A wreck occurred here Monday night and a number of cars, in which a labor gang was domiciled, were derailed and all broken up. A dead freight was on the main line and a stock train which had the right of way to Alliance crashed into it. The engine of the stock train was derailed after it plowed its way through eight cars. It seems miraculous that none of the laborers on the extra gang were killed or seriously injured. The only person who was bruised up to any extent was the extra gang foreman. The doctor from Alliance having this class of work to attend to came and fixed him up. In a short time the wreck was cleared, the debris being burned.

The Ladies' Progressive club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Iodence, northeast of town Friday, Nov. 11. The Marple ladies were there also and a most enjoyable time is reported. An elaborate dinner, consisting of turkey and all the accessories, was served to about 35 guests. It seemed that the gentlemen present enjoyed this meeting immensely—and especially at the table. After all present had partaken of the bounteous repast, Mrs. Iodence led the way to the parlor, where was rendered a most entertaining program. Mrs. Dr. Eikner recited a pleasing selection; Miss Hesse read an instructive and entertaining piece, as did Mrs. Clark Olds and others. After the closing prayer by Mr. Wilson of Marple. All returned to their homes feeling that they had spent a pleasant day. Those present from here were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Olds, Mr. and Mrs. H. Olds, Mrs. Eikner, Mrs. A. H. Pierce, Miss Mary Basse and Misses Blanche and Almeda Fosket.
