THE JOURNAL.

☞ Merchants visiting the city, will do well to call on MARTIN, MORRELL & co., dealers in Hosiery, Trimmings, Combs, Brushes and fancy goods, No. 24 North Fourth Street, where they will be cordially received and well treated. It is one of the best Houses in the city.

☞ The Know Nothing head quarters, in Curwensville, are open during the day to visitors, and JACOB DETRICK, the proprietor, is always ready to do every variety of Blacksmithing in the best style and most durable manner. Give him a call.

☞ The general complaint about hard times' should induce us to be cautious, and endeavor to purchase cheap and substantial goods. Those merchants who have this object in view, when laying in their stock, will do well to call at PAUL & TAYLOR'S Wholesale Boot, Shoe and Straw Goods Wharehouse, No. 255 Market St., Phil'a.

☞ The best Tobacco establishment in Philadelphia is that of FRISMUTH & BROTHER, 105 Third St., five doors below Race. They keep every variety of tobacco and cigars. The best Havanas, Regalias, Principes, &c., are directly imported, by themselves, and can be confidently relied on as the genuine article.

☞ Our friend the Brigade Inspector, at Glen Hope, has just received a new and splendid assortment of goods. Clark is a clever fellow, and we advise all our friends to give him a call.

☞ Curwensville enjoys the reputation of being the best business place in the County, and we observe from the quantity of new goods purchased, they are determined to keep it up. Mrs. ELIZA IRVIN & Sons have just received and opened a new and splendid assortment. They are determined not to be beat for cheap goods. See advertisement in another column.

☞ Those who desire to obtain an excellent article of Spanish Sole leather, will do well to call on our friend JOHN M'PHERSON, at his old and well known stand at the South end of Clearfield. He keeps a good assortment of all kinds of leather. See advertisement.

☞ All lovers of good oysters, sardines, &c., should call at the new Restaurant, in the basement of Hemphill's Hotel, where our friend CHARLEY GREAFF, will be delighted to accommodate them. Charley's sound on the "goose question." See Card, in another column.

☞ The Sheriff's Sales, and other Court affairs are worthy of attention, this week. Some valuable property will be exposed to sale.

☞ Call and settle. Mrs. ELIZA IRVIN is determined to settle up her individual business. See Notice in another column.

☞ We call the attention of our readers to the Register's notices in another column.

☞ It is feared that the result of the Election in New York has proved unfavorable, but the result of an examination of JAS. B. GRAHAM'S splendid assortment of fall & winter goods at his store in Grahampton, will prove highly satisfactory. Call and try it.

☞ Since the result of the election has secured the safety of the country, our citizens can find time to devote their attention more exclusively to business. To those desiring to purchase goods, Mrs. ELIZA IRVIN & SONS, offer desirable inducements at their new store in New Washington.

☞ It will be seen that GRAHAM and WATSON have disolved partnership. The business will hereafter be carried on by JAMES B. GRAHAM.

☞ We presume most of our citizens recollect an estimable young man named J. B. BOONE, formerly of this county. He may now be found at the large and splendid Boot and Shoe House of BOKER, BROTHERS & JONES, No. 158 & 160 Market St., Philadelphia, where he will be happy to meet his large circle of Clearfield acquaintances and to accommodate them with a cheap and elegant stock of city and eastern made boots and shoes. Give him a call, he's a clever fellow, and is with a good firm.

☞ We were much pleased, on our recent visit to Philadelphia, by the appearance of J. H. PALETHORP, Jr's Chemical and Drug establishment at No. 89 South Second St. Those of our Merchants, Druggists and Physicians who desire to lay in a good and cheap stock, cannot do better than call on Mr. Palethorp.

☞ Opposite the Red Lion Hotel in Philadelphia, at 245 Market St., there is a large and elegant Queensware establishment, not surpassed by any similar House in the City. Our merchants can always obtain a splendid stock, at the lowest prices, from JOHN Y. RUSHTON & Co., importers and dealers in Earthenware, China, Glass, &c. See advertisement.

☞ Persons having unsettled accounts with F. P. HURXTHAL, are requested to call and settle them. See Notice in another column.

