IN AND AROUND NEW YORK CITY.

Some of the Happenings of the Day Told in Tabloid Form.

POLICEMAN SAVES CHILDREN.

Policeman James Bracken, of the Gregory street station, of Jersey City, stationed at Brunswick and Montgomery streets, on one corner of which is St. Bridget's parochial school and on another is Public School No. 9, saw a horse attached to a grocery wagon, with the driver helpless on the floor with fear, come dashing down the street toward a group of children. He sprank into the street and grasped the horse by the bit. The animal had gained such headway that the policeman was dragged for fifty feet. His uniform was torn almost into shreds and his helmet was smashed. He was badly cut and bruised, but he hung on to the horse and brought it to a standstill.

COLD BATH BEACH CARS.

Passengers who are forced to ride on the Bath Beach trains to and from this city are complaining very bitterly over the lack of heat in the cars. The Bath Beach trains are composed of four cars.

HURT IN AN EXPLOSION.

A premature explosion of blasting powder in Fifty-first street, near Utrecht avenue, Dyker Heights, today, severely injured two men and disfigured them for life.

WORKMAN CRUSHED TO DEATH.

George Jensen, thirty years old, of No. 661 Hicks street, Brooklyn, was to-day crushed to death. A case of machinery fell while he was at work on the tug Champion.

HOPE BOOTH TO BE FREE AGAIN

Hope Booth the actress, is in a fair way to get her divorce from "Jimmie" Earll. Referee Richard J. Wilson today recommended a decree with $30 a week alimony, and Justice Truax intimated his approval.

FOR SMASHING HIS CAPTAIN.

Nicholas Callan, a Brooklyn policeman, formerly a pugilist, was indicted to-day by the Kings County Grand Jury for assault in the second degree. He gave $1,000 bail in the County Court. On March 12 last Callan broke the jaw of Capt. Michael F. O'Rourke.

ADDS TO HIS NAME.

Justice Clarke, of the Supreme Court, gave permission to-day to Wales Parker Barnes, a youth of seventeen years, to prefix the name "Richard" to his cognomen. He is the son of Winthrop Howard Barnes and lives at No. 1 West Eighty-first street. Richard is a time-honored and favorite name in the Barnes family.

ONE WITNESS DEAD, ONE DYING.

Charles H. Dalton, of No. 108 Havemeyer street, Brooklyn, was complainant in the Lee Avenue Police Court to-day against James Wells, a tenant at the same address, charging him with assault. He asked for an adjournment saying his wife, who witnessed the fight, had a nervous attack and was dying. He also claimed that Mrs. Catherine Keller, another witness, was stricken with nervous prostration and died this morning in the Eastern District Hospital. Magistrate Higginbotham adjourned the hearing until Dec. 12.

OPPOSE IMMIGRATION LAW.

The bill for a new immigration law, drawn by Commissioner-General T. V. Powderly and introduced into the Senate by Mr. Penrose, of Pennsylvania, will be bitterly opposed by the representatives of the trans-Atlantic lines at this port. The bill is regarded as an Administration measure, but the decision to oppose was reached to-day.

TO TRY POOL-SELLERS.

Magistrate Brann has remanded the supposed dealers in discretionary pools John F. Barrett, No. 319 Bainbridge street, Brooklyn; Frank Dillon, No. 26 Greenwich street, and Henry M. McAuley, to be turned over, the police say, to the Federal authorities.

IN DIAMONDS, HELD FOR THEFT.

Mrs. Minnie Fraser, of No. 69 McDonough street, Brooklyn, was held in $500 bail in the Adams Street Court today to answer a charge of stealing a seal box, valued at $10, from a Brooklyn department store. Mrs. Fraser wore an expensive tailor-made gown and had diamonds at her throat and on her hands. She said she was a widow and that her husband had left her $5,000 insurance and a great deal of real estate. She was very indignant over her arrest.

BY TELEGRAPH AND CABLE.

