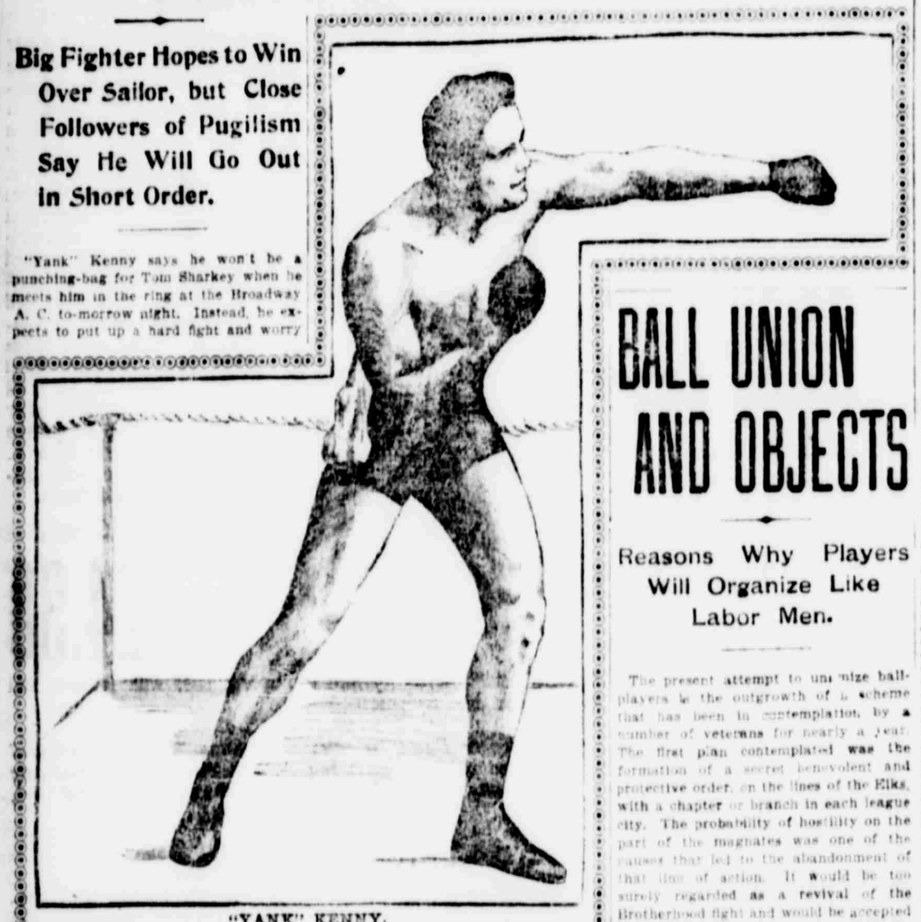
KENNY ON HIS CHANCES OF BEATING SAILOR SHARKEY.

Big Fighter Hopes to Win Over Sailor, but Close Followers of Pugilism Say He Will Go Out in Short Order.



"YANK" KENNY.
Who fights Tom Sharkey at the Broadway A. C. to-morrow night.

"Yank" Kenny says he won't be a punching-bag for Tom Sharkey when he meets him in the ring at the Broadway A. C. to-morrow night. Instead, he expects to put up a hard fight and worry the Sailor from the start. Others, who ought to know, say Kenny will go out in a hurry.

Kenny has been training up on Jerome avenue for some time, and is now in excellent trim for the battle. He has many advantages, which cannot be overlooked. He is six inches taller and has a reach three inches longer than Sharkey, which is a serious handicap, particularly when the bigger man is a clever boxer. That Kenny is, for he trained once with Bob Fitzsimmons.

"Sharkey will have to fight if he expects to beat me," says Kenny, "and unless I'm licked in a punch the Sailor will have plenty of trouble. I know the ability of my intended opponent, and am not underrating him in the least. But I'm in fine shape by virtue of my hard work, and I'll give a good account of myself.

"I'll be the short end of the betting, and I think it will be well for my friends to take a little of it. I'm going to try to win as I never did before, and it would come as no surprise to me if I did win, and no man can do more than try.

"The Sailor has been working at Sheepshead Bay with the same earnestness which he has for other fights, and is just as confident as ever of victory falling to him. He thinks Kenny a mark, and says he will not let him stay if he can put him out.

BALL UNION AND OBJECTS

Reasons Why Players Will Organize Like Labor Men.