☞ Let it be published in Clearfield, let it be known in Curwensville, let it be proclaimed throughout the county, let it be wafted by the gentle breeze along the West Branch of the Susquehanna, that PATTON & HIPPLE, have just received the largest and best selected stock of goods ever brought to Curwensville. See advertisement in another column.

A SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST CONGRESSMEN.—A correspondent of N. Y. Courier, who evidently is of the opinion that British gold had as much as anything else to do, in making the so-called Democracy adopt the British Free Trade policy, says, in reply to the inquiry, who is to blame for our momentary disasters, "we point you to Congress; and we believe that many pockets among the members of that body have been made heavy with foreign cash, in the way of bribery, to prevent the passage of laws which would stop excessive importations, while they would bring about a healthy trade by making our exports, exclusively of specie, balance our importations exclusively of specie also."

TRUNKS & VALISES.—The subscriber is in receipt of a large assortment of trunks & valises, which he offers at the lowest cash prices. Call at the sign of the trunk, in the rear of the Journal office.
[Dec. 13, '54.] J. R. MCCRACKEN.

☞ We take this method of informing the public in general and the citizens of Curwensville and vicinity in particular, that we have received our usual large and varied selection of Fall and Winter Goods, suited to the wants of every man, woman and child in the community. And, we have no hesitation in saying, that purchasers will find it greatly to their advantage to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere.

Our stock consists, in part, of Ladies' Dress Goods in great variety; such as plain black, fancy silks, Turk satins, berege delains, black and fancy Alpacas, plain and plaid Ginghams, Manchester and Domestic Ginghams, Calicoes of every style, and quality, at prices ranging from 5 up to 16cts.

Black, blue, and brown French and English cloths, plain black doeskin and fancy cassimeres, black, blue, brown and green satinets.

Checks, tickings, flannels, muslins, toweling, hosiery, gloves, shirts, ready-made clothing, &c., &c.

Carpeting and floor oil cloth, window and wall paper and bordering, and oiled Window shades.

Shoes of all descriptions for ladies, misses and children, together with a large assortment of Mens' and boys' hats, caps, boots and shoes.

Hardware, planes, &c., Glassware, Queensware, Cedar and Willow ware, corn brooms, &c., &c.

Also, a large assortment of Fresh Groceries, viz: Rio Coffee, Imperial, Y. H. and Black teas, N.O. sugar, crushed and loaf sugar, New Orleans and Syrup molasses, clarified and cider Vinegar, &c.

Rosin and fancy soaps; sperm, star and mould candles. All of which will be sold in quantities to suit purchasers, at the cheap Corner Store of PATTON & HIPPLE.

PROSPECTUS—1855—56—THE GLOBE—The Official Paper of Congress, and newspaper for the People.—LORD BACON, in his "Historical Sketches of Statesmen who flourished in the time of George the Third," gives some remarkable examples, showing the great loss sustained by England in the history of its statesmen, and of its national progress, through the imperfect state of parliamentary reporting in former times. He opens his life of Lord CHATHAM thus:—"There is hardly any man in modern times, with the exception, perhaps, of Lord Somers, who fills so large a space in our history, and of whom we know so little, as Lord Chatham; and yet he is the person to whom every one would at once point, if desired to name the most successful statesmen and most brilliant orator that this country ever produced. Of Lord Somers, indeed, we can scarcely be said to know anything at all. That he was a person of unimpeachable integrity, a judge of great capacity and learning, a firm friend of liberty, but a cautious and safe counselor in most difficult emergencies, all are ready to acknowledge. But the authority which he possessed among his cotemporaries, the influence which his sound and practical wisdom exercised over their proceedings, the services which he was thus enabled to render in steering the Constitution safe thro' the most trying times, and saving us from arbitrary power without paying the price of our liberties in anarchy and bloodshed—nay, conducting the whole proceedings of a revolution with all the deliberation, and almost in the forms of an ordinary legal proceedings, have surrounded his name with a mild yet imperishable glory, which, in the contrast of our dark ignorance respecting all the particulars and details of his life, gives the figure something altogether mysterious and ideal. It is now, unfortunately too late, by supplying this information, to fill up the outline which the meagre records of his times have left us. But it is singular how much of Lord Chatham, who flourished within the memory of the present generation, still rests upon vague tradition. As a statesman indeed, he is known to us by the events which history has recorded to have happened under his administration. Yet even of his share in bringing these about, little has been preserved of detail. So, fragments of his speeches have been handed down to us, but these bear so very small a proportion to the prodigious fame which his eloquence has left behind it, that far more is manifestly lost than has reached us; while of his written compositions but few letters have hitherto been given to the world. The imperfect state of parliamentary reporting is the great cause of this blank."

