IS THE CABINET, THEN, A FAILURE?

LOW'S ADVISERS LAUGH AT INNOVATION.

Mister Rives Only One of Official Family Punctual in Attendance.

This spring weather, although fine enough in its way, is very hard on cabinets.

Mayor Low's cabinet, which made a lusty beginning, is seemingly on the verge of heart failure. It has assembled only once since Mr. Low grasped the hand of Prince Henry. This once was not much of a meeting, as most of the members were very busy elsewhere.

Now Cantor's cabinet is getting its breath in very short gasps, and, if the prognosis is to be relied on, death will shortly come.

This all seems unfortunate, as much was expected of these cabinets.

Another attempt is to be made to blow the breath of life into the Mayor's cabinet. A cabinet meeting has been called for to-morrow afternoon, and earnest efforts will be made to get the members together.

It is not easy to explain the failure of the cabinet movement, although some of the Commissioners have been laughing at the innovation whenever Mayor Low's back was turned.

About the only cabinet member who has been regular in attendance has been MISTER Rives. The Corporation Counsel, in long frock coat, carefully blackened shoes and silk hat, is always punctual on cabinet days. By mutual consent he has been prime minister of the cabinet.

Col. Partridge, of the Police Department, has acted as the military aide of the cabinet. Promptly on the hour set for cabinet meetings he arrives at the outer door of the Mayor's office, gives the orderly the salute, turns left about, marches into the third room and comes to present waiting orders.

This has been a very impressive sight and will be remembered long after the Mayor's cabinet has passed away.

PATIENTS START A MERRY RIOT.

BOISTEROUS AFTER VISIT OF CONVIVIAL FRIENDS.

Wild Scene in Hospital, and Policemen Kept Busy Restoring Order.

Three patients in the Brooklyn Hospital who have been undergoing treatment to get in shape to be operated upon, got so strong all of a sudden last evening as to require the services of six policemen to prevent them from cleaning out the whole hospital.

They were permitted to receive visits from friends in the afternoon and from subsequent developments it is surmised that the friends smuggled in some Lethe cheer.

The patients were James Murray, of No. 249 Johnson street; Michael O'Brien, of No. 250 Navy street, and Lewis Gibbons, of No. 44 Milford street. The hospital authorities refuse to say what ture of the intended operation was to be ture of the intended operation was to be.

After the friends of the cheerful trio departed the men told the ward attendant, Peter Reilly, that he was an "old stuff." They sang lustrously and woke up all the sleeping patients.

Reilly objected. When he interfered they took his clothes away from him and beat him. The other attendants came to Reilly's aid and word was sent to the Classon avenue police station.

Six policemen after a hard fight subdued the rioters. They are now more in need of surgical attendance than they were when they went to the hospital. As soon as they are well enough they will be taken to police court charged with disorderly conduct.

WOMAN REFUSES TO BE NEW YORK PASTOR

DR. LORIMER WANTED HER AS HIS ASSISTANT.

Miss Koch, of Maine, Has Too Much Work to Come to Madison Avenue Church.

Miss Margaret Koch, of Waterville, Me., has declined the position of Assistant Pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, this city. She was offered $1,200 a year by the Rev. Dr. George C. Lorimer, the pastor of the church, who is now looking for some other woman who may come up to the requirements.

He wants a woman of refinement and education, who is not unprepossessing, and who will dress in accordance with the importance of her position. She is to be to the women of the church what Dr. Lorimer is to the men.

Miss Koch has declined because she does not wish to give up other work in which she is engaged. She is well known in New England, where she is a leader in the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, an organizer of training schools, a lecturer and a teacher of physical culture. She is now engaged in the work of establishing a summer training school for young men and young women near Portland. This school will be like those established by the late Dwight L. Moody.

COPULE OFF ON HONEYMOON. DIVORCE CASE PENDING.

Pretty Maid Believed in Sweetheart Whom Doctor Made Co-respondent.

(Special to The Evening World.)

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 10.—Miss Emily Freeland, a young Scotch woman until recently employed as a maid in the mansion of Frederick W. Vanderbilt at Hyde Park, has shown her faith in her fiance, William S. Parker, by marrying him in spite of his being named as co-respondent in an action brought by Dr. James M. Cronk, of Hyde Park, against his wife.

Dr. Cronk is a young man and has a large practice. When his divorce suit was announced about a month ago it caused a sensation. The doctor claimed that his wife became infatuated with Parker, who is a New York Central towerman, and who boarded across the street with Clarence E. Cowles, principal of the village school.

Mrs. Cronk induced her husband to exchange homes with Cowles and after that Parker remained with them as a boarder.

Dr. Cronk declared that one time when his wife returned from a visit he found in her satchel a long letter written to her by her boarder.

This brought the trouble to a focus and Mrs. Cronk went to live with her parents at Matteawan.

Miss Freeland has all along declared her confidence in Parker's innocence, and they have just been married, Rev. A. G. Cummins, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, in this city, officiating. They are now on their honeymoon.

Dr. Cronk's divorce suit will be tried in the near future.

COST $500 TO SEE BOTSFORD'S BRAIN.

JUDGE FINDS FOR WIDOW AGAINST HOSPITAL.

Pay-Patient Had Such a Big Head Scientists Couldn't Resist a Peep Into It.

A verdict for $500 damage was awarded to Mrs. Annie Botsford to-day in her suit against the Presbyterian Hospital for performing an autopsy upon her husband, Albert Kent Botsford, who died in the hospital.

Mr. Botsford was a private pay patient, and died with pneumonia April 3, 1901. He had an abnormally large and peculiarly developed skull, which had excited the interest of scientists.

When the body was sent home to her an autopsy had been performed, including the opening of the skull. The hospital authorities said Mrs. Botsford's brother, P. H. Bromfield, had given his written consent for an autopsy, but Justice Gildersleeve would not let them prove it, and instructed the jury that if they felt that Mrs. Botsford had not given her consent to the autopsy it remained for them only to fix the amount of damage she had sustained.

Thomas Thorne, in behalf of the hospital authorities, took immediate steps for appealing the case, as it is deemed one of the utmost importance as determining the responsibility of hospitals.

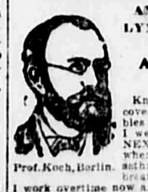
AND PROF. KOCH'S LYMPH INHALATION CURES
Asthma, Catarrh, Consumption.



Prof. Koch, Berlin.

Knowing that Prof. Koch discovered the germs of lung troubles and how to destroy them, I went to 119 WEST 22D ST., NEXT to EHRICHS' store, where the doctor cured my asthma, cough and shortness of breath. I am 60 years old, but I work overtime now and feel well, says Mr. Geo. Stoebner, 23 So. 3d st., Brooklyn, N. Y. TREATMENT FREE. Charge only for INHALATION, $3 a week or $10 for complete treatment sent to your home.
