What Would We Do Without Sugar?

GATHERING SUGAR CANE

"We are so used to sugar that we are likely to forget to give it its properly important place. Right now if anybody asked you what sugar was good for you'd probably say—'Oh! to put in coffee and tea and for making candies and desserts.' That's how we all think of sugar as a sweetener and overlook its value as a food.

"The chemists classify sugar as a hydrocarbon—that name may or may not be interesting to us, but what is interesting is their statement that it has, as a hydrocarbon, equal food value with the starches and by digestion largely adds to the fatty tissues of the body.

Why do we eat sugar anyway? Your first answer might be: "Because it is sweet and tastes good." Of course the answer would be correct, but the more important fact is that the body craves sugar because it needs it. And when the body craves something it gives us an appetite for it. So primarily that's why we like sugar and things made with sugar and not just because they are sweet.

In view of the fact that sugar has gone up so tremendously of late there forts are interesting facts on the world of it is heavy sugar eater and up in the [illegible] sweet food [illegible] to have an sweet food [illegible]
