40 TO 1 SHOT WINS SIXTH, ONE MORE DAY AT BRIGHTON

WOMAN KILLS MAN IN SIGHT OF BIG CROWD

Marie Schabaro Fires Three Bullets Into Nicola Ferrarce.

TRIES FOURTH SHOT.

Policeman Seizes Her Arm Just as She Again Aims Revolver.

TRAGEDY NEAR TOMBS.

Thousands, Waiting to See the Thaws, Excited by the Shooting.

In sight of the Tombs, where a great crowd was waiting to see Harry Thaw's women relatives, Marie Schabaro, a pretty Italian girl, to-day shot and fatally wounded Nicola Ferrarce, a married man, who had lured her from Italy. The girl fired four shots, three of the bullets taking effect. At the fourth shot her arm was seized by Policeman Barton, of the Elizabeth street station.

Ferrarce died at New York Hospital three hours later, after having made an ante-mortem statement, in which he said he did not know the girl.

The shooting occurred in front of the old Five Points Mission at Worth and Baxter streets. The girl had followed Ferrarce all the way from Brooklyn pleading with him to help her. When they reached this place in full view of hundreds of her own countrymen in Mulberry Bend Park she took her revenge.

Captain Heard Shots.

Capt. O'Connor, of the Elizabeth street station, with Detective Duffy, was standing at the Tombs entrance to keep back the great crowd that awaited the arrival of Mrs. William Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. Several reporters were chatting with the Captain, when three reports were heard. The crowd, with the police officers and the reporters in the lead, had already started toward Worth street, when the fourth shot was heard.

As the rush of Italians from Mulberry Bend Park met the rush of the Tombs crowd the tragic little group was engulfed. For fully ten minutes Capt. O'Connor, the detective and the policeman were obliged to fight with clubs to keep the morbid thousands from trampling the body and crushing the girl.

Reserves Called Out.

At last the reserves from the Elizabeth street station were on hand and the ambulance surgeon was by the side of the wounded man. He was shot in the right thigh, the abdomen and the right cheek. He was unconscious, and there was no hope of his recovery as he was hurried away to New York Hospital.

The girl, dry-eyed and with a flush of anger, or exultation, on her face, stepped calmly into the patrol wagon. At the Elizabeth street station she declared that she was glad that she had shot him.

"I hope he dies" she said to the interpreter. "He deserved it."

Marie Schabaro, who is twenty-two years old, came to this country five months ago, she said, at the invitation of Ferrarce, who is thirty-four. She admitted that she knew he was married and lived with his wife at No. 229 Elizabeth street. Of late she has been living at No. 38 Sands street, Brooklyn. To-day he called on her and she told him that she expected to become a mother. She said that he told her he could think of nothing to do for her.

Begged Him to Help Her.

When Ferrarce started back for Manhattan, Marie came with him and all the way begged him to help her. The man became ugly and ordered her to go home. He did not know that in the folds of her dress she carried a 38 calibre revolver, fully loaded. All the way she pleaded with him and they were in front of Mulberry Bend Park when he told her to go away.

Policeman Barton noticed the couple and saw the man turn angrily and say something to her. Then Ferrarce walked on. The girl stopped. Drawing a revolver, she shot at him. The bullet lodged in his thigh. Ferrarce

Is St. Swithin making good?

Look at the record of what has happened since it rained on St. Swithin's Day, July 15, and be convinced. Twenty days have passed and rain has followed on fourteen of them.

The ancient legend has it that rain on St. Swithin's Day means rain for 40 days to follow. If St. Swithin maintains his batting average for the remainder of the soak period we are dated ahead for at least two solid weeks of moisture.

There have been but two fair days since July 15. Summer resort hotel proprietors are submerged in gloom. Coney Island has enjoyed but one Sunday of sunshine since the opening of the season.

St. Swithin was the Bishop of Winchester, England, in the seventh century. When he died he requested that his body be buried in the churchyard where passersby might tread upon his grave and rain from the roof of the church might fall upon it. He was an humble man.

For one hundred years passersby trod upon his grave and rain fell upon it. Then he was canonized and the monks deemed it fitting that the body be removed to a vault within the sacred edifice. They made the attempt at removal on July 15, but the downpour of rain was so great that they were compelled to desist. On forty consecutive days they tried and were stopped by the rain. So the body was permitted to remain. It is there yet.

THAW WITNESS GOES ON QUICK TRIP TO EUROPE

She Is Annie Evans, in Whose House Thaw Met Edna Thomas.

Material witnesses for the prosecution in the case against Harry Thaw have been dropping out of sight with startling regularity of late. The latest to disappear is Mrs. Annie E. Evans, whose place of residence at No. 173 West Forty-seventh street is one of the most gorgeously furnished and widely known in the Tenderloin.

