HOW THE MONK RASPUTIN GAINED CREDIT FOR MYSTIC INFLUENCE OVER HEALTH OF CZAR'S HEIR

Petrograd, Sunday, March 25 (via London, March 26).—The superstitious belief that the health and even the life of Grand Duke Alexis, the young heir apparent, depended on the presence of Gregory Rasputin, the mystic monk—a notion which is generally known to have account for Rasputin's tremendous influence over the imperial family—is explained in the following manner by the "Rusky Slovo:"

"Rasputin, according to the newspaper, stated in confidence to friends at convivial moments that he was able to fortify this superstition with the help of Madame Virubova, lady in waiting to the empress, and M. Badmaef, court physician, until the empress was absolutely convinced that the life of her son depended upon the monk. Whenever Rasputin was absent Madame Virubova obtained poisonous powders from the physician and placed them in food brought to Alexis. The result was that during Rasputin's absence the delicate health of the young heir apparent grew steadily worse until Rasputin was summoned back to the court, when the powders were stopped and Alexis became better.

"Rasputin always announced that 48 days after his death Alexis would fall ill. This prophecy came true—being caused, the newspaper declares, by Madame Virubova administering another powder to the little grand duke in the hope of continuing the tradition of Rasputin's influence over the imperial family and preparing the way for a successor to him."

HELP YOURSELF.

Elsie came home from a neighbor's house munching a chocolate.

"Now, Elsie," her mother reproved her, "how many times have I told you not to ask Mrs. Gray for chocolates?"

"I didn't ask her," returned Elsie, calmly. "I don't have to. I know where she keeps them."

BRANDISHED KNIFE IT COSTS HIM $50

Johnson Will Leave Weapon at Home When He Takes Another Drink.

Charles Johnson, when he goes on another spree, will leave his knife at home. The fact that he had that instrument in his pocket last night when he met Elias Summell in the 500 block on East Platinum street cost him $50 in Judge Whitty's court this morning.

According to Summell's statements, Johnson threatened to kill him. Summell is certain his assailant would have succeeded were it not for the timely appearance of others.

Stanley Flagey, who admitted violations of the traffic ordinance while driving his machine through the main streets of the city, was fined $10.

W. A. Cook was fined $5 for creating a disturbance.

Fred Turner called a woman a vile name and he was fined $10.

GERMAN VIOLATIONS OF TREATY MAY ABROGATE IT

ship William P. Frye, for the carriage of contraband, there have been perpetrated by the German naval forces similar unwarranted attacks upon and destruction of numerous American vessels for the reason, as alleged, that they were engaged in transportation of articles of contraband notwithstanding and in disregard of article 18 of the treaty of 1799 that 'no such articles (of contraband) carried in the vessels or by the subjects or citizens of either party to the enemies of the other shall be deemed contraband so as to induce confiscation or condemnation and a loss of property to individuals.' And that 'in the case of a vessel stopped for articles of contraband, if the master of the vessel stopped will deliver out the goods supposed to be of contraband nature, he shall be admitted to do it and the vessel shall not in that case be carried into any port or further detained, but shall be allowed to proceed on her voyage.'

Article 18.

"In addition to the sinking of American vessels, foreign merchant vessels carrying American citizens and American property have been sunk by German submarines without warning and without any adequate security for the safety of the persons on board or compensation for the destruction of the property by such action, notwithstanding the solemn engagements of article 15 of the treaty of 1799 that 'all persons belonging to any vessels of war, public or private, who shall molest or insult in any manner whatever the people, vessel or effects of the other party, shall be responsible in their persons and property for damages and interests, sufficient security for which shall be given by all commanders of private armed vessels before they are commissioned,' and notwithstanding the further stipulation of article 12 of the treaty of 1785 that 'the free intercourse and commerce of the subjects or citizens of the party remaining neutral with the belligerent powers shall not be interrupted.'

Obligations Disregarded.

"Disregarding these obligations, the German government has proclaimed certain zones of the high seas in which it declared without reservation that all ships, including those of neutrals, will be sunk, and in those zones German submarines have, in fact, in accordance with this declaration, ruthlessly sunk merchant vessels and jeopardized or destroyed the lives of American citizens on board.

Reciprocal Favors.

"Moreover, since the severance of relations between the United States and Germany, certain American citizens in Germany have been prevented from removing from the country. While this is not a violation of the terms of the treaties mentioned, it is a disregard of the reciprocal liberty of intercourse between the two countries in time of peace and cannot be taken otherwise than as an indication of the purpose on the part of the German government to disregard, in the event of war, the similar liberty of action provided for in article 23 of the treaty of 1799—the very article which it is now proposed to interpret and supplement almost wholly in the interests of the large number of German subjects residing in the United States and enjoying in their persons or property the protection of the United States government. This article provides in effect that merchants of either country residing in the other shall be allowed a stated time in which to remain to settle their affairs and to 'depart freely, carrying off all their effects without molestation or hindrance,' and women and children, artisans and certain others may continue their respective employments and shall not be molested in their persons or property. It is now proposed by the Imperial German government to enlarge the scope of this article so as to grant German subjects and German property remaining in the United States in time of war the same treatment in many respects as that enjoyed by neutral subjects and neutral property in the United States."

