GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, Sept. 18.—Seven races were down for decision for the racegoers this afternoon, but the weather kept the attendance down to a very low number. It was, in fact, the lightest of the meeting and scarcely a third of the benches in the grand stand were occupied.

The rain made a mud hole out of the track and only the horses with a foundering for that sort of going were sent to the post. The result was that smaller [illegible] than any [illegible] Rosebud Throughout.

[illegible] went to the front in the first race with Valagai, and they raced in close order to the turn, where Confederate joined them. Confederate did not win, but went right on to the lead and stayed there to the end, won easily by three lengths from Arklirta, which beat Devil Tree a length and a half for the place.

'Chabe a Lively Finish.

In the steeplechase Bonfire made the running, with Black Death following. Maiden and Calcorahatchee. This [illegible] prevailed for a mile and a half, [illegible] Calcorahatchee [illegible] and in [illegible] won by [illegible] Bonfire, which [illegible]

[illegible] Rosebud [illegible] Schulamite [illegible] Nannie Hodge [illegible] Rosebud [illegible] Nannie Hodge ran her race.

[illegible] Speculation Stakes, for three-year-olds and upward, $1,000 added, mile and a sixteenth. Right Royal [illegible] Judge Himes [illegible] Ocean Tide [illegible] Uncle Urish [illegible] Oro [illegible] Arsenal [illegible] Start good. Won driving. Time—1.49. Winner, blk. c., by Rapallo—Mrs Delaney. Owner, H. L. Hayman.

Right Royal stood a long, hard drive gamely. Judge Himes closed a lot of ground and should have won. Ocean Tide had lots of speed for seven furlongs.

FIFTH RACE—Handicap; for fillies; one mile and a sixteenth.

NATIONAL LEAGUE BALL GROUNDS, BOSTON, Sept. 18.—After being fearfully drubbed by a score of 9 to 2 in the first game of a double-header here, Hanlon's tail-end Brooklyn outfit went at the second half of the function to show 2,500 persons they deserved a better fate.

Boston fans saw chances of finishing last in the pennant race fade without regret as were only too willing to let Brooklyn clinch that dubious honor by losing once more.

Capt. Tenney, taking heart from an onslaught on Strickett, Hanlon's choicest twirler, threw out his chest and yelled greetings to the heated batting streak which he believed had arrived.

First Inning.

Dobbs opened the second game with a grounder to Tenney. Willis found Sheckard and his first victim. Lumley singled to right. Raymer and Tenney replayed Yale. NO RUNS.

TWO DAYS OF TORTURE FOR SLAIN GIRL

Bronx Mystery Victim Was Helpless in Woods 48 Hours After Assault.

ASSAILANT CAME BACK.

Found Her Still Alive Then and Strangled Her with Hand on Face.

MAN WANTED FOR BRONX MURDER

JOSEPH GERARD, fugitive, wanted for the murder of Augusta Pfeiffer:

Age—Thirty-two years.

Height—About 5 feet 9 inches.

Weight—160 pounds.

Complexion, hair, eyes and mustache dark.

Has probably shaved off mustache.

Wore dark clothing.

Native of Nashua, N. H., and talks with slight Yankee twang.

Probably without funds.

Watch freight trains in yards and outgoing vessels.

Following closely upon the identification of the victim of the "Haunted Oak" mystery in the Bronx, as Augusta Pfeiffer, came a clue that points to Joseph Gerard, a truckman, missing since last Thursday, as the murderer. A general alarm has been sent out for him.

Gerard lived close to the spot in the woods alongside Pelham Road, where the body was found. He is known to have been in that vicinity on Wednesday night when the murdered girl was about there. On Thursday morning he left his boarding-house and his landlady found in his room a pile of blood-stained clothing.

Not Killed Outright.

From what has been learned of her movements on Wednesday evening the police have pieced together the theory of her murder, but there are points that remain to be cleared up. Undoubtedly the girl was attacked on Wednesday night in the woods near the Haunted Oak, but the autopsy revealed that she did not die until about fifteen or eighteen hours before the body was found on Saturday afternoon. Coroner O'Gorman to-day furnished an explanation for this discrepancy.

"I do not believe the girl was killed outright," he said. "I think she was rendered unconscious and the brute who attacked her dragged her body

ENGINEER LEFT AFTER CRASH IN CENTRAL TUNNEL

Police Captain Ordered His Arrest for the Injury of Thirteen Persons, but Company Allowed Him to Go to Boston with Train.

SOME OF THE INJURED.

COWDRY, E. G., General Manager of the Laclede Gas Light Company, of St. Louis; contusions of head and body.

COWDRY, LOUISE, of St. Louis; contusions.

