The maintenance of a "training school" to initiate young girls into nameless practices is the latest allegation brought by detectives of the West Forty-seventh street station against Henry Alford Short, Columbia graduate and member of the University Club, who is locked up in the West Side Court prison charged with having mistreated two fourteen-year-old girls.

It is now certain, according to Detective Troy, that Short was leader of a coterie of men who made the betrayal of young girls their avocation. Letters that have been discovered are taken to prove that the men effected their purpose by a system that worker as smoothly as some well regulated business. Although the police are keeping some of the more incriminating letters secret, a passage in one of them is indicative of the rest. It reads:

Passage from Letter.

"I have a pretty little girl who will need a course in my training school."

Bertha Ennis, twenty-six years old, and Helen Yornell, twenty-nine, who have a flat at No. 902 Sixth avenue, were discharged in the West Side Court to-day and then held the witnesses. They had been arrested last night.

To-day the police are making a thorough investigation to ascertain how the women secured their tender victims. Thus far Detective Troy declares he has evidence that the children were obtained by means of "personals" and want ads. Some of these, he said, seemingly sought the service of a girl of fourteen for light housework, while others pretended to be inserted by a woman who liked the society of children.

Long List of Addresses.

How successful these advertisements were, the police say, is clearly proven by the long list of addresses found in Short's room. Great difficulty has been experienced so far in getting the parents of the victims to make charges.

In the search of his rooms the police came upon the little notebook which will be a feature of the case. It is one of the most startling documents of the sort that has yet been found. Between its daintily stamped, green morocco covers the book contains a list of the names of forty girls, with notes on their appearance and their progress in the "training-school."

Interspersed among the names are unprintable verses and jokes of the same order. An example of the coldly calculating way in which this thing was carried on is in the labelling of the limericks for various purposes. Some are headed "For a pretty little miss," while others read "For a married woman."

Names and Descriptions.

Beside the name and description of one young girl was the note: "To young yet, but promising." The name and address of a little girl in Vermont was followed by the significant comment: "Must get her to the city and have her educated." The name of a well known young actress also appears, with the footnote: "She looks good to me."

The police say that Short was in the habit of taking improper photographs of little girls and that he sent these photographs with descriptions written on the back to his friends. The names of several of the men in the gang are known and an effort was made to locate them to-day.

"I know at least a dozen cases," said Detective Troy, "where the parents would rather let the thing go than have their children brought into public notice."

The amazing disclosures in the past twenty-four hours have had their effect on Short's associates. Although he has been locked up since Sunday night nobody has called on him. It is said by the police that there are several of his associates who would be arrested on the same charge should they appear at the prison. Short to-day showed the worry that he has experienced. He was extremely nervous and pale when his meagre jail breakfast was brought to his cell, but he still persisted in his resolution to say nothing of the case.

Short is in many ways a strange prisoner. Although he had more than $200 on his person when arrested, he has not sent out for any luxuries. He seems satisfied with the plain prison fare. This is in direct contrast to the "kicks" of the ordinary prisoners, most of whom have lived on stuff little better than the jail food. Short, habitue of the University Club's excellent grill-room and the expensive restaurants of upper Broadway, however, has not had a word to say on the penal commissariat.

Short's cell is near that of the Livingston woman, but he has not spoken to her since they have been prisoners. She, too, gives no sign of recognition when she passes him. It is believed that they have a tacit agreement to appear to be unknown to each other.

Strange Room Decorations.

The decorations of Short's apartments are rather incongruous. On the mantel is a large portrait of his father, the late Prof. Charles Short, of Columbia, taken in his official robes. Prof. Short was for years one of the wardens of St. Thomas's Church. Over the head of Short's bed is a crayon portrait of Bishop Potter and beneath it in an illuminated scroll the text: "Jesus loves my soul; He is my Saviour."