TREATY APPROVED.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations to-day voted to report favorably the new Hay-Pauncefote Canal treaty.

FORTY TURKS KILLED.

Forty Turkish soldiers have been killed near Loheda, in Yemen, Arabia, in a conflict with tribesmen rebelling against excessive taxation.

BOUND BY DESPERADOES.

Three masked men broke into the Baltimore and Ohio depot at Wilmington, O., bound the operator and rifled his pockets and the cash drawer. The operator lay bound three hours listening to the train despatcher at Columbus calling at the key.

ENGINE TURNS OVER.

Engineer Hutchinson and Brakeman Johnson were instantly killed by a switch engine on the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railroad turning over near Wagner, I. T.

$200,000 TOBACCO FIRE.

Two immense warehouses filled with loose tobacco, one belonging to the American Tobacco Company and the other to James Hughes & Co., were completely destroyed by fire at Danville, Va., to-day, causing a loss of $200,000.

VICE-CONSUL SHOT.

A despatch from Constantinople says the Austro-Hungarian Vice-Consul at Smyrna, Herr Haller, was fired at and wounded by a customs guard.

PITTSBURG STRIKE BROKEN.

Traffic is moving promptly to-day on the railroads around Pittsburg affected by the switchmen's strike, and the freight blockade is being rapidly cleared.

KILLED BY ROBBERS.

Three robbers discovered breaking into the Bank of Chelsea, Ia., early to-day shot Marshal J. B. Smith dead and escaped.

SOCIETY GIRLS BURNED.

In a fire at Bayou des Allemandes, La., early to-day Miss May Ernest and Flossie Delabretonne, members of prominent New Orleans families, were burned to death.

GAVE WIFE AND COW FOR LAME HORSES.

THEN THE MINER WANTED TRADE DECLARED OFF.

But His Wife Said: "Back to the Mines!" and Helped Kick Him Out.

(Special to The Evening World.)

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 6.—A. Steffini, miner at Canoe Creek, traded his wife and cow to Anton Sardissa for two horses on Thanksgiving Day because the wife would not milk the cow. As Mrs. Steffini was willing he was able to deliver the goods. Yesterday he returned, wrathfully demanding that the trade be declared off, as both horses were lame and had the heaves.

Sardissa invited him to dinner, and as Steffini chewed a juicy steak told him it was from the cow he once owned. Steffini, in tears, begged for his wife, saying he would give up claim for the cow.

"No," said the former Mrs. Steffini, "I like Sardissa better than you. You can go home."

And she helped kick Steffini out. He went sorrowfully back to the mines, leading his two crippled horses.

FULL SCOPE FOR HER ART IN DRESS OF "HOME WOMAN."

Miss Elsie De Wolfe, Best-Dressed American Woman, Tells How Gowns to Be Worn About the House Can Be Made Artistically and With Little Cost.

Kimono Idea in Dressing Sacques Is Carried Out with Good Effect—House Gowns of Dark Flannel for a Woman Who Does Her Own Work.

BY ELSIE DE WOLFE.

HOW TO DRESS.

VI.—How a Woman May Dress for the Home.

The woman who lives at home—I mean lives at home, and doesn't merely think of home as a place to be for the little while she is not at work—has full scope for the clothes that specially delight a woman's heart.

She has full scope whether she have very much money or not, because, since she has her time, she can fashion for herself any number of pretty, dainty things in which she will look her best.

The house-gown she may not have quite courage enough to attempt herself, because this must be a gown in which she can receive her friends in the morning, if she likes. A house-gown indeed is rather a nice matter to select. It must be comfortable without looking like a "wrapper;" it must be pretty without being fussy; and it simply must be becoming, because even a pretty woman in an unbecoming house-gown looks ugly. For certain sorts of house-gown will not suit certain women, though the suitability of this sort of dress is not often enough considered by the woman who wears it.

