POISON MYSTERY FUGITIVE SOUGHT IN LOS ANGELES

Police Now on Trail of Erich K. Muenter, Whose Wife Died of Arsenic.

TRACED FROM CHICAGO

Harvard Tutor Will Have to Explain Suspicious Facts and Sudden Leave.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BOSTON, April 28.—Chief Inspector of Police Hurley this afternoon received word from the Chicago Detective Bureau that Erich K. Muenter, the Harvard tutor, who disappeared after the death of his wife by poison, was probably in Los Angeles.

The investigation of the detectives leads to the belief that the fugitive is in the California city.

The investigation of the detectives leads to the belief that the fugitive is in the California city.

Muenter was last seen in Chicago on Wednesday of last week, after the cremation of his wife's body there, and all of his movements have been carefully traced.

Following the receipt of this information the police of Los Angeles were asked late to-day to make a search for Muenter.

While the police have a clue to the missing man, search for him is being kept up in all the leading cities, the watch in those near the Canadian borders being especially close.

All the steamship docks in Boston, New York and other places are closely watched.

To-day District-Attorney George A. Sanderson and Chief Inspector Hurley of the Cambridge police, went to the Third District Court and had a long conference with Charles J. Almy, the presiding justice. Beyond the fact that the Muenter case was the subject of the conference none of those present would make any statement.

It later transpired that Judge Almy had been asked to issue a warrant for Muenter's arrest, but refused on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence against the man.

The police maintained a reticence in regard to the entire case, though they intimated that they expected no developments until Muenter had been taken into custody.

Wrote Two Letters.

Frank E. Bryant, an instructor in the University of Kansas, who lived with the Muenters in Cambridge, speaking of the case, said to-day:

"I have heard from Mr. Muenter twice since he went West, besides a telegram which he sent me shortly after his departure. His first letter was a rather incoherent affair, asking me to attend to a business matter for him. I was unable to understand it at all.

"A couple of days later I received a second letter, sent from Chicago. He wrote me that he was not coming back, but that his sister would probably come on from Chicago to look after his effects.

"I think giving up his college work was an afterthought on his part, and when he left here he fully intended to come back. He took only one trunk with clothes for himself and his daughter and baby.

"Muenter seemed to be a generous fellow, greatly devoted to his wife. I had no suspicion whatever that there was anything criminal in the death of his wife."

There is much speculation as to the evidence against Muenter. It is known that arsenic has been found in the stomach of Mrs. Muenter, but what motive the tutor would have for killing his wife cannot be surmised.

Neither can his sudden and strange disappearance be explained if he is innocent. Muenter was last seen in Chicago on Wednesday of last week after the body of his wife had been cremated. He left Chicago on that day with the avowed intention of going East.

The suspicion against Muenter has created a great sensation here. It followed the report made to the police by Prof. W. F. Whitney, of the Harvard Medical School, who has made a chemical examination of the stomach of Mrs. Muenter, and who declared:

"I find marked traces of arsenic."

Had Insured Her Life.

This report was made to Medical Examiner Swan, and at once it was taken to George A. Sanderson, District-Attorney for Middlesex County. The matter was then turned over to the Cambridge police.

Muenter had insured his wife's life for $1,000 in a New York company. It is said here to-day that he has not collected the money, though the policy was payable to Muenter.

Muenter was a pronounced Christian Scientist, according to one statement made; according to another authority his wife was a Christian Scientist, while he was only lukewarm in support of the cult.

The Muenters lived at No. 107 Oxford street. Mrs. Muenter was formerly Miss Leone K. Krembs, of Chicago.

Faith Cure Nurses.

The attention of the authorites was called to the case just after the woman's death on Monday, April 16. Ten days before that time a child was born to Mrs. Muenter, who was attended by a faith cure doctor and by two nurses of the same cult. The physician was Mrs. Nickerson, of Winchester. The nurses are both residents of Cambridge, Miss Case and Miss Derrick.

Some time after the child was born two regular physicans, Dr. Frederick W. Taylor and Dr. Herbert McIntyre, were called in. Both physicians decided that Mrs. Muenter was suffering from some ailment of the stomach. They prescribed for her, but later, it is alleged, they ascertained that the nurses were not following directions. Drs. Taylor and McIntyre then declined to have anything further to do with the case.

