TROUBLE PILES UP FOR JEROME.

New Embarrassments Come from the Signing of McLellan's Bond by Lindinger.

HAS TO GRANT ONE FAVOR

President of the Liquor Dealers' Association Declares He Signed the Bond in Order to Save His License.

On the calendar in Judge Newburger's Court to-day, was the case of George Harris, indicted for book-making. The fact that the offense of which he is accused was committed in the saloon at No. 56 Liberty street, has caused remark around the Criminal Courts buildings, for this saloon is owned by Fritz Lindinger, President of the Liquor Dealers' Association.

Fritz Lindinger is on the bond of County Detective McLellan, who shot James McCoy, the pool-room keeper.

Under the law if it is proved that a felony is committed on premises used as a liquor saloon the keeper of the saloon loses his license.

When Lindinger went into Centre Street Police Court yesterday he told Magistrate Crane that the District-Attorney had asked him to go on McLellan's bond.

"Mr. Jerome has been telephoning around for half an hour," said Lindinger, "and can't get anybody to sign the bail bond. He asked me to do it as a favor. As I had a favor to ask of him I consented."

The bond was made out and signed in due form. Then Lindinger went across the street to the saloon kept by Councilamn Tom Foley, where he met a sarcastic crowd. Custic comment was made on the fact that Lindinger, a Tammany man to the backbone and a power in the Tammany organization of the First Assembly District, should do a favor for the Fusion District-Attorney. Lindinger, goaded to assign a reason for his action, said:

"Honest, boys, I DID IT TO SAVE MY LICENSE."

The papers in the case of Harris show that William C. Hamilton, a detective employed by the Comittee of Fifteen, made a bet in Lindinger's saloon on July 16, 1901, on the fifth race at Brighton Beach, and that Harris took the money.

Hamilton swore out a warrant for the arrest of Harris, and Lindinger's place was raided by a party headed by Detective Sergt. Rynders, who was then attached to the District-Attorney's office.

The Case Postponed.

Harris retained O'Hare & Dineen to defend him. Under the agreement entered into between the District-Attorney and the gamblers under the indictment when he took office Harris could have entered a plea of guilty and escaped with a fine of $25. Until Lindinger went on the McLellan bond yesterday it was understood that Harris would do this and Lindinger was worried because the plea of guilty would establish ground for the revocation of the license.

The District-Attorney learned to-day that the papers in the Harris case were being looked over by the newspaper reporters in the Criminal Courts. He hurried downstairs and at the door of the court-room met Lawyer 'Hare.

"You'll have to plead guilty in that Harris case," said the District-Attorney.

"But we don't want to plead guilty," said Mr. O'Hare. "We'd like a postponement."

He got the postponement.

The District-Attorney asked that the indictment against The Allen be quashed yesterday. If he could quash one indictment for bookmaking he could quash another. That is why people wonder what Fritz Lindinger meant when he said he went on the McLellan bail bond "to save his license."

ODELL REVIEWED ARMY OF CHILDREN

Secretary Root and Other Notables with Him at the Brooklyn Sunday School Parade—90,000 in Line.

Smiling skies and delightful weather favored the 90,000 Sunday-school children of Brooklyn, who paraded to-day in celebration of the eSventy-third anniversary of the Brooklyn Sunday-school Union. In no former year were there as many children in line, nor have the youngsters presented a prettier picture than they did to-day as they marched through the streets of the City of Churches.

In recent years the annual parade of the children has become so popular that it has become necessary to divide the great army of little ones into divisions, each representing a section of the city. Thus to-day there were nineteen divisions, making nineteen different parades.

The chief parade ended at Prospect Park, where the children througed the meadows. There they marched and countermarched with almost military precision to the strains of Conterno's brass band.

Near the meadows was erected a reviewing stand upon which were seated numerous distinguished guests who watched the children delightedly. Among other prominent perons on the reviewing stand were Governor O'Dell, Secretary of War Root, Secretary of the Navy Moody, Mayor Low, ex-Comptroller Coler and Comptroller Grout, as well as other local dignataries.

