Indian Marries Widow of His Two Older Brothers

Carthage, Miss., Sept. 21.—Following the injunction laid down in the law of Moses, the third brother of the family of a fast fading tribe of Choctaw Indians, in Lake county, has married the widow of his two older brothers.

Several years ago the eldest brother married and lived with his bride but a short time when he died. The second brother then married the woman. After eighteen months he, too, passed away. The widow was taken into the home of the youngest brother as his wife, and they are living together happily.
