AT THE BRINK.

A Terrible Tragedy at the White Lot—Its Dire Results.

Up from the Potomac Flats, where the rank seagrass lay in tangled masses, and down by the mossy-banked Babcock Lake, where the sweet-smelling sedges grew in riotous abundance, and the spatterdock pressed its face against the surface of the dingy waters, the soft breezes of a June evening came stealing o'er cot and palace—o'er simple hamlet and moated castle. Standing idly, almost listlessly, by the postern gate that marked the entrance to her father's broad demesne, Gwendolen Riordan looked down the broad avenue that skirted the ancestral acres of her sire with a wistful, pleading expression in her County Antrim features that told more plainly than words, more eloquently than a three-sheet poster, of the hopes and fears that were harrassing her young Ohio avenue soul.

"Will he come?" she said softly to herself, blushing even as she spoke. "Is the fruition of my hopes to be a glad one, or must I again throw the black pall of disappointment over my cherished plans? Heaven forfend that I should for the third time drain to its dregs the bitter cup that a cruel fate has twice held to my lips—lips that were dry and parched for the kisses of one whom I shall ever love, and who will not see my mad passion for him. Do not drive me too far, Menelaus McGuire, or you will rue the day when Superintendent Hurt gave you a Pennsylvania avenue car to drive;" and with these words the girl kicked the family goat off the sidewalk and turned to enter the house. As she did so the rustle of a patrician polonaise was heard, and a fair-haired maiden of nineteen summers and a wet spring came around the corner with her starboard tacks aboard.

Giroffle Mahaffy was daughter of a purse-proud aristocrat who owned a milk-route, and she was not slow to make use of the social position to which, as the heiress of over $800, a time-serving world had raised her. She had met Menelaus McGuire at a fête champêtre given in honor of Aphrodite Johnson's eighteenth birthday and fallen desperately in love with him, although aware that he had plighted his troth to Gwendolen. She had sought by every art known to a woman to lure him from his rightful love. Was it strange, then, that Gwendolen both feared and hated her, and that once, in a mad frenzy of rage, she had said that Giroffle's back hair was no better than it should be?

The girls did not speak, and as Giroffle passed the Riordan goat, which was eating a discarded hoop-skirt, a haughty smile flitted over her face. "Goat's milk is healthy," she said, in low, scornful tones.

Gwendolen heard the words and faced the speaker. "Yes, Giroffle Mahaffy," she said, speaking slowly and calmly, although in turning she had pinched her corn, "we are poor; but I notice that we are invited to all the wakes and christenings. When it comes to going with the haut ton we capture the confectionery, and don't you forget it."

As the two girls stood there that June evening, their lithe figures sharply outlined against the crimson Western sky, the sight was a pretty one. Gwendolen with soft, lustrous, tearful eyes, and a pained expression in her sweetly pure face; Giroffle smiling a bitter, cruel smile. Suddenly Menelaus McGuire, he whom they both loved so well, came around the corner. Giroffle started toward him, a smile on her face, but he heeded her not. Stepping quickly to Gwendolen's side he took her hand in his, while a wave of color rushed over his face, and an infinite look of tenderness came into his bright eyes.

"Can you forgive my neglect, darling?" he said; "can you take me again to your heart?"

A great passionate throb of intense joy filled Gwendolen's heart. Looking up to Menelaus with tear-stained eyes she said in broken tones:

"Can I forgive you, my own? Well I should giggle."—From "Grabbed at the Brink," by Murat Halstead.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

Mr. James B. Carrington has purchased the vacant property corner Eighth and Main streets, Richmond, known as the Spottswood Hotel lot, for $96,000.

Mail-messenger service has been established between Green Forest, Rockbridge County, and the Richmond and Allegheny Railroad one-half mile as often as required.

The wife of Julius Alott, residing near Grafton, W. Va., committed suicide last Sunday evening by hanging herself from the rafters of a hay-mow. No cause is known for the act.

Miss Minnie Richardson, a daughter of Alexander Richardson, a well-to-do farmer of Montgomery County, committed suicide Saturday by hanging herself. She is said to have been driven to the act by mortification consequent upon the disappointment of her sister in a love affair.

