SPORTING EDITOR'S ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Which receives the percentage or credit for the winning of the baseball game? A pitches six innings with the opposite team in the lead. B takes his place pitching the remainder of the game, which is three innings and results in their side being victorious. A. & B.

B gets credit for the game, as the team was behind when A went out, and B saved the game.

In a baseball game the team first at the bat are ahead at the end of their half of the fifth inning, when the game is stopped by rain. Does this constitute a game? The team last at the bat have not had its fifth inning. By answering this you will greatly oblige. Very truly yours, CONSTANT READER.

Team behind must have their inning or it is no game. If one club has more runs in four innings than the other has in five, however, it is a game.

In the game of May 5, was McGee's hit in the last inning a home run? A says it was a home run, B says it was not a home run. Please answer this query and oblige. Yours truly, A. B. B.

It was.

Is there such a rule retiring a fellow who touches the ball when it is thrown to opponents base. FRANK W.

No, unless he interferes with play.

Kindly state in your paper whether McGraw had to pay the father of the boy that he hit in Pittsburg. Also kindly state whether the Polo Grounds or Jersey City (new) grounds are the largest. M. S.

He gave boy a present, but was not forced to. Polo Grounds larger.

Will you please decide the following bet in the columns of the evening paper? A bats that Gilbert of the Giants came to that team from the Brooklyn ball team; B bets that he did not, that he came from Baltimore. Also please state if Gilbert ever played with Brooklyn. Hoping you will decide this, I remain, T. K. H.

220 Pearl street, Brooklyn.

Gilbert Came from Baltimore.

Will you please decide a bet? A bets the New York Giants wore a black uniform during the world's championship games with the Philadelphia Americans; B bets they wore white uniforms. Who wins? J. W.

A wins.

Let me know how many shutouts were given the Giants in their last visit in Pittsburg. ANXIOUS.

Two.

J. L. says that a man must make second base to call it a hit. H. F. says that if you hit a ball and get safe on first it is called a hit. H. F.

H. F. is right.

Does not section 4, rule 14, Baseball Rules for 1906 prohibit the pitcher from rubbing the ball on the grass? This is done in every league game, but I've never seen an umpire notice it. An answer in your sporting column will be greatly appreciated. E. J. M.

Yes, but by general consent the rule is not enforced.

The following trick was worked during a game of ball last Sunday afternoon between two well-known semi-professional teams.

A man occupied second base, the team at bat needed one run to win, there was some doubt as to which of the fielders held the ball. Finally the pitcher turned to the coach on the third base line and said, "Here it is" (he having had it hidden in his glove). The coach said, "Let me see it; I don't think that is the ball in play." The pitcher tossed the ball to him, but he made no attempt to stop it, but called to the base runner to "come on," which he did and also scored and won the game.

Now, the point is this: Do you consider that a sportsmanlike play; also, was not that trick worked a few years ago by McGraw at the Polo Grounds? By answering above you will oblige A FAN.

Everything is fair in love, war and baseball if you can get away with it. The coach was clever while the pitcher was stupid. Yes, many clubs have worked it.

DONLIN STILL LEADS LEAGUE WITH STICK

Mike Donlin, the champion Giants' centre fielder, who has been laid up for repairs with a badly strained foot for weeks, and who will be out of the game for several weeks longer, still leads the National League in hitting, with a percentage of .349. Schulte, the Chicagos' great right fielder, is a close second, with .347. Wagner comes third, with .340, and Sheckard fourth, with .337. The only player outside of Donlin, on the New York team, who is hitting over three hundred is Arthur Devlin, who has a percentage of .301. There are seventeen players who are hitting three hundred and better in the National League. Of this number, New York has two, Chicago five, Pittsburg four, Philadelphia two, St. Louis two, and Brooklyn one.

In long hits Harry Lumley, of the Brooklyn team, excels with sixty-three extra bases. In long hits by clubs Chicago carries off the honors, with 131 extra bases. In club batting Pittsburg leads with a percentage of .261. Beebe, the Chicago* twirler, leads the pitchers, with six victories in as many games. Marshall, of New York, and Slattery, of St. Louis, are tied for first honors among the others, with four.

