STURGIS DENIES HE HEARD THAW THREATEN WHITE

Friend of Millionaire Slayer Tells The Evening World He Never Heard Thaw Say He Would Like to Kill the Architect.

"You will be perfectly safe in saving in your paper that I never heard Harry Thaw make any threats of any sort against Mr. White. You cannot make this too positive. Further than this I must decline to discuss this affair. I am Harry Thaw's friend and I do not care to talk about a matter affecting him so closely."—Statement by William Sturgis made to The Evening World to-day over the long-distance telephone from Berlin, Conn.

"Billy" Sturgis never heard Harry Thaw threaten the life of Stanford White, and never saw Thaw make any threatening demonstration against White.

Mr. Sturgis will swear to the truth of this when he is interviewed by Assistant District-Attorney Garvan, and he will repeat it under oath on the stand should either side summon him as a witness to the trial of Thaw for the murder of White.

It has been reported that "Billy" Sturgis, Thaw's closest friend, had fled from the State after the killing on the roof garden because he feared he might be compelled to give testimony of a most damaging character against Thaw. It was said that he had been present once, months ago, when Thaw drew a revolver in the St. Regis Hotel with the intention of killing White, and was only dissuaded from his purpose by the presence of Mrs. White. It was also said that Sturgis could tell, if he would, of many occasions when Thaw announced his intention of taking White's life.

Mr. Sturgis's Denial.

Sturgis's own statement to The Evening World gives the lie to all these stories. This afternoon, after Mr. Garvan had received a letter from Sturgis saying he was not in hiding and had never been hidden since the shooting, an Evening World reporter got in communication with Mr. Sturgis over the long-distance telephone at Berlin, Conn., where he is now staying.

This positive declaration by Mr. Sturgis leaves but one known person who is said to have been present when Thaw declared he would shoot White. That person is Mrs. Beatrice Schwartz, a widow living at the Pierrepont, in Thirty-second street, who was served with a Grand Jury subpoena to-day at her rooms. She is to be interviewed by Mr. Garvan to-morrow.

Assistant District-Attorney Garvan received the following letter from Mr. Sturgis to-day. It was dated yesterday and written on letterheads of the Seward Rubber Company, of Berlin, Conn.:

Letter from Sturgis.

"Dear Sir: The newspapers announce that both the District-Attorney's office and counsel engaged to defend Mr. Harry Kendall Thaw are anxious to know my whereabouts. I am at present at the above address, where I have been engaged for the past six months. I have no intention of changing either my present address or my business.

"I have no desire to thrust myself forward in a matter which has excited such great public interest, but I have kept my address no secret.

"As I have been, and am, on friendly terms with all the members of the Thaw family, you can appreciate that I am disposed to respond to any call for information in my possession and knowledge which Mr. Thaw's family may see fit at this time to request. Needless to say, such information will be furnished by me with due regard for the requirements of strict truth and honesty.

"I do not expect to be in New York for the next few days, but if you desire to see me I will meet you or your representatives at any reasonable time in the office of counsel in Hartford. I take this opportunity to deny most emphatically the many erroneous statements which have appeared in the public press in regard to myself and my conduct in this matter, and beg to request that you will give this letter publication so that any wrong which has been unwittingly done me may be corrected as far as possible.

"I am sending a copy of this letter to Mr. Thaw's counsel. Yours very truly,

"WILLIAM STURGIS."

Young White Threatened.

Thaw sympathizers, it was learned by The Evening World to-day, have sent threatening letters to Lawrence White, son of Architect Stanford White. The young man has turned these missives over to Allen W. Evarts, counsel of the White family.

"I do not take any of these letters seriously," said young White to an Evening World reporter at his home, No. 121 Gramercy park, "and I am not at all afraid."

Asked to speak further of the letters and their contents, he continued:

"Some wanted to meet me at certain places. I remember one was penned from the Hotel Astor and others were brutal in their purport and most cruel in their reference to my father. Altogether I have received a great many letters, but I much prefer not to discuss them at all."

Young White is yet in his teens. He is slender and straight as an arrow. His hair is black and complexion dark. He wears eyeglasses and has a most pleasing address, not in the least excited.

Interested in Affidavit.

The son was deeply concerned in the reports of the Evelyn Nesbit affidavit. He wanted to know if it had been located.

"All the information I ever had on that subject was what I read in the newspapers," he said. "I never heard of these Broadway people before, nor did any member of our family. However, I see that the newspapers are beginning to turn and make some attempt to do justice to my father. I doubt if they can ever undo the wrong they have done his memory."