On the day Mrs. Muenter died Muenter applied to Dr. McIntyre for his signature to the certificate of death, but Dr. McIntyre declined to sign the paper. He decided that the case needed investigation, and notified Medical Examiner William D. Swan, who as soon as he received Dr. McIntyre's report performed an autopsy on the body.

Body Was Removed.

The medical examiner then sent the stomach to Prof. Whitney. He then permitted Muenter and the two nurses to take the body to Mrs. Muenter's former home in Chicago for burial. The party left Cambridge April 17, and took along Muenter's two children, Helen aged three, and the infant.

The authorities are investigating Muenter's history. He was born in Germany. He formerly taught school in Chicago and before coming to Harvard, less than two years ago, he was an instructor at the University of Kansas at Lawrence.

The University authorities stated to-day that Muenter at no time had acted as professor at Harvard, but received his appointment as instructor from year to year.

Muenter is 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, is of florid complexion, has dark hair, a long face, brown Vandyke beard and mustache and good teeth. He was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1899.

It was learned to-day that since his departure from Cambridge, Muenter has written to several friends here, the letters bearing a Chicago postmark. In none of these letters did he reveal his address. In one of these letters Muenter made inquiry regarding the method of procedure in resigning his Harvard instructorship, but inasmuch as he gave no address his query remains unanswered.

It also has developed that Muenter had submitted his resignation to the university authorities, but it could not be learned what had become of this letter. It is believed, however, that it will be acted upon by the Board of Overseers next Wednesday.

There is a rumor at the college that Muenter was seen in Boston on Thursday. The man reported to have seen the instructor said he saw a person resembling him. He was not positive that Muenter was the man he saw.

The subject of Muenter's thesis in the graduate school here was "Insanity in German Romantic Literature." Those closely acquainted with him say that he was a man of high principles, but had become somewhat morbid, due, it was explained, to overwork.

HARVARD TUTOR SOUGHT IN POISON CASE.

NURSE TELLS OF WIFE'S SYMPTOMS.

WINCHESTER, Mass., April 28.—Mrs. Henry C. Nickerson, second reader in the First Church of Christ (Scientist) in this town, was the doctor who attended Mrs. Erich Muenter, of Cambridge. Mrs. Nickerson said:

"I was asked by Mrs. Muenter to take charge of her case last February. At that time Mr. Muenter was not in favor of it, but he finally allowed me to take the case at the solicitation of his wife, who was a Christian Scientist. A child was born April 6. I was in Washington at the time, but returned to Cambridge the next day and found everything harmonious. I later learned that liver trouble had developed. I gave the woman considerable treatment, some of it being absent treatment, continuing up to Saturday, April 14, when I had found Mrs. Muenter suffering from an excessive burning sensation in the stomach. On Saturday I retired from the case."

MRS. MUENTER'S BODY CREMATED.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Mrs. Muenter's father, A. Krembs, of No. 479 Fullerton avenue, at whose house the funeral was held, does not believe that his daughter was murdered.

"My son-in-law is a Christian Scientist," he said, "and this may have led to the suspicion that my daughter's death was not from natural causes, as I understand she did not have medical attendance during her illness. At the time of her death I received a telegram from Muenter saying that she had died suddenly and that he was bringing the body to Chicago for burial.

"My daughter's body was cremated and the ashes buried in Graceland Cemetery. Immediately after the funeral Muenter started for Cambridge, or at least that's the destination he gave me. Since then I have not heard from him.

"Two years ago Muenter went to Harvard to take a post-graduate course. While there he has been employed as an instructor in German. I believe that the port-graduate course he is taking is a study of the various forms of insanity. Muenter and my daughter, so far as I know, were happy in their married life, and there was nothing between them which I know of that would lead him to kill her. While he was in Chicago at the funeral there was nothing in his manner to indicate that anything was wrong, and I am sure that when a thorough investigation is made it will be found that everything is all right."

Mr. Krembs is head of the firm of Krembs & Co., chemists, at No. 53 Waldo place.