Other pictures are copies of religious paintings and a steel engraving representing Salisbury Cathedral. Scattered about on the walls and mantels are photographs of nude women and actresses in light attire. In his bookcases French novels and trashy literature are sandwiched with a Bible and the Book of Common Prayer. It is said that Short made it a practice to attend St. Thomas's Church every Sunday, and often spoke of his friendship for Bishop Potter. In his wardrobe were twenty or more suits of clothes and a supply of shoes sufficient to fit out a centipede.

POLICE GRAFTER SENT TO PRISON

Sheehan, Convicted of Taking Bribe, Given Two Years' Sentence.

After having served seventeen years on the police force, Patrolman William H. Sheehan was to-day sentenced by Recorder Goff to not less than one year nor more than two years in Sing Sing. He was convicted two days ago of having compounded a felony while attached to the East One Hundred and Fourth street station.

Sheehan accepted $50 as a bribe from Mrs. Mary Parron, a colored woman, of No. 262 West Forty-fourth street, to "forget" incriminating evidence against her nephew, Howard Post. Young Post is in the Tombs charged with having shot and killed Florence Souser. The girl did not die for several days after the shooting and Patrolman Sheehan took charge of her in the hospital. It is alleged that she made statements to him that would tend to incriminate Post.

When Recorder Goff passed sentence to-day he laid stress upon the gravity of coloring evidence. He characterized it as one of the most serious of crimes.

BLAZE IN HOTEL SCARED NO GUESTS

Most of the two hundred guests at the Continental Hotel, Broadway and Twentieth street, didn't know anything about the fire that burned for fifteen minutes to-day in the servants' quarters in the basement.

A blaze started in a mattress in one of the chambermaids' rooms on the Twentieth street side of the building. Two men employees dragged the mattress into the engine room and there doused out the flames with a few buckets of water.

While they were congratulating each other upon their presence of mind there was a yell. In yanking the mattress along the two heroes had left a trail of sparks and burning straw behind them and the woodwork of the chambermaid's room was blazing briskly. The job having grown too large for amateurs to handle, one of them ran into Broadway and called Policeman Patrick Purcell. He turned in an alarm and one engine company put out the flames, with a loss conservatively estimated at $575.

There was a good deal of smoke for a few minutes, but none of it saw fit to blow into any of the guests' rooms. The clerk had all the bellboys lined up in the office, ready to spread through the hotel and notify the occupants if the fire should get much headway.

THE S.S.S. STANDARD TONIC

The ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed, and the method of combining and preparing them so that they gently and pleasantly build up and strengthen every part of the body, make it the ideal tonic for a disordered condition of the system. Every one feels the need of a tonic sometimes. The system seems to get "out of gear," the appetite becomes fickle, the energies are depressed, sleep is not restful or refreshing, and the entire body has a nervous, worn-out feeling. When the system is in this depleted, run-down condition it must be aided by a tonic, and S. S. S. is recognized everywhere as the standard. Being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks selected for their gentle action as well as their invigorating effect on the system, it will not disagreeably affect any of the delicate members or tissues as do most of the so-called tonics on the market which contain potash or some other harmful mineral ingredient. These derange the stomach and digestion, unfavorably affect the bowels or otherwise damage the health. S. S. S. tones up the stomach and digestion, improves the appetite, produces refreshing sleep, rids the body of that tired, run-down feeling, and supplies tone and vigor to the entire system. It re-establishes the healthy circulation of the blood, acts more promptly and gives better and more lasting results than any other tonic, and because of its vegetable purity is an absolutely safe medicine for young or old. S. S. S. acts admirably in cases of dyspepsia, indigestion and other stomach troubles, and after using it that uncomfortable feeling of fullness, dizziness or drowsiness, after eating, are no longer felt. Not only is S. S. S. the greatest of all tonics but possesses purifying and alterative properties, and if there is a taint in the blood it will promptly remove every trace and restore perfect health. In selecting your tonic for this year do not experiment but get S. S. S., the recognized standard.