Young White did not mention Thaw by name. He referred to him as "that Pittsburg Mick." He said the family were delighted at the attitude taken by P. L. Bergoff, the private detective, in defending his father. He said that but for the decision of Mr. Evarts against any interviews he would like to say a few words as to Stanford White's home life. He continued:

Never Threatened to Kill Thaw.

"While I never gave that interview saying that I was going to kill Thaw if he went free, I did say and have said many times that my father was the best father that ever lived. In matters relating to his business I knew him but slightly. Those affairs were taken care of by his secretary, Charley Hartnett, Harry Link and others of the office force."

Young Mr. White came in from St. James in an automobile, and was busy attending to matters in connection with the settling of his father's estate.

Secretary Charles Hartnett has had several conferences with Assistant District-Attorney Garvan, and as the result of his revelations of the names of young actresses with whom his employer was acquainted a great many subpoenas have been issued.

Carried Messages and Flowers.

Mr. Hartnett knew of Mr. White's interest in Evelyn Nesbit as far back as the time she and her mother were living at the Hotel Wellington and she a member of the "Wild Rose" company. Mr. White's private secretary reluctantly admitted that he had carried messages and flowers for his employer to the Nesbits at the Hotel Wellington.

Inquiry into the life of mother and daughter at a Seventh avenue hotel showed that they occupied rooms at opposite ends of the hall—in short, separate apartments. The prosecution further learned that Miss Nesbit's room was specially decorated, and hung with fine paintings paid for with money supplied by the dead architect.

Secretary Talks at Last.

Mr. Hartnett appears to have been the only man intimately acquainted with the manner of life White was leading, and his lips were sealed until after the roof-garden murder. He carried many messages, not only before Thaw appeared upon the scene out afterward, when the chorus girl and the Pittsburger returned from Europe in November, 1904, and were domiciled with Mrs. J. J. Caine at No. 46 West Ninetieth street.

Mr. Garvan announced this afternoon that he had succeeded in serving a Grand Jury subpoena upon Mrs. Beatrice Schwartz, the mysterious woman from the South, who is alleged to have heard Thaw threaten White's life.

Return of Mrs. Schwartz.

The Southern woman fled to Atlantic City last week while process-servers were looking for her. Yesterday she returned to her old apartments in the Pierrepont, at Broadway and Thirty-second street.

At 5 o'clock this morning Detective-Sergeants Beerer and Mensching went to the Pierrepont with the Grand Jury subpoena. After waiting vainly until 9 o'clock for Mrs. Schwartz to appear they invoked the aid of the clerk, Jo Beevis, in the name of the law. Beevis told them to go to a warmer place. Mensching put him under arrest and took him to Mr. Garvan's office. At the prospect of being locked up Beevis weakened and agreed to assist the detectives. Just before starting back he wanted to know if the State expected to pay him for his time. The answer was no, spoken with emphasis.

Meanwhile Beerer had turned the trick. He followed a bellboy who went to Mrs. Schwartz's rooms with ice water. When the bellboy knocked at her door and she opened it Mrs. Schwartz got the pitcher of ice water and the subpoena simultaneously.

Miss Ritchie Missing.

Shortly after the letter written by Stanford White to Paula Marr, the show girl, appeared in The Evening World yesterday afternoon a strange man, looking very much like a subpoena-server, appeared at the door of Miss Adele Ritchie's residence, at No. 251 West Seventieth street. Miss Ritchie was asked for, also Miss Adele Ritchie, Jr. The maid who answered the bell announced that they were not at home. Repeated calls failed to bring any response from the actress and her protege.

BALL GROUNDS, PITTSBURG, July 11.—Bunts and base-running helped defeat the Brooklyn in the second game of the double-header to-day, Pittsburg finding Casey and Eason slow on taps, save them a bunch to handle. Several infield tangles occurred as a result, and then hits followed. Casey was so tired that he ducked one grounder.

Brooklyn had many chances for runs, but ran bases so poorly that only one tally was secured. Alperman repeated Scanlon's act of yesterday, and stood glued to third base once, when he had a golden chance to run home.

First Inning.

Maloney out, second to first. Casey stopped at first on a slow roller to Ritchey. Lumley doubled to right. Ritter struck out on foul bunts. NO RUNS.

Beaumont flied to Lumley. Ganley popped to Lewis. Clarke got a single to left. Wagner chopped to Eason and was an easy out. NO RUNS.

Second Inning.

Alperman put a triple into right field. Lewis grounded to Ritchey and was out at first. Alperman was slow in trying for home and Nealon threw him out. Hummel tripled to right centre, but was out, Beaumont, Wagner to Gibson. NO RUNS.

Nealon out, second to first. Leach singled, but was out, Bergen to Alperman. Ritchey flied to Maloney. NO RUNS.

Third Inning.