COUPLE SEEMED TO BE LOVING.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 28.—Erich K. Muenter, it is understood, is not here. He was an instructor at the State University several years ago. He came here a stranger with his young wife, whom he had recently married at her home in Chicago, and here their first child was born.

While living here Muenter made many friends and the attachment between himself and his wife was marked. Members of the faculty of the university were slow to believe that he was wanted for the murder of his wife, declaring that such a charge would not receive credence here unless the evidence were indisputable. The report of a crime is believed here to have grown out of the fact that Mrs. Muenter was a strong adherent of Christian Science, while Muenter did not so strongly adhere to the tenets of that faith; that she refused to have medical attendance of the orthodox sort when her child was born and was found dead by Muenter on his return from his college work at Harvard, three days after the child was born.

IMMIGRANTS IN PANIC OVER A FIRE ON PIER

3,000 of Them Fight to Reach Street—Many Injured.

Frantic with fright and shouting in a dozen languages, 3,000 immigrants fought madly with police and railroad employees late this afternoon when fire started suddenly at Pier D, Jersey City, where they were waiting to tak trains for the West.

The fire was put out by the employees, but not until scores of immigrants had injured themselves in trying to get to the street and two men had jumped into the water.

The fire started just under the offices of the Adams Express Company, on the end of the pier. Defective insulation of electric light wires is supposed to have been the cause. The automatic fire gong sounded, and smoke shot out from the flimsy wooden partitions of the office. The noise of the big bell startled passengers in the Pennsylvania station, which adjoins the pier on the south.

On the great floor space of the pier were the immigrants. There were Germans, Bulgarians, Slavs, Italians and a large contingent of smowy little Portuguese. These last fought like crazed rats and did more damage to the police than did the big, hulking Slavs and Germans.

The employees of the railroad and the express company have recently been put through exacting fire drills and were on the job. They spread out and met the rush of the immigrants in the street entrance and held them till the police reserves arrived.

Two Greeks jumped from one of the wildows in the shed into the ferry slip. They were fished out unharmed.

By the time the police had quieted the crowd the fire had been put out by the employees, who used the spray pipes with which the pier is fitted.

CHURCH LOSES TWO PRIESTS IN A WEEK

Father Fagan, of St. Ignatius Loyola, Follows Father Merrick in Death.

Rev. James P. Fagan, S. J., one of the most popular priests in the city, was found dead in his bed to-day in the parish house of the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola, at Eighty-fourth street and Park avenue. He had died during the night of apoplexy.

The deceased priest was an eloquent oratir and a man of great energy in religious work. It was not known that he was predisposed to apoplexy, and his sudden death was a shock to the congregation.

The blow falls with double force, following so closely upon the death of Father Merrick, of St. Ignatius's Church, who was buried last Monday.

DR. CRAPSEY HERESY TRIAL IS CLOSED.

The trial ended with the benediction of Dr. Roberts, President of the Court. The vote will be handed to Bishop Walker some time before May 15.

SAN FRANCISCO REPORTS CUT DOWN LOSSES

Burned District Surveyed as Less Than Four Square Miles.

FOOD TOO PLENTIFUL.

Gen. Funston Says No More Is Needed, Nor Doctors and Nurses.

By John Fay,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—An official investigation shows that the area devastated by the fire in San Francisco has been greatly exaggerated. City Engineer Woodward has completed a survey of the burned district and found the area swept by the flames to be only 2,500 acres, a fraction less than four square miles. It had previously been estimated at ten to fifteen square miles.

There is food in plenty for everybody now. "No more food supplies, no more doctors or nurses are needed in San Francisco," said Gen. Funston. "We have sent out an order to stop the food supplies. We are overwhelmed with the magnitude of the generosity of the country. It is not only the people in the camps we are feeding but 6,000 people in their homes. Blankets and clothing are needed, but we will soon have plenty of blankets. Good tents are coming in rapidly—more than are necessary. The people have overdone the supply business and especially in the matter of perishable foods."

$5,421,438 on Hand.