May Abrogate it.

"In view of the clear violations by the German authorities of the plain terms of the treaties in question, solemnly concluded on the mutual understanding that the obligations thereunder would be faithfully kept; in view further of the disregard of the canons of international courtesy and the comity of nations in the treatment of innocent American citizens in Germany, the government of the United States cannot perceive any advantage which would flow from further engagements, even though they were merely declaratory of international law, entered into with the imperial German government in regard to the meaning of any of the articles of these treaties or as supplementary to them. In these circumstances therefore the government of the United states declines to enter into the special protocol proposed by the imperial government.

"This government is seriously considering," continues the note, "whether or not the treaty of 1828 and the revised articles of the treaties of 1785 and 1799 have not been in effect abrogated by the German government's flagrant violations of their provisions, for it would be manifestly unjust and inequitable to require one party to an agreement to observe its stipulations and to permit the other party to disregard them. It would appear that the mutuality of the undertaking has been destroyed by the conduct of the German authorities."

Proposes New Treaty.

The German note, also made public today, was regarded by officials as practically proposing a new treaty. Nationals of either country resident in the other would, in case of war, have been free from internment; most would have been entitled to remain indefinitely and those seeking to leave would have been free to do so with all their property. Enemy property, specifically including merchant vessels, would have been free from all sequestration except under laws applying to neutrals also, while contracts and patents would not have been cancelled, suspended or declared void.

Treatment of Germans.

The status of Germans in this country is not held to be affected by the refusal to reaffirm the old treaties and there will be no general internment or persecutions. The most serious project now in mind is adoption of the mild Canadian system by which Germans must register and remain within certain limits unless permitted to leave. Under this plan only 6,000 out of 80,000 Germans in Canada have been interned.

Activity of Plotters.

The activities of plotters already discovered and the certainty that more are to follow has not shaken the official belief that the majority of Germans will remain loyal.

Whether the treaties may be considered abrogated through Germany's action will depend upon the state department's view as to whether senate approval is essential. There is doubt whether the department alone can reach such a decision.

LAD SHOT IN WRESTLING MATCH DIES OF WOUND

Grady and said today that he was positive the injury was due to a bullet and that he removed parts of the bullet from the wound. "It made the worst kind of fracture," Dr. McCarthy said.

Coroner Aeneas Lane said that he would not hold an inquest, as the trouble occurred in Madison county and that he would notify the coroner there.

A Rugged Youth.

McGrady was a very large youth for his age. He was nearly six feet tall, well built and of a rugged constitution. His courage in spite of the pain from his wound was the cause of much comment among the physicians at the St. James hospital, who said that he accepted his lot as that of an everyday occurrence which might happen to anyone and that he belittled the trip from Ruby to Butte, which was one of many hardships. McGrady was not removed to Butte until nearly two weeks after the trouble occurred. He was 14 years and 11 months old.

He is survived by his father, W. P. McGrady, who is in Idaho; his mother, who is in Ruby; several sisters, two in Butte, Mrs. J. C. Monroe, 3149 Kennedy street, and Mrs. Stanley Watson; Mrs. Adam Mitchell of Ruby and another sister in Ohio, and Miss Maggie McGrady of Willow Creek. His brothers are Earl of Ruby, Elmer of Wilsall, Lawrence of Idaho, Fred of Butte.

The body will be forwarded from Butte to Ruby tomorrow, where the funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock at the Mitchell home.

How Trouble Started.

Although he was weak from loss of blood and shock McGrady told a Post reporter of the trouble in a calm and cool manner on Feb. 14, as he lay on a cot in the hospital awaiting his turn in the operating room. He acted as if being shot in the head by a high power rifle was an everyday occurrence. He told of the friendly wrestling match which was held in the kitchen of the Aaron home and McGrady said that he bested Aaron, who did not relish it.

"As I went to the barn to do my chores Aaron said, 'I'll get you.' I did not think much about it, but finished my work and when I came back to the house he had the rifle and pointed it at me. Then he fired and here I am," McGrady said.

Chrissie Aaron's father was in St. James hospital at the same time as McGrady. He was seriously injured from the kick of a horse and went there to undergo an operation.

"What would you do if a bandit should present a gun and demand your money?"

"I'd sympathize with him."