McGann leads the first basemen, with .994; Ritchey, of Pittsburg, the second baseman, with .963; Sheckard, of Pittsburg, the third baseman, with .937; Donlin, of Philadelphia, the shortstops, with .945, and Thomas, of Philadelphia, the outfielders, with .987.

HANK O'DAY FRISKED BY THE OLD PAPER METHOD

The Dips Clean Him Out of Watch, Chain and Coin in a Hurry.

While He Was Reading the Lost, Strayed or Stolen Column.

BY BOZEMAN BULGER.

"I have been called robber, rotten, thief and murderer and never yet flinched, but this time, boys, your Uncle Hank is stung and stung hard. I'm the real fall guy and caught with the goods."

So saying, Hank O'Day, umpire extraordinary and the real wise guy of the game, rushed into the Giant clubhouse at the Polo Grounds minus his watch, chain, hat and a five-case note. Later his hat was found in his hand.

He fell for the old paper gag on the elevated and was frisked in a manner befitting his dignified station in life. The job was done with neatness and despatch.

Talk about raising a holler! Hank's roar would make a stuck pig's wail sound like a summer zephyr wiggling through the lilacs. His face was pale as a ghost and for one time he threw himself on the mercy of ball players and begged for help.

"How did it happen, Hank?" asked Alex Smith, while the others smothered snickers with bath towels, caps or anything handy.

"Happened on the elevated," began Hank. "Two nice-looking fellows came in the car and one sat on each side of me. They both were looking for information and kept their faces buried so deep in newspapers that I couldn't see myself. Finally I got tired of having papers all over me, so I asked one of them to let me see part of the one he was reading.

"Polite! Of course he was. He hands me that part which has the 'Lost and Stolen' column in it, and just as I starts to read the two men get off at Harlem.

"Thinking I must be late, I feels for my watch and—and—and"— he stammered, "your Uncle Hank is before you looking for help."

No, Hank didn't cry. Those tears came from horseradish that he had eaten downtown.

Never again will Hank O'Day punish a ball player about making a holler when he thinks he's robbed of a hit. Mr. O'Day has seen the other side of the question.

Every police station uptown was notified of the loss, but up to last night there was nothing doing for "his Lumps."

Hank made an awful play to keep it out of the papers, and the players tried to help him, but in due time club secrets will leak.

A telegram from O'Day last night asked that the case be turned over to Detective Roger Bresnahan, of Toledo, and the renowned sleuth is hot on the trail.

"I have a perfect description," said Detective Bresnahan last night, "and I will do my best.

"After thoroughly sifting the facts," explained Roger, "I have reached this deduction: The watch was gold, had a glass crystal, three hands and eleven numbers, ranging from 1 to 12. When you see the watch you will find that the figure 6 is missing off the dial. That is my real clue. I can say nothing further to-day."

Notwithstanding their elation over the frisking of Hank O'Day the Giants awoke this morning to find a duty stern and difficult before them. Three thrashings of Pittsburg will just about restore the champions to their place on top of the ladder, and fandom stands ready to be tickled.

Fully one thousand people went to the Polo Grounds yesterday despite the rain and waited around the elevated station an hour, hoping against hope that the gates would be opened. Pittsburg has always been the star attraction in New York.

Fred Clarke, by the way, has adopted a new idea for keeping his team in shape while playing in the enemy's camp. Fearing the temptations of Broadway, he has taken his entire club bag and baggage, to a hotel in Brooklyn and will not let them approach Manhattan except under guard.

Roger Bresnahan.

THREE PLAYERS WHO COME TO THE BAT WITH SINGLES THESE DAYS.

HOW STICK WORK HELPED TEAMS

Sheckard, Wagner and Bresnahan Send Their Clubs Up the Ladder.

There are three ballplayers in the National League this season who are playing the best ball of their career at present. They are Jimmy Sheckard, who covers left field for the Chicago Cubs; "Hans" Wagner, who holds down the shortstop position on the Pittsburg team, and Roger Bresnahan, the champion Giants' star backstop.

Ever since the season opened these men have played with more energy than in the previous years, and as a consequence of their fast playing and also hard hitting they have been largely responsible for the great showing which their team has made so far this year in the race for the pennant.