Ex-Mayor Phelan said: "We have $5,421,438 on hand. This is not all in cash, but in assurances we have received that we can make drafts for that amount. It has not yet been decided how it shall be applied. We have already placed $125,000 at the disposal of the Oakland relief committees, $20,000 to Berkeley and $10,000 to Santa Rosa. The committee is harmonious and we are trying to find the way to do the most good.

"The working people must be given temporary homes and household furniture, such as stoves and beds. Mechanics must be given tools. The streets must be cleaned. We have received money sent to Gov. Pardee, Mayor Schmitz and the Red Cross. The trouble just now is getting actual currency. All the money in the city is locked up in the bank vaults, and we are grateful to the Government for allowing us Sub-Treasury privileges in the Mint."

Ernest P. Bicknell, secretary of the Chicago Associated Charities, agreed with Gen. Funston that shipment of food supplies should cease, Bicknell and clothing are all that is wanted.

SERIOUSLY HURT IN EARTHQUAKE.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The following twenty-five names of seriously injured persons in San Francisco have been obtained from Gen. Greely:

Antony Angelo, Charles Bown, Mrs. Budzmenell, Lewis Durand, Mrs. A. Garcia, John Henry, Philip Hoffman, Mrs. John Kavelin, Agnes Kelly, Mrs. W. Kelly, Mrs. Mary Kennedy, James Lennon, — McGann, Aaron Meyer, Felipo Mirca, Mrs. Murphy, Frank Nagy Glapi, Mrs. M. O'Brien, George Roberts, Isaac Smith, J. S. Smith, Mrs. Sisson, J. Walsey, Anna A. Wallace and an unknown baby six months old.

NO NEW LAWSUITS FOR SIX MONTHS.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., April 28.—Two more dead bodies have been taken from the ruins of the buildings destroyed by the earthquake. Neither can be positively identified. This makes a total of fifty-four bodies taken from the ruins.

The attorneys of Santa Rosa, realizing the consequences that would ensue if a number of lawsuits involving mortgages and promissory notes and questions of that kind should be brought now, met in convention at the Sonoma County Bar Association and agreed not to file any suits for the coming six months. By that time it is believed confidence will have been fully restored and that every one will have had time in which to make arrangements for carrying on the policy that seems best suited to the conditions.

"ANDY" FIELDS'S SON AT JEROME'S OFFICE

Clarence Fields and Dr. Judson, his father's physician, came to town to-day from Dobbs Ferry and spent some time in the office of Assistant District-Attorney Nott. They had been subpoenaed to answer questions regarding Andy Fields, late legislative agent of the Mutual Life, whose testimony as a witness is greatly desired before the special Grand Jury which will convene to-day to inquire into insurance corruption.

The younger Fields was asked about his father's present whereabouts. Dr. Judson told about the judge's state of health. Mr. Nott declined to discuss the result of his inquisition of the son and the physician.

Although Andrew Fields is said to be at Asbury Park in New Jersey, two process servers from the District-Attorney's office are still camped outside the grounds of his Dobbs Ferry estate hoping for a chance to get service on the man who made the remarks at Albany against Fields's lawyer says he is willing to testify.

CHINESE STEAMER SUNK, 30 MEN LOST WITH HER

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlement, April 28.—The British steamer Haversham Grange, having on board 3,000 Russian troops bound from Vladivostok for Odessa, arrived here to-day and reported having been in collision in the Straits of Malacca with the Chinese steamer Hentong.

The latter sank and thirty of the 101 Chinamen on board the vessel were drowned.

The Haversham Grange brought the seventy-one survivors to this port. Her forepeak is full of water.

MRS. GRANNISS MUST GET OUT OF THE CHURCH

So Finds Trial Committee Which Asks Her to Resign.

Unless Mrs. Elizabeth Grannis withdraws from the Church of the Disciples, on Fifty-sixth street, the Church of the Disciples is going to withdraw from her.

So the committee having in charge the matter of Mrs. Grannis's alleged heresies against the congregational discipline and etiquette has recommended. Its report was made this afternoon at a meeting in the office of Attorney Jacob Banton, at No. 53 Nassau street, after long consideration of the facts that were brought out at the trial held in the study of the church last night and this morning. It lasted until 2 A. M.

