TRIVIAL GAINS LOST AFTER OPENING HOUR

Many Prominent Issues Remained Unmentioned Until Afternoon; Bonds Were Reported Steady

By Associated Press

New York, June 29. — Most of the trivial gains of the opening were lost before the end of the first hour. The measure of the market's activity in that period may be taken from the fact that only about 20,000 shares changed hands, and the second hour was even more apathetic. Indeed, up to noon, quite a number of the better known issues remained unquoted. Threats of serious opposition to the Rock Island reorganization plan accounted for the heaviness of these issues. Traders found no inducement to operate, their chagrin becoming more pronounced over the continued delay in the Eastern freight rate decision.

Bonds were steady.

WILSON GETS IN AGAIN

Washington, D. C., June 29.—Conflicting claims of jurisdiction among House committees over the administration conservation bills have forced President Wilson to take a hand in the situation, and he has arranged conferences with the contending Congressmen for this week. He expects little difficulty in bringing about harmony.