Bergen flied to Beaumont. Eason made three strikes, but got first on Nealon's muff of Gibson's throw. Maloney forced Eason, Ritchey to Wagner. Maloney was out, Gibson to Wagner. NO RUNS.

RRiter scooped a low throw from Lewis and retired Gibson. Willis gave Maloney a fly. Beaumont flied to Lumley. NO RUNS.

Fourth Inning.

Casey filed to Clarke. Lumley out, Willis to first. Ritter out, Leach to first. Nealon kicked the ball off the ground.

Ganley beat a grounder, and got second on Ritter's wild toss. Clarke beat a bunt to Casey, and took second on Casey's throw over Ritter's head. Ganley scored. Wagner sacrificed. Casey to first. On the bunt-and-get-there, Clarke scored when Nealon bunted to Eason and was thrown out at first. Leach flied to Maloney. TWO RUNS.

Fifth Inning.

Alperman got a Texas league double to left. Lewis sacrificed. Hummel's single scored Alperman. Bergen forced Hummel, Wagner to Ritchey. Eason flied to Nealon. ONE RUN.

Clarke bunted safely. Wagner sacrificed to first. Nealon beat out a slow roller which Casey sidestepped. Leach flied to Lumley. Nealon stole second. Ritchey doubled, scoring two runs. Gibson fouled to Ritter. TWO RUNS.

Seventh Inning.

"GET-RICH-QUICK" MAN A FUGITIVE

Manager Benton Disappears and "Mutual Home Realty Co." Left in a Tangle.

What looks like the collapse of another get-rich-quick concern came to light in Brooklyn this afternoon through the announcement that William C. Brenton, general manager of the Mutual Home Realty Company, has disappeared, and that in the safe at the office, No. 44 Court street, not a cent was found. The safe was drilled open by D. C. McClese, who says he comes from Rochester and has been called in to straighten out the company's affairs.

That they needed straightening was evident this afternoon when a hundred men and women, poorly dressed and plainly of the working class, besieged the ground-glass door and tried to get inside. A typical case was that of Mrs. Annie Sullivan, of No. 256 Fifty-seventh street, who said she paid in $65.50 on the understanding that she would be given a house on July 1. G. Harramon said he had been made a Manhattan agent of the company and set up an office in Lafayette street. The rent is due there now and he figures he is out $60. He took in $4.

McClese said the books were in bad shape, but he was hopeful. He declared that arrangements had been made to have capital put into the concern to set it going again. He said a majority of the 500 clients are satisfied.

According to McClese the management of the place during Benton's stay was queer. He said that when he arrived at the luxuriously furnished offices he was surprised to find young girls no more than seventeen years old smoking cigarettes and making themselves at home. He said that they had a habit of puffing smoke into the faces of the horny handed depositors. Elimination of the girls and the cigarettes was one of the first reforms Mr. McClese instituted.

Benton dropped out of sight a week ago Monday.

MORGAN'S ANNOYER IS AGAIN JUDGED INSANE.

Mrs. Ellen Barbara Williams, the Englishwoman who raised a row in the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. last spring, was arrested and sent to Bellevue Hospital, is still a lunatic in the eyes of the law.

Justice Truax, of the Supreme Court, to-day denied the application made by her counsel to set aside the court proceedings adjudging her a lunatic as null and void.

Mrs. Williams was examined by alienists of the city by a physician appointed by the Court and by a physician appointed at the request of her counsel. All declared her to be a paranoiac and recommended that the woman have a committee of her person and estate appointed.

She is now believed to be in Newark, N. J.

An appeal will be argued next October.

CLEVELAND AT HIS NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME.

TAMWORTH, N. H., July 11.—Ex-President Grover Cleveland arrived here during the afternoon and was driven immediately to his new summer home, two miles outside the village.

Mr. Cleveland was met at the station by Mrs. Cleveland.

RACEGOERS HELD UP BY ACCIDENT

B. R. T. Car Derailed and the Passengers Are Stalled for an Hour.

Thousands of fretting, fuming racegoers sat in their stalled trains to-day because of an hour's tie-up on the B. R. T. at Manhattan Terrace. Two cars of a city-bound Brighton Beach train had jumped the rails, blocking traffic both ways at a time when the rush to the track was greatest.

While the work of reducing the grade crossings of the main line is going on the Brighton Beach trains have been running over the tracks of the old Manhattan Beach line and also over a temporary structure at Manhattan Terrace. It was at the junction that the accident occurred.

Either the switchman did not open the frog properly or the motorman ran past a block signal. At any rate the first two cars were derailed as they crossed the switch. The wheels did not leave the right of way, but the cars bumped along for some distance on their trucks. Twenty passengers in the two coaches were shaken up, but nobody was hurt.