What Somers and Chatham have lost in fame by the oblivion of all the masterly efforts of thier minds which, wielding the power of Parliament, conducted the march of Government during their connection with it, the history of the nation has also lost for want of the vigor and verity, the clearness, the freshness and beauty with which its events and their causes might have been preserved in the luminous eloquence of its orators.

The great men who conducted the Revolutionary struggle in the Continental Congress have left no history behind them of the views and events which had their birth in their debates, except in the meagre formula of a journal. The fervid feelings of the hour, the impelling circumstances, the argument, the eager controversy which set the subject in every variety of light, passed away with the breath that gave them utterance; and men who were not surpassed, in the opinion of Lord Chatham, by "the master statesmen of the world," have bequeathed to posterity nothing of the eloquence which guided our National Councils but "the shadow of a name." Recent publications show how graphic history becomes when the actors in it speak for themselves, and events as they emerge, stamp themselves on its page. Congress has now taken care that this sort of genuine history shall fall from the press, full and perfect, day by day; and thus every public man will make his own history, and blend it imperishably with that of his country.

The Congressional Globe and Appendix is so voluminous that it can only be read by our busy countrymen partially during its progress. Some are interested in one measure, some in another. Different sections look for the most part to the action of their several representatives—the concerns of one frequently possessing no interest for the rest—and amidst the mass it is difficult for each section, or individual, to get at the special matter most interesting to them. To obviate this, and enable all to get at a glance a general view of the entire proceedings of Congress, and to fix their attention on what suits their particular views, I will publish in future in addition to the Daily Globe and the Congressional Globe and Appendix, A TUESDAY'S CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE, containing a brief of each day's debate on every important subject discussed during the preceeding week; arranging the names of the speakers pro and con., and presenting the points discussed and leading arguments on each side, somewhat in the mode in which forensic briefs are prepared. This paper I will send gratuitously to every subscriber to the Congressional Globe and Appendix; and to those who may consider this summary sufficient without them, the subscription price for this weekly will be two dollars per annum.

This brief synopsis of debates will fill but a small part of the contents of this large weekly sheet. It will contain every important item of foreign and domestic news which can be gleaned from the daily prints during the week, together with that which may be brought by telegraph at the moment of going to press. It will contain, besides, the interesting miscellany which is given in the Daily Globe, and the Washington gossip of the letter writers, extracted from the different newspapers which employ them, whenever they shall be esteemed of such import as to interest the readers of the Globe, and bear such probability on their face as to warrant their insertion.

As this weekly paper will be sent to all the subscribers for the Congressional Globe and Appendix, it will certainly have a more general circulation than any other newspaper in the United States, and will, therefore, invite advertisements from every section of the Union, especially the wholesale merchants in the great cities, which will give it additional interest with business men everywhere.

The Daily Globe will be printed on a double royal sheet, twice a day during the session of Congress—at 11 o'clock, A. M., and 5 o'clock, P. M.; and once a day, at 5 o'clock P. M., during the recesses, at $5 a year for either the morning or evening edition. The evening edition is the one most suitable for subscribers who live out of this city, as it will contain, besides the full proceedings of Congress of the day before published in the morning edition, a full synopsis of those of the day, together with the news by telegraph, and other sources, up to the hour that it is put to press. It will contain, also, all laws and joint resolutions passed by Congress.

The Congressional Globe and Appendix will also be printed on a double royal sheet, in book form, royal quarto size, each number containing sixteen pages. The Congressional Globe will be made up of the proceedings of Congress, and the running debates as taken down by the reporters. The Appendix will contain the Messages of the President of the U. S., the Reports of the Heads of the Executive Departments, such speeches as have been withheld by Members of Congress for revision, and all the laws and joint resolutions passed during the session. A complete index will be made soon after Congress adjourns, and sent to all subscribers for the work. Should any numbers fail to reach subscribers, they will be sent to them, without charge, whenever they advise me what numbers they have not received.—Subscribers should be careful to file all the numbers received, as the complete work will be found to be very valuable to them, and the expense of furnishing missing numbers very expensive to me.

The debates of Congress are now as fully and as faithfully reported in the Congressional Globe, as those of any other legislative body are in this or any other country, and yet they are sold to subscribers for one-sixth of what any other debates are sold for in this country, and one-eleventh of what the debates of the British Parliament are sold for in England, where paper, reporting, type, and type-setting are, each and all, much cheaper than is this country. The liberal subscription by Congress enables me to sell the the debates so low. And Congress, for the purpose of enabling the people to obtain them at as low a rate as they can be afforded, passed the following joint resolution, authorizing them to go free by mail: Joint Resolution providing for the distribution of the Laws of Congress, and the Debates thereon:—With a view to the cheap circulation of the laws of Congress and the debates contributing to the true interpretation thereof, and to make free the communication between the representatives and constituent bodies,

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the present session of Congress, the Congressional Globe and Appendix, which contain the laws and the debates thereon, shall be published by order of Congress: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed to authorize the circulation of the Daily Globe free of postage. Approved, August 6, 1852.

Tuesday's Congressional Globe will be pulished every Tuesday, and contain all that is premised. It will be commenced on a double royal sheet, but if that shall be found not to be large enough to contain all the matter then the sheet will be enlarged.

TERMS: For 1 copy of Congressional Globe, 1 yr, $5.00
When taken for a less time, the price will be fifty cents a month. For the Congressional Globe and Appendix during the coming session, - $8.00
Where bank notes under $5 are prohibited by law, or cannot be readily obtained, I will send 2 copies for $5, 3 for $10, and so on at that rate.
For Tuesday's Congressional Globe, 1 year, - $2.00

INDUCEMENTS.

I.—The choice of two of the following musical portraits, engraved on steel, neatly mailed on a roller, designed as the commencement of a Gallery of Musical Portraits, to be hung around every family piano.

1. BENEDETTO SONTAG.	5. LISZT.
2. BEETHOVEN.	6. SCHUMANN.
3. WEBER.	7. SCHUBERT.
4. MENDELSSOHN.	8. WALLACE.

Of these portraits, that of the lamented Madame Sontag is surpassingly fine and particularly to be commended. Each subscriber on mailing his subscription will please to state what two portraits he chooses. To club subscribers, and to all persons not sending their subscriptions directly to this office but subscribing through agents, we can only afford (from the great reduction of terms) to give the choice of but one portrait.

II.—FRESH MUSIC—four pages every week—which can be detached from the reading matter, is paged separately and can be bound at the end of the volume, forming a choice miscellaneous collection of pieces for one, two, three and four voices; polkas, mazurkas, waltzes; music for the guitar, flute, violin, harp; music for young people; sacred music, for voice, melodeon and organ. This music alone, costs the proprietor annually $1,700; and is worth to every subscriber at least $12.00; setting aside the advantage of its variety and its superiority as the very pick of all the new music published.

III.—INSTRUCTIVE MUSICAL READING; embracing a weekly-condensed budget of news from all parts of the world; musical stories, biographies, etc; musical essays; criticisms.

IV.—ENTERTAINING GENERAL READING; comprising original translations from the French and German; selections from new books and periodicals; also interesting original contributions.

The Musical World is delivered without extra charge to New York and Brooklyn subscribers.

Any persons sending us a club of five subscribers shall receive a copy of the paper for a year and his choice of one of the above engravings.

All new subscriptions will be entered for the first of January, 1855, but the portraits now ready will be sent immediately to those first subscribing.

Any of our old subscribers whose year does not expire till after the first of January, 1855, can also have their choice of two of these portraits by sending us their subscription a year in advance of such expiration.
