GREAT STRIKE IS ORDERED MAY 20.

Nearly a Million Men May Be Affected—Trouble at Albany.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—In accordance with an order issued by James O'Connell, President of the International Association of Machinists, 150,000 men will quit work May 20. The strike will also involve 500,000 men employed in the metal-working trades.

O'Connell says that there is a possibility that the strike order may be rescinded, but he does not think this is likely.

The demands of the men are for a working day of nine hours and an increase of 12½ per cent. in wages, or, in other words, ten hours' pay for nine hours' work.

The matter, O'Connell said, has been under consideration for some time and every effort has been made by the Machinists' Association to avoid resorting to a strike, but such action, he says, is now necessary if the workingmen hope to attain the end they are striving for.

Conferences were in progress to-day between President O'Connell, of the International Association of Machinists, and President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, and officials of several of the metal-working trades other than the machinists, considering the moral and financial support to be given the proposed strike of machinists. President O'Connell said the strike will affect at least 100,000 men directly and over that number of allied mechanics indirectly.

Some time ago through the efforts of the International Association the latter secured from the National Metal Trades Association, the employers of about 25 per cent. of the men who would be affected by the strike, concessions by which a general workday of nine hours was to become operative on May 20 of this year.

The question of wages remained unsettled. Saturday a conference was held in New York. No agreement was reached as the employers wished to have the matter of wages left to be settled locally.

This method is unsatisfactory to the representatives of the machinists' association, who express the opinion that this would prolong indefinitely the settlement of the question. Upon his return to the city Mr. O'Connell promptly prepared the order for the strike, and it was sent out by mail to-day.

MAY SHUT DOWN ALL BUILDING.

Lock-Out Threatens to Stop Work on All Structures in This City.

Unless the seventy-five striking bricklayers who have quit work on the Stokes apartment-house, at Seventy-fourth street and Boulevard, return to their places by Thursday a complete shutdown of all building operations in New York will follow.

The lockout would affect 10,000 bricklayers and 20,000 other workmen engaged in various branches of building industry.

An ultimatum from the Mason Builders' Association reached the bricklayers' unions to-day. It was in the form of a resolution, passed by the Mason Builders at their Saturday night conference. The resolution follows:

"Resolved, That on Thursday, May 16, 1901, all work by journeymen bricklayers on the building operations of members of the Mason Builders' Association be suspended, unless in the mean time the members of the Bricklayers' Unions live up to the annual agreement between the Mason Builders and the Bricklayers' Unions and abide by the decision of the Joint Arbitration Board to man the works of Mr. Thomas J. Reilly, one of the members of this association.

The Mason Builders' Association practically controls the building operations in New York. The Bricklayers' Union, on the other hand, is one of the strongest organizations in the city. It has not had a strike in fifteen years.

President Eidlitz, of the Master Builders' Association, said to-day:

"We passed a resolution and drew up a letter at our meeting Saturday that will reach the bricklayers to-day. If they do not comply with its terms we will shut down work on Thursday.

ALBANY STRIKERS REFUSED TERMS.

Agreement Presented by the Company Not Suitable to the Men.

ALBANY, May 13.—The employees of the Albany division of the United Traction Company have refused to accept the terms offered by the company. The railroad now threatens to put on non-union men at once.

The refusal of the men has developed a peculiar situation. The agreement had been approved by the Executive Committee of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees and indorsed by President McMahon, of that organization.

President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, had also sanctioned it.

It is believed that the action of the strikers in deciding to reject the agreement after international officers passed on it may seriously affect their standing with the international association if support is needed for a continuation of the strike.

An assault to-day on Rezin Orr, the treasurer of the organization, was due to a belief that he had been influenced by the traction company.

DERBY STRIKERS BACK AT WORK.

Girls Cheered as They Resumed Their Places in Paugassett Mills.

(Special to The Evening World.)

DERBY, Conn., May 13.—The Paugassett mills were reopened to-day and all of the sixty-five girl strikers resumed work after an absence of just two months.

From many of the windows of the mill small flags fluttered, and as the strikers entered through the main gate to take their old places they were heartily greeted by the women employed in other departments, who were their sympathizers throughout the strike.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Griffiths, who were assaulted by the mob some days ago, and who left town hurriedly, have returned.

An article of the strike agreement provides that neither of the Griffiths shall be molested.

President Charles B. Ailing, of the mills, does not look for any further trouble.

NO STRIKE ON N. J. CENTRAL.

Firemen Resolve by Ballot to Accept New Schedule.

The firemen employed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey have decided by ballot to adhere to the wage schedule recently agreed upon at conferences between the employees and officials.

