. My husband simply wouldn't eat the biscuits I made with it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

FACTS IN TABLOID FORM.

The postal business of the world is increasing 7 per cent per annum.

Wheat rust is limited to an section or grade of grain, but is encountered all the world over.

The world's wool record is held by Australia, with Argentina second and the United States third.

Spain exports at least $3,000,000 worth of olive oil a year, and in years of large crops twice that amount.

In Australian cities the police are now empowered to enter private dwellings in which they suspect gambling.

The English city of Huddersfield has multiple ownership of tramways. Last year there was a net surplus of $2,700. The population of the city is about 100,000.

Out of every 100 recruits in Bosnia, sixty-two have flattened skulls, the outcome, apparently, of the very tight dressing of the baby's head in its first months of life.

The last available statistics show that in one year in Germany the sum of about $30,000,000 was paid to invalid workmen to the number of $71,000, in the form of old age pensions.

Distressed at his son's refusal to enter the ministry and his preference for dealing in horses, a farmer was telling his sorrow to a neighbor. "Oh," said the latter, "don't take it too much to heart. I believe Tom will lead more men to repentance as a horse dealer than ever he would as a minister."

Another substitute for coal is reported from Galicia, where a native engineer has made a combination of crude petroleum, cinders and sand, into bricks or briquettes, "which may be used as fuel by any household in place of coal, a hundred kilos (220.4 pounds) to cost only $1." A society has been formed to manufacture these bricks, and a factory is to be placed in operation at Florisdorf.

Hatpins have come to be such an important feature of the modern chapman that she who can make them for herself and have plus to harmonize with every hat is indeed fortunate. Sewing with those who have the requisite skill in the manufacture of hatpins, and apparently to meet this demand the wax of the markets has taken on the most artistic colors. There are rumors also of a preparation in which real flowers can be dipped, coming out all silvered or golden or coppered, as the case may be, the finished product being used to head a hatpin.

There is a certain fascination in watching the wedding presents that overwhelm Winston Churchill. They have come, butter dishes, clocks, cigarette cases, books, tables, ash trays and all manner of superfluities, by the careful. Kindness without imagination, one would suspect. For it is not to be supposed that Mr. Churchill wants more butter dishes than the Savoy or a dreadful lack of imagination runs through the wedding gifts to Mr. Churchill, and it is always hard to hit the thing two people embarking on a new life would welcome.—London Chronicle.

Are billiards dying out, and are motor-ing and golf killing them? In 1894 the French treasury returns noted 95,000 billiard tables in the country. This year the figure is only 89,000. The treasury laments the fact, not from any disinterested love for the grand old game, but because every billiard table pays a heavy tax. Motoring, of course, contributes its full share to the inland revenue here as well as elsewhere, but so far the royal and ancient pastime, which is quite new here, pays nothing in due course, and golf clubs, balls, caddies and links may be taxed to make up for the shrinkage in billiard tables.—London Telegraph.

The Viscountess Molesworth has found her jam factory so remunerative that she has decided to enlarge the plant before the beginning of the next season and to add sauces and chutneys to her products. On her marriage Lady Molesworth began to make all the jams and preserves for the consumption of her own household. Her friends liked her jams so well that she finally decided to go into the business. An old brew-house adjoining her home, Walters Hall, was roofed and fitted up as a factory and a staff of expert women engaged to make jam under her direction. Next year she expects to double the number of her employees as well as the amount of her products.

Among the cherished beliefs that we are now asked to give up is that of the healthfulness of the sweet summer shoe. It may bring peace, health and joy to some, but there are others with whom it does not agree. Any given quantity of hot air, say the authorities, contains less oxygen than cold air, and oxygen is life. Then the body is also weakened by any great amount of perspiration. As for summer, which was regarded as the sign manual of health, we are told that it is merely a kind of paint covering up often a bad physique, and it is an injurious paint that, if it, it seems, relaxes the minute blood vessels of the skin, and the results in a slowing of the circulation, which affects not only the skin, but the brain.—New York Tribune.

A woman's hospital has just been opened in Berlin and has a staff composed entirely of women. Two sisters, Franziska and Henrietta Tiburtius, both doctors, conceived the plan and created the hospital. At present it contains nineteen beds, and any woman doctor there for attendance and for surgical operations. The United States has had such a hospital for upward of twenty-five years, the Telfair Hospital in Savannah. This hospital was built and is conducted according to plans set forth in the will of Miss Mary Telfair, who left it the bulk of her large property. It has in the neighborhood of fifty beds. For a number of years its nurses' staff represented the best families in the South. It is said to be one of the best equipped and most beautiful hospitals in the world.

The General Demand

If the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

Precept and Practice.

The beliefs of men are various, and some of them have the peculiar property that they can be changed from one extreme to another in almost no time. A writer in Puck recently reported a conversation among several men who were discussing their dogs. The talk took place in a restaurant.

"Yes, sir, that dog can do anything but talk."

"Well, it's wonderful the intelligence they have. Why, I had a fox terrier once—"

"And yet they say that dogs can't reason! Why, a friend of mine—"

"That's right! You can't tell me—"

"And when he was killed, it was just like losing one of the family. My wife—"

"Well, sir, I believe if there's a hereafter for human beings, there's one for dogs. I don't see—"

"Here, here! Come here, sir! You brainless little beast! Quit nosing in those scraps! Don't you get enough to eat at home? Go over in the corner and lie down!"

SOME REMARKS FROM MINNESOTA EDITORS.

What They Think of Western Canada.

A party of editors from a number of cities and towns of Minnesota recently made a tour of Western Canada, and having returned to their homes they are now telling in their respective newspapers of what they saw on their Canadian trip. The West St. Paul Times recalls the excursion of the Minnesota editors from Winnipeg to the Pacific Coast ten years ago. Referring to what has happened in the interval the writer says: "Thousands of miles of new railway lines have been built, and the development of the country has made marvelous strides. Millions of acres, then lying in their wild and untouched state, have since been transferred into grain fields. Towns have sprung up as if by the wand of a magician, and their development is now in full progress. It is a revelation, a record of conquest by settlement that is remarkable."

The Hutchinson Leader characterizes Western Canada as "a great country undeveloped. The summer outing," it says, "was an eye-opener to every member on the excursion through Western Canada ten years ago, over considerable of the territory covered this year, being amazed at the progress and advancement made in that short space of time. The time will come when Western Canada will be the bread-basket of the world. It was a delightful outing through a great country of wonderful possibilities and resources."

Since the visit of these editors the government has revised its land regulations and it is now possible to secure 100 acres of wheat land at $3 an acre in addition to the 160 acres that may be homesteaded.

The crops of 1908 have been splendid, and reports from the various districts show good yields, which at present prices will give excellent profits to the farmers.

From Milestone, Saskatchewan, there are reported yields of thirty bushels of spring wheat to the acre, while the average is about twenty bushels. The quantity of grain to be shipped from his point will be about 600,000 bushels. Information regarding free lands and transportation will be freely given by the Canadian government agents.

Organized land-work extends back to our honored days in India, and even ago in China. It has been called the other art of sculpture and painting.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Wouldn't He?

"Somehow," said the political manager, "I can't help wishing I could get acquainted with the chap that held up those 125 travelers in Yellowstone park a few days ago. Wouldn't he be a dandy collector of campaign contributions!"—Chicago Tribune.
