GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The best attendance of the week was at the track this afternoon, lured by the promise of smiling skies and sunny weather. But when they arrived at the track they found the same old leaden clouds and a very excellent promise of rain before the afternoon was over.

The track dried out fairly well during the morning and except for a wet streak extending about six feet from the rail it was in fairly good shape.

The stake feature was the Ocean View Handicap for three-year-olds, which brought out a small but select field which promised one of the best races of the meeting. Cunard, who looked like the possible winner, was withdrawn early. There were other races as good, and the afternoon promised to furnish some splendid sport.

John E. Madden to-day sold the filly Judith Campbell, which showed such good form at Saratoga, to William C. Whitney. Price not stated.

FIRST RACE.

Handicap; for all ages; about six furlongs.

Starters, whts., jocks.	St.	1/2	Fin.	Str.	Betting. Place.
Dublin, 126, Shaw	4	2h	1h	11-5	3-5
The Musketeer, 124, J. Martin	1	1¾	2¾	7-10	1-3

Young Henry, 118, Odom	2	3½	4h	7	6-5
Himself, 111, Creamer	3	5	5	20	4

Start poor. Won driving. Time—1.11 1-5.

The Musketeer raced to the front and cut out the pace, followed by Dublin and Young Henry, heads apart. They held this order to the stretch, where The Musketeer swung wide, taking Young Henry with him. Dublin skimmed the rail and, closing on The Musketeer in the last sixteenth, won by a head. The Musketeer was three-fourths of a length in front of Rappenecker, who, last away, was closing strong at the end.

SECOND RACE.

Selling; for three-year-olds and up; mile and a sixteenth.

Starters, whts., jocks.	St.	1/2	Fin.	Str.	Betting. Place.
Moor, 108, Lyne	2	2h	1¾	16-5	6-5

Ethics, 116, H. Michaels	7	7h	7d	7	3
Dr. Barlow, 109, Conley	3	8	8	100	40

Start good. Won driving. Time—1.48 3-5.

They went around the first turn with Handicapper, Moor, Par Excellence and Rockey heads apart. Then Rockey assumed the lead, showing the way to the far turn, with Moor, Handicapper and The Black Scot close up, to the head of the back stretch. On the turn Marshall Nell moved up into second place, followed by Moor, and when they straightened out for home Rockey was beaten. Marshall Nell then raced in front to the last sixteenth, where Moor closed and in a hot drive won by three-quarters of a length. Marshall Nell was four lengths in front of Par Excellence.

THIRD RACE.

Selling; for two-year-olds; about six furlongs.

Starters, whts., jocks.	St.	1/2	Fin.	Str.	Betting. Place.

Start good. Won ridden out. Time—1.12 1-5.

Courtmaid jumped away in front, made all the running and won, ridden out, by two lengths from Durazzo. The latter was a hot favorite, but Shaw got him away poorly, ran him into a pocket and then came wide at the head of the stretch. Ringdove was third, a head behind Durazzo.

Moor, the winner of the second race, was bid up to $2,500 and purchased by Albert Simons.

FOURTH RACE.

The Oceanview Handicap; for three-year-olds; mile and a sixteenth.

Starters, whts., jocks.	St.	1/2	Fin.	Str.	Betting. Place.

Andy Williams, 107, Lyne	4	3d	4	9-5	3-5

Start good. Won easily. Time—1.48.

Hermis was the first to show, and he raced around the turn with Huntressa. There Rice took Hermis back and shut himself in a nice pocket for Igniter, and Andy Williams at once moved up on the

TO SEEK THE POLE AGAIN.

Evalyn B. Baldwin Will Make Another Voyage of Exploration to the Far North.

ALL READY FOR THE DASH.

Although He Said He Would Never See His Patron Again if He Failed, He Goes to Explain Why He Put Back.

Evalyn B. Baldwin, the Arctic explorer, about whose failure to reach the North Pole with the Zeigler expedition so much has been printed, returned to-day on the Germanic. When he left Mr. Zeigler told him he never wanted to see his fac again unless he found the Pole, and Baldwin promised that he never should.

However, he said to-day on landing that his purpose in coming back was to se his patron and tell him all about the expedition.