It is possible to use thin materials for the gowns even for winter wear, because the houses and their floors are now so warm that practically only the prettiness need be considered. And the wise woman will purchase the material for her house-gown in September or late August, when summer goods are being shelved and may be bought for hardly a song.

Buying in Advance.

A woman I know bought ten yards of the net lace figured in pale gray and rose and lavender, which was a new fabric this summer, and laid it away for a house-gown. She has just had it made up, and it is so exceedingly pretty I don't think any one would ever guess that it only cost 40 cents a yard, less than half its original price. The goods had big dim gray flowers, and she had it made over a gray muslin that cost 8 cents a yard. The gown had a straight, loose back, of course, very long, and a great bertha of accordion plaited lace finished a yoke of tucked gray crepe de Chine. The gown opened over a front of accordion plaited gray crepe de Chine narrow where it came from under the bertha and wide at the bottom of the skirt. The sleeves were loose and lined with gray China silk, and there was no collar. The gown is one of the most artistic I have ever seen.

Gown of Rose-Colored Silk.

Another was of rose-colored China silk, and, if one watches, the frequent sales in this and other soft silks make cheap house-gowns always possible. This was cut with a straight back and scants, draped front, and from beneath the tunic swept an accordion plaiting of gray crepe. Never try to have China silk accordion plaited, for, soft as it looks, it is stiff when it is so treated.

Now, however, the house-gown and the gown to wear in one's room there is a distinct difference. The latter may be a dressing gown or sack, or it may be the now invalidate kimono, but these last must never cross the threshold of one's room. Nothing is more objectionable than the appearance at breakfast—and I assure you I have seen it done—of a woman in a kimono. No matter how pretty her hair is done or how pretty the kimono is the place for it is her room and never outside.

There are so many bewilderingly pretty ways of making these that I hesitate which to choose. Personally I prefer the silk kimono, because it combines real beauty with a good deal of artistic beauty. A silk kimono of any plain pale color, or any pretty pattern in figure with a broad band of white about the neck and loose sleeves and down the front, is the prettiest form of dressing gown. A charming one I have seen was made of thin white silk covered with Dresden rosebuds and with a rose band about the neck and edging one side of the front.

Kimono Idea in Dressing Sacques.

The kimono idea is carried into the dressing sacques with entire success. Little garments made to come below the waist, with the loose sleeves and the straight back, are pretty and dainty and charming to wear for long mornings before the grate fire in one's room.

The fashion of cutting little dressing sacques with a bit of fulness in the back and loose, straight sleeves, and then edging the broad collar and both sides of the front, the bottom and the sleeves with some pretty soft lace, is not new, but it is one of the prettiest I know. But a dressing sacque like this should not be fastened excepting by a bow of ribbon, with long ends, at the throat. And they should not be lined. These, of course, necessitate the wearing of either pretty silk or dainty lace trimmed petticoats of the white lawn.

For the woman who does her own household work, pretty house-gowns of cheap dark flannel are practical and comfortable. But they need not be ugly because they are cheap. If she will spend a few cents upon accordion plaiting or give a little thought to the way the gown shall be made she will be able to have an exceedingly pretty gown at very small cost. It is a mistake to say a cheap gown isn't worth taking pains with in the making. Any gown that is to be worn is worth taking pains to have prettily made.

Calico Is Ugly.

I have never been able to decide why a woman who does her own work feels that she must wear a calico house-gown. Calico is ugly and seldom comes in pretty or artistic patterns. There are so many pretty goods that are cheap and which adapt themselves to service for house wear.

Many letters have been received by Miss De Wolfe this week asking questions upon various points upon which she has touched in this series of talks on dress. These letters Miss De Wolfe will answer in to-morrow's Evening World.

SAY MOTHER USES CASH TOO FREELY.

MRS. FELDMAN'S SONS ASK FOR A GUARDIAN.

She Causes Their Arrest, but They Are Released—Their Petition Dismissed.