Objection had been made to the schedule because it permitted the operation of large engines with but one fireman. The vote ends the entire dispute.

EARL WALKED STREETS LOOKING FOR WORK.

Yarmouth Tells How Serious a Matter It Is to Look for Work and Not Find It.

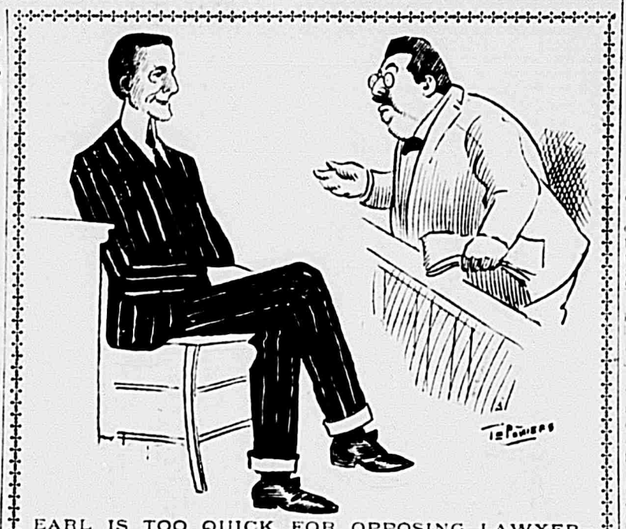
He walked all night
To keep from sleeping—
That, alas! was true.
He slept all day
To keep from eating—
Made him awful blue.
—Barn-Storming Ballads.

Before the doors leading to Part XII. of the Supreme Court were opened this morning a crowd had gathered in the corridor. The interest in the libel suit of the Earl of Yarmouth against a morning newspaper is unabated.

The Earl was one of the first of the principals to appear. His wardrobe is running short. This was the fifth day of the trial, and for the first time he appeared in court in a suit he had worn there before.

He went back to the suit of the opening day—the black and white stripe.

Justice Blanchard had paid the strictest attention to the trial. He had especially been interested in the testimony of the Earl. The Justice, contrary to the rule of most judges, does not take notes. His memory is remarkably good and he experiences no difficulty in recalling every point of the testimony.



EARL IS TOO QUICK FOR OPPOSING LAWYER.
Lawyer Wollman—Now, Mr. Yarmouth, you won't be witty with me this morning, will you?
Earl to Opposing Counsel—I'll try not, old chap.

Lawyer for the Defense—Now, MR. Yarmouth, do you do anything serious?
The Earl—Yas—I look for work.
Lawyer—Do you get it?
The Earl—Not always—that's more serious. (Laughter.)

Earl Resumes Story.

After Judge Blanchard gave the counsel on both sides brief instructions in regard to the summing up of the case Mr. Wollman started at once to finish his cross-examination of the Earl.

"When did you first come to America?" asked the lawyer.

"In 1899."

"Did you go to Newport?"

"I did."

"It was there you met the Vanderbilts, the Astors and other wealthy people?"

"It was."

"Were you ever interviewed?"

"Not with my consent."

"Did not a paper print an interview with you signed Eric Hope?"

"It did without my consent, and the man who wrote it was discharged."

"Do you owe a bill for cigarettes?"

"A small one."

"Do you owe a tailor bill?"

"No. I buy my clothes in London."

"Do you belong to any club in New York?"

"No."

Put Up for Lambs' Club.

"Was your name put up in the Lambs' Club?"

"I believe it was."

"Was it not taken down by request of the members?"

"I cannot say. I am not a member."

"You said you walked a good deal," said the lawyer. "Have you no other serious occupation than walking?"

"I was walking trying to find work—that's serious."

"But you didn't find work?"

"No—that was more serious," said the Earl with a drawl.

"That is all," said Lawyer Wollman.

"Not a question," said the attorney for the plaintiff, and the Earl stepped down from the stand.

Attorney English moved to dismiss the case on the ground that the plaintiff had not proved publication of the article in question.

While addressing the jury in closing the Earl's side of the case, A. H. Hummell, his attorney, turned to the defendant's lawyers and said:

"You thought you would get the Earl to drop his suit by calling Miss Sylvia Green here to testify.

"But you didn't know the backbone of her mother. When informed that her daughter had been subpœnaed she told her to go ahead and testify."

Judge Blanchard began his charge at 3.30 o'clock. It was decidedly favorable to the Earl of Yarmouth.

During the address of Mr. Hummel one of the jurors punctured the attorney's remarks by an audible "good."

The jury retired at 4.04.