Folowing the marching on the meadows the children had a fine time at play and were regaled with plenty of ice-cream and cake.

THOMAS F. CUSHING HAS PASSED AWAY.

Prominent Society Leader Dies After Long Illness—Never Fully Recovered from Injury Two Years Ago.

Thomas F. Cushing, a society leader in New York and Newport for many years, died at his residence, at No. 29 East Thirty-ninth street, early to-day, after an illness lasting over nine weeks.

It was said that the illness was due to injuries received in an accident in Newport two years ago. At that time he was standing in front of the Casino, of which he was a governor, when a horse driven by Miss Daisy Pierson, a daughter of Gen. and Mrs. J. Frederick Pierson, of New York, became unmanageable and knocked him down.

His collar bone was broken and a fractured rib punctured one of his lungs. From that injury, it is said, he never fully recovered.

Mr. Cushing was a widower and devoted his time to entertaining society, his only daughter, Miss Edith Cushing, being with him continually. The Cushing home in Bellevue avenue, Newport, known as "New Lodge," is one of the handsomest in that fashionable resort.

As a cotillion leader Mr. Cushing enjoyed a fame even greater than that of his younger competitors, such as Worthington Whitehouse, J. Lee Taller, Stuyvesant Fish and Elisha Dyer, Jr.

In the Vanderbilt family quarrel he figured as a friend of the Vanderbilts and consequently was overlooked by the Wilsons and their friends.

Mr. Cushing was a member of the Knickerbocker, Manhattan and Country Clubs.

MISSING MAN WAS FOUND POISONED.

Insurance Agent Took Carbolic Acid in His Barn and Died in Hospital—Suffered with Head Pains.

John Parcell, an insurance agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, living at One Hundred and Eighty-first street and Creston avenue, The Bronx, was found to-day in the loft of the barn attached to his residence, suffering from carbolic acid poisoning. He was taken to Fordham Hospital, where he died in an hour.

Mrs. Parcell told the police that her husband suffered with frightful pains in the head, and frequently would crush his head between the palms of his hands and scream in his agony.

The man must have wandered around al of yesterday and gone to the barn either during the night or early to-day, for the place was searched last night.

The physicians found that after taking the poison, Parcell had drunk several quarts of water, evidently intending it as an antidote and following repentance for his act.

FLEE FROM FIRE IN NIGHT ATTIRE.

Families in Apartment-House Routed by Early Morning Blaze Appear in Street in Unceremonious Garb.

Several families were routed from their homes in scanty attire at 6 o'clock this morning by a fire that started in the top floor of No. 713 Fulton street, Brooklyn. The blaze was in the apartments of Mrs. Eugenie Pollard. With Mrs. Pollard lived her daughter, who is a member of the vaudeville team of Carver and Pollard.

Mother and daughter ran screaming through the halls, clad only in their nightclothes, and were soon followed by the other tenants of the building. The blaze was confined to the floor where it started, but the other parts of the building were damaged by water.

The damage is placed at $2,500.

Parents' Responsibility Great

It is the right of every child to be well born, and to the parents it must look for health and happiness. How inconceivably great is the parents' responsibility, and how important that no taint of disease is left in the blood to be transmitted to the helpless child, entailing the most pitiable suffering, and marking its little body with offensive sores, catarrh of the nose and throat, weak eyes, glandular swellings, brittle bones, white swelling and deformity.

How can parents look upon such little sufferers and not reproach themselves for bringing so much misery into the world? If you have any disease lurking in your system, how can you expect well developed, healthy children? Cleanse your own blood and build up your health, and you have not only enlarged your capacity for the enjoyment of the pleasures of life, but have discharged a duty all parents owe to posterity, and made mankind healthier and happier.

There is no remedy that so surely reaches deep-seated, stubborn blood troubles as S. S. S. It searches out even hereditary poisons, and removes every taint from the blood, and builds up the general health. If weaklings are growing up around you, right the wrong by putting them on a course of S. S. S. at once. It is a purely vegetable medicine, harmless in its effects, and can be taken by both old and young without fear of any bad results.
