"DU BARRY" A DUBIOUS BOOK.

Several Thousand Copies Voluntarily Surrendered.

COMSTOCK'S EYE OPEN.

Question of Its Propriety for Circulation Will Be Settled in Court.

J. S. Ogilvie, the head of the publishing firm of J. S. Ogilvie & Co., No. 57 Rose street, director in the Seventeenth Ward Bank of Greenpoint, ex-Superintendent of the Sunday-school of the Presbyterian Church of Greenpoint, a member of the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church, of Brooklyn, and once a candidate for Alderman, has voluntarily surrendered several thousand volumes of a book and the plates from which they were printed to the Society for the Suppression of Vice.

The action was taken voluntarily, but not before Mr. Ogilvie had received information to the effect that the attention of Anthony Comstock had been called to the book. It is a translation from the French, and is entitled "Mme du Barry." There is a sub-title which tells something of the lady and her exploits in the court of Louis XV.

The book is not a masterpiece of literary work, and yet there are passages in it that are hardly calculated to disappoint the purchaser who is induced to buy by the sub-title. The question of the book being improper for general circulation will be settled in court.

G. W. Ogilvie, a brother of the publisher, may have had nothing to do with the surrender of the books, but he knew of the matter soon after it occurred, if not before, and he has a copy of the book with the passages marked that he believes should be the subject of judicial scrutiny. G. W. Ogilvie believes that he is his brother's keeper, and he has at various times tried to perform his trust faithfully.

G. W. Ogilvie recently created a sensation by rising during a prayer meeting in the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church and asking that prayers be said for his brother, who needed them badly, he said. The prayers were duly uttered, and the man who asked for them walked out.

The next day J. S. Ogilvie, when asked about the matter, appeared to be greatly surprised. He claimed that he had no brother and was positive in his declaration that he knew nothing about the affair.

He afterward admitted that his denial of relationship to G. W. Ogilvie was false, and he and his brother engaged in a letter-writing contest. The letters were printed in a Brooklyn newspaper. The brother finally closed the correspondence by offering to wager $10,000, the loser to donate the sum to charity, that J. S. Ogilvie actually needed prayer.

"Any man who prints this sort of a book needs prayers all right," declared G. W. Ogilvie, to-day. "He says that I have been a source of trouble to him for twenty years. Maybe I have, but I defy him to tell how or why. My brother should do certain things that he is morally, if not legally, bound to do, and until he does them he may expect trouble from me."

WHAT A SAMPLE BOTTLE OF SWAMP-ROOT DID.

To Prove what the Great Kidney Remedy, Swamp-Root, will do for YOU, Every Reader of The Evening World May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

W. F. Lohnes, a prominent business man of Springfield, Ohio, writes the following strong indorsement of the great kidney remedy, Swamp-Root, to the Editor of the Springfield, Ohio, Republic:

Springfield, Ohio, Feb. 21st, 1901.

"Having heard that you could procure a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, I wrote to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle, and it was promptly sent. I was so pleased after trying the sample bottle that I sent to the drug store and procured a supply. I have used Swamp-Root regularly for some time, and consider it unsurpassed as a remedy for torpid liver, loss of appetite and general derangement of the digestive functions. I think my trouble was due to too close confinement in my business. I can recommend it highly for all liver and kidney complaints. I am not in the habit of indorsing any medicine, but in this case I cannot speak too much in praise of what Swamp-Root has done for me."
