HIGHLANDERS ONCE AGAIN IN THE LEAD

Hilltop Boys Are Tied for First Position with Athletics and Clevelands.

Back again into first place are the Highlanders to-day, but they are not the sole occupants of that important position, for they have for company the Clevelands and Connie Mack's hustling Athletics from the Quaker City, all three teams being tied for the lead with thirty-six wins and twenty-four losing games.

This is the first time since the first few days after the opening of the season that three clubs have been tied for the lead in the race. By winning another game from Jimmy Collins's Boston nine yesterday Griffith's men succeeded in climbing into first place. This victory certainly came at the right time, as both the Clevelands and the Athletics lost a game. "Griff's" men are cerainly to be complimented for the position which they now occupy.

When the result of the first Cleveland-Chicago game was posted on the score board at the American League grounds and it was shown that the Clevelands had lost, Griffith's crowd started in to play their best ball. Up to the eighth inning the Highlanders led by one run. Then Collins's crowd got on to Hogg's curves and smashed them to all parts of the field for three runs, which gave them a lead of two.

The Highlanders cut loose in their half, and before they were retired they had sent five runs over the plate as a consequence of heavy hitting. These runs clinched the game, for the visitors were quickly retired in their last inning.

HARRY LEWIS BREAKS PRENDERGAST'S JAW

With Right-Hand Smash in Fourth Round—Quaker Saved by Bell.

(Special to The Evening World.)

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 29.—A hard right-hand swing to the jaw at the close of the fourth round broke Tommy Prendergast's jaw in his fight here last night, and Harry Lewis, of Philadelphia was declared the winner.

Up to the finish the fight had been Prendergast's by a good shade, as Lewis had been saved from a knockout by the bell in the third round, going down from a terrific left swing and coming up to meet a right uppercut that caught him as the bell rang. He came back for the fourth round and fought carefully. Just before the bell sounded Lewis drove forward, copping Prendergast on the jaw with a right and bringing his left around to the same place. Prendergast hung on and staggered to his corner at the sound of the bell. He tried to talk to his seconds but could not, and an examination showed that he had a broken jaw.

The first two rounds of the fight were even, without a shade either way.

Both men fought carefully except for an occasional wild swing. Lewis was liked by the crowd, as he showed himself to be a willing, aggressive fighter with a good wallop.

The boys weighed 190 pounds. Odds before the fight were 10 to 7 on Lewis.

IS RACING A SPORT OR QUESTION OF HARD COIN?

Go Between Case Brings Up the Technicality and It Will Be Interesting to Find Out Just What Is What.

BY FRANK W. THORP.

If racing is a business on the part of the "gentlemen" engaged in it and a mere question of dollars and cents, then of course one is justified in resorting to technicalities to get the money. If, on the other hand, racing is a sport, then technicalities should find no place. When a horse wins a race fairly and squarely, purely on his own courage and merits, no technicality or trivial transgression of the rules should dislodge him or take from his owner the fruits of a victory brought about by painstaking care and preparation.

Technicalities such as formed the basis of the objections in the case of Go Between ought not be considered for a moment by the stewards. They leave a bad taste in the mouth. They hold up to the public view the sordid side of the racing game, and make a sham of the claim that racing is a sport.

This claim against Go Between is like the grasp of a drowning man at a straw. It is on a par with the claim made by Andrew Miller against Hermis at Saratoga a couple of years ago. Technical objection was raised after Hermis won a race because the partnership between E. R. Thomas and Alex Shields was not properly registered.

Would it not have been infinitely more sportsmanlike on the part of Mr. Hitchcock to have gone to Mr. Shields and said:

"Mr. Shields, your horse Go Between is not a gelding. Neither is he a stallion. He is a ridgling and should be described as such. You are liable to claims for improper description."

Go Between was sold in good faith as a gelding, purchased in good faith as a gelding and did not profit in the race by any weight allowance for geldings. A jury of twelve racing men would throw this case out of court without leaving their chairs.

The victory of Inquisitor in the Sheepshead Bay Handicap set a whole lot of people talking about his recent performances. Inquisitor was beaten a block in his last race, and his previous performance was also very bad. But both of these races were in mud. It cannot be said, however, that Inquisitor is not a mudder, because he has run good races in the mud, especially in slop. I remember his winning at Sheepshead in a blinding rainstorm as a two-year-old, and again at Gravesend running a corking race third to George C. Bennett in heavy going. And there you are. He runs good and bad in mud, and I guess we will have to pass it along as one of those mysterious performances for which there is no explanation.