FITZGERALD MATCHED TO BOX M'GARRY SIX ROUNDS

Crack Lightweights Engaged to Battle in Philadelphia Friday Night—Other News of the Big and Little Pugilists.

BY JOHN POLLOCK.

An important battle between lightweights was arranged last night over the long-distance telephone between this city and Philadelphia. The pugilists matched were Abby McGarry, the hard-hitting and aggressive fighter of the Bronx, and Willie Fitzgerald, the South Brooklyn fighter, who has been fighting in such great form during the last two years. They were secured by Matchmaker Jack McGuigan to 12 conclusions in a six-round bout before the National A. C., of Philadelphia, on Friday night. They will battle at catch weights for 50 per cent of the gross receipts. This ought to be one of the best bouts fought in the Quaker City in a long time, as both men are genuine fighters, aggressive, and good stiff punchers.

Murphy-Neary Bout June 26.

The fifteen-round bout between Tommy Murphy, the Harlem fighter, and Charley Neary, the Milwaukee lightweight, which was to have been fought before the Lincoln A. C., of Chelsea, Mass., on Thursday night, has been postponed until Tuesday evening, June 26. Johnny Oliver, manager of Murphy, asked for the change of date so as to give his man more time in which to prepare for the battle. Jack Ryan, the welterweight champion, will be Murphy's chief adviser on the night of the fight.

Tommy Ryan Now a Matchmaker.

Tommy Ryan, the middle-weight champion, who is the manager and matchmaker of the athletic club, which is putting off bouts at Boston Garden, Boston, at present, has offered to match Stanley Ketchel to meet Jack Dillon, a guaranteed purse of $2,000, in Ketchel's home ground bout at the club's next show, which will be held in about three weeks. Young Ketchel has already signed and a reply is expected from Herman.

Lewis May Fight Mellody July 4.

Willie Lewis, the local welter-weight, and Billy Mellody, Mellody, the welterweight champion of New England, have been positively matched to meet in a fifteen-round bout before the Lincoln A. C., of Chelsea, Mass., on the night of July 4. Micah Murray, manager of the Lewis contingent, signed last night, offering him the bout with Mellody. The latter wired back his terms, and as it is expected that Murray will accept them, the indications are that the articles of agreement will be signed today.

Nolan Only Wants $20,000 for Nelson.

Billy Nolan, manager of Battling Nelson, who absolutely refuses to arrange a match for the fighting Dane with Joe Gans, the light and welter weight champion, now comes forward with the statement that he will let Nelson fight Kid Herman, of Chicago, before either the Pacific A. C., of Los Angeles, Cal., or Jimmy Coffroth's club, in San Francisco, but that the club that secures the attraction will have to offer a purse of $20,000 for the lads to battle for.

This Manager Uses Good Judgment.

Micah Murray, the new manager of the Lincoln A. C., of Chelsea, Mass., is certainly entitled to a great deal of credit for his good judgment in declaring that he will not sign any heavy-weights to box at his club. It is his intention to have bouts only between boxers from the bantam-weight to the welter-weight class. If certain matchmakers in town had used this good common sense the chances are that the boxing game would still be going in this city.

Heavy-Weight Burns in Chicago.

Tommy Burns, the Western heavy-weight, has returned to Chicago, where he will stay until he hears from Matchmaker O'Rourke, of the Travers A. C., in regard to whether his bout with Bob Fitzsimmons will be fought or declared off for good. In the event of the bout falling through, Burns will issue a challenge to Jack Mike Schreck, the Milwaukee giant, to meet before the club that offers the largest purse.

Holly to Fight Rufe Turner.

Dave Holly, the colored lightweight of Philadelphia, and Rufe Turner, the crack red lightweight of California, have signed articles of agreement to try conclusions in a twenty-round battle at a show to be opened off near Seattle, Wash., on June 21. Holly, by the way, is the man who beat Joe Walcott before the Lewis A. C., of Boston, and Turner claims that he knocked out Joe twice in ten rounds.

Yachts at Newport.

Pembroke Jones is having his 30-footer Corsair fitted out at Newport preparatory to the opening of the racing season. E. D. Morgan's 40-footer Vanitie and Whitney's Vagrant are also being put into commission at Newport. The Hera, owned by James Gordon Bennett, is ready in commission, and has shown good work at Potter's Cove.

