AHEARN HELD FOR BOYS' MURDER.

Coroner Zucca Put Old Janitor Under $1,000 Bail, Which Was Furnished.

Cornelius Ahearn was held by Coroner Zucca in $1,000 bail this afternoon to await the inquest on the bodies of the two boys found in a closet at 188 Edgecombe avenue on Monday.

The inquest is set for next Tuesday. Ahearn's bail was furnished by ex-Police Sergt. Charles Grainger, of 365 Forty-first street, Brooklyn, who was Ahearn's Captain when the prisoner served in the Eighty-eighth New York Volunteers during the Civil War.

"I have no knowledge of how the boys met their death," said Ahearn. "I did not know they were in the closet. I may have slammed the door on them, not knowing they were in there."

Coroner's Physician Williams reported that he found no signs of violence on the boys' bodies. An undertaker found one of the Beirne boy's legs broken, he says.

New and startling discoveries by Evening World reporters indicate that somebody knew long ago of the death of the Loeffler and Beirne boys in the closet of the house 188 Edgecombe avenue, even if he had no hand in the tragedy.

Death-Closet Experiment.

Two boys were shut in the death closet this morning by an Evening World reporter and told to kick on the door and shout. The reporter went down to the basement, where Ahearn used to live.

The noise made by the boys was plainly heard. There was no mistaking where it came from. It made a racket that sounded all through the house. Nothing less than a continuous boom of thunder could have drowned the noise.

If Ahearn and his sons were in the house that night and the boys in the closet used their feet and lungs as did the boys to-day, the noise must have been heard.

This morning Melvin Schoonmaker, of 117 Edgecombe avenue, the ten-year-old playmate of the boys, who last night told an Evening World reporter that "Conny" Ahearn told him he heard pounding noises in the house the night of the day the boys disappeared, supplemented his story by saying that "Conny" told him the boys were in the house so late they were afraid to go home and slept in a closet upstairs. The Schoonmaker boy's mother corroborates his story.

Committed to Coroner.

Ahearn was arraigned before Magistrate Hogan in the Harlem Court this morning and remanded to the Coroner.

Detective Parker told the Magistrate he had no evidence that Ahearn locked the boys in the closet.

"Has there been an inquest?" asked the Judge.

"I don't know."

"Then take Ahearn before the Coroner at once," ordered Magistrate Hogan.

On the way to the Coroner's office an Evening World reporter had the following interview with Ahearn:

"When did you first hear that the boys were missing?"

"I never heard of it till I was arrested."

"Never heard your boys speak of it?"

"Never did."

Noticed Bad Odor.

"Didn't you notice any bad odor in the house?"

"In September and October I did smell something, but laid it to the unsanitary condition of the closets up stairs. There was no water up there."

"Do you remember your boys telling you about hearing a pounding noise upstairs the night of Aug. 27?"

"Don't recall anything of the kind."

"Do you know where you were Aug. 27?"

"I have no idea. I was drinking a great deal then and have no recollection of things."

"Did you ever open that closet door?"

Never Opened Closet Door.

"I don't think I ever did. I had no occasion to."

"How often did you go through the house?"

"About once a month upstairs. I remember going through in October with Mr. Dubois. Neither of us noticed any particularly bad smell then."

Schoonmaker's Story.

Young Schoonmaker told his story today in his mother's presence.

"I was in Bound Brook, N. J.," he said, "when the boys were missed, but the next Saturday I was home and playing with 'Conny' Ahearn. We talked about the boys' going away.

"'They were over in our house that night,' said 'Conny' to me, 'so late they were afraid to go home. So they went upstairs to sleep in a closet.

"'Later that night Patsy and me heard a pounding upstairs. It was an awful stormy night. We spoke to father about it. He said:

"'"Oh, that's all right. There's nobody up there. Go on off to bed now, or I'll lick ye."'

"When I went home I told my mother. She said: 'Don't be telling such things around.'"

Undertaker Eagan, of 235 Spring street, said to-day:

"While preparing the body of the Loeffler boy for burial I noticed that the Beirne boy's left leg was broken at the ankle."

