FIVE HURT IN EXPLOSION; SUBMARINE BOAT DAMAGED.

Nine Imprisoned Under Water by Accident to the Fulton as Little Craft Was Rounding Delaware Breakwater — World Correspondent Aboard Tells of Mishap.

Five men were injured in an explosion aboard the submarine boat Fulton, just as she was rounding Delaware Breakwater, this morning.

Remsen Crawford, The World's Special Correspondent aboard, wires a graphic account of the accident from Lewes, Del.

The Fulton was making an ocean trip from New York to Norfolk and thence to Washington, the most remarkable test yet applied to craft of its kind.

LEWES, Del., April 29.—An explosion on the submarine boat Fulton this morning, while she was rounding Delaware Breakwater, injured five men and partially wrecked the machinery of the boat.

THE INJURED.

LIEUT. ARTHUR MACARTHUR, U. S. N., badly cut about the head.

LIEUT. OSCAR KOHEN, of the Austrian Navy, severely bruised.

C. B. MINER, Assistant Engineer, nose split open.

HARRY MOORE, Assistant Engineer, injured about the head and overcome by gasoline fumes.

CHARLES BECHTOLD, gunner, injured about the head and face.

All of those named were taken to the Quarantine Hospital.

Several others were slightly injured.

The Fulton was putting into port here to keep out of a rough sea caused by a stiff gale from the southwest. She was going at a six-knot gait at 10 o'clock and had just passed the old breakwater and was near the tug Storm King when the explosion occurred.

The craft is nine-tenths submerged even when she is afloat, and there is little room on her deck to stand when there is a heavy sea.

Capt. Frank Cable, Mate Harry Morrell and Lieut. C. P. Nelson, U. S. N., were the only ones above water.

There were nine persons beneath

Wibirt Says This Was Word from Then Mrs. Morris.

NOW SHE IS MRS. CURTISS.

Man Who Sues for $23,500 Says All His Evidence Was Stolen.

The mysterious suit of Henry H. Wibirt against Julia Curtiss for $23,500, alleged to be balance due on a mysterious contract for mysterious services, one of which is alleged in the complaint to be that of getting Dr. Rollin A. Curtiss to call upon Julia Curtiss, was brought to trial late this afternoon before Justice O'Gorman and a jury in the Supreme Court.

Julia and Dr. Rollin are husband and wife, and Dr. Curtiss laughs at the suit. Wibirt is a brother of the former owner of the old St. James Hotel. Mrs. Curtiss is a daughter of the late Thomas Watt and a sister of Archibald Watt. The original Archibald Watt, fearing Thomas Watt might waste the Watt estate, including his farm, extending from One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street to Macomb's Bridge, Lenox to Eighth avenue, left it to his stepdaughter, Mary G. Pinckney, who still controls it.

Miss Julia Watt, daughter of Thomas Watt, married a millionaire. There was a separation, and later a divorce. Then she married Dr. Curtiss in 1897.

Mrs. Curtis is an unusually beautiful

POLO GROUNDS, April 29.—A couple of dozen young men, some clothed in white uniforms and others in gray, dashed from two little clubhouses at this lot this afternoon. It was a clash against Charley Horse. There was not one of the runners who cared to have the despised thing catch on with him.

This was just such a day when "Charley" is at his best.

It is, of course, unnecessary to say that the runners were the baseball forces of Manhattan and Brooklyn.

The rivals, by virtue of a schedule prepared by a man who never made any pretense at being a weather prophet, had to meet in the last game of a series of four this afternoon.

It was not raining to be sure, but then it felt like rain and it looked the same way. Cold damp breezes wafted across the field and forced the men to keep going all the time.

A ballplayer and a mere spectator are two entirely different beings. The former had no choice in getting out in the cold. He's paid for it. But the spectator—there are those who would give up most anything to see a good game

APRIL SHOWER WINS STAKE FROM THE PURITAN BY NECK.

Lady Albert Craft, at 15 to 1, Good Thing of the Day at Aqueduct.

(Special to The Evening World.)

RACE TRACK, AQUEDUCT, N. Y., April 29.—This was the first day of bad weather that the Queens County Jockey Club has had, and it would not have been so bad but for a raw, chill wind that blew from the East. Rain fell at times, but it was not enough to hurt the track or dampen the spirits of the crowd, which came down in large numbers.

The card was strong enough to attract an attendance in the worst of weather. The Broadway Stakes was the feature, winning out an excellent class of horses, and there were other races fine as gold. The fields were very large, the withdrawals not being heavy. Betting was brisk in the races were open all day and morning.

