NEW MOB TO LYNCH NEGRO IN NEW JERSEY

Enraged by the Removal of Thomas Jones, Identified as One of Mrs. Biddle's Assailants, They Threaten to March to Mount Holly and Hang Him.

Victim Taken to Court to Look at Two Prisoners Caught Last Night, and Recognizes One, Declaring the Other Was Not Concerned in Attack.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BURLINGTON, N. J., July 6.—More than 1,000 men formed into an armed mob here this afternoon and declared that they would go to the Mount Holly jail to-night and lynch Thomas Jones, the negro who has been positively identified as one of the three assailants of Mrs. Charles Biddle.

To avoid an attack on the jail here the negro after his identification had been hurriedly moved to Mount Holly. When this fact became known the mob began forming at once.

Every man in this mob is armed and they are making no efforts to conceal their identity. They declare to a man that the negro will be lynched before morning, no matter what the cost.

Just before the hearing began, when Mrs. Biddle identified Jones, word was received from Councilman Decker that Aaron Timbers, supposed to be the third of Mrs. Biddle's assailants, had been seen by a boy hiding in the factory woods about three miles east of the town. Company A, Third Regiment, N. J. N. G., started at once for the place, and with them went half the town. All were heavily armed.

As the posse reached the woods a negro, who is declared to have been Timbers, broke away. Many shots were fired, but apparently without effect. There is little doubt that in the temper the crowd now is in that, if caught, Timbers will be lynched, as he is regarded as the leader of Mrs. Biddle's assailants.

CROWD CARRIES ROPES.

The crowd carried ropes and declared that they will use them. It is doubtful if the militia would interfere as they sympathize with their townspeople. Biddle himself is with the crowd and will be made executioner if the man is caught.

So thoroughly is the whole country aroused it is declared that Timbers cannot long elude capture. Alexander Campbell, one of the townsmen, is the man who was nearest to Timbers when he escaped from the woods. So close was he that Campbell grasped him by the shoulder, but the negro escaped. Campbell was unarmed, and when his shouts brought the posse it was too late. The shoe factory here is closed, stores have suspended business and almost the entire population is joining in the search.

Charles Biddle told an Evening World reporter to-day that his sole desire now is to lay hands on Aaron Timbers.

"I'll tear him to pieces if I can get hold of him," he said. "The law is

HERMIS BEATS BELDAME AND THEN PULLS UP LAME

Test Handicap Costly to Thomas Horse and May Keep Him Out of the Brighton Handicap to Be Run on Saturday.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BRIGHTON BEACH, July 6.—Hermis beat Beldame in the Test Handicap at Brighton this afternoon and equalled the mile record of 1.38 made by Voter, in 1900. From the true standpoint it was a better performance than that of Voter for Hermis carried 133 pounds, while Voter only carried 122.

The race was a costly one for Hermis however, for he pulled up lame and may not be able to start in the Brighton Handicap on Saturday.

Hermis was an equal favorite with Beldame. He was lucky enough to beat the gate about a length, and he beat Beldame that margin at the end. Of the two Beldame was going strongest at the end, but that was probably because Hermis's leg was burning and he was willing to stop.

Tongorder beat Waterside again in the Montauk Stakes, but it was a close finish. Tongorder was the choice, and he was away well, while Waterside was away last. Waterside made up a lot of ground and came at Tongorder so strong in the final furlong that Lyne nearly threw the race away in his anxious effort to win. He had eased Tongorder and barely had time to get him going.

Reliable came to life again in the opening dash with one of his good races and won a big bet for some of the smart people. The weather was fine, the track very fast and the attendance good.

Reliable Has His Speed.

Liberia was the favorite in the opening event and was well played. Reliable was backed after he had gone to 5 to 1, and Honiton also had some following. Reliable went to the front at the start, made all the running and won in a hard drive from Honiton, who was second all the way. Missing Link had speed and was third to the stretch, but there Auditor passed her and coming strong was only beaten a length for the place.

Fulminate's Steeplechase.

Fulminate was the one that carried the money in the steeplechase, and, as usual in these races, the favorite won. He galloped in front all the way and won easily by five lengths from Black Death, who beat Conover three lengths for the place. Conover had none of his usual speed to-day.

Tongorder Wins by a Neck.

Tongorder was strongly backed in the third. Waterside was the second choice and it looked strictly a two-horse race. Tongorder jumped away in front and made the pace, followed by Bill Bailey II., Pasadena and Buttling. They ran this way to the far turn, where O'Neill, on Waterside, made up his mind to come on. Waterside then made up ground very fast, running into the stretch a length and a half behind Pasadena, who was the same distance behind Tongorder. Lyne, on the latter, started to close up when Waterside came at him with a rush, and Lyne had to ride hard to win by a neck. Waterside was a length and a half in front of Pasadena.

Hermis Beats Beldame.

Beldame and Hermis went to the post equal favorites in the Test Handicap, with the third choice, Dainty quoted at 10 to 1. The gate rose to a start which gave Hermis a slight advantage, and he at once took the rail followed by Beldame and Dick Bernard. Hermis made the running to the backstretch, with Dick Bernard second and Beldame next. In the run to the turn Beldame took second place and laid within a length and a half of Hermis to the stretch, the latter going easily. Just after they turned into the stretch, Hermis seemed to falter and swerved a bit, and Redfern as once went at him. He was game, and though the mare was closing at the end Hermis won in a hard drive by a length. Dainty was third four lengths away. Hermis came back to the stand slightly lame. That was probably the cause of his faltering in the stretch.

Hot Favorite Knocked Down.

