BOLDT WEDDING CAUSES SURPRISE

No One at the Waldorf-Astoria Knew About Marriage of Proprietor's Son.

There was much speculation at the Waldorf-Astoria to-day as to the unexpected marriage of George C. Boldt, jr., son of the proprietor of the big hotel, to Miss Estelle Savin, of San Diego, Cal. The couple are believed to be on their way East, and there is a chance that they may arrive at the Waldorf next week.

Inquiry at the hotel to-day brought no information. Oscar, the manager, said that the first he had heard of the wedding was in the newspapers. He was as much surprised as anybody else. Mr. Boldt, sr., is out of town.

"If we knew anything about the wedding," sad the diplomatic manager, "we should not, of course, say anything about it without permission of Mr. Boldt. But, as a matter of fact, we don't know anything more than what we have gathered from the press despatches."

Young Boldt with Howard C. Throckmorton, a close friend, has been in the Southwest for some time. Four weeks ago they stayed at the Angelus, in Los Angeles, for a few days. Then they left hurriedly.

Yesterday Mr. Boldt, jr., returned with a bride. They registered at the Angelus and before the other guests had fully learned the story or had time to congratulate them they left, ostensibly for the East.

Throckmorton said that the couple were married last Monday by an aged priest in Yuma, Ariz. It was learned that the bride's father was formerly Mexican Consul at Tia Juana, the border bull-fight city, where he now is a merchant. Young Mrs. Boldt is a beautiful brunette and prominent in San Diego society. She left that city last Sunday without telling her friends of her purpose and went directly to Yuma, where she was joined by young Boldt.

WOMAN DIES AND IS BURIED AT SEA

She Was Mrs. E. L. Allen, Said to Have Been a Wealthy American.

On the first-class cabin passenger list of the Hamburg-American Atlas liner Slavonia, which arrived to-day from Kingston, was the name of Mrs. E. L. Allen, said to be a wealthy American woman, who died Saturday night on board and was buried at sea at midnight.

Although she was richly dressed and had plenty of money it is said by the officers of the ship that they have not the slightest idea as to her identity or the whereabouts of her home. No inquiries were made for her upon the arrival of the steamer.

Mrs. Allen, who was about fifty-three years old, boarded the Slavonia at Kingston last Friday afternoon. At 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, while walking the deck, she dropped dead of heart disease.

There was not sufficient ice on board to allow for the preservation of the body and an immediate burial was decided upon. All the passengers gathered on deck at midnight in the moonlight when the captain read the burial service, and the remains of Mrs. Allen were dropped into the sea. Her effects are held by the Hamburg-American Line.

Millionaire's Self-Imposed Bachelor Tax, Gowns for 500 Women.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—Raphael Weill, a millionaire clothier, has announced that he will give complete outfits of clothing to 500 women as a bachelor tax against himself.

COST HIM $10 TO AVENGE A LADY

Murphy Whipped Ackerlay at Miss Weaver's Request and Was Fined for It.

William S. Murphy, a lawyer, who says he has "no home in particular," was fined $10 by Magistrate Steinert in the Jefferson Market Court to-day after he admitted that he had horsewhipped Charles T. Ackerlay, night clerk at the Everard baths, No. 28 West Twenty-eighth street. Murphy said he beat Ackerlay at the request of Miss Fannie Weaver, of No. 104 West Fifty-second street.

Miss Weaver, who is a tall, good-looking woman, was in court to back up her champion.

"Yes, judge," she said, "I asked Mr. Murphy to beat up this clerk. I'd gone around to the baths the other night to look for Mr. Murphy, and the clerk insulted me. He wanted Mr. Murphy to stay there and spend all his money for drink. When I saw Mr. Murphy yesterday I told him he ought to give the clerk something to remember."

Lawyer Murphy corroborated this story, and said he had carried out instructions with a rawhide whip. Ackerlay didn't show any scars or bruises. The Magistrate let the woman go. Murphy paid his fine and went out, holding her arm.

DISMISSED FOR HIS PRAYER.

MARION, O., June 6.—The Advisory Board of the Methodist Episcopal Church has asked for the immediate resignation of the Rev. J. H. Moore, because last Sunday he prayed that all obstacles to the progress of the church might be removed even if death be necessary. Members of the board not in harmony with the pastor interpreted the prayer to mean that the pastor wished them to die.