The explorer looked well and seemed in high spirits.

"I've just come back on a flying trip," he said. "I want to see Mr. Zeigler and tell him personally that all these stories that have been circulated about the expedition are lies. The only reason we returned to Norway was that we ran out of coal and had to burn our sledges. We are all ready to make another dash, and I confidently expect to suceed the next time.

"The expedition was all right. It was well equipped in every way. I want to see Mr. Ziegler face to face and assure him of these things. It is not a fact that our relation are strained in any way. Mr. Ziegler is ill at his home in Noroton, Conn. I expect to run up there right away and have a talk with him, after which I shall go right back to Europe and continue my preparations for making another try."

Mr. Baldwin denounced the artist, Hare, who published a long story about his incompetency as being a silly chap who didn't know what he was talking about. He will stop at the Hoffman House while in town.

SOCIETY FAVORS THE HORSE SHOW.

Fair Weather and Attractive Classes Bring Out a Big Crowd at White Plains—Miss Rockefeller's Entries.

(Special to The Evening World.)

WHITE PLAINS, Oct. 2.—Beautiful, clear fall weather greeted the society folk of Westchester to-day, and as a result there was a large crowd of wealthy horse owners and their wives and sweethearts at the White Plains Fair Grounds to witness the second day's exhibit of the annual horse show.

The class for ladies' saddle horses brought out quite a contingent of the fair sex. Mrs. H. H. Good rode her chestnut mare Thyra. Miss G. B. Whitcomb was on her chestnut mare Treagh, Mrs. Edwin C. Kirkland rode Sweetheart, Miss Ethel Rockefeller Lady Gay and later Crittenden, Mrs. William J. Steel Christable, Mrs. Marian Holloway America, Miss May Deering Natalie, Miss K. C. Sears Kate.

In the harness horse class the entries include Stuart Duncan, William H. Catlin, Howard Willets and Herbert Coppell. A new class to-day was the exhibition of trotters consisting of stallion, mare or gelding, three years old or over and shown in harness.

Blue Ribbon Competition.

Those who competed for the blue ribbon were Edgar Clausen, who owns Quarter Cup; Fred S. Fisher, Setella; John H. Shults, jr., Edna Ryan; Henry L. Topiitz, Judge Boardman; Miss Henrietta C. Weatherbee, Bert, and Moses Taylor, Queen Monele.

Miss Ethel Rockefeller, daughter of William Rockefeller and niece of John D. Rockefeller, won only one red ribbon out of three entries yesterday, and it has spurred her on to greater activity, and she intends to try to win several blue ribbons with additional entries to-day and to-morrow.

In the twenty-one harness horse class Mrs. Henry Siegel, Mrs. J. G. Richardson, V. Everett Macy, Ira A. Kip, jr., and Daniel G. Reid have entries. Mrs. Siegel has entered her roan gelding Winton in all the events for harness horses to-morrow. She will bring a coaching party from Driftwood, her country seat at Mamaroneck to see the show.

WEATHER FORECAST.

TURN DOWN FOR DEVERY.

Barred Now from Congressional Conventions by the Tammany Committee on Elections.

TO GET A MANDAMUS.

"Big Chief," Full of Fight, Calls All Who Kept Him Out at Saratoga Thieves and Blames Hill.

The Tammany Hall Committee on Elections decided this afternoon to debar Devery and his delegates from the Congressional Conventions in the Congress district, including the Ninth Assembly District. Peter J. Garvey, who went to Tammany Hall for the Devery credentials, was refused them.

"We have decided," said Senator Plunkitt, Chairman of the Committee on Elections, "to follow the precedent set by the State Convention in the case of Devery."

The decision to bar Devery will have no effect on his actions. He will go to the conventions with his delegates and demand admission, conducting himself according to legal advice with a view to future contests in the courts.

Devery Not Troubled.

Devery learned of the action of the Tammany Committee on Elections when he got out of bed this afternoon. He did not appear to be greatly bothered.