Joseph A. Shay, a lawyer, of No. 346 Broadway, who brought suit against Harry Thaw in behalf of Miss Edna Thomas, who accused him of beating and permanently injuring her, discovered to-day by accident that the Evans woman sailed for Europe on La Provence, July 26.

"I regard the departure of this woman as significant," said Mr. Shay. "It was at her house that Harry K. Thaw met my former client, Miss Thomas, and began an acquaintance that led to the girl's death."

"Yes, Miss Thomas is dead. She died two years ago in a sanitarium, under the surgeon's knife. I have said nothing about it thus far but as long as Mrs. Evans is missing I might as well make the whole thing public.

Met in Mrs. Evans's House.

"Miss Thomas was introduced to Harry Thaw in Annie Evans' house. The introduction was accomplished through Harry Thaw's half brother, Joseph Thaw. Harry Thaw bought wine for Miss Thomas, took her out riding and finally she accompanied him to his apartments in Fifth avenue which were rented in the name of his valet, Bedford.

"Then followed the assault upon Miss Thomas with a whip and the bringing of suit through me against Thaw. That suit was settled without my knowledge through the firm of Howe & Hummel.

"Thaw met not only Miss Thomas but other young women at the house of Miss Evans. One I know of was whipped by him as Miss Thomas was whipped. She brought suit against him and accepted $500 in settlement.

"I gave what information I had about the importance of the Evans woman as a witness to the District-Attorney's office. Now she has gone, and I don't suppose she will be back until after the trial."

Annie Evans's celestial residence was in charge of a maid to-day. The girl

To-Morrow Last Day of Racing on the Metropolitan Tracks Until Sept. 1, Saratoga Running Meanwhile—Angler Scores His Sixth Successive Victory.

By FRANK W. THORP.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BRIGHTON BEACH RACE TRACK, Aug. 3.—To-morrow will be the last day of racing around here until Sept. 1. After to-morrow the racing scene shifts to Saratoga, where a twenty-six days' meeting begins Monday. Already most of the good horses are already quartered at the Spa.

The getaway day feature at Brighton to-morrow will be the Brighton Derby. Thomas Hoy, ridden by Walsh and Sally K, ridden by Sewell, fell at the start of the last race but luckily were unhurt. This is Sewell's second fall in eight days. He went down in the stretch with Jaunty yesterday, falling under the rails. He had the narrowest of escapes from being killed. Jaunty was so badly hurt that she was shot last night.

Angler won again to-day. This is his sixth straight. The wise men of the ring thought he would be beaten and he went back from 6 to 5 to 9 to 5. Corrigan was supposed to be the real jam, but he was outrun from the start and was a bad third. Sailor Boy raced in the lead to the stretch, where Angler closed and won cleverly by three parts.

Jacquin was an even money shot in the opening event. In his class he looked 1 to 10, but the smart ones held off and played around him. They nibbled at Merit and at Belle of Portland, but when the race was run it was Jacquin in a gallop. Novena, a 10 to 1 chance, beat Belle of Portland out for the place.

Botanist won the second race in a drive. Backers of Fantastic for a place were in not very good humor when Laura A., who was surely third, was placed second. Teurenne, the heavily-backed favorite, had no speed. Sonoma Belle, a 15 to 1 shot, won the third.

Tyron the favorite was off poorly and though he closed a big gap could not get up in time. Col. White was backed from 10 to 1 to 4 to 1, but he had little speed and ran a bad race. Little Scout,

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 3.—Urged on by the request of the players of his club, who have been worried at his nervous condition of late, Manager Clark Griffith, of the New York American League Club, prefaced his trip to the baseball park this afternoon by a visit to a well-known Detroit specialist, of a length from Sailor Boy.

As a result, Griffith is said to have received the unwelcome news that he must either quit his responsibilities as the head of the club that has been up and fighting for the leadership of the league all through the season or else take a hance on a chronic state of ill-health which will only make the retirement obligatory instead of voluntary.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Cy Seymour bucked out of harness to-day and declined to play ball until Cincinnati pays him a part of the purchase money given to that club by New York for his services. Seymour was in earnest conversation with John T. Brush all the afternoon, and at the last moment declined to don a uniform until the matter was amicably adjusted.

Seymour is not asking money from New York, but feels the only way he can get it is to refuse to play. He has already signed a contract with New York, and is therefore bound to take orders from that club. If he sticks to his decision and refuses to play with New York he cannot play in organized baseball. Correspondence has been opened with Garry Herrman, of Cincinnati, and all hands hope to have the affair settled amicably by to-morrow.

To-day's game began in a drizzling rain with about five hundred spectators present.

First Inning.

Barry died at first on a grounder to Devlin. McGann dropped Devlin's throw, and Burch was safe, but was caught stealing second. Bowerman to Gilbert. Bennett struck out. NO RUNS.
