STOCK MARKET WEAK AND DULL

Illness of E. H. Harriman Has a Depressing Effect.

BANK STATEMENT WAS POOR

LOW RECORD PRICES FOR THE YEAR FOR SOME STOCKS.

New York, May 16.—The illness of E. H. Harriman made itself felt in today's stock market, and this was supplemented by the showing made by the banks, which was interpreted as poor by the trading element. The weakness of Southern Pacific was directly traceable to the condition of the health of the president of the company. The stock declined an extreme 1¼, touching a new low level for the year. This weakness had some smypathetic effect elsewhere in the market. St. Paul and New York Central also made low record prices for the year. A light demand from the bears to cover shorts made an impression just at the close, which was in consequence steady. The nominal increase in the cash item of the banks was as much as was expected. The fact that today's gold export of $1,250,000 to South America was withdrawn only yesterday and so figured for only one day in the weekly averages, upon which the bank statements are computed, left the probability that some effect of the transaction would be thrown over into next week's showing. The increase in loans was generally regarded as reflecting the further transfer of obligations from foreign to domestic lenders. During the money stringency of last fall the recall of over-extended credits was an important factor in upsetting the money market. The tendency to cut down these foreign credits now is viewed with satisfaction in financial circles. But the professional sentiment on the stock exchange confined itself to the bare showing of the statement with its consequent inroad upon the reserve. Today's London discount market showed a hardening tendency resulting from the paying off of the market's heavy obligation to the Bank of England and the bank lost over a million dollars in gold withdrawn for export to South America. This increases the likelihood of further gold exports from New York next week.

Resume of the Past Week.

The current of prices of stocks has shifted constantly within a narrow range during the whole of the week, but the market has gravitated toward a lower level. There is an occasional spilling out of long stock by tired holders, grown disgusted with the long lethargy of the market. Professional traders, who do the bulk of the business, show as much hesitation in the extending of their commitments on one side as on the other. The whole attitude of the speculation is a waiting one, and it is not generally clear what is awaited. One after another of the causes assigned for the hesitation are cleared up without relieving the market of the restraint upon it. Money continues seasonably easy and there is no apparent bar to the use of credits in speculation, but speculation still halts. It is evident, however, that the nominal ease of money must be considered in connection with the tone of interviews between would-be borrower and lender in bank parlors.

Bankers Out of the Market.

The directors of banks and the large financial powers, which are the controlling factor in the banks as well as in the great railroad systems of the country, seek to discourage all undue expansion of credits for taking on holdings of stock for speculative purposes and they are themselves conspicuously out of the market. Great organized movements in the stock market, backed by the concentrated holdings of capital and based on intimate knowledge of the working out of the deals and combinations, are entirely lacking at present. The great bull markets of the last few years were largely the result of much organized movements. Those who conducted them are convinced of the wisdom at present of refraining from them. A large dealer in securities described the situation by saying that when he seeks to market a block of securities he finds it necessary to mark the large price concessions in order to find a buyer; but in many cases he finds himself unable to execute a buying order without bidding up the price considerably beyond the present range.

Awaiting Lower Level.

Effective demand for stocks awaits a clearly lower level of prices, while strong holders of securities are unwilling to part with them at going prices. Besides the disinclination of the banks to encourage speculative activity, it is a noticeable feature of the money market that abundant funds are offered for short time fixed periods, while all of the eagerness shown by borrowers is for loans carrying over the end of the year, for which very small amounts are offering. Claims are made in the name of western bankers that the present large loans of western banks are in part in eastern money markets and are to mature in the fall periods when the largest demands for funds to move the crops are expected. It is argued that this will leave them in good position to supply needs for moving crops without calling on their eastern correspondents' banks for funds. But the experience of last fall proved that the withdrawing of eastern loans placed directly by western banks threw demands for renewals upon the eastern banks which were fully equivalent to the usual withdrawals of deposits from Wall street banks. The course of foreign money markets following the flotation of the $150,000,000 Transvaal loan is not yet clearly defined. That it is evident that the week's enormous loan expansion of the Bank of England was due to the fact that its credits were largely relied upon by the subscribers to the loan.

London Money Market.

With the allotments of the loan and the return to subscribers of oversubscriptions the money market in London is relaxing, as expected, but very large payments to the Bank of England remain to be paid and continental exchanges are turning against London, so that the bank retains its 4 per cent discount rate. Whether a large outward movement of gold from New York is to follow this week's outgo is a question awaited with interest. The reduction in the country's favorable trade balance for April, in spite of last year's extraordinary shortage of corn exports, with which it compares, goes to explain the shortage of exchange and its insufficiency to meet requirements as expected for maturing debts to foreigners. The light export demand for cotton, owing to the high price resulting from the furious cotton speculation, adds to the perplexity of the exchange situation. The belated completion of the Rock Island absorption of the St. Louis & San Francisco, with its accompanying issue of new Rock Island stock and collateral bonds, calls attention to the fact that various suspended projects overhanging the situation, which may be announced upon any relaxation in the money market. The offer on behalf of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy to extend for two years the maturity of a $20,000,000 bond issue is regarded as significant for the inopportuneness for the right time for large financial transactions.

Influence of Labor.

