ARCADIA A CUBAN SWAMP

Stories of Disgust Told by Returning "Colonists."

More than thirty weary and disgusted "colonists" of the Cuban Land and Steamship Company, of this city, who went to La Gloria, near Nuevitas, Cuba, to become land-owners and stockholders in the concern, returned to-day on the steamer Curityba, of the Munson line.

"The "colonists" went to La Gloria in the belief that it was a land flowing with milk and honey. They came back to-day poorer in pocket but richer in experience and denouncing the scheme in vigorous language. Many of the "colonists" are still in Cuba for the very good reason, the returning ones declare, that they cannot get back through lack of funds.

Mrs. O. B. Smith, of Bangor, Me., an intelligent and typical New England woman, was one of those who went to the "colony." Her husband, a master carpenter, invested some of his savings in the scheme and went to La Gloria, expecting to make his home there.

"The whole thing looks like a swindle," Mrs. Smith said. "Mosquitoes and fleas—that describes the place. We secured five acres of land there, but we never got there. We got all of Cuba that we wanted, though.

"We never reached La Gloria, because we could not. We went to Nuevitas, and a number of others went on to La Gloria or tried to. They came and advised us not to attempt it. The place was in a swamp, and those who tried to get there had to wade. We decided to take the very next boat back.

"There are between 150 and 200 people stranded in Nuevitas. I don't know how they are going to come back.

"There are about thirty women there. It is no place for women. The United States are good enough for us."

A. E. Shauck, of Mansfield, O., said he had paid $5 down and was to have paid the remainder of the price of sixty lots to the company when he got to La Gloria. He was misrepresented to us in every way," he said. He said the hotel and sawmill there are still at Nuevitas. We had to wade to get through the "colony." There was a sort of canal leading there, and we had to get out and push the lighter which took some stuff there."

TORTURED BY A CRADLE.

Noisy Rocker Broke Another Tenant's Rest and a Broken Head Resulted.

Two excitable Germans living in a tenement at 240 East Seventy-seventh street figured in Yorkville Court to-day. The complainant was Frank Rothermel, a street-sweeper. His head was swathed in bandages, and he charged William Edeller, an engineer, with having laid open his scalp with a club yesterday.

Edeller's rooms are on the floor below those occupied by Rothermel. According to Edeller he works at night and sleeps during the day, but his rest had been disturbed by the rocking of a cradle in Rothermel's rooms.

"When I asked them to stop that rocking," said Edeller, "Rothermel shouted back to me:

"'I'll rock my baby in my own rooms as much as I please.'"

The argument terminated in the assault on Rothermel.

Magistrate Brann told Rothermel had a right to rock his baby, but that if the noise of the rocker disturbed the sleep of the tenant below he should take the rocker into another room. Both men then agreed to be friends and the judge dismissed the complaint.

TO BRING THE ALBANY HOME

She Was Bought in England from Chili, Just Before the War with Spain.

Commander Joseph E. Craig sailed this morning on the American liner New York to bring back the cruiser Albany, which is at the Armstrong yards, Newcastle, and will be turned over to the United States Government in a few weeks. The vessel was purchased from Chili just before the war with Spain.

With Commander Craig was Assistant Paymaster Philip V. Mohun, who will also be attached to the Albany. The entire crew, 230 men and 15 officers, will sail from here on the Prairie.

BUNCOED OUT OF DEEDS.

Mrs. Morehead Gave Them to Alleged Title-Searchers, Who Borrowed $5,000 on Papers.

Mrs. Martha Morehead, of One Hundred and Thirty-first street, near Seventh avenue, has asked the police to look for an insinuating stranger to whom she loaned her deeds to some Harlem lots to enable him to search the title, and who raised $5,000 on them and then disappeared.

With the deeds the stranger took to a money broker, introduced a woman who accompanied him, as Mrs. Morehead, and secured the loan.

The woman's identity as Mrs. Morehead was certified to by a notary, against whom the real Mrs. Morehead may now proceed criminally.