The present attempt to unionize ballplayers is the outgrowth of a scheme that has been in contemplation by a number of veterans for nearly a year. The first plan contemplated was the formation of a secret benevolent and protective order, on the lines of the Elks, with a chapter or branch in each league city. The probability of hostility on the part of the magnates was one of the causes that led to the abandonment of that line of action. It would be too surely regarded as a revival of the Brotherhood fight and would be accepted as a movement in harmony with the rival leagues so widely discussed last season. The idea, however, of banding to protect themselves was never lost sight of by the players, and due consideration brought about the project of forming a labor union as a part of the federation of wage-earners.

This is the step that will take public form on Tuesday in Brooklyn, when three delegates from each of the eight clubs will meet to effect organization. The objects of the union plan are not antagonistic to employers. While the purpose is to protect its members against abuses and injustice, anything that necessitates a battle will be upon legal lines and the courts will probably be appealed to as arbiters of difficulties. Of course, if magnates attempt to take undue advantage of the reserve rule there may be a clash. It is also probable that a new reserve clause will be formulated to be inserted in contracts, modifying its relations to the player.

TO RAISE MONEY TO SEND LOCAL ATHLETES TO PARIS GAMES.

Evening World Will Receive Subscriptions for Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U.

The prize which will go to the winner of the Marathon road race, to be run under the auspices of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. on June 17—a trip to the Paris Exposition to participate in the big twenty-five-mile event in that city in July—has set local athletes talking. Many seem anxious to be the lucky winner of the event and have set to work preparing for the fifteen-mile run over rough country and around the smooth track at Celtic Park.

The Metropolitan would like to send at least four more men from this city, but the cost of that many would be too great. The organization has never made an appeal to the public for financial aid, although it has developed many exceedingly fast and good men in the athletic world. To pay the expenses of more than one man it cannot do, but The Evening World has undertaken the task of raising as much money as is possible and sending as many men as the returns from subscriptions will warrant.

Individuals as well as clubs interested in the event may subscribe to the fund and help send as many of New York's swift boys as is possible and make a representative showing against the world in Paris.

The Evening World will receive all subscriptions, and the names of contributors will be printed each day. The money will be turned over to the Metropolitan Association.

THE MAN WITH THE BAT.

Bowed by the weight of a million defeats he leans upon his bat;
The emptiness of ages in his face, he wonders where he's at.

SEYMOUR TO BE FARMED.

Giants' Erratic Twirler Will Be Loaned to the Worcester Team.

(Special to The Evening World.)

POLO GROUNDS, June 7.—Patsy Tebeau and his Terrors were on hand early this afternoon inspecting the sometimes Giants, with a view to mangling the remains of what the Cincinnatis had left around here that bore a semblance of baseballists. He didn't expect to find much in the way of a team, but was likely as not to be disappointed, for George Davis was patched up good enough for duty, and the team with Davis in has always been as good as it was bad with him out.

The glad tidings flashed this afternoon were that the weak pitching staff has been strengthened. Cogan, who was released by Chicago, has been signed as a Giant. He was here this afternoon and in condition to pitch if called upon. This young man made a record as a star of the Atlantic League, having pitched for Paterson before being drafted into the big League company. He is said to possess much the same characteristics that make Carrick so formidable. He is cool, not easily rattled, has nerve and can put the ball over the plate under any circumstances, according to those who have watched his work closely. Carrick mentioned him last year as a good candidate for a Giant uniform.

"Si" is to be farmed and will continue his attempt to tame his obstinate twirling wing in Worcester under the supervision of Kittredge. The "Bronco" did a great buck jump when he learned that he was to quit Harlem for a time at least. Somehow he seemed to think the reporters had something to do with it, and vented his spleen in a childish exhibition from the balcony.

The erratic left-hander was scheduled to pitch this afternoon, and the greeting may have been meant as a warning to "be good." As "Si" never got anything that he didn't deserve in The Evening World's reports of the games, it was a more ludicrous public exhibition than any he had ever given on the pitcher's slab.

The deal for Elmer Smith is concluded and the Cincinnatian will perform in right field as a Giant to-morrow. This will bring Mercer into line in his proper capacity as a pitcher, and perhaps Buck Ewing will have a reorganized team that will show more balance than the outfit he has been struggling along with.

The outcome of this afternoon's fight was a riddle deep as the mystery of the sphinx, on form. Tebeau wanted first blood, evidently, for he nominated Bert Jones as his artillerist, and that young man has mystified the best batters in the League before now.

However, having played two of the worst games of so-called baseball ever seen on these grounds, it was entirely in order for the Harlemites to show one of their spectacular reversals of form and give St. Louis a hard run.

Cogan warmed up and showed his paces before the game. Winnie Mercer also unlimbered his pitching arm a few and seemed glad to learn that his labors as a gardener were to end to-day.

First Inning.

Si wound up four wild balls to McGraw, one of which threatened to remove Murphy's thoughts from their cassaet. Donovan cracked a fast grasser to Davis, whose fling to Gleason forced McGraw. A wild pitch sent the ex-Pirate to second. Donovan came home on Keister's single to right, Si intercepted Mercer's throw in time to nail the latter trying for second. Donlin danced to first on balls. Burkett poked a single over second, Donlin reaching that bag. The latter took yards too much ground and Si and Davis collared him. One run.

Van lifted a puny fly to McGann. Mercer clipped a little foul to McGraw. Selbach pegged a two-bagger over Burkett's head. Davis shoved a single to left that sent Selbach over the plate. Doyle whacked to Keister and was flung out. One run.

Second Inning.

Hickman was a trifle late with McGann's slow tap, which counts a hit. Davis grabbed Quinn's dig, tod second, forcing McGann, and shot it to Doyle for a double play. Robinson dumped a fly in a safe spot in left and made it worth a bag. Jones pivoted at three curves. No runs.

Gleason stopped to look at his bunt, but still beat it to first. Hickman plunked a single to right, the Kid moving to second on it. Warner advanced both with a neat bunt sacrifice to Jones. "Si's" hot bounder came back from McGann to force Gleason at the plate. Si tried for second on the out but was doubled by Robinson. No runs.

Third Inning.

Four balls again started McGraw. Donovan did an unpraceful strike-out. Keister rolled to Davis, forcing McGraw. Gleason made no try for a double play, which looked possible. Donlin chopped to Davis, forcing Keister. No runs.

Van tapped to Jones and was out yards from first. Mercer beat a puzzling bunt at Jones. O'Day rankly called him out. Selbach got the first base on balls. Jones handed out. He stole second on a poor decision by O'Day. Burkett ran to Davis's drive, but could not collect it. Selbach tallied o nthe hit. George expired sliding to second. One run.

Fourth Inning.

Burkett slapped a hot single to right. McGann struck out. Quinn chopped to Gleason and was slain on first, Burkett advancing. Burkett rode home on Robinson's sharp single to left. Jones wafted a lengthy fly to Van. One run.

Doyle hoisted a fly into Burkett's basket. Gleason, outfooted a slam that Quinn made a good try for. Hickman welted a clean single to centre, pushing the Kid to second. Keister played tag with Warner's grasser and the bases were full. Quinn sent Si's whack to Robinson, forcing Gleason. Van rolled a single through Quinn, Hickman and Warner tallying and Si taking second. Mercer's tap wandered to centre for a base, Si scoring by a good sprint. Burkett got Selbach's fly on a run. Three runs.

Fifth Inning.

Hickman knocked down McGraw's blazing liner and tossed Mugsy out. Si hauled down Donovan's jolt and passed it to Doyle. Keister took a base on balls. Donlin passed away on three strikes. No runs.

Davis jabbed his third single to left. Davis took third and Doyle second on Quinn's bad handling of Jack's rap. Burkett ran a mile to scoop Gleason's pop fly. McGann's fine return of Hickman's hot slash nipped Davis on the plate. Doyle took third on the play. Hickman stole second unmolested.

Warner's single to middle tallied Doyle and Hickman. Warner taking second on the throw in. Si's fly fell safe in near right, Warner tallying. Cy Young had been dragged off the gate and put in working garb. The big fellow took Jones's job away from him right here.

He handed Van a base on balls. Mercer boosted a fly to Donlin. Three runs.

PIRATES IN BROCKLYN.

Their First Battle with the Champion Trolley Dodgers at Washington Park.

WASHINGTON PARK, June 7.—The Pittsburg team made their first appearance of the season in this borough this afternoon when they crossed bats with the champion Brooklyns. The clubs are billed to play four games, and as they hold a bitter grudge against each other every one of the encounters will be decidedly interesting and stubbornly contested.

The great playing which the Smoky City crowd has been doing during the past two weeks has made them really believe they will surely carry off the pennant, and they were not a bit slow in declaring that they would win at least three games out of the four from the Trolley Dodgers.

Manager Hanlon and his players were not worried over the Pirates' prediction and declared that they would come nearer winning the three games than the visitors.

The day was a delightful one for the tussle and as everything looked promising for a lively combat the cranks turned out in big numbers.

Hanlon selected Jerry Nops to fill the bill, while Dick Cooley trotted out Phillippi.

Umpire—Mr. Swartwood.

First Inning.

Cooley gave an exhibition of club swinging at three of Nops's outcurves. Ritchie slapped the ball to right centre and stopped at first. He tried to steal second, but was easily caught on Farrel's throw to Dahlen. Beaumont sent a slow grounder to the infield and just beat out Dahlen's throw to first. Wagner pasted a grounder to Dahlen and was an easy victim. No runs.

Jones's scorching grounder was neatly picked up by Ely and sent to first in time to retire him. Keeler got in a drive to right for a bag. Jennings's long low line fly was captured by Wagner. Kelley sent a slow grounder, which Williams threw to Cooley. No runs.

Second Inning.

Williams drove a long fly to Jones. O'Brien was the second victim on his slow grass-cutter, which Dahlen tossed to Jennings. Ely raised a high one to Kelley. No runs.

Ritchie got in front of Dahlen's fast grounder and threw him out at first. Cross hit safely, but on Daly's low line fly, which was caught by Ely, he was doubled up. No runs.

Third Inning.

O'Connor was disposed of by Daly and Jennings. Phillipi raised a high foul fly for Cross. Cooley pasted one of Nops's inshoots to right centre and made two bases. Ritchie's grass-cutter was picked up and sent to first in time. No runs.

Farrell smashed a low line fly to right. Phillippi's benders were too much for Nops. Jones slapped the ball to centre for a sack, but was left there, for Keeler drove a long fly to Wagner. No runs.

Fourth Inning.

Beaumont raised a pop fly to Dahlen. Wagner slammed the ball to the scoreboard in right field for three bases. Williams looked too dangerous and Nops allowed him to walk. O'Brien sent a long fly to Jones, permitting Wagner to cross the plate. Nops made a wild throw to Jennings to catch Williams napping and the latter got around to third. Ely hit safely, sending Williams over the plate. O'Connor soaked a high fly to Kelley. Two runs.

Jennings banged out a hot grounder which Williams made a clever stop of and threw him out at first. Kelley was disposed of by the same players. Dahlen contributed a single to centre and was advanced to third on Cross's drive to right. Cross made a clever steal of second. Daly sent a high bounder to Ely. No runs.

Fifth Inning.

Phillipi made three unsuccessful swings at Nops's curves. Cooley sent a grounder to Daly, who threw him out. Ritchie lifted a fly to Dahlen. No runs.

Farrel for the second time sent a high one to Wagner. Nops fanned. Jones sent the "champs" to the field by slamming out a fly to Beaumont. No runs.

GOLF AT SHORT HILLS.

Boston, Philadelphia and New York Players Meet on Baltusrol Links.

(Special to The Evening World.)

SHORT HILLS, June 7.—Boston and Philadelphia were both represented with the Metropolitan cracks in the second day's play at the Baltusrol Golf Club open tournament. The weather was charming, and with perfect links there was no excuse for anything but low scores.

The summary of the morning play: Governor's Cup—Bayard beat Leavitt by 2 up and 1 to play; Kenadie beat Jacin by 7 up and 6 to play; Lockwood beat C. F. Watson by 6 up and 1 to play; Chadwick beat Hamilton by default; Graham beat Cory by 1 up, 21 holes; Devereux beat Bohlen by 4 up and 2 to play; Tyng beat Campbell by 2 up and 1 to play; Watson beat Conkling by 7 up and 5 to play.

Consolation Cup—Hatton beat Schapler by default; Reed beat Wotkins by default; Edwards beat Colman by 3 up and 1 to play; Bowley beat Emmer by 5 up and 4 to play; Williams beat Cantler by 2 up; Morrow beat Toffey by default; Harvey beat Denton by 1 up; Fay beat Wellington by 1 up, 19 holes.

WINNERS AT GRAVESEND; CENTRAL TRUST'S VICTORY.

The Puritan Gets Opening Event, Beating Prince of Melrose and Kimberley—Track in Fine Condition.

(Special to The Evening World.)

RACE TRACK, GRAVESEND, June 7.—Once more the weather was very cool and breezy at Gravesend. From the city to the track was a most astonishing change. In town the weather was actually hot. At the track an overcoat would not have been uncomfortable to those sitting in the shade of the grand stand. The air was bracing, however, and enjoyable.

The track was in its usual excellent condition.

The only feature on the card was the Manhanset Stakes, for two-year-olds, and a handicap. The card was interesting, however, and good sport resulted.

The Puritan's First Race.

Two-year-olds opened the ball this afternoon, The Puritan being the choice. He won, ridden by Clawson. Prince of Melrose made the running to the stretch, where Kimberley, who had been well backed at prices ranging from 10 to 1 down to 6 to 1, began to look dangerous. He faltered at the furlong pole and could catch neither The Puritan nor Prince of Melrose. The Puritan finished a clever winner by a length from Prince of Melrose, who was a neck in front of Kimberley. Humbolt was fourth.

Queen of Song Badly Beaten.

Queen of Song was heavily played in the second race in spite of the fact that Merito had previously taken her into camp. The Queen, however, showed that she was not good. Merito did not win, but she beat Queen of Song more easily than on the previous occasion. Andrisa went to the front at flagfall and in making the first turn she badly fouled Queen of Song. This gave her an advantage of several lengths which she held into the stretch with Merito, Queen of Song and Lindemere on even terms. When they straightened out Merito skinned through on the rail and collared Andrisa at the sixteenth pole. It was a hard drive home, but Andrisa was game. She won by a neck. Merito was seven lengths in front of Lindemere.

Her Ladyship's Fine Finish.

Her Ladyship, the favorite in the third race, won in rather a sensational finish. Wax Taper, a 10 to 1 chance, made the running, followed by Cupidity, The Benedict and Du Blanc. At this time the favorite was back in the ruck, with little Rausch looking in vain for an opening. He was finally forced to some side, and when straightened out Wax Taper was a length in front and going easy. In the last sixteenth, however, Her Ladyship came with a terrific burst of speed and Hullman was forced to whip on Wax Taper. Before reaching the wire Her Ladyship got Wax Taper going again and then got up and won by a neck. The latter was four lengths in front of The Benedict.

Water Color Good Luck.

Water Color, who finished home just in time. His trip to England must also have changed his luck, for Central Trust, usually a disappointing horse, won for him first crack out of the box. Central Trust was heavily played and the favorite. Knight of the Garter was rushed from last place to the front in the first half mile and he led by three lengths, turning into the stretch with Central Trust. Prince of Melbourne and Lothario. Central Trust went to the front as soon as they settled down for business and drawing away won easily by a length and a half from Prince of Melbourne, who beat Knight of the Garter a half length for the place.

Water Color Beats Bonnibert.

The Manhanset went to Water Color, the good colt brought out by the Littlefields a few days ago. Water Color made most of the running, and won cleverly by a length from the favorite, Bonnibert. Tower of Candles was third, a length and a half away.

KID M'COY FEARS CONSUMPTION.

Says He Is Likely to Contract Dreaded Disease if He Trains, So He Therefore Calls Off His Fight with Sharkey.

The limited round bout between Tom Sharkey and Kid McCoy, which was slated to be fought at the Seaside Sporting Club at Coney Island on June 25, has been declared off for good. McCoy announced last night that he had made up his mind not to fight the Sailor, and that the latter could have his forfeit of $1,000 if he wished it.

Although McCoy had an idea of throwing up the match before he fought Jack Bonner at the Broadway A. C., he changed his mind, however, and merely asked Tom O'Rourke, manager of Sharkey, for a postponement of the fight. This O'Rourke willingly consented to and, according to McCoy's statement, he was to give a decided answer to O'Rourke last night as to the new date of the battle.

After giving the matter careful consideration McCoy decided at 9 o'clock last night to call off the match for good, and so informed O'Rourke. The latter tried hard to induce McCoy to change his mind and box the Sailor, but was unsuccessful.

McCoy said no inducement could alter his plans.

When asked by an Evening World reporter last night why he had thrown up the match, McCoy said:

"I called the fight off because I think that training hard in the Summer time throws a man into consumption. You know I am not a rugged man by any means, and sooner than take any chances of injuring my health I decided to not fight again until the Fall. I have called on all the fights I had on hand just on that account, and if Sharkey wants my $1,000 forfeit he is welcome to it."

RESULTS AT NEWPORT.

RACE TRACK, NEWPORT, June 7.—The races scheduled to be run here to-day resulted as follows:

Thousands of Patients in every period of life cured of most inveterate diseases and in robust health to-day are living monuments to the power and unfailing virtues of
Dr. J. J. Spreng's
Transfusive Elixir of Life.
One trial will convince you of its merit.

Dr. Spreng made one of the greatest and most valuable discoveries in medicine. It is a vitalizing fluid justly called the ELIXIR OF LIFE. It has stood all tests and proved itself the real "Fountain of Youth."
With it Dr. Spreng has made most wonderful cures of the young and the old. One trial will remove every possible doubt of its merit.
Dr. Spreng finds that the most inveterate and illusive diseases disappear as if by magic by the resistless power of the Transfusive Elixir of Life it is applied by Dr. Spreng through his original and imperceptible method of transfusion. It enables the most feeble body to endure all forms of fatigue. It rejuvenates the aged and restores HEALTH, VIGOR AND LONG LIFE permanently to both young and old, and produces the natural appearance of youth.
Through its use Dr. Spreng has added years of life to his patients, and has made existence a comfort and a blessing to them.