The Arbitration Committee of the Metropolitan Turf Association this season will be Jake Louden, M. Marks and Max Klein.

Locker raced right to the front and set a fast pace, followed by Brisk, Sailre and Jack Demond. They ran this way to the turn, where there was no change in position. Once straightened for home Sailre went to the front and won easily by three lengths from Marchen, who came very fast at the end and beat Locker a neck for the place. Jack Demond, the favorite, got a long ride and finished just outside the money.

SECOND RACE.

For three-year-olds, five and a half furlongs.

The gate rose in this race with Francisco left at the post to all intents and purposes. He was sidewise when the word was given, and when he was straightened he was lengths behind the bunch. Chemal rushed away in front, opened up a grip of two lengths and was never headed. Khital and Eddie Busch were close up to the stretch, where Peninsula came strong and joined them. In the run home Eddie Busch outgamed the others and secured the place by a length from Khital.

GERMAN FUGITIVE CAUGHT IN HOBOKEN.

GUSTAVE NOELING ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Came with a Woman Companion, but is Willing to Return for Trial.

Gustave Noeling, who arrived on the steamship Kaiserin Maria Teresa, was arrested at Meyer's Hotel in Hoboken, N. J., by Deputy United States Marshals Bernhard and McAvicey, on a charge of embezzlement, made by the German Consul-General. He was arraigned to-day before United States Commissioner Alexander and held for extradition.

The prisoner, who is about thirty-eight years old, was accompanied by a woman, and was, it is said, travelling under an assumed name. He agreed to return to Germany for trial, and was temporarily committed to Ludlow Street Jail. The charge against him is that at Frankfort-on-the-Main, while acting as agent of the Aix la Chapelle and Munich Fire Insurance Company, he embezzled the sum of 15,000 marks—about $3,750.

Noeling had about $5,000 in money, which was levied upon and seized by the Sheriff of Hudson County, N. J.

NIECE FIGHTS FOR VAULT'S CONTENTS AUNT GAVE HER.

Miss Pike Claims Securities Worth $13,000 Left with a Letter Meant to Be a Will.

Miss Charlotte Grace Pike, the comely daughter of George Pike, lawyer, living at No. 206 West Eighty-fourth street, is striving to show, before Justice Staver, of the Supreme Court, that she is entitled to the contents of the safe deposit box of her dead aunt, Charlotte P. Carew, in the vaults of the Bank of New Amsterdam.

Miss Pike's lawyer, G. W. Miller, put in evidence this letter, found in the box, and which he claimed related to about $13,000 worth of securities:

"My Dear Lottie: In this box should be $5,000 gold certificates on Bank of New Amsterdam, 200 Col. H. V. C. and I. A., 15,000 mortgage on the Stamford property and some few other things. I owe nothing and give everything in the box to you. Be a good girl and don't forget

"AUNTY."

This suit is brought against Louisa R. Holbrook, administrator in New York of the estate of Mrs. Carew, and the Bank of New Amsterdam, custodian of the box and its contents.

Surrogate Silkman, of Yonkers, for the defense, claimed that despite this letter, dated Nov. 27, 1900, when Mrs. Carew left for Spokane, Wash., two days later, she left the stocks to be sold and cashed the "gold certificates," which was simply a certificate of deposit on gold colored paper, and that the letter is not a valid testamentary gift of anything.

Mrs. Carew died in Spokane, March 20, 1901, leaving an estate there and here of $70,000, but no will. There were five brothers and sisters, including Mrs. Pike, mother of Charlotte. A similar contest is going on at Spokane, and if Miss Pike loses, her mother will get one-fifth of Mrs. Carew's estate.

Mary G. Kidd, a fellow-boarder of Mrs. Carew, Mary E. Dale, a friend, and Mrs. Marie V. A. Pike, mother of Charlotte and sister of "Aunty," testified about conversation with Mrs. Carew, who was sixty years old, in which she told how much she loved Lottie and all agreed that the night before she left Spokane she gave her safedeposit box and its contents to Lottie, passed over the key in token and then secured it again. She told them at breakfast next morning that when she was dead and gone Lottie would find a letter in the deposit vault which would substantiate her claim to the contents of the box.

Decision was reserved.

DYNAMITE THIEF HURT IN EXPLOSION.

CARTRIDGES WENT OFF IN PLUNDER WAGON.

Trio of Robbers Had Lively Experience After Burglary at Freight House.