"I slept late to-day," he said, apologetically, when he made his appearance at 2 o'clock, "because I was short on sleep and short on rest, and I've got a lot of fights on my hands that are going to come off this week. Those fellows in Fourteenth street are in earnest about trying to down me. I am in earnest, too. The first thing I do will be to mandamus 'em, to find out why they refused my representative credentials to the Congressional and Judicial conventions to-day.

"The law on the statute books on this point is plain. I am in the right, and I want to go into the courts and show that I am, open and above board. It is a fight to a finish, and when it is over they won't be able to say that I did a thing that wasn't on the level.

"What do you blame for your defeat in the State Convention?" he was asked.

"I place the blame three ways," was the reply "First, I blame Senator Hill for letting 'Gone Wood pull the wool over his eyes; second, I blame Hugh McLaughlin.

Hill promised me that if I would go out "Hill promised me that if I would go out of the convention after being recognized he would come down here to New York and square me with Tammany Hall. I wouldn't stand for the job. If I can't win a fight on my merits I'd rather lose it.

For Coler All the Time.

"I am for Coler first, last and all the time. I am for the whole State ticket because I am a Democrat. I am for Coler particularly because Hill did not put him up to be elected. Hill doesn't want any Democrat in his way when he makes his play for the presidential nomination in 1904. I hope the people of the State will take the bit in their teeth and fool Hill by electing Coler, the man he has put up to be slaughtered. If every Democrat in the State works as hard for Coler as I'm going to he'll win in a walk."

THESE MEN MAY GO TO CONGRESS.

The following is a partial list of candidates to be selected by the Democratic Congressional conventions to be held in Manhattan, the Bronx and Westchester to-night and to-morrow night:

Eighth District—PERRY BELMONT.

Ninth District—HENRY GOLDFOGLE.

Tenth District—WILLIAM SULZER.

Eleventh District—WILLIAM R. HEARST.

Twelfth District—GEORGE B. M'CLELLAN.

Thirteenth District—No selection.

Fourteenth District—IRA A. RIDER.

Fifteenth District—No selection.

Sixteenth District—JACOB RUPPERT.

Seventeenth District—No selection.

Eighteenth District—Probably COL. JOSEPH A. GOULDEN.

Nineteenth District (Westchester)—CORNELIUS A. PUGSLEY.

All of these gentlemen excepting Mr. Belmont, Mr. Hearst, Mr. Rider and Mr. Goulden, are in Congress at this time. Mr. Belmont tried unsuccessfully for the election in the Eighth District last fall and was defeated by Montagu Lessler. Mr. Lessler will be his opponent again.

The omission of the name of O. H. P. Belmont, now in Congress, from the Thirteenth District, gives rise to the impression that he has been sidetracked by Tammany Hall.

MRS. COLER ON POLITICS.

Afraid if Mr. Coler Is Elected He May Be Some Day Placed in the Presidential Chair.

"THAT WOULD BE AWFUL."

She Tells in Interesting Manner How She First Learned that Mr. Coler's Name Was to Be Presented at the Convention

With her eyes just dancing with pride and loyalty, Mrs. Bird S. Coler sat in her father's home, No. 95 Cambridge place, Brooklyn, to-day, and told an Evening World reporter what a splendid husband she has and how proud she is that he has been honored by the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Mrs. Coler is a little woman, who dresses simply, and who above all other things is a home body. She is wrapped up in her young husband and their eleven-year-old son Eugene, who is a pupil at the Adelphi Academy.

For the present the Colers are living at the home of the parents of Mrs. Coler, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moore. Mrs. Coler spent the summer at Bernardsville, N. J., and she has just come back to town. Their own home, No. 244 Hancock street, will be opened within a few days, although it makes the candidate's wife shudder to think of the hurly burly which will follow in her sanctum.

Mrs. Coler Is Dubious.

First of all it may be said that Mrs. Coler is as bad a politician as her husband is a good one. She confessed a great lack of confidence in the success of her husband's campaign.

"No," she repeated when surprise was expressed at her statement, "I don't think Mr. Coler will be elected. There seems to be an undercurrent of feeling against him. There is some underground work going on. After Mr. Coler read the editorials in the morning papers he said he thought they were a little lukewarm and they didn't increase his confidence any.

