U. S. ENVOYS ARE CONFERRING WITH BRITISH CHIEFS

Much Work to Be Done in London Before Big Paris Conference.

London, Nov. 8.—The special American commission to the allied conference arrived in London last midnight. It is headed by Col. E. M. House as special commissioner with the honorary rank of special ambassador.

"We had a pleasant and uneventful voyage," Colonel House told the associated press. "The weather was fair. There were no submarines. It was the best vacation I have had in two years."

A Large Party.

The commissioners were met by Ambassador Page, Vice Admiral Sims, commander of the American destroyer squadron, and Foreign Secretary Balfour. There are 27 persons in the party, including Admiral Benson, General Bliss, Vance McCormick, chairman of the war trade board; Oscar T. Crosby, assistant secretary of the treasury; Bainbridge Colby of the United States shipping board; Dr. A. E. Taylor, representing the food controller, and Paul Cravath. Mrs. Douzand and two women who are acting in secretarial capacities are in the party. Colonel and Mrs. House were driven to the residence of the Duke of Roxburghe, where they will stay while in London.

Outlines Their Work.

The members of the mission rose late this morning. The first thing they did was to go into conference for one hour, Colonel House presiding. Colonel House outlined a tentative program for the next few days, calling for a series of conferences with other officials. Each member of the mission will discuss his departmental problems with an official in charge of similar activities in England.

Admiral Benson had an early call to make on Admiral Jellicoe, first sea lord, and General Bliss expected to visit the war office during the day.

Visits Shipyards.

"I am impatient to see with my own eyes the great efforts England is making toward solving the shipping problem," said Mr. Colby, "and with this end in view will pay an early visit to the great shipyards. America is now fully awake to the importance of tonnage in this war and is carrying out a program of unparalleled magnitude. Shipbuilding now takes priority over all other work in our country."

Some of the members of the mission are planning an early visit to France.

When the train bearing the mission reached London the big metropolitan station which usually is busy, was almost deserted, but a long line of waiting automobiles, the majority in charge of khaki-clad chauffeurs, attracted the attention of the train hands and a few suburbanites.

Dr. Page and Mr. Balfour were on the scene early and while waiting walked up and down the platform for 10 minutes, chatting about the war. Colonel House and Admiral Benson, the first to alight, were greeted heartily by Mr. Balfour, who met them on his recent visit to American.

LANSING EXPLAINS THE PURPOSE OF CONFERENCE

Washington, Nov. 8.—In making the announcement of the safe arrival of the American mission to the allies' war conference, Secretary Lansing said:

"The conference will be essentially a war conference, with the object of perfecting a more complete co-ordination of the activities of the allied nations in order to attain the highest efficiency."

This is the American government's first definite announcement of the purpose of the meeting.

Even the fact that the Americans were to participate in the conference and had been named had been a carefully guarded secret until they were through the submarine zone and safe on British soil. The part that the United States is to play in framing the great allied program is emphasized by the fact that the mission, headed by President Wilson's personal friend and adviser, includes the highest oficers of the army and navy.

Lansing's Statement.

Secretary Lansing made this statement:

"The government of the United States will participate in the approaching conference of the powers waging war against the German empire and has sent as its representative Edward M. House, who is accompanied by Admiral W. S. Benson, chief of naval operations; Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff, U. S. A.; Oscar T. Crosby, assistant secretary of the treasury; Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the war trade board; Bainbridge Colby of the United States shipping board; Dr. Alonzo E. Taylor, representing the food controller; Thomas Nelson Perkins, representing the priority board, and Gordon Auchincloss, as secretary.

A War Conference.

"The conference is essentially a war conference with the object of perfecting a more complete co-ordination of the activities of the various nations engaged in the conflict and the more comprehensive undertaking of their respective needs in order that the joint efforts of the cobelligerents may attain the highest war efficiency. While a definite program has not been adopted, it may be assumed that the subjects to be discussed will embrace not only those pertaining to military and naval operations, but also the financial, commercial, economic and other phases of the present situation which are of vital importance to the successful prosecution of the war.

"There will undoubtedly be an effort to avoid any conflict of interest among the participants, and there is every reason to anticipate that the result will be fuller co-operation and consequently a much higher efficiency and a more vigorous prosecution of the war.

The Calls on America.

"The United States in the employment of its man power and material resources desires to use them to the greatest advantage against Germany. It has been no easy problem to determine how they can be used most effectively since the independent presentation of requirements by the allied governments on account of each government's appreciation of its own wants, which are naturally given greater importance than the wants of other governments. By a general survey of the whole situation and a free discussion of the needs of all, the approaching conference will undoubtedly be able to give the demands of the several governments their true perspective and proper place in the general plans for the conduct of the war.

Work to Best Advantage.

"Although the resources of this country are vast and though there is every purpose to devote them all, if need be, to winning the war, they are not without limit. But evenif they were greater they should all be used to the highest advantage in attaining the supreme object for which we are fighting. This can only be done by a full and frank discussion of the plans and needs of the various belligerents. It is the earnest wish of this government to employ its military and naval forces and its resources and energy where they will give the greatest return in advancing the common cause. The exchange of views, which will take place at the conference, and the conclusions which will be reached will be of the highest value in preventing waste of energy and in bringing into harmony the activities of the nations which have been unavoidably acting in a measure independently.

"In looking forward to the assembling of the conference it cannot be too strongly emphasized that it is a war conference and nothing else, devoted to devising ways and means to intensify the efforts of the belligerents against Germany by complete co-operation under a general plan and thus bring the conflict to a speedy and satisfactory conclusion."

A NEW HIGH RECORD FOR ORE SINCE LAST JUNE

Anaconda Company Yesterday Hoisted 12,246 Tons. Many New Miners.

More ore was hoisted by the mines of the Anaconda Copper Mining company yesterday than at any time since last June. The total yesterday was 12,246 tons of ore.

New men are reporting for work at the mines every day. Yesterday 177 new men were added to the pay rolls of the mines. On the other hand, the companies have lost a number of miners when the last contingent of drafted men for the national army was ordered to American Lake. Included in that contingent were a number of young men employed at the mines and these, as a matter of course, had to throw up their work here and enter the employ of Uncle Sam.
