WOMAN'S WORLD AND WORK....

LILIAN CRAWFORD PERKINS

Peace.

It was yesterday a troubled world
Plunged into war's dread wicked plans
And nations pledged against the foe
Men fought great battles in martial show
And bade their best and bravest go
To shield the right.
Across a broken, devastated land
Men fought and fell and cursed and prayed
And brushed and met death unafraid,
An endless armored cavalcade.

Great ships upon a riotous deep
Went down in scorning mockery
But cruel throats of savagery
Vouchsafed a glorious victory
Supreme complete.
The war is done, peace has arrived
Shall heal the gaping wounds and pain
Shall bring to the cross again
Blessed peace on earth, good will to men.
Gift of the lowly Nazarene.

AUSTRALIAN RACQUETERS TO INVADE UNITED STATES

NEW YORK, July 16.—Officers of the National Tennis association received a cable message from England today stating that the Australian tennis team would sail for this country on Friday, July 18. The team consists of Norman Brookes, R. L. Patterson, R. V. Thomas and Randolph Lycett. The association has been requested to enter the Australians in the coming sectional double matches in order that one or both teams may have a chance to qualify for the national championship matches to be played at Longwood club, Boston, beginning August 12.

Brookes and Patterson will form one team in the doubles and Lycett and Thomas a second pair. The final qualifying tournaments will start at Kansas City, Mo., and Dallas, Texas, on July 28 and, as the Australians are not expected to arrive here before July 26, an effort may be made to postpone the sectional rounds so they may have an opportunity to qualify. Brookes and Patterson recently won the English doubles championship.

TEXAS REPRESENTATIVE ASKS GOVERNOR TO QUIT

AUSTIN, Texas, July 16.—Despite the recent vote of confidence given the chief executive in both houses, Representative E. C. Pope of Nueces county introduced a resolution in the Texas house today calling upon Governor W. P. Hobby to resign, because of his alleged connection with an attempt to cancel the state's option to purchase the Blue Ridge prison farm, on which oil has been discovered. When Representative Pope recently announced he intended to introduce the resolution, the legislature promptly voted its confidence in the governor, only two opposing votes being cast.

IN THE MARKET FOR A WIFE

AMERICAN SOCIETY LEADERS ARE THRILLED THAT PRINCE OF WALES MAY SEEK A MATE OVER HERE; OTHER ROYALTY IS ALSO COMING OVER.

(By International News Service.)

NEW YORK, July 16.—Now that there remains no doubt but that the Prince of Wales intends paying the United States a visit this fall, there are a lot of planning and anxious mothers in American society, especially that part of American society which flits between New York and Newport.

And why not? Rumor has it that it is entirely possible the prince may see an American girl for his bride and—well, you can't blame anybody mothers can you?

And, speaking of royalty America-bound, there are also the Duchess of Roxburghe, the former Miss May Goelet, who is due to be the guest of her mother, Mrs. Ogden Goelet, of Newport, the Countess Nada Torby, one of the most beautiful women in England, and Lady Decies, the former Miss Vivian Gould. Society has it that Lady Decies expects to be in Newport to take part in the proposed festivities to be given for the prince.

So, with such a notable quartet as this coming over, is it any wonder that the Blue Book is being scanned, dressmakers and tailors being worked to death and caterers and decorators being swamped with orders? Royalty is coming, especially the prince, and society stands breathless—breathless, perhaps because it has leaked out that the Prince intends avoiding social functions and formal affairs.

But above everything else is the report that the prince has a mind of his own as to what sort of a bride he should take unto himself and that it is more than possible that his choice will be a niece of Uncle Sam.

American girls—nurses in the American army, canteen workers and telephone girls—danced with the prince at Cobienz and they decided that he was a regular fellow. They have written back ever so many letters about that dance and just what they think of the prince, and they have written so enthusiastically that American girls are just hoping that the supply of eligible princesses—now said to be limited to the Italian reigning family—will be completely exhausted before the prince makes up his royal mind as to which one he will marry.

If he does not choose an American he may make his choice in Canada.

There is no question that a great part of the British public would much rather see the prince married to an American or Canadian than they would to a princess of one of the comparatively unimportant kingdoms of the Old World.

Moreover, it is said in Paris that British royalty would not object to the choice by the prince of an American or a Canadian, believing that such an alliance would not only do much to strengthen the bond of friendship between Great Britain and America, but would do more to make royalty secure in Great Britain than would the marriage of the prince to a princess of a second-rate European power.

It is generally assumed that if the young prince finds a wife here it will be from one of the socially prominent, well-established multi-millionaire families of New York. They are generally regarded as our representative families.

In other words, we should expect him to marry into the group to which the Astors, Vanderbilts, Harrimans, Milleses, Fishes and a few other select ones belong.

There are several charming young heiresses of this set who are of a suitable age to make a match with the prince. Prominent among them is Miss Flora Vanderbilt Payne Whitney, the debutant daughter of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. The latter was Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt, the elder and favorite daughter of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt. Her husband, Harry Payne Whitney, was the oldest son of the late William C. Whitney, the greatest street railroad magnate in America.

Miss Flora Whitney is one of the greatest heiresses in the country, destined to inherit a large part of the Vanderbilt and Whitney fortunes, representing an enormous accumulation of railroad property and real estate in New York. Through the Payne side of the house she will also receive a share of the "Standard Oil" millions.

Another attractive Vanderbilt heiress is Miss Grace Vanderbilt, daughter of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr. She would be a debutante this year but for war conditions. Miss Muriel Vanderbilt, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, jr., and Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt, daughter of Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt, are two other charming young heiresses who are just approaching debutant age.

Same way with furniture.

All furniture sprang from wood (after the Stone Age), but some gets father than others from mere WOOD.

Furniture is considered at Bumgarner's from the standpoint of adaptability, and this embraces not only its fiber, grain, structure and composition, but its style, finish and color.

QUIET IN DUBLIN AT PEACE FESTIVAL

DUBLIN, July 16.—Except for troops, peace day will not be celebrated here on Saturday despite the elaborate plans made for its observance in other parts of Great Britain, it was stated today.

It has even been suggested by Sinn Fein leaders that it be observed as a day of mourning and that black flags be hung out.

There will be an immense parade of soldiers, however. They will be reviewed before the old parliament building.

Good Values

Frankly, these reductions are conservative. It would be poor policy to reduce the prices further when we know the garments could not be replaced for less than 25% more than the original prices.

Such reductions as the advanced season justifies are made, but in every instance the prices are lower than replacement prices can be. Some of the offerings—