DECLARES SHE WAS DRUGGED.

Hoboken Has a Case Like that of Jennie Bosschieter.

William H. Downs and William Hughes, both twenty-eight years old and married, were arraigned before Recorder Stanton, at Hoboken, to-day charged with assault by seventeen-year-old Florence Earle, of No. 503 Bloomfield street.

She was employed in a laundry of which Downs is general manager at No. 1211 Washington street. She said that on aturday night she met Hughes, who tok her to the rear of a saloon, where Downs awaited them. She drank one beer and two sodas and then became helpless.

She said that before leaving her Downs warned her not to say anything. He said that if the forewoman in the laundry heard about the affair she would probably tell Hughes's wife and his own.

The girl attempted to end her life yesterday morning by taking poison. Dr. Charles Peterson was called in to attend her, and to-day he testified as to her condition.

Lawrence Schopp, a bartender at the saloon, testified to the men and girl having had drinks in the rear room. He said he did not hear any disturbance while they were there.

William Earle, the brother of the girl, said that he merely wanted justice. If the prisoners were guilty he wanted them punished. He believed his sister was mentally unbalanced and that they, knowing this, took advantage of her.

The prisoners pleaded not guilty and were held in $1,000 bail each for the Grand Jury.

TRIED FOR MURDER.

Insanity Plea May Be Entered for Detective Desmond.

Timothy J. Desmond, formerly a detective in the Brooklyn Police Department, was placed on trial to-day before Judge Aspinall, in the County Court, charged with the murder of James McMullen on Dec. 16 last. At the time of the killing of McMullen, Desmond was attached to the Fifth avenue station. On Dec. 14 Capt. Reynolds succeeded Capt. Lawson at that station, and there was a jollification over the event.

Desmond was indicted and has been in the Raymond Street Jail ever since. On Feb. 1 he jumped from a balcony in the jail and was badly bruised by a fall of twenty-five feet.

It is understood that the defense will plead insanity.

A "KNOCKER."

Found on Many Tables.

People will "slug" themselves with coffee and then hunt around for medicine to cure them of the trouble coffee produces, but they keep on drinking coffee and making new diseases right along. That is, some people do. There are thoughtful people, however, and their number is growing greatly every month, who prefer good, sturdy health to sickness, and they leave off coffee because it is a drug that produces disease.

Many people have to learn that this is true by hard knocks, and they get the knocks all right if they stick to coffee.

Mrs. Ida M. Nowyce, of Anderson, S. C., says: "For two years or more before leaving off coffee and beginning the use of Postum Food Coffee, my health became very much impaired, as I discovered afterward, from coffee drinking.

"I suffered from shortness of breath, pains about the heart, and the slightest exercise completely exhausted me. My digestion was bad and gas would form in the stomach, rendering me wretched and my life a burden. Medicine did not help the trouble. I was on the eve of giving up in despair when my attention was attracted to the statement that coffee caused some of the symptoms that I had. I determined to abandon it and try Postum Food Coffee.

"I had the Postum well made, and the result during the past twelve months has been something wonderful. All of the old troubles left. I have been in excellent health, and my friends all notice it and speak of it. I never lose an opportunity of telling them that the change in my health was caused by leaving off a drug called coffee and taking on a liquid food drink like Postum.

"No argument from any source could convince me to the contrary of what I have found out. I have seen much the same results in my sister's family and among other acquaintances."

MORE CRUGER SCANDAL AIRED.

Brother Tells How He Championed Wife's Cause.

Surrogate Thomas resumed the hearing to-day in the contest over the will of the late William Jauncey Cruger.

James P. Cruger continued his version of the marital troubles of his brother, his illness, alleged infatuation for certain women in Paris and the four wills that were left bequeathing the estate of $2,000,000.

Mr. Cruger had testified that the proponent, Mrs. May Cruger, sent for him in Paris to endeavor to break off the relations existing between W. J. Cruger and Meta Kane-Bell-Mourichon.

"I saw Mrs. Cruger," said the witness. "She told me of her troubles and offered me a handsome sum if I would reconcile Willie to her. I refused the money, but I advised Willie to discontinue the proceedings for divorce he had started.

"I learned of the Mourichon will and I told Willie that it would not hold in New York, where a widow has dower rights, and advised him to make another.

"The Mourichon will is the third of the series. It leaves the estate to Meta Mourichon, who was Meta Kane, of the well-known Kane family of New York and Narragansett, R. I., and to the children of J. P. Cruger.

"W. J. Cruger acting upon his brother's advice made another will and left everything to his wife, to whom he was reconciled, except $10 each to his brother and his six children. This is the will the surviving brother seeks to break."