HODGEKIN, W. H., of Boston; contusions of the right leg. Treated by Dr. B. Wills, of No. 34 West Forty-fifth street.

HEINS, Mrs. T. S., of No. 336 West Twenty-first street, dislocated shoulder and shock.

KLINK, Mrs., of Springfield, Mass., lacerated arm and head.

WHITE, MRS. E. W., of No. 225 West Eighty-second street, scalp wound and contusions of the head. Taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Capt. Lantry, of the East Fifty-first street station issued orders this afternoon for the arrest of Samuel Reed, the engineer of the Boston Express, which left the Grand Central Station at noon and was wrecked in the Park avenue tunnel at Fifty-sixth street to the injury of thirteen passengers. The accident was due to one of the parlor cars in the train jumping a switch and crashing into a pillar supporting the tunnel roof.

Policemen went after Reed, but found that he had taken his train out after the wreck was cleared away. His home is in New Haven. The officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford road say that Reed was not to blame inasmuch as he obeyed the signals and the car did not jump the track until more than half the train had passed over the switch.

Near Scene of Former Wreck.

The wreck occurred within a few yards of the disastrous Park avenue tunnel wreck of three years ago, and, curiously enough, that wreck was indirectly the cause of the accident this afternoon. The wreck of 1902 made necessary the extensive improvements in the terminal facilities of the New York Central and New York, New Haven & Hartford roads. A switch at the tunnel entrance, placed a short time ago in the course of improvements, was what threw the car from the track to-day.

The railroad people took extraordinary precautions to keep the details of to-day's wreck secret. Actuated by the orders of a New York Central official, a policeman of the East Fifty-first Street Station, whose name is said to be Pfeiffer and whose badge number is 4,190, established himself as guard over the tunnel at Fifty-sixth street and refused to allow ambulance surgeons from Bellevue Hospital to climb down to the wrecked car to care for the injured. He refused to recognize the police cards issued to newspaper reporters by Police Commissioner McAdoo, on the ground that the accident was on private property of the New York Central Railroad.

Victims Hurried Away.

As soon as possible after the wreck a train was made up at the Grand Central station, run up to Fifty-sixth street and the passengers and injured were transferred back to Forty-second street. Those who were slightly injured were hustled away by servants of the railroad companies and placed on trains for their destinations. The injured who required immediate surgical attendance were treated by Dr. B. Wells, of No. 34 West Forty-fifth street, who had been summoned by the railroad authorities. One of the passengers was sent to Bellevue Hospital for treatment and taken home from there in a cab furnished by the New York, New Haven & Hartford road.

The noon express is one of the fast trains to Boston. It was made up to-day of the locomotive, in charge of Engineer Sam Reed, of New Haven; two express cars, two day coaches and five chair cars. One of the coaches was just behind the express cars. Then came the five chair cars and at the end of the train was the other day coach. Every car was filled to the seating capacity.

FUSION MEN CONFER OVER CANDIDATE

Message from Justice Gaynor Received, but Not Made Public.

The Fusion Conference Committee, which is to select a man to head the anti-Tammany ticket, met at the Fifth Avenue Hotel this afternoon, there being representatives of the Republican party, the Municipal Ownership League and the German-Americans, of Brooklyn, present. It was said several Citizens' Union men also joined the conference, but if so, they were present as individuals, the Citizens' Union, as a body, having formally withdrawn from all fusion affairs.

The atmosphere around the hotel was pregnant with rumors that Supreme Court Justice William J. Gaynor, of Brooklyn, had sent over a message absolutely declining to run for Mayor. At the same time in Brooklyn the belief was firm, especially among the associates of Justice Gaynor on the bench, that he would take the nomination.

Justice Gaynor, who was sitting in Special Term, made but one statement during the day. He said then that if he had what had been said to him on the subject of a Mayoralty nomination he would be repeating private conversations, and that he did not propose to do. More than this he would not say, but that he sent a communication to the fusion conference is well known. [illegible] Justice Gaynor's intimate friend, was at the conference, and is said to have been the bearer of the Justice's message. He wouldn't say what it was, but he appeared in a very jubilant mood. Some said the message Justice Gaynor would accept, others that it meant he would not, as Mr. Hayland had opposed his doing so.

One of the leaders of the Municipal Ownership League said that he understood Justice Gaynor had declined to accept, and that another man, satisfactory to all parties, would be selected. Mr. Hayland also said that a man would be selected who would satisfy every element pledged to fusion.

Some friends of former State Senator Timothy Ford, who were about the hotel to-night, this augured well for his success.

Chairman Halpin, of the Republican County Committee, presided at the conference.

The conference adjourned at 4 o'clock without taking any action in the matter of candidates. Another conference will be held on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.