It was announced to-day that on the night of April 25 the freight houses at Pompton, N. J., of the Erie Railroad and the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad were robbed.

Among the articles stolen was a box of dynamite cartridges.

The burglars made their way toward Paterson, and when about five miles from Pompton the dynamite exploded. Residents in the vicinity aroused by the terrific explosion, saw three men in a wagon, one of whom was badly hurt.

The driver whipped up his horse and the gang got away.

A search revealed a number of cartridges in the roadway and pools of blood.

BROKE OFF FLOWERS IN CENTRAL PARK.

TWO BOYS TAKEN BEFORE MAGISTRATE ZELLER.

Court Gave the Youngsters a Warning and Then Ordered Their Release.

Adolph Fuechs, nine years old, of No. 2 East One Hundred and Twelfth street, was before Magistrate Zeller in the Harlem Court to-day charged with breaking flowers in Central Park. He implicated another boy named Allen Lusk, thirteen years old, of No. 50 West One Hundred and Twelfth street, and accompanied the policeman to Public School No. 170, where Lusk is a pupil.

When the boys were arraigned Magistrate Zeller gave them a warning and then released them.

STEALS $270 IN BANK, LEADS A LIVELY CHASE.

Stout but Agile Thief Sprints Far to Brooklyn Post-Office—Man in Stamp Line There Arrested.

F. G. Belisto, the Brooklyn agent of a Manhattan brewery, stood at the teller's window of the Franklin Trust Company, at Clinton and Montague streets, this afternoon. He had $270 in his hand. A stout, well-dressed man walked up, grabbed the $270 and in two seconds was leaping up Clinton street like an untamed gazelle.

He turned down Pierrepont street, across Fulton to Washington and sprinted to the post-office, distancing all his pursuers but one, Thomas McCue.

McCue was not any fleet-footed to speak of, but when he got into the post-office there was no sign of the pursued person. McCue made a careful search and finally found a man placidly cleaning his ticket-nails in line at the stamp window who he said, was the thief.

With the aid of Detective-Sergeant Vaughn McCue took the thief to Headquarters, where he gave the name of Henry Murphy, of No. 128 Eighth avenue. When searched he was found to be the possessor of $1,250 in stage money, four coppers, a razor, an iron watch and $270 in real money. Protesting his innocence he was locked up. He said it was simply a coincidence that his basketball and that of Belisto were of the same size.

SWIFT ELEVATOR KILLED MESSENGER.

DOORS CLOSED ON YOUNG BURKE AND HELD HIM FAST

Car Carried Him to the Ceiling and Crushed His Skull.

John J. Burke, a seventeen-year-old messenger for J. M. Robinson & Co., stock brokers, No. 11 Williams street, was instantly killed this afternoon in an elevator accident in the Dalmatic building, No. 38 Broad street.

The elevators there are very easy. The doors open from the middle. Young Burke ran to get a car that was about to start. The doors were just closing. The boy stuck his head through the space still open. The doors came together and held him while the car which had started came on and striking a girder, the car carried him right up to the ceiling. His skull was fractured and he died instantly.

So much excitement was caused in the densely populated building that the reserves of the old Slip Station were called out to keep the corridors clear.

The accounts show that Secretary Fish left $62,000 worth of personal estate and $937,000 in real estate, which will, by increase of $106,797 since his death, make the aggregate of the estate $1,106,000, with $5,250 in debts outstanding. The executors have paid Hamilton Fish, Jr., $2,000 for general and administrative expenses, $6,750, $107,856 has been paid to beneficiaries and $40,000 remains to be divided among the residuary legatees.

BLASTS SHAKING DOWN HER HOME.

MRS. DE CARVAJAL SAYS SO IN SUIT.

Contractors Allege Cracks Are Old and Wires Support Chimney.

Maria Del Carmen Santos Suarez de Carvajal wants an injunction to stop Canavan Brothers, the contractors excavating for the new Young Men's Christian Association building, in West Twenty-fourth street, from blowing up her house, No. 214, by blasting. She would accept a bond indemnifying her against that kind of injury, her lawyers, Weeks Brothers, told Justice Giegerich to-day.

The lawyer told the Court the blasting operations had "caused the walls of Madame's house to crack, the ceiling to break, large quantities of debris to come down the chimneys and the kitchen range to be shocked into uselessness."

For the contractor Mr. Lipoman replied that Madame's house was fifty years old and all these cracks and injuries were old, the foundation crumbling away, and the chimney had been for a long time supported by a lot of telegraph and telephone wires. Decision was reserved.