CHAMPION LEANDERS WILL NOT ENTER

LONDON, June 19.—The Leander Rowing Club, of London, which has won the Grand Challenge Cup at Henley twelve times since 1891, will not enter the race this year. It is stated that the club is unable to get together an eight strong enough to defend the title.

HARVARD CREW'S FAST TIME DUE TO STRONG TIDE

Crimson 'Varsity Is Beaten by Freshmen Over Last Two Miles.

Contrast of Strokes Feature of Training of Poughkeepsie Eighths.

(Special to The Evening World.)

HARVARD CREW QUARTERS, RED TOP, Conn., June 19.—This forenoon the Harvard varsity crew went over the four-mile course, down stream under the watch, in twenty minutes and ten seconds. This is the third try over the course for the Crimson eights this season, and is the best time they have made.

The extraordinary weather conditions minimize the importance of such fast time, because a strong tide and a favoring stern wind were helping the shell along for the entire distance.

The freshman eight raced with the Varsity for the last two miles and beat out the big crew by three-quarters of a length. The youngsters started a boat's length behind, but were a length and a half ahead at the three-mile flag. At this point the 1909 boat began to tire and the Varsity, rowing a faster stroke, gradually picked up on them.

The work of the Harvard crew was very unsatisfactory in comparison with the showing made in last Saturday's trial. To-day the boat was unsteady throughout the entire distance. The men slugged at the water and Morgan, the new man at No. 3, was useless for the last mile.

(Special to The Evening World.)

Wisconsin Disappointing.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 19.—The river was rough this forenoon when the Pennsylvania and Wisconsin squads went up the river close together. They stopped at the starting point.

Ward sent his two fours down ahead, bringing the 'varsity and freshmen along for two miles, the former winning by a couple of lengths. The entire squad are getting more lively since the work has been cut down, and should be in fine shape by Saturday.

Wisconsin has had a little hard luck so far. Yesterday Hine, No. 7, strained his shoulder slightly and was kept out of the boat to-day, Richter taking his place. Then, too, Ruth, No. 6, has an affected ankle, which is receiving the most careful medical attention. He retatched it several days ago and the coloring matter from his stocking has poisoned it somewhat. Last night O'Dea secured the naphtha launch Omeomi, from Buffalo, and is now able to follow his crews over the course.

The two Wisconsin crews are a great disappointment, as the men, although as strong as any others, are not to be compared with the other crews on the river. Of their two crews the freshmen are much the better of the two.

Courtney had his five crews out this morning, taking the 'varsity over the four miles, the freshmen and three fours joining in for the last two, over which distance they were able to win out by half a length over the 'varsity.

Georgetown and Syracuse went over the full course this morning. Dempsey is very confident that his eight will do splendid work on Saturday.

IRISHMEN TO KICK THREE BIG GAMES.

The Mayo men—the boys from the county that has fathered more famous personages and given birth to more important movements than any one of the thirty-two in Ireland, are out with their plans for their annual games, which are to be held in Celtic Park, L. I., next Sunday. There will be a great time there when the events scheduled are being pulled off.

The football contest between Monaghan and Armagh for the championship of the Province of Ulster should be a hard-kicked game. These teams are pretty evenly matched. It will be a sad day for the one that loses.

But when Cork and Mayo get together for a challenge trophy there will be a sight for the eyes of those who love to see Gaelic football at its best. Both Cork and Mayo are famed for their kickers on and off the football field. When these teams have had their fill of the fun the Galway men will tackle the County Louths. This game will decide who is to hold the Gaelic League Football Championship for the year. It is rarely that three such contests as hese are presented on an ath-

GOLD CUP CASES.

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 19.—Judge Townsend, of Hartford, Conn., has set July 2 as the date for a final hearing of the injunction suit of the Memphis Trotting Association against the National Trotting Association to prevent its investigating the Gold Cup scandal which involves Lou Dillon and Major Delmar, the trotters, and their owners. Judge Townsend only dismissed the temporary pleadings of the Memphis people and allowed them to file additional pleadings upon which he will decide on the date named.

BOOKIES TAXED $90 PER DAY IN BUFFALO. HERE ---?

