BRODIE DUKE'S CASE GOES OVER

Inquiry Into His Sanity Postponed for a Week by Consent—Mrs. Duke in Court to Watch Proceedings.

Mrs. Brodie L. Duke came down to the offices of her lawyers, Levy & Unger, to-day and then went to the Supreme Court.

Justice Leventritt was scheduled to hear argument on the application of Nicoll, Anable & Lindsay in behalf of Duke's brothers for the appointment of a commission to inquire before a sheriff's jury into Brodie L. Duke's sanity.

There were lawyers by the dozen in the case, but when it was called Mr. Sullivan, of the moving counsel, announced that he and L. S. Phillips, counsel for Duke, had agreed upon an adjournment for a week, and Henry W. Unger, counsel for Mrs. Duke, assented.

It is contended by Duke's and Mrs. Duke's counsel that the question of Duke's sanity has already been decided by Justice Gaynor in Brooklyn when he ordered Duke's discharge from a sanitarium to which he had been committed as a lunatic.

Duke's family contend that Justice Gaynor merely decided that Duke had not been properly committed, inasmuch as no lunatico inquirendo had been had. They are asking for a lunatico inquirendo as a preliminary to having a committee appointed to take charge of Duke and his estate.