Decided influence upon speculative opinion has been caused by the labor question, and has been a subject of much discussion. The weakness of the iron market has been a depressing factor, in spite of all expressions of confidence by authorities in the trade of a continuance of prosperous conditions. The unprecedented rate of production without preventing a decline in the stocks on hand and the large requirements uncovered by reason of contracts for delivery of finished products fail to reassure sentiment in face of the declining course of pig iron markets. News of the wheat crop is considered satisfactory, but the delays in the planting of the corn crop add to the causes of dissatisfaction in the prevailing mood of depression in the stock market. Reports of falling off in traffic in western railroads, of accumulation of car supply and the going into effect of the reduced rates on grain between Chicago and New York are cited as additional grounds for doubt over the future of values.

There has been an irregular movement of bond prices and only a moderate volume of business, but the increased variety in the dealings has indicated a search for investments. United States 2s declined ¼ per cent, compared with the closing tone last week.

The Bank Statement.

New York, May 16.—The statement of averages of the clearing house banks of this city for the week shows:

Loans, $928,939,200; increase, $5,859,000.
Deposits, $920,837,500; increase, $5,000,000.
Circulation, $44,269,300; increase, $321,000.
Legal tenders, $70,445,100; increase, $598,300.
Specie, $168,756,400; decrease, $295,300.
Reserve, $239,208,500; increase, $213,000.
Reserve required, $230,208,875; increase, $1,250,200.
Surplus, $8,992,625; decrease, $1,037,200.
Ex. United States deposits, $18,305,735; decrease, $1,026,300.

The Financier says: "The striking feature of the official statement of the New York associated banks last week was the slight change in the condition of the cash reserve, this being increased only by the net amount of $203,000, whereas the estimates based upon the traceable movements of money during the week indicated a considerably greater gain. The discrepancy between the actual and the estimated gain may have been due in part to withdrawals of cash by non-seceding trust companies or those which intend to conform to the clearing house regulations as regards reserve. The loans were increased $5,895,900, probably reflecting syndicate borrowing and also the negotiation in this city of loans which have hitherto been carried in Europe but which has recently been paid off. The deposits were increased $5,000,000, or less by $1,071,200 than the amount called for by the augmented loans and the increase in cash. Chiefly, the statement was technically out of proof.

The required reserve was increased $1,250,200, through the gain in deposits, and deducting from this sum the net increase in cash leaves $1,037,200 as the decrease in surplus reserve. This item now stands at $8,992,625. Computed upon the basis of deposits, less those of $37,282,400 of public funds, the surplus is $18,305,725. There was an increase of $321,000 in circulation during the week, making a gain of $683,900 in this item within a fortnight, indicating that the banks are gradually preparing for the greater activity in the money market which, it is expected, will be developed in the fall season. The daily average of bank clearings last week was $213,000,000, which, as well as the total clearings, almost exactly compared with the figures of the previous week, indicating the prolonged inactivity in the stock market. The statement was made upon declining averages for cash, there having been a withdrawal on Friday, the last day of the bank week, of $1,250,000 gold for shipment to South America; therefore the condition of the banks in this respect was doubtless less favorable than was indicated by the statement. But the inquiry for money is so small that it is probable that reduced reserves, unless they shall be materially diminished, will not have much influence upon rates for money.

Comparisons of loans show that seven of the larger banks gained $5,100,000 net, or nearly the whole of the increases reported by all of the banks in the association; one institution reduced its loans by $4,600,000, while two increased this item $3,000,000 each. The changes in specie shown by five banks resulted in a net gain of $1,200,000.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, May 16.—Bullish crop reports gave strength to the wheat market today and closing prices were near the top figures of the day, July being up ⅝@¾. July corn was off ⅛@¼, oats were ⅛@¼c higher with September provisions from 2½ to 5 cents lower.

Favorable weather caused an easier tone in wheat at the start, July being unchanged to ⅛c lower at 72¾@72⅞, and the early transactions were at some decline, July selling off to 72⅝@72¾. Reports of damage to the crop in the southwest were again in evidence and with outside markets higher and good buying orders from St. Louis and the northwest the market became strong. Foreign advices were bullish and under these conditions shorts turned active buyers, advancing the price materially, July selling up to 73⅝. The selling was scattered and principally by scalpers with profits. July closed with a gain of ⅝@¾ at 73½@73⅝. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 918,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 216,000 bushels, against 285,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 104 cars, which, with local receipts of fifty-three cars, two of contract grade, made total receipts for the three points of 157 cars, against 178 cars last week and 112 cars a year ago.

Corn ruled dull and easy, the favorable weather being the main factor in the situation. There was rather free selling by receiving houses against country acceptances and the buying was scattered, but mostly by shorts with profits. The strength in wheat was a bull factor late in the day, and caused a steady tone at the close, July being ⅜@½c lower at 44⅝@44¾, after selling between 44⅝ and 45@45¼. Local receipts were 255 cars, twenty-three of contract grade.

Trading in oats was rather light, but the market ruled firm the greater part of the day, the bullish crop advices being the main stimulating influence. The close was steady, with July ⅛@¼c higher at 33½@33¾, after ranging between 32⅞ and 33¼. Local receipts were 115 cars.

Trading in provisions was dull and prices had a downward tendency after a steady opening. The close was easier with September pork 2½ cents lower at 16.32½. September lard was off 5 cents at 9.85 and ribs down 5 cents at 9.17½.