Contrast the last two performances of Capt. Emerich, note the betting, and then draw your own conclusions. Captain Emerich's last start was at Gravesend on June 13. He carried 119 pounds and O'Neill, was away in the first four, showed speed, and then dropped out of it, finishing eighth. The betting opened at 20 to 1 and soared to 40 to 1. Not a nickel showed in the ring. The impression to be gleaned from this performance was that Capt. Emerich was a quitter, no account and not worth backing.

Yesterday Capt. Emerich carried 112 pounds and O'Neill, gave weight to everything in the race, came from far behind and finished like a bulldog. Note the betting yesterday—from 7 to 1 down to nothing. The closing paper prices indicate that he was 5 to 1 when the horses went to the post. He was off the boards. Men went crazily clamoring for a price against this creamy bit of goods.

Of course these things are all right. Everything is all right on the Eastern turf. No inquiries, no explanations. Everything goes as it lies. If these two races of Capt. Emerich were run in the West a howl would go up that would split the heavens.

Hobokens to Play Paterson.

The Patersons, who are aspirants for the New Jersey State baseball championship, will face the Hoboken team Sunday for the second time this season. In the first game of the series the Patersonians put up a stiff argument and barely lost the contest by a margin of a solitary tally. The combination is a fast one and has defeated all of the crack teams of Greater New York this season, and a hot game is anticipated.

NO RAH! RAH! RAHS! YALE CREWS AT HOME

NEW HAVEN, June 29.—All the members of the Yale crews, with the exception of Capt. Morse, who remained in New London, arrived here at 9.20 o'clock last night on a special train and went quietly to their rooms. The men, it was stated, were all in good condition.

INTERNATIONAL ATHLETIC STARS IN THIS MEET

The best athletes ever seen in action at a single meet, with the possible exception of the annual A. A. U. championships, will compete in the various events that make up the programme of the games of the Clan-na-Gael at Celtic Park Sunday. It isn't likely that New Yorkers will have another chance this season of seeing such rare talent of the field and cinder path.

In addition to the many champions, hundreds of ambitious youngsters, who some day will win national fame in athletics, will toe the mark in all the competitions.

Martin Sheridan, whose performances at Athens in the Olympic Games won him world-wide distinction, will undoubtedly be the star of the day. Sheridan isn't in the best of shape just now, the injury to his knee received in Athens still troubling him. This has developed what in athletic circles is known as a, "jumper," a swollen vein which throbs constantly. Despite this, Martin will compete in the weight events and do his best.

John Flanagan, the most remarkable hammer-thrower the world has ever seen, will throw the wire-handled sixteen-pound missile. It has been said of Flanagan that he could break the record every day in the week if he chose. It is possible he may add a foot or two to his already marvellous distance Sunday.

Kiely, Too, Will Compete.

Tom Kiely, who won the all-around championship in Boston last Saturday, is also down among the competitors. Kiely alone is a sufficient attraction for any set of games.

Brendemis, the boy wonder from South Bend, Indiana, who finished second to Kiely in the all-round championship, will also compete.

Aside from the field-event stars several cinder-path performers who have won international fame will go off their respective marks as the starter's pistol clicks.

This Should Be a Race.

Think of what the three-mile race should be with such starters as John Daly, the cross-country champion and distance title holder of Ireland and England, Johnny Dalton, the American champion; William Bailey, the Mohawk boy who leaped into athletic prominence by recently beating Joyce; Harvey Cohn, Eddie Carr, of the Xaviers, and Billy Frank, the ten-mile champion, who ran third to Sherring in the Marathon race in Greece, lack of attendance along the twenty-four miles spoiling his chance of winning.

Other events—the dash, the 220, the hurdles, the quarter-mile run and the 880—will bring out the best material in the metropolitan district. Every club will be represented, the New York A. C. sending its strongest team. The article list is so big that Johnny McHugh has had his own troubles getting it into performance shape. More than 800 have sent in entries.

All told, the Clan-na-Gael meet should be the biggest of the year.

MOTOR BOATS START OFF IN LONG RACE

Twelve Little Racers Leave Marblehead in Knickerbocker A. C. Contest.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., June 29.—Amid the din of whistles from the many craft of all descriptions in the harbor and cheers from those on board, twelve motor boats started at 6.30 o'clock last night in the race of the Knickerbocker Yacht Club, of New York, from this port to that city.

A strong west wind favored the boats. The May, owned by A. A. Low, of the Knickerbocker Club, was the first across the line, closely followed by the Unome, while the others were well bunched as they passed out around the point.

GYMKHANA GAMES IN BIG GARDEN TO-NIGHT

Another set of gymkhana games has been arranged and will be held at the Madison Square Garden roller skating rink to-night. Races of all kinds will be decided, including potato, obstacle and reversed contests. Harry McDonald, the speedy Mercury Foot skater, will start from scratch in several of the events.