Palmbearer was a red hot favorite in the fifth race, but the best he could do was third. Glisten, who has not had speed enough to keep warm in his recent races, went to the front at the start and stayed there to the end, beating Palm Reader a neck in clever fashion. Palm Reader was a length and a half in front of Palmbearer.

Dandelion All the Way.

Dandelion went to the front soon after the start, made all the running, and won easily by two and one-half lengths from Broadcloth, who was a length and a half in front of Dreamer. The latter finished strong from a bad break.

THE WINNERS.

FIRST RACE—Reliable (16 to 5) 1, Honiton (16 to 5) 2, Auditor 3.

SECOND RACE—Fulminate (8 to 5), 1; Black Death (13 to 5), 2; Conover 3.

THIRD RACE—Tongorder (9 to 10) 1, Waterside (2 to 1) 2, Pasadena 3.

FOURTH RACE—Hermis (13 to 10) 1, Beldame (7 to 5) 2, Dainty 3.

CHEER CLEVELAND, BUT VOTES WILL GO TO JUDGE PARKER

Remarkable Demonstration in St. Louis Follows the Mention of ex-President's Name by John Sharp Williams in His Speech as Temporary Chairman.

HIS MENTION OF BRYAN BROUGHT FEW CHEERS.

Tammany Delegates Were Conspicuous in Cleveland Demonstration, but It Is Announced that They Will Formally Declare for Parker.

BY MARTIN GREEN.

(Special to The Evening World.)

CONVENTION HALL, ST. LOUIS, July 6.—Mention of the name of Grover Cleveland by John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, early in his speech as temporary chairman of the Democratic National Convention created a remarkable demonstration lasting nearly eight minutes. The Tammany and New Jersey delegates, occupying seats close together, started the cheering, and in a few seconds the whole convention was on its feet. In spite of the demonstration Judge Parker will be nominated.

The demonstration surprised the convention managers, and every effort was made to secure quiet. Nevertheless there was a period of about ten minutes when the speech of the temporary chairman could not be heard, which is pretty good for a convention only a little more than an hour old.

CLEVELAND CHEERS BEGIN.

Mr. Williams's speech had been flowing along placidly, arousing occasional bursts of applause, when he remarked: "It is base effrontery on the part of the Republican party at this day to try to steal the thunder of Grover Cleveland."

The effect was electrical. Quick-witted Tammany saw its chance, and out of the Tammany delegation arose a whoop that startled the thousands banked in the tiers of seats. Senator Tom Grady climbed up on his chair, waved his fan and projected his stentorian voice in every direction.

The New Jersey delegates mounted chairs and started the old "Grover, four years more of Grover" refrain, which was taken up in many parts of the hall.

Mr. Williams looked in seeming amazement at the scene before him, the thousands cheering and waving fans and flags. Then he took advantage of the opportunity to take a "dry smoke" by inserting a long, freckled cigar between his teeth and holding it there until the assembly allowed him to resume his argument.

ROW OVER BROOKLYN MAN.

After the cheering had continued about four minutes there was a momentary lull, and "Tim" Murphy, of Brooklyn, jumped into the limelight and out of the convention simultaneously. Murphy is an assistant sergeant-at-arms, detailed to the delegates' section, and when the cheering died down he took up a conspicuous position and began waving his fan and leading with cheers in an endeavor to raise the galleries.

The attempt was partly successful. The volume of sound increased again to a great roar, and Murphy was having the time of his life when John I. Martin, Sergeant-at-Arms, leaped from the platform and ran down the aisle.

Col. Martin was followed by Capt. O'Malley, of the St. Louis police, and between them they gave Mr. Murphy the quickest rush he ever expected, and when he came to he was in a long passageway under the platform on his way to the street, and they would not let him back until he promised to make no more attempts to stampede the convention for Cleveland. The excitement surrounding the eviction of Murphy kept the cheering alive a couple of minutes, and then, when it was dying, the Hearst boomers tried to divert it to their candidate, with no measure of success whatever.

TAMMANY TAKES A FLOP.

The Tammany delegates to the convention agreed to formally withdraw all their opposition to Parker. This action will be taken at a caucus to be held after the adjournment of the convention this afternoon.

The hall filled slowly before the convention was called to order. The air was so humid in the streets that persons desiring to attend the convention figured that it would probably be almost unbearable and the fear was justified. In order that by no possible chance should the convention be cool the hall was literally swathed in bunting, red, white and blue and yellow. The yellow bunting covered the entire roof, cutting off the skylights. Depending from the yellow cloth were rows and rows of white lace ruffles, bringing to New Yorkers remembrances of the "Flatiron" corner on a windy day.

CONFUSION ALL OVER HALL.

Despite the elaborate arrangements that had been made for seating the delegates and correspondents, there was confusion confounded all over the Coliseum. Representative Hitchcock, who had charge of the distribution of press tickets, succeeded in making hash out of the plans. Such distinguished authors as Lincoln J. Steffens, Norman Hapgood, William Allen White and Mr. Dooley Dunn found themselves unseated, their places being occupied by perspiring men making laborous efforts to appear as though they were reporters.

Outside of this confusion the convention arrangements were excellent. The Coliseum is a circular auditorium about the size of Madison Square Garden. The platform is on the arena level on the west side. Back of the chairman are the seats on the platform for the distinguished guests. The delegates are directly in front of the platform in a fan-shaped inclosure.

The standards denoting the locations of the different delegations are made of iron hollow pipe surmounted by circular wooden signs painted in red, white and blue. These standards look like semaphore signals in a railroad yard, and while they are supposed to be firmly clamped to the floor in