This proves that the boy's leg was broken when he was thrust forcibly into the closet, or if he had been shut in by accident he broke it while struggling to burst the door open.

The funeral of the Beirne boy took place from the Morgue chapel this morning. At about 11 o'clock the father and mother called with the brother and sister of the boy and two little companions.

There was no clergyman present. The little gathering prayed as they knelt close to the coffin. There was no other ceremony. Some candles were lighted and this was all.

The body was then to be taken to St. Raymond's Cemetery in Westchester.

ROOSEVELT AGAIN BEATEN

Charter Revision Bill Held Up Until He Gave In.

ALBANY, Feb. 15.—Gov. Roosevelt has had to make another concession in order that he may have his ideas carried out by the Legislature. The Charter Revision Committee bill has been under consideration for several days by the Assembly Cities Committee and the delay in reporting out the measure has caused considerable uneasiness.

It was learned to-day that the bill had been held up in committee on account of a provision which was inserted at the request of Gov. Roosevelt. This provided that the members of the Commission, all of whom are wealthy men, should receive $20 a day for their services. The Cities' Committee would have no such provision, and to-day sent a delegation to the Governor to so inform him.

The Committee won, the $20-a-day clause was stricken out and the bill will be reported.

AGAINST MORTGAGE TAX.

Republican Assemblymen Declare Themselves Opposed to Commission's Bill.

ALBANY, Feb. 15.—Assemblyman A. J. Roderbeck, of Rochester, Republican, to-day declared himself against the Commission's tax bill for the taxation of mortgages and bank stocks.

It is said several other Republicans are ready to follow his example.

TEN CENTS A DAY FOR WIFE.

Mrs. Fannie Lounsbine, a small, sickly looking woman, living at 200 East Eightieth street, had her husband, Albert, arraigned in Yorkville Court today and charged him with failing to provide for herself and three children. The smallest is an infant of two months, which she carried in her arms.

"Why don't you support your family?" asked Magistrate Zeller.

"I do," was the husband's response.

"He allows me 10 cents a day to live on," said the wife, bursting into tears. "Many a day I have gone hungry."

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," then said the Judge to the husband as he put him under bonds to pay his wife $5 a week.

Proper Selection of Food
The Sure Way to Get Well
And Keep Well. Use

GRAPE-NUTS

"While getting over the grip, and while my stomach was so irritable I could not eat anything without distress, I found I could take a dish of Grape-Nuts with rich milk, and feel built up like I had eaten a full meal, and yet have none of the unpleasant effects of indigestion. I wish people knew its worth.

"It seems to me trained nurses and physicians could use it to such good advantage. It is really the most nourishing and easily digested food I ever tried." Mrs. Myra J. Tuller, 1023 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Grape-Nuts Food is now recommended by physicians all over the United States. They know it contains the delicate particles of phosphate of potash obtained from the natural grains. This is the element Nature uses with albumen of the food to build the soft gray substance in the nerve centres, brain and solar plexus, in the human body. The effect is in some ways like a stimulant, but does not wear off, for it is a natural rebuilding.

Grape-Nuts can be made into a great many different and palatable dishes. The Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., the pure food manufacturers, offer to pay a reasonable sum for new and desirable recipes which may meet with their approval. Ladies are requested to experiment and send in their recipes. As an illustration: A most delicious mock pumpkin pie can be made from Grape-nuts after the following recipe: Four boiling water over 1-2 cup Grape-Nuts, let stand 10 minutes; add 2 eggs, 4 tablespoonsful of sugar, 2 cups sweet milk, 1-2 teaspoon of ginger, 1 teaspoon mixed spices. Stir over slow fire until thoroughly heated. Bake pie dough in deep pan. When done, put in prepared Grape-Nuts, return to oven and bake.

Price and Quality.

You Must Consider Them Both.

The mere cheapness of things does not make them desirable. Unless the quality is right, cheap goods may prove most expensive in the end. Yet the fact that quality is right does not justify excessive prices.