The witness went on to tell of the enfeebled condition of his brother and his extreme irritation if Mrs. May Cruger were near him.

"Mrs. Cruger told me," said the witness, "that she had a temper and would stop at nothing to gain her ends. She also told me that soon after her marriage she began studying my brother's handwriting and imitating it."

On cross-examination a letter was identified in which the witness wrote to Mrs. Cruger, signing the letter "Your loving brother Jimmie."

The contents of the letter contradicted some of Mr. Cruger's testimony relative to the reason for his trip abroad in 1897 and the lack of cordiality existing.

The witness testified that Mrs. Cruger made charges against him and the woman nurse of her husband. "I said, 'You lie,'" said he, "and she nearly knocked me down with a blow in the face."

This aroused a smile, as Mrs. Cruger is about five feet tall and the witness over six feet.

Continuing the witness said: "She then told my brother that I had knocked her down and beat her. I told her that she knew she lied, and she answered: 'I don't care; I'll make Willie change his will.'"

KILLED IN TUNNEL.

Rapid Transit Workman Crushed by Huge Stone.

An Italian laborer working in the Rapid Transit tunnel at Sixty-first street and Broadway was instantly killed this afternoon by a large stone falling from the top of the excavation and striking him on the head.

The foreman, Frank Bradley, was arrested. He lives at 321 East Eighty-sixth street. He was taken to the West Side Police Court.

NINTH KENNEDY JUROR IS ILL.

More Delay in Selecting Men to Sit on Murder Trial.

Judge Newburger, sitting in the trial of Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy for the murder of Dolly Reynolds, announced this afternoon that owing to physical disability William F. Rupert, juror No. 9, was excused from further service.

Leslie Barnes, a broker, of No. 131 Broadway, the second talesman examined, was found acceptable by both the prosecution and defense and was sworn in as juror No. 9.

Scarcely had Judge Newburger opened court to-day when he received a communication from the family physician of Mr. Rupert to the effect that Mr. Rupert was physically unable to serve. Judge Newburger, not satisfied with the form of the certificate, sent a message to the physician requesting him to specify the precise nature of Mr. Rupert's illness.

Of the 150 talesmen summoned to-day only 50 answered to their names. Despite Judge Newburger's announcement that talesmen would only be excused from service for strictly legal reasons fifty-three applied for release from service. Among these was Matthias L. B. Martin, foreman of the jury in the Molineux trial. Mr. Martin was excused, as were also three members of the Grand Jury who had been summoned. Among other applicants for excuses were several persons who had not been naturalized.

The tenth juror was found in William McKay Wiswell, a paint manufacturer, of No. 126 West One Hundred and Thirtieth street.

Then shortly afterward William Condon harware dealer, of No. 157 West Ninety-first street, was accepted as the eleventh juror.

With only eleven jurors in the box court was adjourned at 4 o'clock until 10.30 o'clock to-morrow morning.

DUPES LURED BY TRUST "TIPS."

E. S. Dean Company Men on Trial for Misusing the Mails.

The trial of James B. Kellogg and Myron L. Bernard, on charges of using the mails for the purposes of fraud while members of the corporation known as the "E. S. Dean Company," was continued to-day before Judge Thomas and a jury in the criminal branch of the United States Circuit Court.

E. St. George Rodgers, of Indianapolis, who invested about $200 with the defunct corporation, testified as to forwarding the money for which receipts were returned.

He also identified a number of circulars bearing the title of the E. S. Dean Company, calling attention to certain "combinations." One of them referred to was "No. 10," which it was stated had made a profit of 20 per cent. in one month for investors.

Another was "No. 11," the wheat combination, which promised even better results and in which the managers say, "The word lose is not known to the E. S. Dean Company."

"No. 12" was a sugar combination, the circular containing the statement that the members of the Dean Company are in possession of information from the "Kings of the Trust" which they will use for the benefit of those who invest money in the combination.

PORTO RICANS ACCUSED.

Postmaster and Assistant Accused of Embezzlement.

PONCE, Porto Rico, May 13.—Carlos and Ramon Julia, respectively Postmaster and assistant postmaster at Juana Diaz, have been arrested on the charge of embezzlement. The amount involved is not mentioned.

Inspector Smith, April 27, found that the Post-Office at Juana Diaz should show a balance of $[illegible], but no cash was found. The bondsmen of the prisoners reimburse the Government in [illegible].

ONE IS FINED; TWO GO TO JAIL.

Kelly and Friends Sentenced in Life Insurance Cases.