But Mrs. Grannis isn't beaten yet. She immediately announced that she would appeal to the congregation itself—the last tribunal. But the congregation is already on record as being against her by a very large majority, and if she carries out her threat of attending services to-morrow morning there may be trouble, for some of the anti-Grannisites have sworn to bar her if she tries to worship in her old pew again.

The committee after censuring Sam W. Hoke for having given publicity to the Lane letters, whatever they are, and ruling that Elder Robert Christy was sustained in his alleged derogatory statements regarding Mrs. Grannis, wound up with this paragraph:

"The charges of F. M. Applegate against Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis are approved with the exception of the twelfth specification.

"It (the committee) believes it is impossible for the First Church of the Disciples of Christ, of New York, to have a successful future under present conditions and advise that this Mrs. Grannis resign her membership thereof within fourteen days, and upon her failure to do so within the specified time that the church withdraw from her.

Elder Applegate, thus sustained and comforted, is the leader of the anti-Grannis forces. Among the things he charged against Mrs. Grannis was that she said the former pastor, the Rev. B. Q. Denham, now raising lemons in Florida, used to wiggle his hips when he stood in the pulpit preaching. Also that her small black protege, Christina, crawled over the back of the Grannis pew while Mr. Denham was praying and played with Mrs. Granis's hair, thereby distracting the attention of the assembled flock. There was lot more of it, too.

MUCH OF CITY IS AT THUGS' MERCY

So Bingham Declares, and He Will Ask Aldermen for 2,500 More Men to Guard It.

According to Commissioner Bingham the city is practically overrun with burglars, thugs and violent criminals, and unless he is given more patrolmen he will not be responsible for the public safety. He wants 2,500 new policemen. He will ask for that number at the next meeting of the Board of Aldermen and has prepared a report to submit to the Board showing the need of men.

This report will show all burglaries and crimes of violence committed since Commissioner Bingham's appointment. He says it proves that the majority of such crimes have been in districts where police protection is meagre. He will specify the districts where extra protection is most needed, but which he cannot give with his present force. These include nearly all of Harlem and the Bronx, and a large part of Staten Island, and portions of Queens.

POLICEMAN RUN DOWN AT CROSSING

Car Fractures Fitzpatrick's Skull as He Returns to Post After Helping Woman Across Broadway.

That the perils of a policeman are not confined to fires and extraordinary accidents was illustrated to-day in the case of big, good-natured John Fitzpatrick, of the Broadway squad, stationed at the Nineteenth street crossing. He is in New York Hospital with a fractured skull.

Fitzpatrick had just escorted a party of women across the crowded street and was on his way to his post between the car tracks when a southbound car ran him down. He was struck on the head and face while looking out for an approaching truck. His nose was broken and a frightful gash was made in his scalp.

He lay unconscious while the car kept on down Broadway. A crowd gathered, but no one did anything for the unconscious Fitzpatrick until Policeman John Hughes, on the crossing below, ran up to see the cause of the crowd. Hughes called the ambulance that took Fitzpatrick to the hospital.

OHIO OPENS WAR ON THE STANDARD OIL.

TOLEDO, O., April 28.—Alleging that the Standard Oil and seventeen affiliated companies have a secret trade agreement by which they control production and transportation of oil and gas, Prosecutor I. W. Wachenheimer, of Lucas County, to-day filed suit in the Circuit Court, asking revocation of their charters and dissolution of the alleged agreement.

COURT ADVISES COWBOY TO 'GUN' FOR SWINDLER

Wyoming Man's Visit to a Pool Parlor Cost Him $200.

Magistrate Pool to-day gave a Wyoming cowboy permission and advice to go "gunning" through New York with a revolver in search of a "lemon game" worker and a roll. The Magistrate's charge to the victim to carry a gun with his blessing was so startling that even the blase frequenters of the Jefferson Market Court opened their eyes.

The Westerner, Frank M. Cronholm, a picturesque person, sunburned on the Wyoming ranges, came into town this week to spend his half-year's savings in seeing the sights. Like all good cowboys he had a high regard for the etiquette of a policed town and left his revolver in the bottom of his grip.

