STANDARD OIL "THREW HIM" AND CUT "PENSION"

Paid to Give Up Business, but Contract Broken, Bankrupt Says.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Lawrence S. Nicolai, a bankrupt oil merchant of this city, in an examination before a referee in bankruptcy in this city yesterday, testified that in 1895 a contract was made between the Standard Oil Company and his brother and himself, operating in the oil business under the firm name of Nicolai Bros., if they would abandon their business.

Previous to this time for ten years business in opposition to the Standard the firm had successfully conducted its Oil Company. The amount agreed on, Mr. Nicolai said, was paid annually for ten years, or until January, 1906, when, in the words of the witness, "Standard Oil turned me down and refused to renew the arrangement."

"They found they could get along without me, I suppose," said Mr. Nicolai. Mr. Nicolai throughout the examination referred to himself as receiving "a pension" from the Standard Oil Company, although he admitted the contract was made with his brother as well.

After the termination of the contract Mr. Nicolai resumed the oil business under the name of the National Oil Co., but was unable to make it a success.

THREW A PUSSY AT WALDO IN BRONX

No Open Season for Deputy Commissioners and Boy Is Fined $2.

The plot thickens.

Reports that Deputy Police Commissioner Waldo while in a motor car in the wilds of Washington avenue, the Bronx, was murderously attacked with an aged and sprouting potato, have been denied. More terrible accounts, replacing the tainted tuber with an overripe tomato, were substituted. And various theories of the onslaught ran rife until Fred Rowe, aged sixteen, was hailed into the Westchester Court before Magistrate Mayo to-day to answer a charge of disorderly conduct.

Then it came out that the missile which young Rowe had hurled was neither "a tater" nor a "t'mater," but a pussy cat—not a live one, but the sort you tip up on one end with a stick and wallop as far as you can.

The pussy didn't hit Waldo. Far be it. But it fell in the car and disturbed the public official's peace.

Chauffeur Leitzh, who appeared against Rowe, made no claim that any of the occupants of the car were injured by the projectile. But he said that the "cat" might have hurt some one. The Commissioner for instance, and for that reason he refrained from the motor car and informed the young sportsman that there was no open season for Deputy Police Commissioners and that he was under arrest. Rowe might have spent the night in jail if his mother hadn't come around about 11 o'clock.

Having weighed all the evidence Magistrate Mayo fined the boy $2 and extracted from him the promise that he would refrain from playing pussy-cat upon the public highway when the swell cop Commissioner was passing by.

TOOK TO THEFT TO BUY FINE CLOTHES

Two Girls Admit Stealing $1,000 in Jewelry from Their Employer.

Because they wanted to buy summer clothes two little girls stole more than $1,000 worth of jewelry from the residence of Charles A. Scholl, engineer of the fire boat David Boody, and to-day confessed to it in the Long Island City Police Court. They are Carrie Hoff, seventeen years old, of Eagle and West streets, Brooklyn, and Nellie Graham, fifteen, of No. 140 North Eleventh street. The Hoff girl was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury, and little Nellie Graham, on account of her age, was held for Special Sessions.

Engineer Scholl testified in court that the girls worked at his home, No. 102 Hunter avenue, Long Island City, until June 7. After they left he missed his gold watch, several scarf-pins, a quantity of silver-ware and other valuables. The police locatede these in Greenpoint and Long Island City pawnshops. The girls said they took the things in order to buy clothes for the summer season. In court they showed no fear, and smiled and whispered to once another while the case was presented.

PULLED MR. TIGER'S ULCERATED TOOTH

Royal Bengal Roped While Dentist Takes Out His Broken Tusk.

Carmen, a ferocious royal Bengal tiger, the largest and most beautiful animal ever imported, had an ulcerated broken tooth pulled yesterday at Col. Ferari's Animal Kingdom at Brighton Beach. Seven animal men assisted the dentist, Dr. Benjamin Freeman.

After considerable canoeuvring a noose made of 1 1-2 inch rope was drawn tightly back o fthe big beast's head, while he fought to get out of the noose as a cat at a collar.

A smaller rope was fastened about the right forepaw. This was pulled between two iron bars and fastened down, throwing the huge cat on his side and his other feet were roped and bound in succession.

"We're ready for you now," said the colonel, who had gone inside the cage and orced the tiger's mouth open with a piece of 2x4 scantling.

After spraying the mouth with cocaine the dentist got his orceps on the big tusk, but they slipped. He made two other attempts, and each time brought away a small piece of the tusk. The tiger lay remarkably still. He pulled on the ropes that held him, but most of his strength was spent on the piece of scantling between his massive jaws. Every few seconds he crushed splinters off it.

Finally, with a three-foot iron bar as a brace, two blows of a hammer loosened the tusk. It was broken and taken out in pieces. When the ropes were taken off the tiger he jumped to his feet, shook himself and growled. He didn't seem to be any the worse for his experience. armen is ten years old and measures fourteen feet from tip to tip. He weighs more than 500 pounds.