They Pay $15 Per Race for Advance Information, While Layers Get Off Cheap Here and Public Is Squeezed.

BY FRANK W. THORP.

Up in Buffalo it costs the bookmakers $90 a day to do business. They don't pay the $90 a day for the privilege of making book. Oh, no. They pay for advance information at the rate of $15 per race, which, for six races, makes a total of $90 per day. Of course, things are different at Buffalo, although Buffalo is in the State of New York, and the same interests that govern racing on the New York tracks are presumed to be the governing powers at that course.

You couldn't soak the Buffalo public an extra dollar to make up for the financial loss enlisted by the "emancipation of the racing associations from the betting rings." New Yorkers will stand that kind of a gaff, but Buffalonians would rise up on their hind legs and quit cold if any attempt were made to squeeze them. So advance information at the rate of $15 per race was charged to the bookmakers. The generous New York public, however, contributes an extra dollar at the gate, and so the poor bookmaker is only charged $12 per day instead of $12 per race. Twenty-five books at $90 per day pretty near pays expenses at Buffalo, and accounts for the reports of the great success under change of management.

What a soaking the dearly beloved patrons of racing received at Gravesend yesterday. Shot Gun was the only favorite to win, and he came early in the afternoon just as a coaxer. Then followed winners at all sorts of prices. Jennie McCabe toddled home at 15 to 1. Far West made Bull's Eye and Cedarstrome look like platers. Adoration, the hottest favorite of the day, hadn't an ounce of speed and was a bad third. Jack McKeon, winner of the fifth, was at a long price, and you could write your own ticket about Allowmaise in the sixth.

All of these form reversals were perfectly legitimate. There was no race where one could say that a horse was beaten through a bad or indifferent ride, unless it was the first, in which there was a universal kick at the manner in which Lyne handled Roseben. Lyne's ride was not criminal. He simply had bad luck in getting mixed up in a jumble on the far turn. Roseben is not the great sprinter he was. His trials at distance racing have dulled the edge of his speed.

Newspaper handicappers and tipsters were very bad yesterday. None of them, including the writer of this column, had picked a winner up to the fifth race, and it is pretty certain that none picked Allowmaise. The track upset all calculations, for every one figured on a good or fast track.

Speaking of newspaper tipsters reminds me that "Billy" Cozier, now Deputy Commissioner of Water and Gas in Brooklyn, was at one time the racing expert on an afternoon paper. One day, after a particularly bad day at the track, he actually lacked carfare to get home. Next morning he had to borrow money to get over to the office. Imagine his surprise when the office staff clustered about him and congratulated him on his great success of the day previous.

"What are you talking about?" asked Cozier.

"Why, didn't you know you picked six straight winners yesterday?" asked some one.

"Billy" nearly fainted, but by a great effort preserved his equilibrium and noncharantly answered:

"Oh, is that what you mean?"

Cozier had picked six straight winners in the paper and at the track had played six straight losers.

That has probably been the experience of many others. Men go to the track each day with winners all figured and doped. Once in the whirl of the betting ring their judgment goes astray. They are plungers, backing certain horses, and follow the supposed wise money. After making a series of losing hits they suddenly wake up and find that their own little figures had named three or four winners. More resolutions are then made, only to be broken the following day.

JACK JOHNSON PUTS HAGHEY TO SLEEP.

(Special to The Evening World.)

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 19.—At the Gloucester A. C. last night a twelve-round bout was scheduled between Jack Johnson and Charley Haghey, but Johnson put it all over his opponent and the bout only lasted sixty seconds. Haghey never landed, but Johnson got in his blows at will, and finally landed a left-hand punch in the wind that sent Haghey through the ropes and he didn't come back.

Johnson, in order to give the crowd its money's worth, gave a five-round exhibition with his sparring partner, Jimmy Murray, of Cincinnati.

SHEEPSHEAD GALLOPS.

(Special to The Evening World.)

SHEEPSHEAD BAY, N. Y., June 19.—The haze and gloom that have been prevalent in this vicinity were still in evidence at the race course this morning. The heavy downpour of rain last night and this morning converted the track into a quagmire, which made speeding out of the question, although some good moves were recorded, the best of which follow:
