ENDLESS CHAIN OF PRAYER FOR M'KINLEY'S DEFEAT.

Most Remarkable Movement in the History of American Politics Started by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The campaign of prayer against McKinley, started by the W. C. T. U. of Indianapolis, Ind., is the most remarkable political movement ever attempted in this country.

If the plans of the organizers of this movement succeed half the women in the United States will be praying, by November next, for the defeat of the President.

The plans call for an endless chain of letters which will reach from Maine to California and from Texas to Minnesota. It is expected there will be many more prayers uttered than there are voters in the land.

The idea is that of Mrs. F. T. McWhirter, President, and Mrs. Mary E. Balch, Secretary, of the Indiana Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Already they have started their endless chain. Many thousand pledges have been printed, ready to start on the long journey.

Every woman who receives one is supposed to pray for the defeat of Mr. McKinley and send two pledges by mail to other women, one of her own State and one of some other State. On the margin of each pledge is the following from St. Matthew:

"AGAIN I SAY UNTO YOU, THAT IF TWO OF YOU SHALL AGREE ON EARTH AS TOUCHING ANYTHING THAT THEY SHALL ASK IT SHALL BE DONE FOR THEM OF MY FATHER WHICH IS IN HEAVEN."

PLEDGE THAT MAY DEFEAT M'KINLEY.

"Whereas, President William McKinley has shown that he prefers the favor of the liquor men of the nation to that of the millions of Christian people who petitioned him to blot out the canteen scourge from the army; therefore, I pledge myself as follows:

"1. I pledge myself that I will, until election day, make it a special subject of prayer to my Heavenly Father that He will give to the United States a better man for President for the next four years—one who will be a total abstainer himself, and who will do what he can to overthrow the liquor traffic.

"2. I furthermore pledge myself to make at least two copies of this letter, and mail one copy to some sister in the State in which I reside and the other copy to some sister in some other State."

WHAT POLITICIANS THINK.

Hanna, Depew, Bliss, Odell and Others Are Not Fearful of the Prayer Chain.

BY SENATOR HANNA.

Senator Hanna said:

"I think the good ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union misunderstand the situation. Further than this I do not care to express an opinion."

BY SENATOR DEPEW.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew said:

"I confess I was somewhat amazed when I read of the action taken by the W. C. T. U., of Indianapolis. While I think that the prayers of all the wives and mothers of America would defeat any candidate, I am inclined to think that this movement will be negative. The Women's Christian Temperance Union is composed of very earnest Christian women, and I have no doubt that those who have started this campaign of prayer are sincere. But they are going to pray for the defeat of Mr. McKinley on the grounds that he occasionally takes a glass of wine, or at least that he has wine on his dinner table, and these women are going to pray for the election of Mr. Bryan because he is a Prohibitionist. What will the Democrats say to this? Why, the very announcement that there is a movement to defeat the Republican candidate and elect a Democratic Prohibitionist would set a good share of the Democratic party to voting for the man that takes the wine. I should say that a campaign of prayer in favor of a Democratic Prohibitionist would lose Bryan nine-tenths of the Tammany vote."

NONSENSE, SAYS BLISS.

Cornelius N. Bliss, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, said:

"Why, bless me! An endless chain of prayer, eh? Tut, tut, such nonsense. It's really too absurd for ridiculous, too preposterous. Why? It's so absurd I won't talk about it. Endless chain of prayer, indeed."

BY SENATOR SCOTT.

Senator Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia, Chairman of the Bureau on Speakers of the Republican National Committee, said:

"I should hate to say that the good, kind ladies of the W. C. T. U. have not the right to pray. I should also hate to say that prayer in such a case is foolish, but if these good ladies must pray why don't they use their efforts on some poor drunken wretch near home? They will find plenty of them. Let them help some such poor fellow out of the gutter if they can by prayer and thereby peform a real national service. So far as Mr. McKinley is concerned I am sure he's not in need of prayer to convert him to the paths of temperance."

ODELL SKEPTICAL.

Benjamin B. Odell, jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, said:

"This matter may prove serious before we are through with it, although I hardly think it will. There are chains that break, you know, and this may be one of them. All people do not think alike, and this canteen question has given rise to various opinions. Some are opposed to a canteen, others regard it as a necessary evil, and others favor it strongly. This chain of prayer is certainly a new idea in campaigning, but I do not think it will be effective."

WHAT GIBBS THINKS.

Frederick Gibbs, Republican National Committeeman for New York, said:

"This might be serious if carried far enough, but I guess the Democratic National Committee is back of it all. They are too wicked to pray for the defeat of Mr. McKinley themselves, so they have induced these good women to do it for them. I doubt if the movement ever reaches New York though."

WHAT DEMOCRATS THINK.

John A. Mason, a member of the Democratic State Committee, said:

"This is really a very serious matter for our opponents. It ought to worry them a good deal, and I guess it does. It is evidently a religious effort being made by righteous women and it will have its effects."

Frank Campbell, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, said:

"This movement looks like a good thing for the Democrats. If it is carried out by the ladies as planned it will certainly be dangerous to Mr. McKinley's chances. It is apt to harm him very materially."

W. C. T. U. WOMEN TALK.

Mrs. Westerfield and Julia Coleman Give Their Views of the Chain of Prayer.

BY MRS. J. A. WESTERFIELD.

President W. C. T. U., New York County.

I have heard nothing of any movement in this State of the W. C. T. U. to extend the endless prayer system inaugurated by the women in Indiana. I don't believe any such movement will be started here. At any rate, it will not originate in this county and with my approval.

I am as much opposed to President McKinley's canteen policy as any one, but such a movement, to my opinion, would prevent the co-operation of many people, and we cannot afford to do anything that will lessen our influence for good by such antagonism.

The W. C. T. U. is composed largely of Methodists. The Methodist Church is unalterably opposed to liquor, and we cannot see how President McKinley, who is a Methodist, can allow liquor to be sent to the troops in the Philippines.

ABOLISHED IN NAVY.

At our request Secretary Long abolished the canteen in the navy, and statistics show the result, as to health alone, to be simply wonderful. If President McKinley would do as much, and we know he could by a stroke of his pen, things would be very different with the soldiers, and I think every woman in the W. C. T. U. would welcome his re-election.

When the American troops landed at Manila there were very few saloons in that city. Now there are over 400 on the main street alone. And Mr. Roosevelt, too, who we supposed was in sympathy with our work, boosted recently of the $12,000,000 and over added to the coffers of this State by the liquor tax.

WANTS M'KINLEY BEATEN.

He evidently did not think or else did not care what that $12,000,000 cost the people of this State. With two such men on the Republican ticket as this why should the W. C. T. U. care to see them elected?

The American troops had scarcely landed in Manila before carload after carload of beer started over after them. Surely this could not be done without the President's approval, and it naturally makes the members of the W. C. T. U. feel that his overthrow cannot but be beneficial to our cause.

My opinion of the endless-chain prayer system is not to the end they have in view, but rather a question of whether it is good policy.

BY JULIA COLEMAN.

Julia Coleman, prominent throughout the country as a worker of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, said of the movement to defeat McKinley:

"I do not favor such a movement as that inaugurated at Indianapolis. I do not think it will attain here in New York. It is against the principles of the union to adopt political measures and make them official. Of course, every four years, during a national campaign, there is more or less partisanship displayed by the members.

"The question of abolishing the canteen is one for Congress, it seems to me, and if the President did not see fit to abolish the system that is a matter between him and his conscience.

"It is a question for the voters of the land, and I honestly think women should keep their hands off. I do not think these prayers will avail much. We ought to pray that laws may be enacted to prevent the sale of a liquid so harmful as alcohol.

"I anticipate very little result from this movement. None of the pledges has reached New York as yet to my knowledge, and I think the movement will amount to very little in the East."

Jeweller Joseph Charig Dead.

Joseph Charig, of Charig Brothers, the Fulton street jewellers, died last night at his residence, 68 West One Hundred and Seventeenth street. Mr. Charig, who was thirty-eight years old, returned from the country only ten days ago, when he was stricken with typhoid fever. He had been in the jewelry trade sixteen years, and for the past six years was a member of the firm of Charig Brothers. His funeral will take place to-morrow morning. He leaves a widow and a daughter eleven years old.

FORMERLY LUDWIG BROS. West 14th St. Your Money Back if a Purchase Is Unsatisfactory.

For School Days.

Vacations are almost over. Young heads will be hard at work again in a few days. Therefore a timely inquiry: Are your children properly equipped? Have they all the needfuls which make school tasks lighter? Have they the right kinds of clothing—the sorts that will stand hard wear and look good to the last? We've made a very special effort to supply the wants of the youngsters this year, and while this advertisement comprises most all their needs, whatever is omitted is here if it's worth having. No use telling you about the prices. They couldn't be any lower if you priced the articles yourself.