The expedition against the oyster dredgers has returned. They captured sixteen schooners and one sloop, with sixty prisoners. One of the vessels had several hundred bushels of oysters on board. The prisoners, vessels, and oysters were turned over to the civil authorities of Matthews County.

A serious difficulty occurred several days ago at Littleton, Sussex County, between J. W. Adkins and Thomas Swain, resulting in the latter being dangerously stabbed by the former. Adkins is a well-known merchant of Littleton, and Swain was formerly the postmaster at the same place. A political discussion was the cause of the difficulty.

Mr. John L. Thomas, of Portsmouth, has purchased the Marine Railway with engine and all appurtenances of the Canton Marine Railway Company of Baltimore. This will be removed to Berkley, and will be located just above the ways of Messrs. Thomas & Thomas. The ways will be able to accommodate vessels of two thousand tons.

ALEXANDRIA NEWS.

The hall of Mechanics' Lodge, K. of P., has been handsomely refurnished.

The stockholders of the Midland Railroad will hold a meeting at the office of the company here to-day at noon.

The steamer City of Alexandria, now on the ways at the ship-yard here, will not be finished before the 10th of March.

Fourteen new pictures ("Stations of the Cross") have been blessed and placed in position at St. Mary's (Catholic) Church here.

Several scow loads of timber arrived at the ship-yard Saturday night, to be used in the construction of the new vessels now being built there.

No intelligence has been received from Judge Hughes in relation to the railroad and canal cases argued before him here last month and now awaiting his decision.

The oyster schooner Robert James, which was damaged by being run into by the schooner Anna Gibson, Captain Charles Kelley, on Saturday night, near Mathias' Point, is undergoing repairs at the ship-yard.

The smallpox has again broken out among the colored people in Freedman's Village, Arlington district, Alexandria County. Superintendent Adams has issued an order closing the colored schools in that district.

WHEN druggists, lawyers, and doctors, and even preachers occasionally, beside many others of various professions too numerous to mention, manifest a special interest in any one article we very naturally conclude it has some healthy bearing on their lives, or they would scarcely lift their voices with one accord to extol its virtues and place it before those going through life burdened with rheumatism. Filled with rapture over immediate relief, the sufferer ever after refers to St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy, as the most surprisingly efficacious of all remedial agents. We recently observed in a New Jersey exchange the following item in support of the above: Mr. Isaac Corsey, Manager Salem (N. J.) Glass-Works, remarks: I am pleased to say that I have used the Great Remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, for rheumatism, with excellent results; other members of my family have also been greatly benefited by it.

PEOPLE who cannot spend the season of winds and cold rains in sunny Florida should keep Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in the house. It is the best remedy for Colds and Coughs and will relieve sufferers at once.

Apollinaris.

"THE QUEEN OF TABLE WATERS."

British Med. Journal.

The ONLY spring which has been examined by the Department of State and by the Treasury of the United States, and the water of which has been expressly declared to be a natural mineral water.

Extracts from Official Documents of the U. S. Government.

"A purely natural mineral water, impregnated solely with its own gas."
—U. S. VICE-CONSULATE, Cologne, Germany, Oct. 18, 1877.

"Beyond question a natural mineral water."
—U. S. CONSULATE, Cologne, Germany, Nov. 26, 1878.

"The Apollinaris Water, as heretofore imported, is a natural mineral water."
—U. S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Washington, D. C., Feb. 21, 1879.

"Probably the purest, if not the only pure effervescent mineral waters shipped to the United States."

"It cannot be an artificial mineral water."

"I conclude, therefore, that the water imported under the name of Apollinaris Water is an article which is produced by nature, and is not the handiwork of man; that it is a natural and not an artificial water."
—CHARLES J. FOLGER, Sec. U. S. Treasury, Jan. 26, 1882.

The above extracts dispose completely of the various attacks made upon APOLLINARIS WATER by interested manufacturers of aerated waters.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For Dizziness, Rush of Blood to the Head, tending to Apoplexy, Dyspepsia, Fever and Ague, Dropsy, Pimples and Blotches, Scrofulous Humors and Sores, Tetter, Ring Worm, White Swelling, Erysipelas, Sore Eyes, and for young men suffering from Weakness or Debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: "I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for Dyspepsia, Dizziness, Weakness, and Kidney Disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest of blessings." MRS. M. MARTIN, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by all druggists everywhere at $1 per bottle.
