Burkett Endorsed
The democratic opposition to Senator Burkett does not like the endorsement given to the Senator by ex-President Roosevelt recently and are endeavoring to twist that endorsement into such shape that it will be unrecognizable as the original article.

Neither do they like the endorsement given Mr Burkett at the primary. Though opposed by four other republicans for the nomination and a bitter personal and political fight waged against him for several weeks, yet he polled over twelve thousand more votes than his chief opponent and nearly thirty five hundred more than all the others combined and this in a combined republican vote of less than forty thousand.

This indicates that Senator Burkett holds a place in the hearts of the republican voters which means much for his success at the polls in November and that all efforts of the democratic press to discredit him will cut little figure. He stood upon his record at the primary and will stand upon that same record for the election.

No republican who really and conscientiously believes in the principles of the republican party is going to vote for Senator Burkett's democratic opponent at the fall election. To do so would mean giving up every principle that voter has stood for all his life, and few will be found who will be willing to do that thing.

If the principles of the republican party are right they cannot be observed by voting for a democratic candidate for the United States Senate.

Sioux City Journal, 14th: When Lane married a pretty little Gypsy girl in Dakota City, Neb, eight years ago he incurred the enmity of her father.

When he married the Gypsy she for a time was content to try to live in a house. But the innate magnetism of the life and the vagabond for the happy-go-lucky existence of the nomad called for her.

Lewis McKinney, of Bangor, Mich., is the guest of his sister, Mrs. C. A. Manning.

Mrs Mullins leaves Thursday for St. Paul, Minn., where he will attend college this year.
A new gasoline lighting plant has been installed at the Methodist church south of the Iowa examination. He already had one in this state.

Mrs. M. L. Cooley has sold her restaurant business here to her sister, Mrs. Hattie Cooley, and Mrs. Cooley and family have moved back to Wakefield.

Wright was accompanied by his wife and granddaughter.
Wm. Need has leased the Smoyer hotel at the corner of Third and Pearl street in Sioux City and is intending it up so as to be ready for big business fair week.

South Sioux City girls who started to teach school this year are: Edith Criswell, at Emerson; Leah Rosinque, at Macy; Gladys Kilms, at Waterbury, and Cloon Teter, at Homer.
Mrs. J. M. Johnson enjoyed a visit from her niece, Miss Fern Hemstreet, of Emerson, this week. Mrs. Johnson left Thursday for a visit at Lyons.

J. C. Duggan, postmaster at Goodwin, and two sons were in town Thursday looking over some lots which Mr. Duggan owns, and calling on friends.
Miss Cleo Parmelee, of Gilroy, Cal., was in town Wednesday, the guest of Mrs. Burt Kroesen. Miss Parmelee formerly lived at Emerson. She was on her way to Boston, where she will attend the New England Conservatory of Music for her third year.

Alex Pearson and son, A. A. Pearson, will hold their annual school goods at auction Saturday at the Woodmen hall building, where they will make their future home. Mr. A. Pearson spent most of last year in the west and southwest.
Professor J. S. Hayward, who had charge of the music in the South Sioux City public schools last year, has the music work at Hancock and Lyons, where he served last year, and at Emerson, where music has just been added to the course. Mr. Hayward was successful this summer in securing a first grade state certificate in music as a first week and its first trial Wednesday evening proved very satisfactory.

H. L. Dorn and H. W. Meeker, who have charge of the Dakota county exhibit at the Interstate fair, are working hard to make the showing a creditable one. The exhibit is now in the process of preparing prize-winning samples of their produce. Among other features of the county's booth will be a checking department, where Dakota county people can leave parcels, etc, while out enjoying the fair.

The South Sioux City public schools resumed work on Monday, September 5. The attendance this week has been good and indicates that a larger enrollment will be had than in former years. The schools are in the hands of the following able corps of teachers: H. Kaubach, superintendent; Miss Agnes Leonard is principal of the south building and Miss Tressa Johnson is principal at the high school. At the south building Miss Mabel Harvey teaches the intermediate room; Miss Anna Bartlett, second primary; Miss Ida Jew, first primary. At the high school Miss Mabel Harvey teaches the intermediate room and Miss Alice G. O'Neill the primary. A. E. Criswell is janitor at the high school and R. E. Church at the south building.

Interstate Fair Notes.
Only next week and all roads will be leading to the big Interstate Live Stock Fair in Sioux City. All railroads have reduced their rates of fare and all have made provisions to run extra trains and add extra coaches to regular trains. The street railway company in Sioux City will operate 2-car trains one minute apart between the city and the Fair Grounds during the hours when the traffic is the heaviest.

The Fair will be the best all around show the association ever has given. The exhibit of live stock will be larger than ever before and will include the prize winning herds of the state fairs of Iowa and Minnesota, Nebraska and South Dakota.
The racing programme in the horse department is well balanced, an excellent card having been arranged for every afternoon except Saturday, when the track will be given over to automobiles and motorcycles.

A free vaudeville show, containing the highest class acts obtainable, being the same seen last week at the Minnesota State Fair, will be presented every afternoon in front of the grandstand.
The display of farm machinery and automobiles will be the largest ever seen in Iowa.

Every foot of space is taken in the departments devoted to plants and flowers, pantry and kitchen, fine arts and household work and children.
There will be a Midway with more good clean shows than ever before seen at a fair grounds, and while the shows are of a higher grade than usual these will be the usual rattle-band and clanger of a "big show ground."

Never before—not even in the old Corn Palace days or in the day of the Mandamin carnivals—has Sioux City made such elaborate preparations for pleasing its visitors as have been made for FAIR WEEK. Every street of the business section will be brilliantly lighted and decorated at an extra cost of many thousands of dollars, and arches of welcome will greet the arrivals at every railway station. Another arch of welcome has been erected upon the Fourth Street viaduct.

Six bands will furnish music down town every forenoon and every night, and all nights will be carnival nights with the usual grand confetti battle roundup on Saturday night.
Sioux City next week will be one of the most attractive spots on the map of our country.