It took an hour to clear the southbound track, so that the race trains could go through. It was another hour before traffic toward Manhattan was resumed.

THIS STORK AIDED STARVING FAMILY

With her three starving children wailing from hunger Mrs. Mary Blackla, only twenty-three years old, gave birth to-day to a fourth child shortly after she was found in a squalid hovel at Woodward and Metropolitan avenues, East Williamsburg. The young mother had been deserted by her husband, who is an iron moulder. After trying to support her brood by doing washing she gave up the struggle three days ago and remained helpless on a heap of straw in the hut.

The family was found by Patrolman Henry Boch, of the Glendale station. He heard the moaning of the children and investigated. Before an ambulance could arrive Mrs. Blackla had given birth to a boy. She was taken to the German Hospital, where it was said mother and child are well despite the privations she has undergone. The other little ones were turned over to the Gerry society. They are: Mary, four years old; John, three, and Josepa, two.

Mrs. Backla said when her husband left her three months ago they had a comfortably furnished home in Brooklyn. She sold the furniture bit by bit to get money for food. When the furniture was gone and she was obliged shortly to leave the house she came to the deserted shed on a vacant lot. In this place she bravely tried to do washing, but was obliged to give up the fight.

At the Glendale station, where the children were kept until she was found enough them to the Gerry Society's rooms, the policemen chipped in and bought bread, milk and fruit for the starving youngsters. After they had watched the little ones eat and heard the story of Patrolman Boch they raised a strong desire to run across Blackla.

and was now let down to beat Bryan, who was second all the way.

The steeplechase was awful to contemplate. Glen Gate was backed from 15 to 1 to 1 to 1, and while Glen Gate led there appeared to be a lack of interest on the other riders. Glen Gate fell, however, much to the regret of the good-thing players, and Caller went on and won. Jimmy Lane was second, under a weird ride.

Favorite Takes First.

Prince Hamburg was a hot favorite after the withdrawal of Klamesha. He jumped away in front and raced with Bryan to the stretch, where he came away and won easily by a scant length. Bryan was four lengths in front of Cressina, who just got up in time to beat Listless, who was third most of the way.

Owens Didn't Try Hard.

Glen Gate made the running in the second with Oro to the last six furlongs, where Oro stumbled and dropped out of it. Glen Gate then fell, and this left Caller in front. As Owens was making no apparent effort on Jimmy Lane Caller had no trouble getting home an easy winner by six lengths. Jimmy Lane was five lengths in front of Patagonian.

Clare Russell Takes Distaff.

Dulcinea broke in front in the Distaff and put out the running followed by Soprano, Altuda and Clare Russell. They ran to the turn this way where Glamor moved up and joined the leaders. Soprano and Dulcinea died away in the run home and Clare Russell taking the lead won by three-quarters of a length from Mentha, who beat Glamor three-quarters of a length.

Heads Apart in Brighton Mile.

In the Brighton Mile Whimsical made the runing, followed by Hamburg Belle. They ran head and head to the far turn, where Hamburg Belle closed ground and took the lead. She and Whimsical raced head and head to the stretch, where Flip Flap closed with a tremendous rush, just failing to get up. Hamburg Belle beat Whimsical a head, and the latter beat Flip Flap a nose.

Another Close Finish.

In the fifth race Estimate and Clements hooked up at the start and ran head and head all the way, Estimate winning by a head in the last jump. Flowaway was third, two lengths away.

Artery an Easy Winner.

In the last race Artery went to the front at the start, made all the running and won easily by a length from Ocean Spray, who beat King Henry half a length.

Jones beat a bunt to Laporte and the bases were full as Stone came up to the plate. Stone singled to left, scoring Hartzell and O'Connor, and took second on the throw in. Hemphill went out, Laporte to Chase. TWO RUNS.

Keeler sent a high fly to Hemphill and was out. Chase was a victim on strikes. Conroy went out, Glade to Jones. NO RUNS.

TRAVIS LEADS GOLFERS TO-DAY AT ENGLEWOOD

Veteran Plays Consistently in Tourney for Championship.

(Special to The Evening World.)

ENGLEWOOD GOLF LINKS, N. J., July 11.—The weather was sultry and the heat intense at the Englewood links to-day where the National tournament is in progress. With but few exceptions the scoring was no better than it was yesterday.

The veteran golfer Walter J. Travis led the field with a score of 152 up to 1 o'clock. He did the course in 75 this morning, which with his 77 of yesterday, gives him the best score that has thus far been turned in, and it is believed that it will not be beaten.

Dwight Partridge, who led the field yesterday with 75, fell down on his short game and returned a card of 87, which makes his total 162.

H. Chandler Egan, the amateur champion, had pretty much the same trouble with his iron shots as he