Solomon and Joseph Feldman appeared before Justice Giegerich, in the Supreme Court, to-day, to ask through L. B. Mayes for the appointment of a committee to take charge of the person and property of their aged mother, Mrs. Hannah Feldman.

Mr. Mayes said that Mrs. Feldman was not exactly insane, but that she had been acting very queerly since her husband died, nine months ago, and was squandering her money.

She appeared in Essex Market Court this forenoon, charging her sons, twenty-three and seventeen years old, with stealing her bank books and $121 in money. They explained that they wished to prevent her from squandering the money and were about to apply for a guardian. The Magistrate adjourned the case until they had done so.

Justice Giegerich, however, dismissed the application because the provisions of the law had not been complied with.

Why You Should Buy Clothing Here.

It isn't because there are no other clothing houses in New York—or because they are too modest in their advertisements. It is because

(1)—Our Clothing is, and always has been, made "on honor" and sold on approval.

(2)—Every stitch is the unquestioned product of Union labor, which is not only "fair," but honest.

(3)—It is sold on the lowest living margin of profit—sometimes (as to-morrow) with practically no profit at all.

(4)—And while we know our prices make friends, it is Quality that keeps them.

Candidly, there is nothing in a single sale for us; it is your continued patronage we want, beginning with to-morrow, and the following extraordinary values:

SUITS—The single and double breasted Suits' in all the fashionable designs, weaves and colors, for which in the other stores they ask you Twenty Dollars, Saturday's price..... $10

CHESTERFIELDS—The long, fashionable overcoat of the period—slashed pockets, rolled cuffs—meeting every requirement of the man who must be up to date, Saturday's price..... $12.50

Special Holiday List Watches, Diamonds, Etc.

The articles in this list are what are known to the trade as "Sleepers," meaning goods that are sold for less than cost simply to attract customers to the other lines there is profit in. Keene's Watch Store has been known the country over for 20 years as well up among the leaders of the watch trade, marketing the output of several factories. In addition to watches this year I have to dispose of before January 1st a diamond dealer's stock of fine solid gold jewelry and gems of all kinds, including Diamonds, Rubies, Pearls, Sapphires, set in Rings, Pins, Brooches, Pendants, Lockets, Studs, Buttons, etc., from $3 to $2,000. All of the latest designs and best workmanship. Every watch and diamond is shipped in a velvet case ready for presentation. All mail orders will be filled same day as received, with the distinct understanding that the goods may be returned if found in any way unsatisfactory or not as expected. CHARLES A. KEENE, 140 FULTON ST., NEW YORK.

