CIVIL WAR VETERAN

WOULD AID FRIEND

Says Tanlac Did Him So Much Good He Wants To Give Every Old Soldier A Bottle.

"I wish I could buy every old soldier a bottle of Tanlac, for from the way it has fixed me up I believe it would add years to their lives," said Frank B. Kendrick, a Civil War veteran living at 4800 Charlotte avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

"Some time back," he continued, "I had rheumatism so bad, and went down so fast, that it looked like I was on the verge of a general breakdown and had about despaired of ever walking again. I was fast losing what little flesh and strength I had left and could hardly get from my bed to my chair. I had no appetite, could hardly sleep and suffered constantly with headaches.

"After taking Tanlac a short while I began to improve. I kept it up till I have gained thirteen pounds and feel better and younger than I have in years. Tanlac just filled me with new life and energy and put me on my feet again. I have a fine appetite and can walk anywhere I want to go and hardly feel it at all."

Tanlac is sold in Dakota City by Neiswanger Pharmacy, in South Sioux City by Shanes Pharmacy, and in Homer by Wagner Pharmacy.

The State Railway commission, in its bulletin for April, publishes the following order made in reference to the bridge matter at Homer, which has been before the commission for some time: "The commission entered an order on March 31, requiring the Burlington railroad to make safe the crossing on the main highway into the town of Homer, Dakota county, over its tracks as they enter that town. This includes the construction of a bridge. In strengthening its roadbed, the Burlington removed the bridge over a small creek on its right-of-way and dug a new channel for the stream. It recognized its liability for the construction of a bridge. Several hearings were held before the commission in which the town of Homer and the county of Dakota took active parts. One of the questions to be determined was whether the bridge should remain in the same locality as formerly. The order entered requires that a suitable, adequate, and standard bridge shall be constructed on a level with the rails inasmuch as the bridge formed the only approach to the crossing. The commission leaves undecided the question of division of expense between the county and the railroad company for the replacement of an old bridge by a new one of much greater strength. The railroad insisted that its liability merely extended to the replacement of a bridge of the same strength as that which they removed."

There has been considerable controversy here among the patrons of the Omaha road as to the fare between this place and Sioux City. FARM BUREAU NOTES

C. R. Young, County Agent

The co-operative elevator organization meeting held in the court room last Thursday afternoon was a success in every way. The attendance was good considering that this is a busy season, and that farmers were just getting back to the fields after a long delay by rains. A total of $20,400.00 had been pledged for the starting of the corporation. The constitution and by-laws were adopted. A board of seven directors was elected composed of Wm. Berger, president; E. H. Gribble, vice president; M. G. Leamer, treasurer; Chas. Bliven, C. E. Armbricht, Hugh Graham and Wm. P. Warner. Elmer H. Biermann was chosen secretary.

Blackleg in cattle appeared during the past week in the herd of Roy Armour, in Hubbard precinct. Three herds were vaccinated against the disease.

Don't forget the pocket gopher meetings this week. See last week's notes for the dates and meeting places.

We have written several firms for prices on binder twine. If it seems best, an order will be placed. We will be glad to hear from farmers relative to this matter.

Lutheran Church Notes

By Rev. C. R. Lowe.
The Ladies Aid met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Chas. Blessing.

The following are some excerpts taken from a paper which was read before a conference of the presidents of the synods of the United Lutheran church at New York, by Dr. Yerman, our synodical president. The whole paper was interesting to me and I know it will be to you who read this column, so I present it to you:

"The synod covers 76,840 square miles, and the state has a Lutheran population of 64,221 in the church, and it is conservatively estimated there are as many more confirmed Lutherans who are not directly connected with the church, having been confirmed in some other state or country. Largely on account of the lack of pastoral care, as yet in their new home, they are out of the church. In 1908 the Nebraska synod had 4,273 confirmed members, and in 1918 there were 8,969, more than doubling the number in a decade. These confirmed members are in connection with the church.

"We have employed a synodical missionary for about seven years. This has been a great help in the establishment of new work and also in helping the pastorless congregations. Our synod has stood well nigh at the top of the synods of the general synod in benevolent work, and sometimes at the top.

Nebraska is thought of by many as way out west, but we are not half way to the Pacific. Our geographical and Lutheran location puts us well in the center of things.

"In the plan of the program (of the presidents' conference) we have these words, 'The United Lutheran church possesses strong representations along the Atlantic coast and then stretches westward. There are however, three districts which ought to have special attention, Canada, the Pacific coast and the south. We could not but help but notice that the geographical hub of the Lutheran church in the United States does not gain any attention. And yet Nebraska alone has as many Lutherans in the church as has entire Canada. Nebraska alone has more Lutherans in the church than was contained in the entire synod of the south. Nebraska alone has four times as many Lutherans in the church as California. Nebraska alone has 17,605 more Lutherans than has California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Utah combined. Nebraska with her large Lutheran population has not one-fifth as many Lutherans in the church as has another state in the hub of Lutheranism, in the United States.

"We may also say that the fertile valleys of the Mississippi and the Missouri have brought a general class of people than does the mining or manufacturing districts, or even a great commercial center. It is well worth while to lay emphasis upon the high character and intelligence of the people who have settled in this great center of our country, settled not to move again, but to rear their families and to establish succeeding generations.

"Or let us take another view point. Taking the western boundary of Indiana as a dividing line running north and south, and placing Michigan in the western division since that state is in both sections. We find that the eastern division has a Lutheran population of 947,716 and the western division has 1,370,499 or 422,783 more in the west than in the east. In round numbers we may say the east has 1,000,000 and the west 1,500,000, or the west one half more than the east. These figures have dealt only with Lutherans in the church. We may conservatively estimate that the western division having 1,500,000 in the church, has as many Lutherans out of the church. It is questionable whether the 1,000,000 Lutherans in the east have as many more Lutherans out of the church. Also the Lutheran church has a real as direct as any other denomination to make Christians out of the many thousands not reared in any church.

"The financial exhibit of the National Lutheran Commission in the drive for soldier and sailors welfare bears witness in the same direction. The west division raised $847,357, the east division $506,632, excess in the west $340,725.

"Brethren, I am pleading that the states forming the hub of Lutheranism be not overlooked."