After the games Davidson, the world's champion acrobatic skater, will give an exhibition of high and broad jumping. One of the feats that Davidson will perform will be a jump over seven chairs. To-morrow night the Wanita and St. Peter's basket-ball teams will play a game.

NO NEW MATERIAL THIS SEASON FOR THE GIANTS

McGraw Denies Report to Contrary—Bulger Picks Champions to Capture Pennant, with the Cubs Second and Pirates Third.

BY BOZEMAN BULGER.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BOSTON, Mass., June 29.—McGraw has driven his spikes squarely into all rumors about new men, and unless some "phenom" springs up and can be taken in tow without difficulty no new faces will be seen on the New York club this season.

This flat-footed statement came from McGraw when he had grown tired of questions which had been coming by the dozen from all sections of the country.

A week ago the busybodies claimed to have it straight that Joe Kelley, formerly manager of the Cincinnati Reds, had signed a contract and would join the Giants on July 1. Telegrams thick and fast came from Cincinnati and New York until McGraw stuck a pin in the rumor by announcing last night that the report was wholly without foundation.

At the same time the Giant manager found it necessary to deny a report that he was after two stars of the Eastern League, one for the infield and the other for the outfield.

"Of course I would like to have a cracking good outfielder until Donlin gets well," said McGraw. "But where can I get one? Does anybody think that a National League club is going to let any of its stars go at this time of the season? They need them as badly as we do. Besides, our sparseness of men is only temporary. Strang and Brown will both be all right in a few days."

Now, think that over. McGraw knows his business, and those three pennant flags out at the Polo Grounds are there to prove it.

In all the League the writer does not know a man who can do much better than Bresnahan in centre field. He is holding down the job to the Queen's taste. Roger is hitting at a .300 clip and is always in the game when on the bases. Of course Marshall is not up to the mark as a fielder, but his hitting is timely. In a few days Strang and Brown will both be ready, and what more do you want? Now, just sit steady in the boat and don't let your head swim.

Outside of a man temporarily in Donlin's place no new men are needed. The crowd they've got is strong enough to win the pennant, and in my opinion they will.

The pitchers are all working well now, and twelve victories out of the last fourteen games is a record that can only be equalled by the topnotchers.

Here the fans and experts seem to figure Pittsburg as the main contender against the Giants, but I can't see it. To the writer Chicago looks like the dangerous club. According to form Pittsburg, in my opinion, should finish third. They have nothing by which they should defeat New York.

On the other hand, Chicago has made a remarkable record, and appears to be able to keep going. Still they do not play finished baseball, as do the Giants.

In fact, no club does.

This afternoon McGinnity will probably pitch against the Boston club unless Wiltse's arm is in good shape to work. It will be the last game here, as both clubs leave for New York to-night to play at the Polo Grounds Saturday.

GANS TO FIGHT BLACKBURN IN QUAKER CITY TO-NIGHT

BY JOHN POLLOCK.

There will be a six-round battle in Philadelphia to-night which ought to result in one of the most vicious fights that has taken place in that city in a long time. The pugilists who will figure in it will be Joe Gans, the light and welter weight champion, and Jack Blackburn, the clever boxer of the Quaker City, who claims he is Gans's master in any number of rounds. Both are colored men, and when once two scrappers of the same color meet in the squared circle, providing they hold a grudge against each other, like Gans and Blackburn do, it is a safe bet that there will be no let-up to the vicious slugging when once the bell rings. A knockout is liable to result, and Gans believes he will score it.

Stanley Offered Fight with Walsh.

Matthawker Mah Murray, of the Lincoln A. C., of Chelsea, Mass., last night cabled to England offering Digger Stanley, the little English boxer, a good incentive to come to this country and meet Jimmy Walsh, the New England feather-weight, in a fifteen-round bout on July 28. As the fighting game is practically dead in Johnny Bull's country just now it is likely that Stanley will accept the offer provided he is allowed enough money for his travelling expenses.

Heavy-Weight Cooley Gets a Fight.

Fred Cooley, the Chicago heavy-weight whose bout with Al Kaufmann, the California pugilist, fell through on account of the club at Grand Rapids, Mich., not being willing to offer a large enough incentive, has been successful in getting an amateur bout. He has signed articles of agreement to meet Jack Dempsey, a Western light-heavy-weight, for ten rounds at a show to be brought off at Kenosha on the night of July 4.

Mellody Favorite Over Willie Lewis.

Billy "Honey" Mellody, the rugged New England welter-weight, has been made the favorite in the betting over Willie Lewis for their fifteen-round bout, which is to be decided before the Lenox A. C. of Chelsea, Mass., on July 4. The followers of pugilism in New England think Mellody is a wonder and claim that he will have no trouble in beating Lewis. The latter is liable to hand out a surprise in this fight, as he is training hard for the contest and will be in fit condition.