$55—WATCH, GENTLEMAN'S SIZE, SOLID 14-K gold, very fine works; we have sold many of the same grade at $100; only twelve of these here now. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$3—DIAMOND CUFF BUTTONS, SOLID GOLD, set with two genuine diamonds; heavy and strong; worth $10; others for $15, $25 and $35. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$25—RING FOR A LADY, CONTAINS FIVE BIG fire opals and one stone; style, weight of opals nearly 4 carats; a $100 show for $25. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$20—WATCH, GENTLEMAN'S SIZE, SOLID 14-K gold Waltham; not to be found in this city for less than $35; this is one of our $20 sleepers. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$6—WATCHES, LADY'S SIZE, 14-K GOLD filled stem wind, jewelled movement; beautifully decorated at this price; it includes a velvet box; a $15 outfit for $6. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$60—BROOCH, BIG DIAMOND, BLUE-WHITE, antique gold setting, worth $190 before it was sale. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$10—LADY'S WATCH, HUNTING STYLE, 14-K gold Tiger cases, beautifully decorated, nicely jewelled movement, really a $25 value. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$75—WATCH, LADY'S SIZE, FINE WALTHAM movement. The cases are heavy solid gold; in the case are set four big blue-white diamonds which alone are worth $25 each. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$20—WATCH, LADY'S SIZE, HUNTING STYLE, superbly jewelled, perfectly smooth case, set with four full cut pure white diamonds; really a $50 value. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$350.00—DIAMOND SUNBURST—CONTAINS 50 gem diamonds; a perfect blaze; good value for $500 elsewhere, and this one only for $350. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$2—WATCH, LADY'S SIZE, STEM WIND, FULL dust-proof cases; warranted for 10 years; will keep its good time as any sold for $8. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$45—LADY'S GOLD AND ENAMELLED WATCH, open face, a trifle larger than a 25-cent piece; the same grade of watch sells for $100.00 in Europe. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$15—LADY'S SMALL OPEN-FACE WATCH, solid gold and fancy enamel; one of the 60 patterns; the European price is $32. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$950.00—DIAMOND BROOCH, ONE OF THE most expensive in the sale; actually worth $1,500. Heart shape, made of platinum and 18-k gold, 111 diamonds, blue-white; looks like one diamond. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$1.50—WATCHES, FULL GENTLEMAN'S SIZE, stem wind, dust proof; sold with a guarantee for 5 years; this is very special and will keep as good as $5 sold for $1.50. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$15—RING FOR A LADY, TIFFANY SET, WITH large white diamond, 14-k setting; a nice, showy ring, formerly sold for $31. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$18—LADY'S WATCH, SMALL ONE, WITH PIN to match; the new imported old rose gold and enamel; a new choice pattern, and would be considered cheap at $28. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$3.75—WALTHAM WATCHES, FULL GENTLEMAN'S size, stem wind, fully warranted for 10 years; if this watch can be bought elsewhere for less than $6 the money will be refunded. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$6—CHAIN, LONG ONE, FOR LADY'S WATCH, 48 inches long, ¼ gold, with gold slide set with small diamond; these formerly sold for $15. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$25—LOCKET, SET WITH A DIAMOND, HEART shape, with raised gold in tints; a very elaborate and showy affair; compares with the best $50 ones. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$150.00—MARQUISE RING, WITH 22 BLUE-white diamonds and real Oriental ruby; would cost $350 to select stones like these and mount them. KEENE, 140 Fulton st., New York.

$48—LADY'S GOLD WATCH, SMALL NAUGHT size, hunting style, 22-k raised gold in six different tints; set with a white diamond; a work of art, and should be sold for $100. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$2 BRACELETS—BIG HEAVY CHAIN, 14-K gold, stiffened solid gold; soldered with lock and key; actually worth $5. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$60 LADY'S WATCH—A HIGH GRADE OF watch, and never sold less than $110, heavy gold cases; hand carved and chased; one of the most artistic designs this season. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$9—SIGNET RINGS FOR GENTLEMEN; THE newest; these are chased and the regular $15 kind; very heavy. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$500.00—A BLUE DIAMOND, VERY RARE; AN old mine Brazilian gem; weight 1¾ carats; an importer values the mate to it at $1,500; this will be put in any setting for $500. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$13.50—CHAIN FOR A GENTLEMAN, 14-K gold soldered; reaches across the vest, with a compass charm that is accurate; reduced from $25. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$8—RING, 8 BIG WHITE DIAMONDS AROUND a Siam ruby; worth at least $150.00. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$30 WATCH—LADY'S SIZE, HEAVY 14-K GOLD cases throughout, fitted with high-grade Waltham movement, set in gold, and will keep time to the second; there are three of these, and they would be cheap at $65 each. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$22 RING—CLUSTER, WITH 22 DIAMONDS AND large fire opal in the centre, as nice as any for $40. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$16 WATCH—ONE OF THE NEW 12 SIZE FOR a gentleman, 14-k Olympic case, engine turned, with shield. Keene's special movement will give as good service as a $50 watch. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.

$25—OPERA GLASSES—THE FINEST COST $50 to import; price $25; these are of a rare and old design. KEENE, 140 Fulton st.