Judge Blair in Jersey City this afternoon disposed of the sensational Colonial Life Insurance fraud cases by sentencing Undertaker William Necker to pay $300 fine, and Thomas J. Kelly and Dr. Richard Jahr to pay a fine of $200 each and serve three months each in the county jail. All three are prominent Democratic politicians, and Kelly is the well-known prize-fighter, "Spider" Kelly.

The frauds were exposed last winter when the Colonial Life Insurance Company found that it had been swindled by conspirators who had planned to palm off poor risks and insure them with the connivance of an agent.

In one case, William Whiston, a consumptive, was insured after he had been in numerous hospitals. It was charged that Necker was the beneficiary, Kelly the agent and Dr. Jahr the examining doctor. Great efforts were made to save the three men from prison after their conviction last month.

GRIL'S STORY RELEASES MAN

Seven-Year-Old Tells Judge a Tale That Frees Wenzel.

Mary F. McPartland, seven years old, a pretty girl living at No. 408 East Twenty-third street, secured the discharge of Frank Wenzel, twenty-one years old, of No. 333 First avenue, in Yorkville Court to-day. He had been arrested for fighting with Thomas Curry, thirty-five, of No. 332 West Twenty-sixth street, who was also arrested. The latter had been drinking last night and he threatened to cut the throat of the little girl when Wenzel interfered.

The girl told her story in court this morning. Witnesses corroborated her statements and Wenzel told the same story. Curry had a cut on one hand from a knife, but said he did not know how he got it, and did not remember what happened. He was sent to prison for six months in default of $500 bail.

MAD SUICIDE ON FERRY-BOAT

Man Gashed Throat and Wrists, Then Sprang Overboard.

While the ferry-boat Southfield was on her trip to St. George this afternoon, off Robbins Reef, an unknown man was seen to pace up and down the deck and then suddenly slash the right wrist with a knife and inflict gaping wounds on either side of his throat.

The man then jumped overboard.

Capt. Abram Braisted was notified that a man was overboard and quickly stopped the boat and had his crew lower a boat, into which the man was hauled after much difficulty. He was taken aboard the Southfield unconscious and very weak from loss of blood.

He died before the boat reached St. George.

The suicide was a man about forty-five years old, of fair complexion, had dark hair and mustache, and had a bald spot on the top of the head. He wore a dark serge suit and a dark kersey spring overcoat.

The body was removed to the Staten Island Morgue.

The Detective Story.

Few departments of fiction are more popular than those which show how vicious but clever people are confounded and brought to book by keen detective work. No recent attempt in this line has been more successful than Conlon Kernahan's "Captain Shannon," which is the book of the week at Wanamaker's, in the now notable distribution by the International Association of Newspapers and Authors. The London Chronicle says: "We had thought it almost impossible to add anything novel or noteworthy at this day to detective fiction, but Mr. Kernahan quickly undeceives us." "Captain Shannon" is a representative book in its field, like all the other Association issues. These, as about every one now knows, may be had at only a quarter a copy, cloth bound. For particulars see a special Wanamaker announcement on page 5 of to-day's Evening World.

PUNCTURED POLICEMEN.

Busy Doctors Scratched Arms of Cops at Headquarters.

The copper boldly faced the steel
And bared his brawny arm;
He gave his blood for public weal
At small-pox's first alarm.
Rich Irish blood was shed to-day,
The gore of kings did flow,
And Colonel Mike was tapped, they say,
But did they lance John Doe?
—Vaccination Day Ditty.

This was vaccination day at headquarters.

Up to noon nearly three hundred brawny policemen, detectives, inspectors and captains of the Metropolitan Police had braved the glittering scalpels wielded by five doctors from the department of Health.

Following the order issued recently by Commissioner Murphy, every member of the department who was caught at Headquarters to-day had to submit to the arm-scraping ordeal.

Even the Commissioner was not exempt. He had the operation performed at home, however, and in private.

The five doctors took stations in the basement rooms. Then they vaccinated with neatness and despatch all who came.

Deputy Chief Cortright and Acting Deputy Chief Cross, Capt. Allaire, Inspectors Brooks, Kane and Thompson and about seventy-five members of the Detective Bureau bared their left arms, clinched their fists and submitted to the scraping process.

A large crowd waited expectantly for Deputy Commissioner Devery, but he was not anxious, apparently, to undergo the ordeal, and remained away from the office.

Among the policemen vaccinated were half a dozen nationalities with the Irish predominating.

"More Irish blood was spilled in New York to-day," said one of the doctors, "than has been lost since the last Donnybrook Fair."