"To tell the truth, I'm not quite sure I want him to be elected. I remember when he was running for Comptroller. Why, our house was known to every one in New York. It was crowded all day and most of the night by the strangest lot of people. There were politicians and job hunters and strikers and reporters and statesmen and all sorts of people. I've got to go through all that again, and this time I suppose it will be more strenuous than it was before.

The Finest Man in the World.

"Some of my friends tell me that Mr. Coler is a national figure now and that some day he may be in a Presidential campaign. That must be awful and I'm not going to think about it. He is not elected Governor yet. But he ought to be, for he is the finest man in the world. He is just a perfectly lovely man. Never in my life have I wanted a single thing that he did not get for me.

"It's natural for a wife to say these things of her husband, but all my friends know what a wonderfully good man Mr. Coler is and they agree with me in my estimate of his character.

"He is a man who never treasures up an injury. He doesn't forget it but he forgives it. He makes up his mind very quickly and he is generally right in his judgments.

"When Mr. Coler and I were travelling in the West recently I was surprised to find how many people knew him and admired him. He seemed to have the confidence of people who had never met him before. If he is elected he will be honestly elected. I wouldn't want him to win if he had to buy votes and he wouldn't want to win that way, either.

Honesty Ahead of Politics.

"His article, 'Commercialism in Politics,' expresses his sentiment on that point. They say that cost him the nomination for Governor last time, but he did not care, for he is honest and fearless. He did what he thought was right and that was all there was to it.

"Really, I did not know he was a serious candidate for the nomination until a few days ago when I went into Tiffany's. A clerk told me he thought Mr. Coler would be nominated. I hurried home and asked my husband about it. He said that Mr. McLaughlin wanted to present his name. Then I took to reading the papers about it. I got a little worried when I saw Mr. Hill hesitating about making up his slate, although, as I say, I wasn't sure that I wanted my husband nominated.

"Every time I think of moving to Albany, in case Mr. Coler is elected, it

ODELL 2 TO 1 FAVORITE IN ELECTION BETTING.

Wall Street Men, in Offering Odds Against Coler, Find Ready Takers.

Wall street men are beginning to wager money on the outcome of the Gubernatorial race in the State.

The odds are generally 2 to 1 in favor of Odell, but the men with money to bet against Coler find ready takers.

R. C. Stuart and M. R. Meyer, members of the Coffee Exchange, announced to-day that they would each wager $1,000 to $600 that Odell would be re-elected.

A. Sartorius, of No. 20 Broad street, offered to bet $1,000 to $800 that Odell would beat Coler.

J. L. Newborg bet $400 to $200 with Bruns that Odell will defeat Coler. Both are members of the Stock Exchange.

Fred H. Brooks, of No. 30 Broadway, this afternoon placed a bet of $2,000 to $1,000 with J. J. Judge that Gov. Odell will be re-elected.

H. H. Solomon, a big Wall street operator, bet $3,000 against $1,500 that Odell would defeat Coler.

GROUT MAKES A STAND FOR LABOR'S RIGHTS IN TUNNEL.

Comptroller Grout earned the applause of the spectators at the tunnel hearing late to-day when he urged that a compromise labor clause be inserted in the franchise. Vice-President Green said:

"No; no compromise clause can appear."

"I disagree with you," said Mr. Grout, determinedly. "I see no reason why it should not now be defined by this commission. Let us have a compromise clause which will make it imperative upon the road to arbitrate labor troubles in the event of their arising.

"Why not insert the compromise clause in the contract papers with the contractors?" suggested Mayor Low.

"We have considered it all carefully. It can't be done," said Vice-President Green.

"Well, I am going to offer the compromise clause as an amendment," said Comptroller Grout.

COAL BARONS OFF TO MEET PRESIDENT.

Big Operators Who Have Been Invited by President Roosevelt to Attend the Conference at the White House Leave Here for Washington To-Day.

John Mitchell, Too, Goes to Join in the Conference Called by the Chief Magistrate to Plan a Solution of the Coal Strike.

COAL SITUATION MENACES THE COUNTRY, SAYS LOW.