Last evening he was strolling through the Tenderloin when a debonair stranger formed the lonely cow-puncher's acquaintance, and in the course of the conversation it developed, according to the stranger's story, that he was the champion billiard and pool player of Chicago, and that he had come to New York to take part in the billiard tournament only to arrive too late.

The topic opened, the two naturally drifted into a pool parlor at No 1306 Broadway, where the stranger was soon involved in a game with another stranger. It wasn't long before Cronholm had been inveigled into making a small bet on his newly-made "friend." He won. The rest was easy.

After the lemon had been handed to Mr. Cronholm, of Wyoming, he was $200 short. He turned it over in his mind in a dazed walk down Broadway and realized he had been swindled. A cop sent him to the Tenderloin station.

Detectives Rayner and Farrellly, of Capt. Hodgins's staff, were sent out. They arrested Louis Weiss, the alleged proprietor of the parlor, charging him with allowing gambling on his premises. He was discharged for lack of evidence. The Magistrate turned to the cattleman and said:

"I grant you permission to carry a revolver while you are trying to get your man. I want the police to help you. This game is one of the meanest tricks that is worked in New York."

Mr. Cronholm departed, promising to unlimber his artillery. A Magistrate can grant such permission, according to section 410 of the Penal Code.

85 YEARS OLD, BUT NO RACE SUICIDER.

Sturdy Ten-Pound Boy Born to the Wife of Prof. Thiry.

A sturdy ten-pound boy was born today to the wife of Prof. John H. Thiry, one of the wealthiest men in Long Island City. Prof. Thiry is not quite eighty-five years old.

In addition to the son born to-day Prof. and Mrs. Thiry are the parents of a daughter, Henrietta, four years old, and a son, Francis, two years old. A fourth child, born six years ago, died in infancy.

Dr. E. H. Taylor, who acts as stork's assistant at all the interesting events in the Thiry family, was present to-day. He reports that Mrs. Thiry is doing well, and he personally told the father that he never saw a finer-looking boy in his professional experience.

Prof. Thiry, of an old French family, has been a resident of Long Island City for over sixty years. His home at No. 181 Academy street is one of the show places of the borough by reason of the owner's collection of rare plants and his grape arbors. He is the father of the school savings bank system of the United States and a leading member of the Board of Education of Queens. He was an educational delegate from America to the last Paris exposition, and spent several weeks as a guest at the home of the President of France.

Nine years ago, when he was seventy-four, he married Margaret O'Connor, then just past her twenty-first birthday. She is the mother of his three children.

NEARLY SMOTHERED UNDER KEGS OF BEER.

Jacob Hauck, driver for a brewery, was caught under a dozen kegs of beer when an elevator broke in the West End Cafe, at No. 226 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street to-day and nearly smothered before he was dug out.

He had piled the kegs on the elevator that runs from the sidewalk to the cellar and had touched the lever to lower it. The cable broke and Jacob and the beer went down together. He was rescued by three policemen. The barrels had piled up across his stomach and he could not breathe. He was speechless when taken out, but was soon brought around by Dr. Morton, of the J. Hood Wright Hospital, and went home after being attended.

TOWNS SWEPT BY AVALANCHES AND PEOPLE IN PANIC

New Vesuvius Terror as Great Masses Thunder Down Volcano's Sides.

NAPLES, April 28.—Another disaster has occurred in the Vesuvian region. All last night and early to-day torrents of rain fell, accompanied by a stiff gale of wind, causing heavy avalanches of mud, sand, ashes and cinders to fall over Somma and Santa Anastasia, destroying bridges, blocking the roads, flooding many habitations, interrupting communication by telegraph and carrying away a portion of the railway.

Troops and military wagons were hurriedly dispatched to the assistance of the sufferers.

The inhabitants of the stricken places mentioned were awakened by a roaring, rushing sound which was absolutely new to them and on running out of their houses they found their property threatened by the new horror.

Their terror was extreme. The women and children fled, screaming with fright, into the open country. But, in spite of the avalanches, floods and gale, no loss of life had been reported up to the time this despatch was filed.

Everybody is praying for fair weather, as it is believed that while the storms rage, Vesuvius is liable to be a continual menace to life and property and that the people in the region of the volcano may have visitations of a more serious nature than avalanches.