If the President's good offices are ineffective it is time to find whether there is any law in the land capable of dealing with a situation that threatens as much harm to the country as a public enemy could inflict.—From Mayor Low's letter to-day in reply to an invitation to a coal conference issued by the Mayor of Detroit.

The great anthracite coal operators who have been invited by President Roosevelt to attend a conference at the White House to-morrow, with the purpose of ending the coal strike, left for Washington at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the New Jersey Central Railroad.

Those in the party were: Presidents Fowler, of the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad; Truesdale, of the Lackawanna; Olyphant, of the Delaware and Hudson; Thomas, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Erie, and the independent operator, John Markle, of the firm of G. B. Markle & Co.

It is expected that President Baer, of the Reading, will be picked up at Philadelphia.

PRESIDENT CASSATT SEES MORGAN.

President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who also received an invitation to attend the conference, was a visitor at J. P. Morgan's office to-day.

"I haven't yet decided to accept the President's invitation," said Mr. Cassatt, "but I expect to make up my mind later in the day."

Mr. Cassatt asked to be excused from giving any opinion as to the outcome of the conference.

Mr. Morgan and his representatives talked with some of the leading operators to-day. It is understood that certain memoranda have been prepared and will be submitted to the President at to-morrow's conference.

MITCHELL OFF TO THE SCENE.

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 2.—President Mitchell has made arrangements for the three district presidents, Duffy, Fahey and Nichols, to attend the conference with President Roosevlt and the coal operators to-morrow, and they leave with him this afternoon, reaching Washington by the Baltimore and Ohio at 12.50 o'clock in the morning.

While President Mitchell and the District Presdents will not say what they hope will result from the conference, they expect it to greatly benefit the strikers' cause. Mr. Mitchell said to-day he does not know what the President proposes to do.

SENATOR QUAY'S COAL TALK WITH ROOSEVELT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—It is expected that all the men to whom invitations were sent yesterday will be present at the coal conference to-morrow. Mr. Baer and Mr. Mitchell have accepted. This was the only statement that could be obtained at the White House to-day regarding the conference which will be held to-morrow on the coal situation. Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania, was in conference with the President for an hour to-day, and it is understood that he came here at the request of the President to discuss the strike situation. The President and Senator were not interrupted, and two Cabinet officers who called did not see the President while the conference was in progress. Senator Quay, after he left the President, would not discuss the situation or express an opinion as to the probable effect of the coming conference.

DETROIT WILL AWAIT WASHINGTON DECISION

DETROIT, Oct. 2.—The special committee which has in charge the proposed national conference on the country's coal supply, to be held here on Oct. 9, met with Mayor Maybury to-day and decided to send the following telegram to President Roosevelt:

"Convention called here for Oct. 9 to consider coal supply. Responses from all over the country indicate that convention will be large and representative in character. We all hope your good offices in conference to-morrow may settle difficulties and render all others unnecessary. If we could have earliest advices of result of your conference it would control our future action."

A committee was appointed to take in charge all the details of the proposed conference in Masonic Hall. If the strike should be settled at to-morrow's White House conference the Detroit conference will be called off.

THIRTY RIOTERS ARE CAUGHT BY TROOPS.

(Special to The Evening World.)

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 2.—Three companies of the Ninth charged a mob to-day at Plymouth which was attacking the North American washery. They captured thirty prisoners, who are now in the guard house.

The mob rioted all night, capturing workers at the washery, beating two of them severely.

Deputy sheriffs who were sent to the washery were prevented by the crowd from reaching it, the house of a non-union worker was stoned and there were general disorder and trouble. At Nanticoke companies of the soldiers had to disperse strikers' pickets and there was more excitement and violence than any day since the troops were called.

SPECIAL TRAINS WAIT TO DISTRIBUTE TROOPS.

MT. CARMEL, Pa., Oct. 2.—Owing to a crowd of unknown men hurling rocks at the deputies at Righter's colliery last night a company of soldiers was posted at that mine to-day, while another company was taken to Shamokin on a special train to prevent pickets from stopping non-union men from going to work at the Reading and other collieries.

Two special trains are in waiting at Reading and Northern Central Railroad stations so that troops may be rushed to any colliery in Northumberland County in case mobs try to raid the mines.
